CONSTRUCTION OF POLICE LINES IN LUDHIANA.

*4531. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that tenders were invited five or six months ago for the construction of Police lines in Ludhiana ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that Messrs. Mathra Das Janki Nath also submitted tenders for this work ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the tenders submitted by the said Messrs. Mathra Das Janki Nath were not the lowest ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Superintending Engineer decided to call for fresh tenders ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that on the second occasion the rates of a large number of competing contractors were again lower than those of Mathra Das Janki Nath ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the Superintending Engineer gave the contract for the work to Mathra Das Janki Nath despite the fact that their quotations were not the lowest ; and if so, what were his reasons ;
- (g) whether the firm of Mathra Das Janki Nath have previously done any work in this circle ;
- (h) what action the Government proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Does not arise.

(d) Yes.

(e) Messrs. Mathra Das Janki Nath, Contractors, did not submit any tender.

(f) No.

(g) Yes.

(h) None.

MUSLIM IN ELECTRICAL DEPARTMENT.

*4532. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- (a) whether an article appearing in the daily Zamindar, dated the 29th September, 1934, under the caption, " will the post of stenographer be given to a Muslim in the Government Electrical Engineering Department " in which the great paucity of Muslims in the Government Electrical Circle office was complained of and the appointment of a Muslim to the then vacant post of stenographer was urged, has been brought to the notice of Government ;
- (b) whether a Muslim was in fact appointed to the post ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) The reply to the first part is in the negative. In regard to the second part, of the three clerks employed in the Electrical Circle who applied for the post, one was a Muslim and he failed to pass the test in stenography set by the Electrical Engineer to Government, Punjab. Outside applicants were not considered as the post was filled by the appointment of a clerk already employed in the Electrical Circle.

PANDIT GIAN CHAND, CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT.

*4533. Thakur Pancham Chand : Arising out of the reply given to Council question No. *39351 put by me, will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, kindly lay on the table the original order whereby Pandit Gian Chand, B.A., was appointed on probation as Inspector of the Co-operative Department and state—

(a) why the mistake admitted in part (e) of the said question was not detected by those concerned for three years, i.e., 1930, 1931 and 1932 ;

(b) what action Government proposes to take with a view to compensate Pandit Gian Chand ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : An extract from the order posting Pandit Gian Chand after the conclusion of the training class, and of the conditions governing such appointments, is laid on the table.

(a) Owing to an oversight.

(b) The mistake had no effect on Pandit Gian Chand's prospects and Government does not consider that it entitles him to any compensation. His Service Book showed him clearly as on probation.

Copy of an extract from an order, dated 29th February, 1929, passed by R. J. S. Dodd, Esquire, Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Punjab.

After the conclusion of the Gurdaspur Class the following postings and transfers will take effect immediately :—

| Inspector.         | Posted at |
|---------------------------|------------------|
| Pandit Gian Chand .. .. . | Sonepat.         |

Summary of conditions of service.

A candidate must ordinarily be a graduate. When accepted, he has to undergo a course of at least 15 months' training. He receives a stipend of Rs. 50 per mensem for the first three months, after which he is posted as a Sub-Inspector on Rs. 60 per mensem under the Punjab Co-operative Union. During this time he is not a Government servant, and is expected to learn the practical duties of a Sub-Inspector, while also studying co-operative and economic literature. A class is annually held for four months at Gurdaspur, in which candidates are trained in the law, theory, and practice of Co-operation and Rural Economics. There is a final examination of a high standard. After passing the examinations and completing the required training a candidate is eligible for appointment on probation as Inspector when a vacancy occurs.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : What action was taken against those through whose oversight this mistake was committed ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : No action was considered necessary.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : What are the reasons for not considering any action necessary ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : There are enough reasons to condone the oversight.

STATUTORY AGRICULTURISTS AMONG THE DISTRICT AND SESSIONS JUDGES.

*4534. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state the total number of statutory agriculturists among the District and Sessions Judges in the province and what steps are being taken to give statutory agriculturists their due share in the cadre ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : One of these officers is a statutory agriculturist. The posts of District and Sessions Judge are borne on the superior Indian Civil Service time-scale to which recruitment is made under rules framed by the Secretary of State for India in Council.

IRRIGATION IN SULTANKE VILLAGE.

*4535. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that the zamindars of Sultanke village of Lahore district have been submitting representations to Government for the last 25 years for the shifting of outlet R. D. 97 to R. D. 93 in order to get their land lying at a higher level than that of outlet R. D. 97 within the command of the canal ;
- (b) the area of the land to be so irrigated ;
- (c) whether he is aware that the area mentioned in (b) was included in the chakbandi made in the last settlement of the land to be irrigated, and that for this reason enhanced rate of land revenue was fixed for it, and that the zamindars have been paying land revenue at the increased rate ;
- (d) how much has been paid on account of the increased rate in (a) over and above the ordinary land revenue in respect of the area mentioned in (c) above ;
- (e) whether he is aware that the Irrigation officials agreed in 1932 or thereabout to accede to the request of the zamindars mentioned in (a) and that for this purpose they got Rs. 323 deposited towards the cost of the outlet, and also they got the outlet, a mile and-a-half dug up by the zamindars concerned ;
- (f) whether there was any objection to the outlet being sanctioned and why the proposal dropped ;
- (g) what compensation the Government intends to make to the zamindars for the trouble and expense they were put to as mentioned in (d) ;
- (h) what action the Government intends to take in the matter in view of facts in (a), (c) and (e) above ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : It is regretted that the reply is not yet ready.

IRRIGATION IN GUJRAT DISTRICT.

*4536. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that eight villages of the Gujrat district are irrigated by the Lower Jhelum Canal ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the remaining villages of the Gujrat district barring those in (a) are watered by the Upper Jhelum Canal ;
- (c) whether he is aware that the villages in (a) have to pay land revenue in respect of gardens in two instalments and those in (b) in respect of gardens in one instalment only, thus the land revenue in (a) in respect of gardens being double of that in (b) ;
- (d) whether he is aware that the Settlement Report of the Gujrat district has laid down that only one instalment of land revenue in respect of gardens should be recovered for gardens in the whole of the Gujrat district ;
- (e) if the answers to (a), (c) and (d) are in the affirmative, what are the reasons for the differential treatment mentioned in (c) ;
- (f) the measures Government intends to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) and (f) The matter is under consideration.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : May I know whether the practice of charging land revenue on gardens varies from place to place ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The question relates to gardens in particular areas and to general irrigation in different districts.

SULEIMANKHE HEADWORKS AND DAMAGE TO CROPS.

*4537. Khan Sahib Mian Noor Ahmad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether Government is aware of the fact that near the Suleimankhe headworks about 6 or 7 thousand acres of area of the Dipalpur tahsil gets under water every year, in which total are included from 900 to 1,400 acres of matured rabi crops ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that in 1933 the zamindars of village (i) Alike-Rohella, (ii) Thakkarke Makhna, (iii) Thakkarke Manga, (iv) Dharange, (v) Kund Thakkarke Jagwara, (vi) Pana Mahar, (vii) Nihal Mahar, gave a notice under section 80, Civil Procedure Code, to the Secretary of State for India for damages amounting to Rs. 32,000 on account of the canal authorities' negligence in controlling the River Sutlej as a result of which their matured crops were destroyed ; if so, whether a suit was filed and what was the result of those proceedings ;

[ K. S. Mian Noor Ahmad Khan. ]

- (c) whether it is a fact that Khan Sahib Malik Sabib Khan Noon, the then Sub-Divisional Officer, Pakpattan, and other responsible civil authorities examined the crops under water on the spot and found that the said area was totally destroyed and hence revenue demands were remitted ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that before the construction of the headworks rabi crops were never drowned ; and that it is solely due to the headworks that those damages occur ; if so, whether the zamindars concerned have all been granted land in the Nili Bar or some other colony ; if so, how many of them have been granted land and what is the total area granted on this account ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that some big bunds and small canals are being constructed in the area of villages Sabooke Mahar and Baqarke Mahar of Dipalpur tahsil ; if so, whether the intention of the Government was duly notified in the Punjab Gazette under the Land Acquisition Act or whether the consent of the zamindars was obtained ; if not, whether the Government proposes to give them any compensation for the land ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that along the Maryal Bund of the Suleimanke headworks earthwork operations are being carried on and the zamindars' area along the Bund is being dug up from 6 to 10 feet deep ; if so, whether the said land which lies to the west of Maryal bund has been duly acquired ; if not, whether any compensation has been proposed for the land under khatans ;
- (g) whether Government proposes to grant land to the zamindars in lieu of their respective areas which have become useless due to the construction of the Suleimanke headworks ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) At each Sutlej Valley Project Headworks including Suleimanke, Government has acquired and either paid for or given land in exchange for several thousand acres of land which is liable to flooding each year. Government is not aware that annually 900 to 1,400 acres of matured rabi crops are submerged.

(b) Notice of suits were received by Government in 1933 from Pana Mahar and Ali-ke-Rohella villages for claims for Rs. 18,668-8-0, Rs. 9,723, respectively ; Government was advised to resist the suits if filed ; but the suits were not filed, as there was no real cause for complaint.

(c) No.

(d) As far as Government is aware it is not a fact. Considerable areas have been acquired upstream of Suleimanke Weir and the owners have been compensated suitably by exchange of land or otherwise, about 2,900 acres of Colony land was given in exchange for 3,400 acres of land upstream of Suleimanke.

(e) A bund and a leading cut have been constructed in the river above Suleimanke Weir as part of the normal training works required for the river. The land under the bund and the cut was either in the river channel or in jungle covered lands within the river bed—with the exception of 6 marlas of cultivated land. Compensation will be paid for all proprietary land acquired under bund and cut, and orders to Superintending Engineer have been issued accordingly.

(f) On the marginal bund only small repair work has been done this year. Borrow pits of 6 to 10 feet depth have not been dug and orders have been issued to Superintending Engineer to pay compensation for land under khatans if after enquiry he finds that compensation is due.

(g) Land has already been given in exchange for areas acquired.

GERMAN MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS.

*4538. Chaudhri Faqir Husain Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether Government is aware that the M.B., B.S.'s and M.D.'s of the Punjab University are not allowed to practice as medical practitioners in any European country other than the British Isles ;
- (b) whether Government is aware that Punjabi medical men even when they are holding German medical degrees are not registered as medical practitioners in Germany ;
- (c) whether Germans holding German medical degrees are registered as medical practitioners in the Punjab ;
- (d) whether Government is aware that Germans holding German medical degrees are not registered as medical practitioners in the Bombay Presidency ;
- (e) the reasons why one Dr. Seelig, who is a German and holds German medical degrees has been registered as medical practitioner in the Punjab ;
- (f) what action Government proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Persons holding medical degrees of the Punjab University which are not recognised for registration by the General Medical Council of the United Kingdom are not allowed to practise as medical practitioners in any foreign country. Punjab medical degrees which are registrable with the General Medical Council (i. e. degrees of M.B., B.S., M. D. and M. S. of the Punjab University obtained before January 1930), and which are so registered, entitle the holders for registration and practice as medical practitioners only in those countries which are in reciprocity with the General Medical Council, viz., Italy and Japan.

(b) According to information furnished by the Medical Council of India, doctors of any nationality holding German medical degrees were registrable as medical practitioners in Germany until recently. No information is available of any recent changes in the law governing medical practice in Germany.

(c) The applications of Germans, holding German medical degrees, for registration are considered under clause (a) of the second proviso to section 13 of the Punjab Medical Registration Act of 1916 : which empowers the Council to permit the registration of any holder of a degree, etc., of any University or Medical College or School not included in the schedule of the Act, but approved by the Council.

[ Hon. Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon.]

(d) Yes. According to the information furnished by the Bombay Medical Council, Germans holding German Medical degrees are not registered as medical practitioners in the Bombay Presidency; but the degrees conferred by certain Universities in Germany are recognised for registration by the Medical Council for registration as additional qualifications.

(e) Government sanctioned the registration of Doctor Seelig's name under the clause mentioned in reply to (c). Government accepted the recommendation of the Medical Council. It is understood he is now in Patiala.

(f) Government proposes to take no action in the matter.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : How many medical practitioners are there in this province with German medical degrees?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I hope the honourable member does not expect me to give an answer to that question without notice.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : There are medical practitioners with German medical degrees practising in this province, while medical practitioners with degrees of this province are not allowed to practice in Germany. I want to know the reasons for Government not taking action in the matter.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I need notice of that question.

BHAKRA DAM PROJECT.

*4539. Khan Sahib Mian Noor Ahmad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is proposed to proceed with the Bhakra Dam Project;
- (b) if so, when this project will be made operative;
- (c) whether Government is aware that the ilagas of Bhutiana and Harnama are being ruined owing to the scarcity of water;
- (d) whether the Government has taken any steps to carry out the Bhakra Dam Project?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) and (d) The honourable member is referred to the replies given to (e) and (f) of Council question No. 1070.<sup>1</sup>

(b) Does not arise.

(c) Government does not admit this position.

SOMA WATER ABOVE THE HEADWORKS SULEIMANKE.

*4540. Khan Sahib Mian Noor Ahmad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that a large culturable area has become fallow on account of the appearance of soma water above the headworks Suleimanke, and on account of increase of sand below these headworks;

(b) how much area has become fallow since the constitution of the headworks ;

(c) if the area in (b) is very large, whether Government intends to make a grant of land to the zamindars concerned ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that answer to this question is not ready.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICIAL RECEIVERS AND NOTARIES PUBLIC.

*4541. Chaudhri Faqir Husain Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to lay on the table a copy of the Rules governing the appointment of—

(a) Official Receivers ;

(b) Notaries Public ;

and state who in each case is the appointing authority ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Appointments of Official Receivers are made by the Local Government under section 57 of the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920, and those of Notaries Public by the same authority under section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. There are no formal rules governing the making of appointments, but as regards Official Receivers the procedure is that when a vacancy occurs the High Court make recommendations for filling after ascertaining whether the local Government desire that any particular candidates be considered.

COMMISSIONS FOR RECORDING EVIDENCE.

*4542. Chaudhri Faqir Husain Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state the total number, communitywise (stating also the number of statutory agriculturists under each designation) in each district of the province, of persons whose names have been placed on the panel of Commissioners for recording evidence under instruction No. 1 of the instructions at page 7 of Chapter. 10-B of Vol. I of the Rules and Orders of the High Court, stating also for each district :—

(a) the number of non-lawyers on the panel ;

(b) the number of retired civil or judicial officers on the panel ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : A statement is laid on the table.

[ Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENTS.

*4543. Chaudhri Faqir Husain Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to lay on the table of the House a copy of the rules relating to seniority and juniority appointment, promotions and punishments, etc., of employees in the ministerial establishment of—

(i) the High Court Office ;

(ii) the Courts subordinate to Lahore High Court ; and state in particular the rule, if any, under which an employee in a district establishment loses his seniority upon transfer to a new district and cannot earn promotion, unless he becomes senior qua the persons serving in the district to which he is transferred, thus losing the advantage of the service he has put in in another district ; and if there is such a rule, what is the exact wording of it and when it was introduced ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : A copy of the rules is laid on the table. There is no rule of the kind described in the latter part of the question. Transfers from one district to another, except among clerks of court, are rare ; and each is treated on its merits. In the case of clerks of court no question of loss of seniority can arise.

HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE AT LAHORE.

OFFICE ORDER.

*To be substituted No. 23, dated the 2nd March, 1928 for the Office Order bearing the same

(ORIGINAL ISSUE, 16TH JANUARY, 1922.)

Revised Issue.—The Honourable the Chief Justice has approved of the following principles to be observed in making appointments to and, in the clerical establishment of the High Court:—

2. Four departments.—The High Court Clerical establishment works in four departments.

- (1) The General Line;
- (2) The Translating Department;
- (3) Judgment-Writers ; and
- (4) Readers to the Honourable Judges.

3. Incremental Time-Scale.—The Clerical Establishment of the High Court is on time scale, but it must be clearly understood that a periodical increment will not be granted to an officer unless his conduct has been good or work satisfactory (Fundamental Rule 24).

The General Line.

4. Divisions A and B.—The General Line consists of 2 Divisions. The 'B' Division includes all Clerks in the grade of Rs. 45—3—105 and 75—5—150. The other Grades, viz., Assistants 100—10—300 and Superintendents 250—15—310—20—450 constitute the 'A' Division.

5. Appointments to and in Division "A."—Appointments to and promotion in "A" Division will be made by selection only. Although men of "B" Division are eligible for selection it must be clearly understood that there is no inherent right of promotion from "B" Division to "A.", or from one grade to another in "A" Division on the ground of seniority or long service, or similar consideration. In making an appointment to a vacancy in "A" Division, therefore, the Judges will have their discretion unfettered by any claims advanced by clerks in the office. The principle to be followed in making appointments to or in "A" Division, whether permanent or officiating, will be that the best man will be selected whether he is or is not already on the office establishment.

Explanation.—The "best" man means the person who is marked out by intelligence, application, character and education as superior to his fellows, and does not necessarily mean a person who happens to have experience of the work of any particular appointment.

6. Appointments to the 75-5-150 grade of the "B" Division shall be made as follows in rotation :—

- (1) By direct appointment from outside.
- (2) By promotion on merits from the Junior Grade.
- (3) By seniority combined with fitness in the Junior Grade.

NOTE.—In the case of (2) and (3) non-matriculates and clerks on deputation will not be considered, while in case of (1) the appointments will be confined to those only whose educational qualifications are not less than B. A. or B. A. (Commerce) of the Punjab University.

7. As regards the Junior Grade of 45-3-90-3-105 the vacancies will be filled by candidates on the list in accordance with seniority. Recruitment will be made by 2 methods, viz. :—

- (a) Competition, and
- (b) Nomination.

Candidates qualifying at the prescribed examination will be given 1/3rds of the vacancies while the 1/3rd will be filled by nomination from persons who possess high educational qualifications or family claims or are relatives of loyal Government servants or belong to backward communities and not likely to compete successfully at the competitive examination.

8. The prescribed examination will consist of—

- |            |   |   |
|------------|---|---|
| Compulsory | { | 1. Dictation.                                 |
|            |   | 2. Handwriting as exhibited in the dictation. |
|            |   | 3. Precise writing.                           |
| Optional   | { | 1. Typewriting.                               |
|            |   | 2. Shorthand.                                 |

Only those who have passed at least the Matriculation or other corresponding examination of an Indian University or the School Final Examination are eligible for appointment by examination.

No candidate shall be allowed to sit in the Competitive Examination whose age exceeds 23 years on the date of the Examination.

9. Applications for appointment.—An examination will be held from time to time as necessity arises but an application for appointment may be submitted at any time to the Registrar who will place the applicant's name, if he is considered to be suitable, on the list of applicants, noting against his name whether he wishes to take the examination. All applicants will be required to submit certificates of good moral character signed by two well-known persons and a declaration that if appointed they will work as unpaid candidates in the office of the High Court. If a candidate is already in Government service he will also be required to produce the permission in writing of the Head of his office to appear in the examination.

10. Unpaid candidates.—From those who qualify at the examination the required number of candidates will be taken, preference being given to those who have passed the Post Matriculation Clerical Course. These, together with such persons as are given direct appointments, will have their names placed on the list of unpaid candidates, and will be appointed, in order of seniority to vacancies as they occur.

11. Dismissal of unsatisfactory unpaid candidates.—Any candidate who does not show sufficient aptitude for the work or who fails to comply with the rules and regulations of the office will have his name removed from the list of unpaid candidates.

Translating Department.

12. Qualifications of candidates.—Only graduates of a recognised Indian University are eligible for appointment to the Translating Department.

13. Appointment.—Two-thirds of the vacancies will be filled by examination and the remaining one-third by direct appointment.

14. Examination.—The examination will consist of translation from English into Urdu and from Urdu into English and a high standard will be required. Typewriting is compulsory.

NOTE.—The rules as to applications for appointment and as to unpaid candidates for the General Line shall apply mutatis mutandis to the Translating Department.

Judgment Writers.

15. Qualifications of candidates.—Ordinarily employees of the High Court and Judgment Writers in the Subordinate Courts will be eligible for appointment as Judgment Writers to the High Court.

16. Examination.—Candidates will be required to take an office examination which will consist of dictation of not less than 500 words at a speed of 140 words per minute from—

- (1) a Civil Judgment, and
- (2) a Criminal Judgment,

of the High Court to be transcribed on a typewriter at a speed of not less than 30 words per minute.

17. Appointment.—Appointments will be made from candidates who qualify at this examination or by nomination, if the Judges so desire.

Readers to the Honourable Judges.

18. Appointment.—Appointment to a vacancy among the Readers of the Honourable Judges will ordinarily be made from officials in the High Court Clerical Establishment, Readers to District and Sessions Judges and Legal Practitioners.

By order, etc.,
R. B. BECKETT,

Registrar.

HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE AT LAHORE.

CORRECTION SLIP NO. 81, DATED 2ND JUNE, 1934.

Rules and Orders, Volume I.

Substitute the following for chapters 18-A and 18-B, and re-number chapters 18-C and 18-D as chapters 18-B and 18-C:—

CHAPTER 18.

PART A.

Rules framed by the High Court under section 35 (3) of the Punjab Courts Act for subordinate services attached to Civil Courts other than the High Court.

I. Application.—These rules shall apply to the following:—

- (a) Ministerial and menial establishment of District and Sessions Judges, including establishment of Record Offices and Sessions Houses.
- (b) Ministerial and menial establishment of Sub-Judges, stipendiary and honorary.
- (c) Ministerial and menial establishment of Courts of Small Causes.

II. Classification.—(a) The following officers, together with such others as the High Court may from time to time direct, shall be considered as ministerial officers, forming a joint cadre:—

- (1) Clerks of Court;
- (2) Readers;
- (3) Record Keepers;
- (4) English and Vernacular Clerks (Ahlmads and Muharrirs);
- (5) Stenographers;
- (6) Translators and Assistant Translators;
- (7) Copy clerks, English and Vernacular;
- (8) Civil Nazirs, District Judge's Nazirs and Madad Naib-Nazirs;
- (9) European and Execution Bailiffs;
- (10) Process-servers.

Nos. 1 to 8 are classed as clerical staff; Nos. 9 and 10 are classed as non-clerical staff.

(b) There shall be a separate cadre for each revenue district and a separate cadre for each Court of Small Causes.

III. Qualifications.—(1) No person shall be accepted as a candidate for the clerical ministerial staff if he is over 25 years of age, or if there is no prospect of his getting a permanent Government post, or a post of paid candidate, or a post of section copyist, before attaining the age of 25 years.

(2) No person shall be appointed to, or accepted as a candidate for, any clerical ministerial post, unless he has passed the Matriculation Examination of the Punjab University or an equivalent examination;

Provided that the member of the non-clerical ministerial staff, who joined service before November, 1929, may be appointed to a post of Madad Naib-Nazir, Naib-Nazir or Civil Nazir, if he has shown special ability, has a working knowledge of English and is able to examine and keep accounts;

Provided further that a non-matriculate who joined service before 17th July, 1926, may be appointed to a post of Judicial Moharrir or Ahlmad in any of the courts other than those of the District Judge, and Senior Sub-Judge, if he was actually accepted as a candidate for a clerical post and is otherwise fit for such appointment.

(3) Preference shall be given in the recruitment of new candidates to those who are competent stenographers, and such candidates should be freely employed as court stenographers, while working as unpaid candidates.

(4) No person shall be appointed substantively as a Reader unless he has passed the examination prescribed for appointment of Readers.

(5) No person shall be appointed as process-server or execution bailiff unless he has passed the Lower Middle School examination; provided that the High Court may relax this rule in the case of ex-soldiers.

(6) No person shall be appointed Civil Nazir who is not able to keep and examine accounts both in English and in Urdu.

(7) No person who is sickly, old or incapable of much physical exertion, and has not a good knowledge both of Urdu and of the language current in the district of his employment shall be appointed as execution bailiff or process-server.

(8) For posts of menials the officers empowered to make appointments shall appoint the best man, provided that preference be given to ex-soldiers competent to do the duties required.

(9) All appointments shall be subject to a medical certificate of fitness.

IV. First appointments.—First appointments shall be made as follows:—

(1) By the District Judge:—

(a) Ministerial officers in his own Court and in all Courts controlled by the District Court, other than Courts of Small Causes;

(b) Menials in his own Court.

(2) By the Senior Sub-Judge:—

Menials in his own Court and the Courts of other Sub-Judges in the same district

(3) By the Judge of a Court of Small Causes:—

Ministerial officers and menials in his own Court.

Note.—A District Court may under the provisions of section 37 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1918, with the previous sanction of the High Court, delegate the power of appointment given above to any Subordinate Judge, to be exercised by him in any specified portion of the district, subject to the control of the District Court.

V. Recruitment.—(1) Recruitment of ministerial posts shall ordinarily be made either by open competition or by selection from a list of qualified candidates or apprentices accepted by the District Judge, Judge of a Small Cause Court, or Sub-Judge to whom powers of appointment have been delegated, as the case may be. Any departure from either of these methods should be reported to the High Court for confirmation.

(2) No person shall be admitted to work in any Court as an apprentice unless his name is entered on the register of candidates by the written order of the District and Sessions Judge, Senior Subordinate Judge or Judge, Small Cause Court, as the case may be, who shall in addition to the qualifications specified above satisfy himself by personal inspection that each candidate is otherwise qualified and suitable and has adequate means of subsistence. Each apprentice shall have his place and duty distinctly assigned to him in the office and shall work under the supervision of a recognised superior clerk.

(3) When appointment to a permanent post is made from candidates, preference must be given to the senior candidate unless he has shown himself unfit; provided that when candidates, possessing higher educational qualifications for a post, for which an examination standard is fixed, such as graduates, are available, they should be given preference over less well qualified candidates.

VI. Promotion.—Appointments to the higher grades of the ministerial establishment should ordinarily be made by seniority from lower grades, provided that the official who would thus receive promotion possesses the prescribed educational qualifications and is otherwise fit to perform the duties to which he will be promoted, for which purpose tests may be imposed. This rule does not apply to such posts as that of stenographer for which special qualifications are needed; but preference should be given to officers with such qualifications who are already working in the lower grades:

Provided that vacancies in posts carrying a starting pay of not less than Rs. 50 shall be filled by District and Sessions Judges in the following rotation:—

(i) By selection on merit out of graduates who have at least two years' experience in the work of the office; if there is no suitable graduate who fulfils this condition an "outsider" graduate may be appointed, but he must be one who normally resides within the jurisdiction of the District and Sessions Judge.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

- (ii) & (iii) By normal promotion in the office, i.e., the appointment of the next senior man—whether graduate or non-graduate subject to his fitness.

Note.—For the purpose of complying with the provisions of this rule it is necessary that District and Sessions Judges should recruit graduate freely as candidates giving preference to those residing within their jurisdiction.

VII. Security.—All officers having any dealings with public money or holding posts of particular trust shall on appointment give such security as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

VIII. Conditions of service.—(1) The establishment other than process-servers mentioned in rule II in each district shall consist of so many posts as High Court may fix from time to time by an order under his rule. The number of posts and the rates of pay of such posts as they stood on 1st April, 1934, are as enumerated in Schedules I—III annexed to these rules.

(2) The remuneration of process-servers and the number of their appointments are governed by rules issued by the High Court under sections 20 and 22 of the Court Fees Act, 1870.

(3) Service shall ordinarily be within the Civil Division within which the officer was first appointed, but may be anywhere within the jurisdiction of the High Court.

(4) Members shall be governed by the provisions of the Fundamental and the Subsidiary Rules as framed from time to time

IX. Punishment.—(1) The following penalties may for good and sufficient reasons be imposed upon members of the ministerial staff :—

- (i) Censure ;
- (ii) Fine of an amount not exceeding one month's salary for misconduct or neglect in the performance of duties ;
- (iii) Recovery from pay of the whole or part of any pecuniary loss caused to Government by negligence or breach of orders ;
- (iv) Withholding of increments or promotion including stoppage at an efficiency bar ;
- (v) Reduction to a lower post or time-scale or to a lower stage in a time-scale ;
- (vi) Suspension ;
- (vii) Removal ; and
- (viii) Dismissal.

(2) (a) Any of the above penalties may be inflicted by the District Judge on the ministerial officers of his own Court or any Court subordinate to him other than a Court of Small Causes, and on the menials of his own Court.

(b) The Judge of a Court of Small Causes may inflict any of the above penalties on the ministerial officers or menials of his own Court.

(c) The District Judge may, with the previous sanction of the High Court, delegate to any Subordinate Judge the power to inflict penalties given in clause (a) to be exercised by the Subordinate Judge in any specified portion of the district subject to the control of the District Court.

(d) Any Subordinate Judge may fine, in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any ministerial officer of his own Court for misconduct or neglect in the performance of his duties.

(e) The Senior Subordinate Judge may inflict any of the above penalties on menials of his own Court or the Courts of other Subordinate Judges in the same district.

X. Appeals.—(1) The District Judge may on appeal or otherwise reverse or modify any order made under rule IX (2) by any Court under his control including a Court of Small Causes and his order shall be final :

Provided that nothing in this rule shall preclude, the High Court from altering where it deems fit any such appellate order of a District Judge on petition by an aggrieved person or otherwise.

(2) Appeals against penalties inflicted by a District Judge shall lie to the High Court in the following case only :—

- (a) Penalties mentioned in Rule IX (iii) to (viii) in respect of ministerial servants, holding permanent and pensionable posts ;
- (b) Orders of substantive appointment by promotion or otherwise to a permanent and pensionable post the maximum pay of which is Rs. 75 or more per mensem ;
- (c) Orders of temporary appointment which is to last more than three months or has in fact lasted more than three months in respect of posts the maximum pay of which is Rs. 75 or more per mensem.

(3) Persons appealing to the High Court under this rule shall do so by petition. Such petition, accompanied by a copy of the order complained against, shall be presented to the District Judge who passed the order within one month of the date of such order (the period between the date of application for the copy and the date on which it is supplied being excluded). The District Judge will forward the petition to the Registrar of the High Court without unnecessary delay, and in forwarding the same he will be at liberty to record any remarks which he may wish to make concerning any matter stated in the petition.

After reading the petition, the High Court may either—

- (a) summarily reject it without hearing the petitioner ;
- (b) refer it to the District Judge for report and on receipt of such report reject the petition without hearing the petitioner, or
- (c) hear the petitioner, and in cases where other persons are held to be concerned in the subject of the petition, such other person in open Court.

Legal practitioners shall not be permitted to appear on behalf of either the petitioner or of any other person concerned either in the High Court or in any further inquiry before the District Judge which the High Court may direct.

Nothing in these rules shall debar the High Court or a District Judge from altering, if it deems fit, any order of punishment not provided for above which may be passed by a District Judge or a Senior Sub-Judge or the Judge of a Small Cause Court in respect of ministerial or menial establishment when an aggrieved person petitions, or otherwise.

(4) Petitioners are forbidden to attend personally at the High Court unless summoned to do so. Orders on their petitions will be communicated to them through the District Judge concerned.

(5) In order that a dismissed official may be able to exercise his right of appeal, the charge against him should be reduced to writing, his defence should either be taken in, or reduced to writing and the decision on such defence should also be in writing. The record of the charge, defence and decision should in all cases be such as to furnish sufficient information to the appellate authority to whom the dismissed official may prefer an appeal.

XI. Appointments, transfers, etc., of Clerks of Court.—(1) All orders in regard to the appointment, suspension or removal of Clerks of Court attached to District and Sessions Judges' offices should be reported to the High Court for confirmation.

(2) A Clerk of Court to the District and Sessions Judge will not be regarded a fixture in a district, but will be liable to transfer under the orders of the High Court from one district to another.

XII. General orders regarding discipline, etc.—Whenever any official (whether paid or unpaid) is personally interested in a case to be heard by the Court to which he is attached he must bring the fact to the notice of the presiding officer.

XIII. Conduct.—Members shall observe the Government Servants Conduct Rules and such other rules as may be framed by the local Government from time to time.

(Correction Slip No. 81-VII-A-27, dated the 2nd June, 1934.)

By order of the Judges,

T. B. CREAGH COEN,

Registrar.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

DISTRICT AND SESSIONS JUDGES.

*4544. Chaudhri Faqir Husain Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state the number of statutory agriculturists among the District and Sessions Judges in the province and what steps are being taken to give to statutory agriculturists their due share in the cadre ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The honourable member is referred to the answer given to Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan's question. No. *4584.<sup>1</sup>

COMPLAINTS AGAINST THE POLICE IN HISSAR.

*4545. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether a note under the heading "Hansi ke halat" appearing in the weekly Haryana Bandhu, Jakhai, dated the 22nd February 1935, has come to the notice of the Government ;
- (b) whether the local police has done anything in the matter mentioned in the note referred to above ;
- (c) if so, with what results ;
- (d) if not, what action Government proposes to take in the matter to find out the culprits ;
- (e) whether any enquiry was made into the complaints against the Police referred to in this note by the Honourable Chief Justice or by the Government ;
- (f) if the answer to (e) be in the affirmative, what was the result of that enquiry ;
- (g) if the answer to (e) be in the negative, what steps, if any, Government is prepared to take in order to make a thorough enquiry into these complaints ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a), (b) and (c) Government had not previously seen the newspaper paragraph, but as a result of this question a copy of the Haryana Bandhu was obtained by the Hissar district police and inquiries made. Chhaju Ram and his son, Chhabil Das, the alleged victims, both deny all knowledge of the affair. The newspaper report thus appears to be entirely without foundation.

(d) Does not arise.

(e), (f) and (g) Government have no knowledge of any representation made by any Bar Association in this connection.

AHLMAD, CIVIL COURT, HISSAR.

*4546. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether his attention has been drawn to the note Ahlmad ki daleri appearing in the weekly Haryana Bandhu, Jakhai, dated the 22nd February 1935 ;
- (b) if so, what action has been taken against the ahlmad concerned and with what result ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Government have now seen the newspaper paragraph to which reference is made.

(b) The Senior Subordinate Judge, Hissar, who conducted a departmental inquiry into the matter, found that the conduct of the ahmad concerned had been negligent but not dishonest. The ahmad was accordingly suspended by the District Judge for a term of six months.

ABDUCTION OF MINOR GIRLS IN HANSI.

*4547. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether a note from a correspondent under the heading Hansi men satte ka zor, Kamsin larkion ka aghwa, Ek burhya ka katal, appearing in the Urdu daily Wattan, Delhi, dated the 30th March 1935, has come to the notice of the Government ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether Government has made any enquiries into the allegations made therein and with what result ;
- (c) if the answer to (a) be in the negative, whether Government is prepared to make enquiries into these allegations and to take action, if needed ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that two minor girls were kidnapped some three months ago in broad daylight from Hansi town in the Hissar district ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the police has not been able to get any clue of these girls yet ;
- (f) what steps, if any, Government proposes to take to trace the culprits and the missing girls ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that a deputation of leading citizens of Hansi waited upon the District Magistrate and Superintendent of Police, Hissar district, in this respect ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Government have now read the paragraph in question.

(b) Enquiries have been made, with the following results :—

- (i) No complaints regarding Satta gambling have been received by any member of the public, nor has any case come to the notice of the local police.
- (ii) A complaint was made to the police on the 18th January last that two minor girls had been kidnapped from Hansi. During the last few days two girls, believed to be those in question, have been traced in Fazilka. The enquiry is being vigorously pressed.
- (iii) The death of an old woman was reported at the Hansi police station on the 16th March, 1935. A regular inquest was held into the cause of death. The inquest established that the woman's death was due to suicidal hanging.
- (c) Does not arise.
- (d), (e) and (f) The honourable member is referred to the reply to part (b) above.
- (g) Yes.

SUB-INSPECTOR OF POLICE AND HIS STAFF, CITY POLICE STATION, HANSI.

*4548. Lala Jyoti Prasad : With reference to part (c) of my starred question No. 8695,<sup>1</sup> dated the 25th October, 1934, will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether the allegations have been enquired into by the Superintendent of Police ;
- (b) whether after enquiry a report has been made to the Government ; if so, whether he will lay a copy of it on the table ;
- (c) what action, if any, Government has taken or proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) No. The enquiry showed that no one was prepared to come forward to substantiate the allegations.

(c) Does not arise.

ADMINISTRATION OF LABOUR SUBJECTS.

*4549. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state the action taken by the Government on the assurance given to me by the Honourable Mr. (now Sir) Miles Irving in this House on the 15th March, 1934, as regards the co-ordination and centralisation of the administration of labour subjects in the Province ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Labour subjects are mostly entrusted to the Director of Industries, with the Secretary, Electricity and Industries as Administrative Secretary and the Honourable Member, Revenue, as member in charge. No administrative inconvenience has been experienced from the existing arrangements and Government are not at present disposed to alter them.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is the Honourable Revenue Member aware that the Royal Commission on Labour made a specific recommendation that the Chief Inspector of Factories should not be under the Director of Industries ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I shall look into the question if I receive notice.

EXAMINATION OF A GIRLS' SCHOOL BY A PROFESSOR OF THE PUNJAB UNIVERSITY.

*4550. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether his attention has been drawn to an article published in the daily Ihsan, Lahore, dated the 15th April, 1935, complaining against the conduct of a certain professor of the Punjab University as regards an examination held by him of a certain girls' school in Lahore ;
- (b) if so, (i) the name of the professor, (ii) the name of the girls' school concerned, and (iii) the subject matter of the complaint contained in the article mentioned in (a) ;

- (c) what action has been taken against the professor ;
(d) if the answer to (c) be in the negative , the reasons for not taking any action ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The daily Ihsan, Lahore, dated the 15th April, 1935, does not contain any article complaining against the conduct of any professor of the Punjab University as regards an examination held by him of a girls' school in Lahore.

(b), (c) and (d) do not arise.

I sincerely hope that the honourable member will, when asking a similar question in future, be sure of his facts and thereby save himself and the Department a great deal of trouble and expense. I have carefully gone through Ihsan, dated 15th April, 1935 and find no reference to the facts mentioned in this question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I may inform the Honourable Minister that I gave the correct date of the Daily, but the Council office* might have given a wrong date.

LALA CHUNI LAL, CLEARING OFFICER, GOVERNMENT PRESS, LAHORE.

*4551. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Lala Chuni Lal, Clearing Officer, Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, was due to retire on the 31st December 1934 ;
(b) whether it is a fact that he has been re-employed in the Press after his retirement ;
(c) if so, the reasons for his re-employment ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Lala Chuni Lal left the Government Press on the 31st December, 1934, and proceeded on three months' leave. He retired from service with effect from the 1st April, 1935.

(b) He has not been re-employed in the Government Press after retirement.

(c) Does not arise.

LALA CHUNI LAL, CLEARING OFFICER, GOVERNMENT PRESS, LAHORE.

*4552. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union, Lahore, made any representation to the Punjab Government on the 22nd August, 1934, as regards the then proposed extension of service to Lala Chuni Lal, Clearing Officer, Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore ;
(b) if so, what action was taken on the said representation ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) None.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Member please state the reasons for not taking action on the representation ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Because no action was called for.

LALA CHUNI LAL, CLEARING OFFICER, GOVERNMENT PRESS, LAHORE.

*4553. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) the age of Lala Chuni Lal, Clearing Officer, Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, on the 31st December, 1934 ;

(b) the number of times he has been given extension of service ;

(c) the reasons for giving him extension for each of these times ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) 60 years, 8 months 28 days.

(b) He was retained in service after the age of 55 and up to the age of 60 in accordance with the ordinary rules, as he continued to be efficient. After he attained the age of 60 his service was extended first for 6 months and then for 2 months and 28 days.

(c) Numerous changes in the superior staff of the Press made it desirable for Government to retain the services of this very experienced officer for some months after he had attained the age of 60.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that he was given extension more than six times ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : If the honourable member will please see my reply he will find that it explains the position clearly.

VETERINARY ASSISTANTS AND VETERINARY ASSISTANT SURGEONS.

*4554. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that there are two kinds of veterinary assistants in this province, namely, (i) veterinary assistants, and (ii) veterinary assistant surgeons ;

(b) if so, what is the difference in their (i) qualifications, (ii) grades, (iii) nature of their official duties ;

(c) the reasons for the difference or differences (if any) mentioned in (b) ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) (i) Veterinary Assistant Surgeons are normally graduates of the Lahore Veterinary College, while Veterinary Assistants are Licentiate Veterinary Practitioners.

(ii) Veterinary Assistant Surgeons—

Rs. 100—10—800 reduced provisionally to 100—7½—145.

Veterinary Assistants—

Grade I—Rs. 90 ; Grade II—Rs. 75 ; Grade III—Rs. 60.

(iii) No difference ;

(e) Graduates of the Lahore Veterinary College have undergone a longer and more comprehensive course than the L. V. Ps. and the more highly qualified man naturally claims a higher grade of pay and if vacancies exist, he gets it.

REDUCTION IN COURT-FEE AND STAMP DUTY.

*4555. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that different District Bar Associations which waited upon the Honourable Chief Justice of the High Court of Judicature at Lahore, during his extensive tours in this province ever since his appointment, represented to him for the reduction of court-fees and stamp duties ;
- (b) if so, what action has been taken on those representations ;
- (c) if the answer to (b) be in the negative, the reasons for not taking any action.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter is under consideration.

(c) Does not arise.

SEATING ARRANGEMENTS IN COURTS FOR LITIGANTS.

*4556. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that there are no seating arrangements (i) in and (ii) outside the courts in this province for the litigants and their witnesses, &c. ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the litigants and witnesses, &c., are put to a lot of trouble on account of there being no seating arrangements within the precincts of the courts ;
- (c) if so, what action has been taken by the Government to remove the trouble ;
- (d) if answer to (c) be in the negative, the reasons for not taking any action ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Benches for the use of parties and witnesses are already provided outside most of the courts in the province. In many cases seating arrangements also exist inside the court rooms.

(b), (c) and (d) Government are not aware that there is any general complaint on this score. They have, however, long recognised the desirability of providing facilities of the kind here in question and hope gradually to rectify deficiencies as funds permit.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state whether he is aware that there are no seating arrangements in or outside the Lahore courts ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I am afraid I will require notice of the question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : May I know in what districts there are seating arrangements and in what districts there are no seating arrangements ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I must require notice of that question.

ACTION TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT AGAINST CORRUPT OFFICIALS.

*4557. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to lay a statement on the table showing the action taken by the heads of different Government departments and institutions against the corrupt officials in this province for the year ending 31st March, 1935 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : It is hoped that the statement will be laid on the table of the House during the present session. It is ready except for two entries which have to be verified.

NON-OFFICIAL VISITORS FOR THE INSPECTION OF GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS AND INSTITUTIONS.

*4558. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state the names of the Government departments and institutions for the inspection or visiting of which non-official visitors are appointed ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Non-official visitors are appointed for the following Government institutions :—

- (1) All jails in the Punjab.
- (2) The Borstal Institution, Lahore.
- (3) The Punjab Mental Hospital, Lahore.
- (4) The Mayo Hospital, Lahore.
- (5) All provincialised Civil Hospitals.

There are also non-official members on the committees of the following educational institutions :—

- (1) The Advisory Committee of the Queen Mary College, Lahore.
- (2) The Inspection Committee for Government Colleges for Women.
- (3) The Committee for the management of the Government Hindu Widows' Home, Lahore.

ADMISSION TO LAW COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4559. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that graduates who pass their B.A. examination after taking a diploma in some oriental language are not allowed to join the Law College, Lahore ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that science and agriculture graduates are allowed to join the College ;
- (c) if so, the reasons for not allowing the graduates mentioned in (a) to join the Law College and reasons for allowing the graduates mentioned in (b) to join the said College ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) They are eligible for admission to the Law College, Lahore, for the F. E. L. class, provided they have passed the B. A. Examination in English only, after passing the Honours Examination in a classical language, e. g., Arabic, Persian, Sanskrit.

(b) Yes.

(c) Does not arise.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Do I understand that these graduates are eligible for admission into the F. E. L. but not into the LL. B. class ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I require notice of the question.

HIGH COURT CALENDAR.

*4560. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the High Court of Judicature at Lahore issues any calendar each year for the use of the courts in the Punjab ;

(b) the approximate date on which it is published every year ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the list of the local holidays in the different districts of this province is not given in the calendar for 1935 ;

(d) reasons for not giving the list mentioned in (c) ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) October.

(c) Yes.

(d) The list is separately notified in the Punjab Gazette in November or December every year.

OPERATION OF THE CRIMINAL TRIBES ACT IN HISSAR.

*4561. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) the number of convictions of the members of the following tribes of the Hissar district for the years 1929, 1930, 1931 or if statistics permit for subsequent years :

Hindu Jats, Muslim Jats, Hindu Rajputs, Muslim Rajputs, Muhammadans, Brahmans, Sikhs, Jains, Mahajans, Heris and Bawaris ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Deswali Bawaris of the Hissar district submitted a representation to the Superintendent of Police or to the Deputy Commissioner, Criminal Tribes, for being excluded from the operation of the Criminal Tribes Act ;

(c) if so, what action has been taken ;

(d) whether he will lay a copy of the representation on the table ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No records are maintained classifying persons convicted in the criminal courts by tribes or religions. The collection of the information required by the honourable member would entail an expenditure of time and money out of proportion with the result to be secured.

(b) No such representation was received either by the Superintendent, Police, Hissar, or the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes.

(c) and (d) Do not arise.

OPERATION OF THE CRIMINAL TRIBES ACT IN HISSAR.

*4562. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in the year 1933 or 1934 the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar, recommended the case of the Heris of the Hissar district, for exemption from the operation of the Criminal Tribes Act ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that this recommendation was made after a thorough enquiry by all the tahsildars of the district ;
- (c) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, what action, if any, was taken by the Government ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) A proposal of the kind described was made by the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar, to the Deputy Commissioner for Criminal Tribes in 1933, but the lists of the Aheris in certain tahsils being at that time incomplete consideration of the case had to be postponed.

(b) Yes.

OPERATION OF THE CRIMINAL TRIBES ACT IN HISSAR DISTRICT.

*4563. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a good number of Aheris called Naiks live in the town of Bhiwani and have pucca houses and there is no conviction against them ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner, Criminal Tribes, visited the mohalla of these Naiks of Bhiwani in 1931 or 1932 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that more than 80 per cent. of these Naiks possess houses ;
- (d) the percentage of those convicted in 1934 and their population in Bhiwani town ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes. One of these Naiks was convicted in 1931.

(b) Yes, in 1932.

(c) Yes.

(d) The total number of Naiks in the town of Bhiwani is 267. There were no convictions among them in 1934. Out of the 267, 73 were originally registered under the Criminal Tribes Act, 1924, but the registrations of all of them, except the person referred to at (a) above, have since been cancelled.

DRINKING WATER IN HISSAR DISTRICT.

*4564. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the District Board, Hissar, formed a sub-committee of its members in 1934 for devising means to alleviate the sufferings of the people of rural areas in the Hissar district in regard to drinking water and to take steps for a better supply of water ;
- (b) if so, whether he will lay a copy of that resolution on the table ;
- (c) what steps have already been taken by the above sub-committee in this connection ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Relief Committee, Hissar, also submitted a representation to the Government for granting relief to the people of the rural areas of the district in regard to drinking water ;
- (e) what steps, if any, Government has taken on the above representation ;
- (f) whether the Government has appropriated a reasonable amount of money for this purpose ;
- (g) if so, the amount so appropriated ;
- (h) whether the Government has received any representation from the District Board, Hissar, also for helping the Board in this matter ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) A copy of the District Board's resolution on the subject is laid on the table.

(c) The sub-committee has decided in the first place to concentrate upon the Bagar tract of Bhiwani and Sirsa tahsils and has collected through the Tahsildars concerned the necessary information regarding suitable places for digging johars and kunds in that tract. Inquiries have also been made by the sub-committee from the Sanitary Board about the possibility of their accepting applications for grants-in-aid for such schemes, and arrangements are now in progress for the preparation of some specimen estimates of the cost of making pucca (open) johars for storing water in a village.

(d) Yes.

(e) It has been ascertained that the scarcity of drinking water is felt in about 280 villages in the Hissar district, and the Public Health Department is now considering ways and means to provide those villages with potable water. A scheme for the supply of canal water in village ponds for drinking purposes was considered by the Sanitary Board in March, 1935, and a grant-in-aid of Rs. 6,000 was sanctioned by Government for the construction of channels for the purpose. But owing to certain technical objections raised by the Public Works Department, the proposed scheme has been held up, and will again be considered by the Sanitary Board at its next meeting. By this scheme some 80 villages would be benefited.

[Hon. Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon.]

- (f) The total possible cost has not yet been estimated.
- (g) Does not arise.
- (h) No.

Copy of Hissar District Board resolution No. 27, dated the 30th August, 1934.

27. Put up proposal from Pandit Thakar Dass, Member, District Board, and seconded by Chaudhri Suraj Mal, Junior Vice-Chairman, that in many villages of the Bhiwani, Sirsa and Fatehabad tahsils of the Hissar district there is very great complaint and inconvenience in regard to drinking water for men and cattle, the wells being very deep in these areas, water being brackish and quantity of sweet sub-soil water being scanty, as a consequence of which diseases break out among men and cattle, this meeting of the District Board resolves to constitute a special sub-committee consisting of the Chairman, the Senior and Junior Vice-Chairmen, Civil Surgeon, the District Medical Officer of Health, Chaudhri Sheo Ram, Chaudhri Harcyal, Chaudhri Mohabat Singh and Pandit Thakar Dass Bhargawa with powers to co-opt other members if necessary—

Resolution adopted with the addition to the committee of the following :—

Chaudhri Ganga Ram and Lala Jyoti Prasad,
M. L. C.

All members agree to work without travelling allowance.

- (1) To investigate in what villages such trouble exists.
- (2) To suggest and find out what kinds of well, tank, ~~tand~~ or other means are suitable to remove the difficulty of water in these areas.
- (3) To provide ways and means of removing this difficulty by endeavouring to obtain special grants from the Government, contribution from the District Board, public subscriptions and general help, personal labour or otherwise from the village people of the areas concerned.

DISMISSAL OF PHUNDAN LAL, PATWARI.

*4565. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) when Phundan Lal, Patwari of halqa Kharak Kalan, in the Rohtak division, of the Western Jumna Canal, was dismissed and for what fault ;
- (b) whether the said patwari was served with a notice of warning before his dismissal ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that this patwari has been earning his bonus for good work for every harvest till the time of his dismissal ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, whether dismissal was considered to be the only punishment to be due to him ;
- (e) for how long he had served the department and when his retirement was due ;
- (f) whether the patwari concerned filed an appeal to the Superintending Engineer, Delhi Circle, against the order of his dismissal ; if so, with what result ;
- (g) whether the patwari was given an opportunity to be heard in person by the appellate officer ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The services of Phundan Lal, Patwari, were terminated on one month's notice on 26th June, 1933, for continued inefficiency.

(b) Yes.

(c) No.

(d) Does not arise.

(e) 25 years, 5 months and 5 days during which period he was once dismissed but later was re-appointed. He was due to retire in 1935.

(f) Yes, in 1933, and he was informed with Superintending Engineer's No. 599, dated 27th January, 1934, that it was not proposed to retain his services.

(g) Yes, on a further appeal on 19th December, 1934.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : What are the reasons for the patwari not being heard in appeal?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Have you read the reply to part (g)?

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I understood the Honourable Revenue Member saying that the patwari was quite inefficient and also that he earned his bonus?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I never said that he earned his bonus.

DRAINAGE IN GARHI SHAHU.

*4566. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether any deputation on behalf of the inhabitants of Garhi Shahu near Lahore waited on the Deputy Commissioner Lahore, as regards the absence of any adequate arrangement for the drainage of the dirty water there;

(b) if so, what action was taken by the Deputy Commissioner in this respect?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) The Deputy Commissioner, Lahore, visited the spot and having found the condition of the abadi to be very insanitary, wrote to the Executive Officer, Lahore, directing him to take prompt measures for the satisfactory drainage of the area.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTION AND ANSWER.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly refer to the answer given to the starred Council question No. 2083,<sup>1</sup> put by Khan Haibat Khan Dahi in the year 1932, and state whether Government has come to any decision regarding the restoration of the mosque at Sohna in Gurgaon district to the Muslims of the locality?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : It has been decided that the mosque and connected buildings should be handed over to the Anjuman-i-Islamia, Sohna, together with the site measuring 1.25 acres. This will be effected as soon as the necessary formalities have been completed.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath : What are the necessary formalities ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Perhaps some agreements and things of that sort.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

PENSIONS.

1165. Professor W. Roberts : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state whether Government proposes to consider the feasibility of fixing the maximum pensions when revising rates of pay for entrants to the services ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The maximum limits of pensions are already prescribed in Articles 474 and 474-A, Civil Service Regulations, and it is not proposed to revise them.

AGRICULTURAL FARMS.

1166. Professor W. Roberts : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) the number of district farms under his Department ;
- (b) the number, if any, of these where experimental work is done ;
- (c) whether he proposes to set aside some part of each farm for experimental work, so as to protect the zamindars from being expected to try untested improvements ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) The number of district agricultural farms, proper, is thirteen, and in addition there is an area of 10 acres at Kangra ;

(b) No part of any district farm is being used for general experimental work but a portion of the following four farms is being used for investigation of particular problems as shown against each :—

- (1) Rohtak Farm .. Utilised for dry farming research.
- (2) Campbellpur Farm Half the area is used for experimental work on Gram Blight.
- (3) Ludhiana Farm .. About one-third of the area is used for research on oilseeds.
- (4) Karnal Farm .. Half the area has just been allotted for sugarcane research.

(c) Prior to retrenchment in 1931 half the area of each of these fourteen district farms was used for experimental purposes, but on account of financial stringency the whole area was leased out to tenants on batai. The past three years' experience has shown that these farms cannot be used to the best advantage of the district by the present system. In addition, the research staff finds great difficulty in obtaining the necessary facilities to carry out local tests of improved seeds and improved methods. The Director of Agriculture, Punjab, intends to submit to Government for consideration proposals to resume half the area of each district farm for experimental purposes.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS.

1167. Professor W. Roberts: Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state the number of English and Vernacular schools in the Punjab which gave instructions in Agriculture in 1925 and in 1935?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon: The information is noted below:—

|                                  | 1925.    | 1935.     |
|----------------------------------|----------|-----------|
| Vernacular schools .. .. .       | 78       | 209       |
| Anglo-vernacular schools .. .. . | 9        | 23        |
|                                  | <hr/> 82 | <hr/> 232 |

Besides these schools there are a number of schools in which agriculture is taught, though they have not been formally recognised for teaching the subject.

REVENUE SETTLEMENT.

1168. Professor W. Roberts: Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state in connection with the new Revenue settlement proposals what basic or mean price he intends taking for wheat, cotton and toria, and if possible, how he arrives at the figures?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: If the honourable member refers to the Lyallpur Settlement a copy of a communiqué recently issued by Government is laid on the table. The Settlement Officer's proposals are given in the schedule attached to the communiqué. They have not been sanctioned by Government yet.

COMMUNIQUE.

In the course of a speech which His Excellency the Governor made at Lyallpur on the 15th of December, he described briefly the system of land revenue assessment which the local Government propose to adopt in the tract under settlement in the Lyallpur district and the Rakh Branch circle of the Sheikhupura district. He stated that a communiqué would shortly issue on this subject. The Settlement Officer, in accordance with the Land Revenue Assessment Rules, has now published a vernacular abstract of the prices which he proposes to adopt for the purposes of assessment. An English translation of that abstract is attached to this communiqué and the local Government are taking the opportunity of the publication of the proposed commutation prices to explain the policy which they intend to follow, and to remove any misunderstandings which may otherwise arise in regard to it.

2. One of the most important factors which determine the assessment of land revenue is the value of agricultural produce. The practice in the past has been to take the average of the prices of each crop over a period of years, and to assume that the average thus obtained would, subject to certain corrections, represent roughly the price that would prevail during the future period of settlement. No change was then made in the land revenue rates on account of fluctuations in prices during the period of settlement.

This system worked satisfactorily so long as big changes in prices did not occur. When prices rose to unprecedented heights during and after the War, the system worked in favour of the revenue payer. Under the law, Government could not increase land revenue during the currency of a settlement merely because prices had gone up and the incidence of land revenue became comparatively light. The position changed when the slump in prices set in. Land revenue payers found it difficult to meet their dues, especially in those districts which had been re-assessed during the boom years and for which the commutation prices had been fixed at comparatively high levels. Government had to come to their help, and they have given liberal relief each harvest in the form of special remissions to meet the fall in the price of agricultural produce. In the districts not brought under re-assessment they intend to continue such special remissions so long as conditions require.

3. There remained the problem of how to re-assess those districts which were due for re-assessment. Where the assessment was light and had been fixed when prices were low, it was usually in the interest of the revenue payer to postpone re-assessment. In a district like Lyallpur where the assessment had been made when prices were high, temporary relief was and is being given in the form of special remissions, but it was considered fair to the revenue payer to devise means of permanent relief at the conclusion of the current settlement. As announced by Sir Geoffrey deMontmorency in a Durbar at Lyallpur on March 25th, 1933, Government, therefore, decided to re-assess the district and re-settlement operations are now in progress.

The most important matter which Government had to decide was how to deal with the question of prices. The new settlement will be for a period of 40 years. No one can say at present how prices are likely to move during that time. At present they are very low. Forces which at present cannot be foreseen may cause them to fall still lower. On the other hand, there is reason to hope that they will rise. During the long space of 40 years, history may repeat itself, and there may be cycles of very high prices and of very low prices. No one can say what is likely to happen. It would certainly be very unsafe to assume that a certain scale of prices is likely to continue for 40 years. If a high scale of prices were taken and revenue rates fixed accordingly for 40 years, it would not be fair to the revenue payer. If a low scale of prices were similarly taken, it would not be fair to the Government of the future. The probability of wide fluctuations in prices is a factor which Government have to take into account.

4. After very careful consideration the Punjab Government have decided to adopt a system of assessment which will make the demand each harvest dependent on prices. The details of the scheme are given later. This system was recently introduced in the re-assessment of the Lower Bari Doab Canal Colony and is working well. Its chief features are the following:—

(1) The commutation prices proposed to be fixed by Government have been worked out in accordance with the revenue law on the average of 20 years.

(2) Average revenue rates will be worked out according to those prices, and will determine the average rate for the assessment circle as a whole.

Within the assessment circle the revenue rates will vary, as at present, in accordance with the class of land and other factors. They will in some cases be higher than the average rate. In other cases they will be lower.

(3) The revenue rates as finally announced for a particular square will represent the maxima which Government can take in any circumstances during the period of 40 years.

(4) Government will not take these maxima rates unless the general level of prices is at least as high as that represented by the prices given in the schedule attached.

(5) If in any year the general level is higher than that represented by the schedule, the revenue payers will be given the full advantage of the excess.

(6) If in any year the general level of prices is lower than that represented by the schedule, a remission in the revenue rates will be given the following year proportionate to the difference.

(7) However great the difference may be, Government will give a corresponding remission. While Government will be bound not to exceed the maxima rates as fixed, they will give to the revenue payer the full benefit of the fall in prices, however great that may be.

(8) It follows that the prices given in the schedule are, at present, paper prices, and that they will remain paper prices unless and until actual prices are equally high or higher.

5. It will generally be realized that the above system involves a revolutionary change in the methods of assessment, and that the change is entirely in the interest of the land revenue payer. It means that the revenue rates will be adjusted to the level of prices; that, however great the slump in prices may be, the relief will be proportionate; that the revenue payer will in no circumstances, be asked to pay more than the maxima rates, and that he will have to pay these only if prices justify them.

On the other hand, and subject to what is said in paragraph 7 below, Government will gain up to the maximum as prices rise. There seems at present no prospect of that maximum being reached, and the present Government could have served their own interests equally had lower commutation prices been proposed. The prices proposed are in accordance with the revenue law of the province, and will secure for future Governments their fair share if prices reach, but do not exceed, those levels during the next 40 years. The prices assumed for the tract under settlement are higher than those assumed for the Lower Bari Doab Canal Colony, because the settlement of the latter is for 10 years only, whereas that of the former will be for 40 years. If actual prices do not reach the levels assumed, the revenue payer will obtain corresponding remissions.

6. Some of the details of the scheme may now be explained.

(1) The market prices of one year will determine the remissions to be given the next year. The reason for this is that instalments of land revenue are realized before the marketing of the crops is complete, and it is, therefore, impracticable to work out the scale of remissions on the prices prevailing for the current year.

(2) In deciding what prices were current in the year previous to the grant of remissions, Government will ascertain from leading firms the average daily prices actually prevailing in certain mandis of the tract under settlement during the following periods of the year :—

|        |    |    |    |    |                                   |
|--------|----|----|----|----|-----------------------------------|
| Cotton | .. | .. | .. | .. | November to February (inclusive). |
| Gur    | .. | .. | .. | .. | December to March (inclusive).    |
| Toria  | .. | .. | .. | .. | January to February (inclusive).  |
| Wheat  | .. | .. | .. | .. | May 15th to September 15th.       |
| Gram   | .. | .. | .. | .. | April 15th to August 15th.        |

(3) From the average daily price thus obtained appropriate amounts in annas per maund will be deducted on account of transport and marketing charges, so that the average price obtained for each crop finally will represent the average current price in the villages.

(4) The percentage of remission to be given in any harvest will be calculated by Government and will be the same throughout the tract under settlement. The scale of remissions will be in units of 5 per cent., that is to say, they will be 5 per cent., 10 per cent., 15 per cent., or 20 per cent., etc., on the demand for each holding as calculated in accordance with the sanctioned rates of that holding.

(5) The percentage of the remission to be given will be announced each harvest and the revenue establishment in calculating the demand on each holding for that harvest will first calculate the demand at sanctioned rates; they will deduct therefrom the sanctioned amount of remission, and will show the balance as the net demand to be realized. The revenue payer will be entitled to see the calculations.

(6) In calculating what remission is due for a particular year Government will bring three factors into their calculations :—

- (i) The percentage of the total matured area under each important crop.
- (ii) The average yield per acre of each of those crops.
- (iii) The commutation price assumed for each of those crops.

By multiplying these figures together, Government will obtain an index figure. They will then calculate a corresponding index figure for the year previous to that for which remissions are to be given. Unless there are exceptional reasons to the contrary, it will be assumed that the percentage of crops remains constant, and that the average yield per acre is also constant. They will, however, take the prices as determined by the calculations given in sub-paragraphs (2) and (3) above. We will suppose that the standard index figure is 1,000, and that index figure according to the new prices is 600. The remission given will then be 40 per cent. Each year a new index figure will be calculated and the amount of remission will depend on the level of prices during the previous year.

7. In what has been said above, it has been assumed that the commutation prices, as sanctioned, will give for each assessment circle, in accordance with the standard of one quarter net assets, revenue rates which are not on the average more than 25 per cent. in excess of the revenue rates imposed at last settlement. Under the law as it stands at present, Government cannot impose revenue rates in an assessment circle as a whole, which are more than one quarter in excess of those imposed at last settlement; and unless the law is amended in this respect before the assessment is announced, this provision will impose an independent limit to the maxima rates which Government can fix. If, therefore, the sanctioned commutation prices give rates which are more than 25 per cent. greater than the rates imposed at last settlement, Government will have to reduce the rates accordingly. In that case it will be necessary to reduce the settlement index figure proportionately. Supposing, for instance, that the settlement index figure is 1,000, but that the commutation prices on which that index is calculated give for a particular assessment circle theoretical rates which are 10 per cent. more than Government can impose under the existing law, then the settlement index figure will also be reduced by 10 per cent. and will be taken as 900, instead of 1,000.

8. Although the new system will be quite simple to work, some revenue payers may have difficulty in understanding it at first. Government have, therefore, given instructions to the Settlement Officer that he should explain it freely to the people, and that he should receive any deputations who may wish to ask any questions regarding it. Government welcome the fullest discussion of it, since they are convinced that it will be generally recognised as the most important change made in the interests of the revenue payer for many years. They are confident that it will be generally welcomed by the people of the tract under settlement.

SCHEDULE.

Abstract of the proposal regarding commutation prices to be used in the settlement now in progress in the Lyallpur district and Rakh Branch Circle of Sheikhupura district.

Rule 4 of the Land Revenue Assessment Rules, 1929, requires that before determining commutation prices which he intends to use for purposes of the produce estimate, a Revenue Officer in charge of settlement operations shall among other data available to him scrutinize the following:—

- (a) shopkeepers' books in selected villages;
- (b) harvest prices for each assessment circle reported by the field kanungo for entry in the circle note-books;
- (c) harvest prices published in the Gazette;
- (d) prices obtaining in markets; and
- (e) prices obtained by estates under the Court of Wards and by large proprietors for their produce.

A most careful scrutiny of all these documents has been made. So far as source (b) is concerned, the prices of commodities are those prevailing at harvest time. Similarly in the case of source (a) shopkeepers determine one price for a particular commodity a short time after the harvest is ready, and it is on that one fixed price that all transactions take place between zamindars and shopkeepers. As regards markets, enquiries have been made from Lyallpur, Jaranwala, Toba Tek Singh, Gojra, Tandlianwala, Chak Jhumra and Sangla mandis. These enquiries have covered (i) the period from 16th November to 1st March for khari staples and toria; (ii) the period from 15th May to 1st August for the remaining rabi staples. It is during these periods that zamindars generally sell their produce.

2. As regards source (e), it has not been possible to secure accurate figures from all the tahsils of the tract under settlement. The most reliable accounts that could be obtained are those of Colonel Nawab Sir Umar Hyat Khan Tiwana, sole proprietor of Chak No. 234-R. B., tahsil Lyallpur, and those kept by Lieutenant-Colonel J. Bruce, late Army Remount Department, and Richard Branford, Esquire, who are both important lessees of extensive areas of Crown land near Lyallpur town. Of these three gentlemen, Colonel Nawab Sir Umar Hayat Khan Tiwana, was the only one who could produce continuous accounts of over twenty years.

3. A close scrutiny of the data available from all these sources suggests that averages of prices of various commodities prevailing at mandis during the last twenty years may well be taken as the basis for calculating commutation prices to be used in the settlement now in progress. It is remarkable how closely the mandi averages come to the prices obtained for their produce by the three large private owners mentioned above. Rule 4 of the Assessment Rules requires that the prices to be adopted in the estimate shall be based on the average of a sufficiently long period in the past, and as the term of the settlement now in progress is likely to be fixed at forty years, it is considered that a period of twenty years in the past is a sufficiently long period to comply with the requirements of law and dictates of equity.

4. As regards prices of commodities that are not sold in the open market, e.g., fodder, wheat and gram straw, most careful and searching enquiries have been made from an exceedingly large number of chaks all over the tract. After a careful consideration of all the circumstances of the case, I propose to use the following commutation prices in framing my produce estimate for all the circles of the tract under settlement:—

|        |    |    |    |    |    | Annas.per maund. |
| Cotton | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 184                  |
| Gur    | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 88                   |
| Toria  | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 92                   |
| Wheat  | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 60                   |
| Gram   | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 52                   |
| Maize  | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 48                   |

|  | Rs.per acre.     |
|--|----------------------|
| Rice, pulses, millets, oilseeds (other than toria) and all fodder crops. | 32                   |
| Orchards, gardens, vegetables and tobacco .. .. .                        | 60                   |
|  | Annas.per maund. |
| Wheat straw .. .. .  | 6                    |
| Gram straw .. .. .   | 3                    |

These prices have been determined by taking the mandi averages and deducting expenses of cartage, weighment, etc., and are net prices obtained by the landowners.

5. It will be noticed that these prices are substantially higher than those prevailing in the markets to-day, or indeed than the prices that have been prevailing in the markets during the last few years of unprecedented agricultural depression. The revenue rates of the new assessment will be worked out on these prices, but it might be explained at once that there is no intention to levy those rates in full until prices of the more important staples attain the level of prices that are proposed to be used in my produce estimate. Although the new assessment that will be announced will be based on the high prices assumed by me, the landowners of the tract will every harvest get remission proportionate to the difference between the commutation prices used in the produce estimate and the prices actually prevailing in the markets in the year preceding that for which assessment is to be made. In short, it is proposed to introduce a sliding scale of revenue assessment, the important feature of which is that the revenue will in no case be collected at rates higher than those brought out by the prices proposed to be assumed by me, while there is no limit to the extent of remission which landowners will be entitled to on account of fall in prices. Such a sliding scale of revenue has been introduced in the recent settlement of the Lower Bari Doab Colony. The commutation prices proposed by me are somewhat higher than those assumed in the settlement of that colony, because the term of settlement in that colony is only ten years, while the term of settlement being done by me is likely to be fixed at forty years. A full description of what the sliding scale of revenue means and how it will function, is being published by the Punjab Government and need not be explained here.

PENSION BILL.

1169. Professor W. Roberts : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state the Pension Bill of the Punjab Government for—

- (a) 1920,
- (b) 1934 (or latest year where figures are available), and
- (c) the expected bill in 1954?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Rs. 27,83,888.*

(b) Rs. 75,65,207.†

(c) It is not possible to frame a forecast. So far as can be seen, however, the bill has not yet reached stabilization point and will continue to increase for some years.

Seventeen and-a-half lakhs of the increase is accounted for by the fact that when the present constitution was established in 1921 responsibility for the pensions of officers of All-India Services serving under the Punjab Government was transferred from the Central to the Provincial Government.

* (Of which Rs. 48,668 represent the commuted value of pensions.)

† Of which Rs. 13,65,980 represent the commuted value of pensions.

Details will be found under the expenditure heads 45-A and 60-B of the Budget).

ACREAGE RATE.

1170. Professor W. Roberts : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) on what legal grounds "Acreage rate" is levied in certain irrigated tracts ;
- (b) in what years since 1927 acreage rate has been collected in the Nili Bar and why ;
- (c) whether acreage rate comes under land revenue, water-rate or cesses ; and if so, why ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Acreage rate is a charge levied in areas coming under new canal irrigation for the construction of watercourses and culverts, and includes the cost of preliminary survey and demarcation. In the case of land belonging to Government, it is levied under the conditions governing grants of land, leases for temporary cultivation and the conditions of sale. In proprietary areas the owners of land are given the option to construct watercourses and culverts themselves. The Government constructs them only if the proprietors are unwilling to do so and levies an acreage rate to recover the cost.

(b) From kharif 1928 to rabi 1930 inclusive, and rabi 1935 for reasons given in (a) above.

(c) No.

TUBE WELL PUMPING FOR WATER-LOGGED AREAS.

1171. Professor W. Roberts : With reference to statement made by the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government which appears on pages 315 and 331 of Punjab Council Debates for 5th March, 1935, will he please state—

- (a) whether the Irrigation Department have submitted any scheme of tube well pumping for water-logged areas ;
- (b) if no scheme has been put up, whether Government proposes to press for submission of a scheme and a considered statement as to what charges for electricity could be paid under such a scheme ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) No.

(b) It is for the Irrigation Branch to formulate schemes. The Hydro-Electric Branch would give all the information available.

BHAKRA DAM PROJECT.

1172. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) the reasons for the Government not undertaking the Bhakra Dam Project ;
- (b) whether the nature of these reasons is technical or political ;
- (c) if the reasons are technical, what they are ,
- (d) in case the reasons are political, the exact nature of trouble, and steps the Government is taking to overcome these obstacles ?

LAND REVENUE SETTLEMENT.

1173. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly lay on the table of the Council a statement showing the following particulars in respect of the last two settlements of each district in the Punjab—

- (a) total land-revenue ;
- (b) total amount of cesses ;
- (c) the portion of nett assets taken by the State ;
- (d) the measure of enhancement taken on the land revenue settled for the outgoing settlement, i. e., the proportion by which the land revenue assessed in the outgoing settlement was enhanced in the subsequent settlement ;
- (e) average land revenue per acre ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a), (c), (d) and (e) The honourable member is referred to the Final Settlement Reports of the districts in the Province.

(b) The answer to this part of the question would involve an amount of labour out of all proportion to the value of the information sought. The attention of the honourable member is however invited to Chapter VII of the Settlement Manual which will give him an idea of the proportion which some of the cesses and rates bear to the land revenue.

LAND REVENUE SETTLEMENT.

1174. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state the items of expenditure which are allowed as costs of production in settling the land revenue of an estate—

- (a) where the estate is owned by a single rent-receiving individual or a few rent-receiving individuals ;
- (b) where the estate is owned wholly or chiefly by self-cultivating owners ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The honourable member is referred to section 3 (18) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act read with the relevant paragraphs of the Land Assessment Rules 1929 and of the Punjab Settlement Manual.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Secretary : I have verified that the 'date' of the daily Ihsan as printed in question No. *4550 put by Mr. M. A. Ghani is the same as stated in the manuscript copy of his question.

REFERENCE TO LATE HAJI SIR RAHIM BAKHSH.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram (South-East Rohtak, non-Muhammadan, Rural): Since the Council met last one of our esteemed members, Haji Maulvi Sir Rahim Bakhsh has passed away and I propose that a message of condolence on behalf of this Council be sent to the relations of the deceased.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I associate myself with that proposal.

[Sardar Arjan Singh, The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh, Mr. E. Mayadas and Mr. M. A. Ghani associated themselves with the proposal.]

Mr. President: I take it that all honourable members of the House wish that a message of condolence be sent on behalf of the Council to the bereaved family of the deceased. (Voices of 'yes'.)

THE PUNJAB STATE AID TO INDUSTRIES BILL.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang (Minister for Local Self-Government): I beg to introduce the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill.

While introducing it I do not consider it necessary to make any speech. The reasons for bringing forward this Bill are briefly but quite adequately stated in the statement of objects and reasons which I presume the honourable members have already perused. I therefore beg to move—

That the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill be referred to a select committee which shall report on or before the 4th November 1935 consisting of:—

The Legal Remembrancer;
 Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath;
 Professor W. Roberts;
 Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq;
 Mr. Labh Singh;
 Sardar Arjan Singh;
 Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra;
 Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri;
 Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh;
 Khwaja Muhammad Eusoof;
 Chaudhri Asadullah Khan;
 Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan;
 Honourable President's Nominee;
 Mr. F. C. Bourne; and
 The Mover.

In putting this motion before the House, I may mention it to you, Mr. President, that it would be conducive to clearness if this motion were considered in various parts. The first part, for instance, which would be placed before the House would be that the Bill be referred to a select committee. The second part will be that the select committee should consist of the members whose names I have already read out. The third that they should report on or before 4th November 1935 and the fourth that the quorum which is usually fixed should be five. I leave it to you and you may be pleased to put it in whatever way you consider best. But this is my submission. In moving this motion before the House again I do not think that it is necessary for me to make any lengthy speech or any speech at all. So far as the necessity of such a measure is concerned it is recognised on all hands, in fact there are many both inside and outside this House who feel that the Bill has been long over due and a measure of this kind should have been placed before the House many years before. However, for various reasons no such Bill could be placed before this House at an earlier stage and it is not necessary for me to dwell upon those reasons now. Now that the Bill is before the House I expect that the House would hasten to pass it because already very valuable time has been lost. I expect that the honourable members of this House would realise not only the importance but also the urgency of the measure and would support the motion that I have placed before them so that the select committee may consider the Bill as early as possible and submit its report either before or on the 4th November, and the report of the select committee may be placed before this House for its consideration during this very session and passed and, as I expect, the assent of His Excellency the Governor and His Excellency the Viceroy may be obtained and the Act actually become operative as early as possible. With these few remarks I commend this motion to the consideration of this House.

Mr. President : I will propose the several motions one by one.

The first motion is —

That the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill be referred to a select committee.

Mr. M. A. Ghani (Nominated, non-official) : I rise to oppose the motion to refer the Bill to a select committee. The question of state aid to industries has been challenged in many parts of the world and I mean to challenge it here on the floor of this House. What I understand from this Bill is that the Government will give a sort of loan to certain industrialists at a rate of interest ranging from 1 or 2 per cent. more than what the Government of India pay for a public loan. That is to say that the Government will advance the loan at 4 or at the most 5 per cent. My first objection is that the principle of raising loan in the first place from the public and then giving it to certain industrialists is not a sound one. I think the best policy which the Government should follow would be to run its own factories. Now Government will spend 5 or 10 lakhs on this industrial loan. I fail to understand why the Government cannot run 5 or 10 factories themselves. (The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : With these five lakhs ?) With 50 lakhs or even one crore of rupees if you like. When the industrialists take loan at the rate of 4 or 5 per cent. they are expected to earn more than that percentage. They might earn 10 or 12 or 20 per cent. Now, why cannot this surplus profit be made to go into the coffers of the Government itself and thus reduce taxes ? Why should the profit go to a few industrialists ? We labourites believe in State capitalism. We are against individual capitalism and this principle of State capitalism has been in practice in England in certain respects and in certain other countries. So this principle of taking the money from the people, putting it into one pocket taking it from that pocket and putting it in another's pocket is absolutely unsound in principle.

[ Mr. M. A. Ghani. ]

The Bill is intended to aid certain capitalists of this province. I want to make it quite clear that I am not at all against the development of industries in this province and I would like that there should be from one to five factories in every district and the Government ought to run these factories. If Government can administer the whole of this province so well, I cannot understand why Government should not be able to administer these factories equally well. Administration carried on by Government is much better than administration carried on by any single individual. (The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: Hear, hear). If you go to certain factories owned by certain capitalists, you will find conditions there simply hopeless. The industrialists want to make as much profit as they can. They suck the blood of the labourers and they make them overwork and do not pay them good wages. They do not make good houses for them but try to get everything out of them without paying anything. I have been going round the province and I have seen so many factories in the province and I can say with my personal knowledge that the capitalists of this province are simply blood suckers. If you will kindly go to certain factories you will find that the housing conditions there are absolutely bad, practically there are no houses provided by these factory owners and there are no water arrangements and latrine arrangements. You will see them in rags and no provision is made for the education of their children and nothing is done by these owners to improve the condition of these workers in factories. With these conditions, do you think that these capitalists are entitled to state aid? State does not mean only a few capitalists and industrialists. State consists of all the population of this province. For these reasons I beg to oppose the motion.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural): I beg to move—

That the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion thereon by the 15th of December 1935.

In proposing this motion I want to make it clear at the very outset that I am not taking to any dilatory tactics or in any way opposing the principles of this Bill. So far as the primary object of this Bill is concerned I am wholly at one with the mover of the Bill. What I want is that we should have time at least to know what the public outside this House, our electorate, officials and non-officials, trade unions, and experts have to say in the matter. We, or at least majority of us are laymen in this respect and we want to know the pros and cons of the whole question. Let this matter which involves very grave issues of economic and financial importance be thoroughly sifted and after very careful consideration and due deliberation we should proceed to consider this measure clause by clause. After all it is not a resolution which deals with one matter alone, it is a Bill consisting of 47 clauses in no less than 6 chapters. Each clause, it is unnecessary to say is a subject in itself which should be studied. I at least, for one, want that more light should be thrown on the subject by people outside this chamber as well as by people in this chamber because there is no chance of debarring any individual from expressing his opinion when the Bill is circulated for eliciting opinion thereon (hear, hear). Moreover, we must keep in mind the well-known maxim that "haste makes waste."

We are not in a hurry and we have seen that this has been the practice of this House that we always take the public opinion on a Bill into consideration. There is no reason why we should depart from this wholesome practice so far as this Bill is concerned. After all its life is not going to expire like the Criminal Law Amendment Bill by the 1st of December 1935 that we should be in a hurry to do whatever we want at once. This is a new measure and a new subject as far as our province is concerned. Of course as a layman I should say that there is need for such a measure, but unless further light is thrown on the subject by people, in the press and on the pulpit, we need not proceed with it. Another thing which I want to press in this connection is, as I have already referred, that there are 6 chapters and going into detail to this extent only I find that chapter II deals with the constitution and the powers and functions of the Board of Industries to be established under the Bill. That itself is such a vast subject that it requires at least elucidation from people who know it very well. The next chapter is about the various forms of aid to be rendered and it comprises of no less than 10 or 15 sections and requires elucidation. The third chapter relates to the forms of loans and the method of recovery. That is very important. In other legislation we are daily trying that there should be recovery by methods which are more up to date and more civilized than the methods already prevailing. In this there is a provision, I do not propose to go into details that these monies will be recovered like arrears of land revenue and no regular suit will be filed in any civil court for the recovery. Section 23 is very clear and lays down that a mere declaration on the part of the Board of Industries is sufficient for the recovery of the amount which will be enforced as a decree in execution proceedings. That is what we will have to consider whether this method should or should not be allowed. It is not a question of a single clause but a question of principle on which we should have more time to consider. The next chapter relates to supply of machinery on hire-purchase system. Of course about that we as equipped at present know nothing. The last chapter is the supplementary chapter regulating procedure and the formation of rules. Of course that does not require at present very much to be said. I do not think that I should take longer at this stage than the Honourable Minister who introduced the Bill. I have laid out my case sufficiently that without having recourse to any dilatory tactics, there would be no harm if we elicit opinion from outside experts on the Bill. I do not say that the Honourable Minister is in any way guilty of not introducing the Bill earlier but if he has not been able to introduce it earlier, we should not devour the next stage for the simple reason that the Bill is already over due. If it had been introduced earlier we would have gone to the next stage earlier and we would have been in a position to consider it clause by clause on the 4th of November or in this very session. I therefore propose my amendment.

Mr. President : Motion under consideration, amendment moved is—

That the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill be circulated for eliciting public opinion thereon by the 15th of December 1935.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural) : I rise to support the motion moved by my honourable friend from Gujranwala. The Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government in introducing this Bill has given only brief reasons for introducing this measure. In the first place, he says, the necessity for such a measure is great and there is no question about it. But that does not mean that we should hurry it up so much that we should not even pass through its proper stages. After all the persuasion and pressure which had been brought on him during the last budget session, the Honourable Minister has awakened from his long sleep and now when he has awakened, he is rushing it through the Council without going through all the stages through which the measure must pass. It is just like a man who did not marry up to the age of 80 and then he suddenly realized that he must marry and did so in haste only to regret afterwards. Why has the Honourable Minister been sleeping for so many years without doing anything at all? The Honourable Minister has been in charge of the department dealing with industries for five long years, but he never proposed such a legislation all this time. Now he wants to remove the stigma of remaining unmindful of this thing for so long by hastening this Bill through the Council. Among the other reasons which my honourable friend stated there is one very important reason on account of which it should be sent to public for expressing opinion. I can say without the least fear of contradiction that there is hardly any industrial expert in this Council. When a measure of such great importance is to be passed, the opinion of our industrial experts, at least, should be there to guide us. I think most of the honourable members are aware that when Lala Harkishen Lal's bank was failing, not the present bank but the old bank, one honourable member of this Council said that the Government itself had devised means by which this bank failed (Mr. Manohar Lal: No). The honourable member does not remember. I can name the member who said this. Now in this Bill section 25 is a section which instead of helping the industries, would throttle them, and when the industries fail the board will proceed to recover monies by attachment and sale and everything else. I have not seen such a provision as contained in section 25 in any other legislation. Merely the declaration of the board would be sufficient to show that the amount is due and the court shall proceed to pass a decree in accordance with this. I have never seen such a provision by which you can tie the hands of the courts. The court may have certain reasons for not carrying out the wishes of the board; why should it be ordered to pass a decree and why should there be such an obligation on it to pass a decree willy nilly when it is not convinced whether something is due or not and whether Government has committed any fault or not and whether the board has not been faulty in coming to the decision? The court is supposed to take nothing of that sort into consideration but has only to pass a decree. It has no alternative, it has no right to exercise its own independent judgment. Such a provision is being put into the Bill without public opinion being permitted to express itself. Let us see what the public has to say about this. I have not seen such a provision even in the Criminal Law Amendment Bill. There are certain provisions in this Bill which are drastic, but this provision knows no restrictions and if you were to examine the various other provisions you will find how objectionable they are. For these reasons it is very necessary to consult public opinion on this measure.

Again in constituting the boards there are certain qualifications laid down for choosing members of the board and various bodies are specified from which they can be chosen.

3 P.M. I doubt very much whether there is anything in the provisions of the Bill in this behalf in relation to the vexed question of communalism which is exercising the minds of the public now. Whether we would like it or not it has come to be part of all enactments and I think in future any proposal of the Government must provide for a certain number from each of the communities inhabiting this province. When the communal element has been introduced in all Government measures there is no reason why it should not find acceptance here. Let us see what the public has to say on this aspect of the measure. Let us ascertain whether the Hindus, Muslims and the Sikhs would like that their representatives should be on the board or whether they would allow the board to consist of one community alone. This is a question on which the public are the best judges. There is also another aspect of the matter. If we introduce this measure just now without inviting the opinion of the public and it fails in actual working, the public would be quite right in blaming the whole Council for passing such a defective law. If, on the other hand, public opinion is ascertained in favour of the Bill and we try to enact it or even reject the measure we shall be saved from the criticism of the public.

Thus for all conceivable reasons the Bill must go for the opinion of the public. Without the help of public opinion the measure will not succeed. Nor has the Honourable Minister made out any point in suggesting that such a contentious measure should be allowed to pass through this House without the public being made aware of its provisions at this stage.

With these words I wholeheartedly support the motion for circulation of the Bill in order to elicit public opinion thereon.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh (Sikh, Urban): I am glad that the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government at the fag-end of his term of office—I mean his present term—has brought forward a measure which is bound to command universal support. I was rather surprised to hear from the Labour Member (Mr. M. A. Ghani) that although he is in favour of industrial development he would like the Government to run all industrial concerns. It is common knowledge that no country in the world except Soviet Russia has so far tried this experiment on a gigantic scale. We have yet to see in this country a movement for the nationalisation of land, nationalisation of industry and nationalisation of many other things which I need not name. If we take into consideration the example of those countries which are leading the world in industrial progress, we find that although the Governments in those countries had to initiate industrial enterprises they have had at one stage or another to give up themselves running the show and to hand over those enterprises to private persons or private companies. Take the case of Japan. Prior to 1869 that country could not foster its industry by means of protective tariff on account of special treaties and it was forced to adopt other measures. Since 1869 Japan started industrial enterprises on a large scale. I would read one or two quotations from a very interesting book on the economic position of Japan. It is stated that the Japanese Government on account of the reason that it could not raise tariff walls was forced to find other ways of rendering aid to industries. Many industries were established by the Government with the idea of providing only an example for private enterprise. At one time or another the Government has built and operated porcelain works, silk spinning mills, cotton spinning mills, weaving mills, linen factory, cement factory, plants for making soap, type foundry, food factories, dye-stuff making, iron and steel plants. There are few modern industries in Japan to-day that do not owe their existence to Government initiative. In most cases, the Government has endeavoured to withdraw, I am quoting from the book which I referred to a short while ago "from the industries as soon as possible and to turn them over to private companies, but in some cases it has been impossible and the Government has continued to participate as an active partner." That shows that although the Government in that country did come forward to start industrial enterprises by establishing factories in the beginning it withdrew as soon as it could find suitable companies to take over those industrial enterprises. And I think that that has been a step in the right direction. That shows how Japan has built up her industries in such a short period. My friend, the honourable member representing Labour (Mr. Ghani), is opposed to industrial development on those lines on account of his socialistic or communistic ideas. But as I have said we have still to wait some time, perhaps a very long time, before socialism or communism will come into operation in this country.

It has been said that we should not proceed in this matter in a hurry. I think that if there is one matter over which there has been criminal delay in bringing a measure on the Statute Book it has been this measure. And still some honourable members say that we should proceed with caution and that we should still go on dilating. If there are any defects in this Bill, those defects can very well be rectified in the select committee. The Honourable Minister does not wish that the Bill be taken into consideration at once but the motion before the House is that it be referred to a select committee. Any defects in the Bill—I do find that there are many of them—can very well be remedied by amendments made in the committee stage. To prolong this measure or to delay it for that reason would be fatal to the industrial development of this country. So far the Government I must say has been doing precious little in the promotion of industries. A paltry sum of Rs. 81,000 only has been advanced as loan—or as my honourable friend says, wasted—to struggling industrialists who want help from the Government. What can a sum of Rs. 81,000 per annum do in the way of promotion of industries? If I am not taking up much of the time of the House I would quote from the book to which I have already referred and which gives an idea of some of the lines on which Japan has developed her industries. In one year Japan has given subsidy to the extent of Rs. 2 crores for industrial development. In one case, in the case of dye-stuff industry, the Japanese Government guaranteed a return of 8 per cent. and for many years they had to guarantee that. When the industry could stand on its own footing the aid was withdrawn. I think on similar lines the Bill before us also provides for the giving of aid. The Bill lays down that a certain percentage of profit will be guaranteed and loans will be advanced to bona fide industries. I do not say that the passing of this Bill will bring in a new era. My friend (Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq) is very hopeful that it will inaugurate a new era. Though it may not go so far as that, it would at any rate have still done something in that direction if it were placed on the Statute Book. The dawning of a new era in its wake will depend upon the spirit with which the Government will operate the Act when it comes into force. By passing this Bill we cannot say with any precision how much money Government will be able to find to finance various industries by way of loans or by way of subsidies. But if the Government is actuated by the same spirit with which the Honourable Minister has brought this Bill forward I am sure that a good deal would be done in the cause of industry. With these few words I support the substantive motion.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban): I am surprised that such a Bill as the one before us should have met with the opposition of my honourable friend who is sitting with me on this bench. (Mr. M. A. Ghani). If he was a labourite he should have, on the contrary, welcomed the opening of new factories in the province which would give employment to more persons, which would bring more money into the pockets of the labourers of this province. Instead of that he is waiting for a Utopia to come within, ten, twenty or thirty years, or who knows when! What my honourable friend should do is to have this Act passed and then bring in a new amending Bill protecting the rights of the labourers which the House would certainly consider with favour. After all the labourers are our own brothers and sisters, they are residents of this province. Who will refuse them their rights? Instead of helping the enactment of this measure which I think is one of the most important Bills that have ever been introduced in this House—I think in fact one of the first Bills for running our industries on the lines on which they are run in European countries, in America and in Japan—instead of helping the House by his criticism, by his suggestions to improve the provisions of the Bill, he has tried to oppose this Bill and chosen to ask us to wait till some new ideas come into the country. If socialism will come three hundred or five hundred years hence, I do not know whether my honourable friend would ask us to wait till that time. If my honourable friend had read the Bill—of course not a cursory study but a detailed examination item by item—he would have found, that the Bill is really very important. I do not agree with my honourable friend, Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh when he says that this Bill if enacted would not bring in a new era. I think it will. Because, for the first time in India a new principle has been enunciated, the principle that Government is not only going to subsidise, not only going to give loans or lend machinery to rising industries but that Government is going to guarantee interest. And that is very important. Government has not to spend a penny of its own money. People have to bring out the money now lying with the banks and utilise it for industry. Instead of buying goods from Japan, produce and buy them in your own country. Instead of importing goods from Germany, instead of giving work to the Japanese, the English or the French it will give work to your own people. Why should the Bill be opposed?

Then the honourable member representing labour talked of capitalist blood suckers. He himself is a big blood sucker. He himself is a capitalist, he himself is a share-holder of a bank holding shares worth six or seven thousands of rupees. He may be a minor money sucker, but the fact remains that he is no more a labourite than others whom he attacks. He is a big capitalist himself.

Mr. President : I request the honourable member not to be personal.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : He has called you a blood sucker (laughter). It is a very strong term. You are a capitalist yourself, you are a landlord, you are a director of banks. So the term blood sucker applies to you. But I will not dilate upon my friend's remarks because though we may sometimes differ we are always friends here.

Now look at some of the provisions of the Bill. I agree that it depends upon the intention of Government. If the intention of Government is good, it is all right. But I do not care for the present Government, for now it is finished. It will soon die. If the future Government does not rise to the occasion, if it does not help its industries, it cannot say that the British did not do so. We should be thankful that even at this last stage it has shown the willingness to push this Bill which I have been urging for the last six years. My friend the Minister has been sleeping for six years and I take pride in having awakened him, because it is I who coaxed him now and then and had the papers taken out of some musty room of his. Some of the provisions in the Bill I proposed some six years back. One was that no subsidies should be given but loans on interest should be advanced, and I take pride in the fact that there are sections incorporating that provision in the Bill. We want industries very badly. We do not want just a few industrialists to become rich. We want employment for our young men in this country. That is more important. We are not giving money to any one free of interest. We are going to borrow at  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. and lend it at  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. Why should the Japanese and the Austrians get rich at our expense? It is better that our own countrymen should get all this money. It is true that some of the provisions are somewhat drastic and no doubt they will require full consideration. I urge the Minister for Local Self-Government that instead of having this Bill passed in the middle of the session, he should come up with it at the end of the session, so that from to-day to the 21st of November or so there will be enough time for receiving objections to the Bill. Of course if you bring it forward on the 4th or 5th November there will be no time for receiving public criticism.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Yes, the Bill will come up towards the end of the session.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : The Honourable Minister should send copies of the Bill to all Chambers of Commerce, all presses, all banks, all important factories and other places and also to labour organisations. We should introduce in it amendments which will help labour. Where money is lent Government must see to it that the rights of labour are guarded. Government should grant loans only to those who will give decent wages to labourers, who will give decent houses to their labourers and I should say decent food and clothing. Our aim and object is to increase the wealth of this country, not the wealth of a few capitalists. We should develop our industries in the country and we should make imports and exports.

equal. We are importing everything from the rest of the world but exporting hardly anything. Unless we are going to stop this export of wealth unless we have more industries like Germany, I can assure you the position of the Punjab will be like that of the poorest country in the world. The only way is to promote industries. We import goods worth lakhs—cloth, iron goods, electric goods, in fact everything, but what do we export?—not a bag of wheat, not a sack of cotton—may be to a certain extent but not to the extent to which we import goods from outside. If we buy more than we sell, the fault will be our own. The object of the Bill is to encourage and to help industries which are backward, by giving loans and by giving machinery. I assure my friend the representative of labour that the interests of labour will be dear to us. If he brings in any amendment, not one member will protest, not one member in the House will be backward in helping him to better the conditions of the labouring classes. Unless labour is happy there cannot be any happiness in the country. I see even graduates polishing shoes, I see matrices cleaning utensils. Thousands of them are having to live as parasites on their parents. What will be the result of this unemployment? There will be a revolution in the country, but I hope that with this Bill passed into an Act that revolution will be an industrial revolution. It will give work to hundreds and thousands of the unemployed and with that I sincerely hope that the prosperity of the province will grow. For these reasons I heartily support the principle of the Bill and I request the Leader of the House and Chaudhri Riasat Ali not to throw it to the budget session but to postpone it for one month so that in the meantime we will have time enough to consider all the details.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram (South-East Rohtak, non-Muhammadian, Rural): I support the motion that has been brought forward by Chaudhri Riasat Ali, but in supporting that motion I desire to make it clear not only on behalf of myself but on behalf of the mover of that motion and on behalf of the Unionist Party as well, that there is no intention whatever to delay this Bill unnecessarily. The whole Unionist Party has deep and genuine sympathy with the object of the Bill. We desire that a well-considered Bill should be passed by this Council and placed on the statute book, and everything should be done to promote industrial growth in the province because all of us realise quite clearly that unless there is industrial growth in the province no section of the population can prosper in the true sense or to the fullest possible measure. Industrial growth is absolutely essential for the prosperity of industrial classes, labouring classes and agricultural classes. In supporting the motion I desire to assure the Honourable Minister in charge of the Bill of our good will and request that he should not misunderstand us in any way.

The reasons which have led us to put forward this motion are that although everyone in this House desires that some law should be enacted for promoting industrial growth in this province, it does not follow from that desire that this specific Bill or the specific proposals contained in this Bill are the ones which are best calculated to promote industrial growth in the province. The usual practice is to elicit public opinion on every important measure. I believe that the Honourable Minister considers this Bill an important measure. I do not think he has taken any steps so far to consult public opinion in the province. Have industrial interests been consulted, have agricultural interests been consulted, have any commercial interests been consulted, have any banking institutions been consulted? So far as I am aware no attempt has been made to elicit general public opinion or the opinion of people who are best qualified to express an opinion on the specific proposals which are contained in this Bill. Even the Entertainments Duty Bill is proposed to be circulated in order that public opinion may be ascertained. Why should this particular Bill alone be the one on which the ascertainment of public opinion is not thought necessary or desirable? I have not been able to understand the reasons why the Minister is keen to have this Bill passed during this very session. I can assure the Honourable Minister that the Unionist Party has absolutely no desire to delay this Bill unnecessarily, and we will be quite prepared to discuss this Bill in the budget session and have it passed during the budget session. Whatever form the Bill may ultimately take he may rest assured that we will not resort to any delaying tactics in order to postpone the passage of this Bill—beyond that session. The Minister and the general public will have four or five months to give full consideration to the various provisions contained in the Bill and I think he will have a body of opinion before himself on the basis of which he can ask the House to pass the Bill in the form which has been favoured by the general public opinion.

There are several very important points which require careful consideration. I am not an industrialist and I am not acquainted with the methods which are best calculated to promote industries. But in a general way I can offer criticism on certain proposals in this Bill. For instance, the personnel of the Board of Industries is a very important question. What interests should be represented on this Board, in what proportion those particular interests should be represented on this Board, these are both very important questions. The actual proposals which are contained on this particular matter in the Bill seem to me to cover only one or two interests. Out of 12 members I think there are only three members who will be elected by this House. There is no proposal to represent agricultural interests as such on this board. It is possible that there may be other interests also which have been ignored. What strikes me so far as the personnel proposed is concerned is the fact that some interests are over-represented while at least there is one interest, the agricultural interest, which has been entirely ignored.

Another question which is of even greater importance, is, what types of industries should be aided. The Bill as it stands gives a list of the types of industries which will be entitled to state aid. Whether those are the only types of industries which should receive aid, whether all the types mentioned in that clause are to receive aid, these are again questions which must engage the serious attention not only of this House but also of the general public. Whether cottage industries alone should receive aid, whether large scale industries alone which require very expensive machinery should be aided, or whether both these types of industries should receive aid, these are indeed important issues.

Another question which suggests itself to me is whether the object of the Bill should be to make the Punjab self-sufficient, to supply all the needs of the Punjab population with the production of the factories which may in course of time grow up here, whether the types of industries selected for state aid should be those which should be in a position to consume all the raw materials which are produced in the province or whether they should be of a type which should not be related in any way to the raw products of the province. Another very important question which arises is whether an attempt should or should not be made to inter-connect the industries which are aided by the state with agriculture, whether they should not be allied with the chief industry of this country and the most important industry of our own province.

Next come the forms of aid which raise very important issues, whether the forms of aid which have been proposed in this Bill are the best forms in which state aid can come to the aid of industries, whether they are sufficiently liberal, whether they cannot be further liberalised, whether they are too liberal, whether there is any particular form of aid which should not be given. Here, again, I am under a serious handicap because I am not an industrialist and I am not in a position to say anything dogmatically that this particular form of aid is more important or that form of aid is less important or that one form of aid is undesirable or that the other form is desirable. But it is a very important question which requires the serious consideration of those who are in the best position to consider and offer competent opinion on the question.

I have no desire to take up the time of this House unnecessarily. To me these three questions seem to raise very important issues on which it is only right that the province as a whole and all the interests concerned should be consulted. After all, there is no particular hurry about this Bill. If we have waited for so many years we can certainly afford to wait for another six months. Suppose this Bill is passed even during the present session. What will the province, this country, or the Minister in charge gain? Beyond the fact that this Bill will be placed on the statute book, it does not help. Have you got the money? So far as I have been able to judge, the budget of the last year was not a particularly prosperous budget, and I do not think the next budget is going to be such a particularly prosperous budget as to leave a huge surplus at the disposal of the Government to be spent on the growth of industries. And if fortune enables the Government to have a very large surplus, then the Minister can come up at any time with a well-considered scheme of aid to industries and I am sure this Council will not be reluctant to lend such support as is deserved by the proposals put forward by the Honourable Minister. On the basis of these facts I suggest that the Minister should not make any hurry. He should give time to the province to give full consideration to the proposals contained in this Bill. When this consideration has been given it will be time for the Honourable Minister to proceed further with the Bill during the next budget session and get it passed. I know that if he makes it a point of honour he can carry his motion, but there is a proverb that if we act in haste we may have to repent when we have more leisure to consider the consequences of what we have done. In the hurry we may possibly make mistakes which it may be difficult to rectify later on. So, I lend my whole-hearted support to the motion which has been put forward by Chaudhri Riasat Ali in the hope that the Honourable Minister will consider the advisability of postponing the actual consideration and passing of the Bill to the next budget session.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : I was greatly surprised when I came to the House to see a debate on this motion. I was thinking that the motion placed before the House by the Honourable Minister would be passed without any debate. Unfortunately, a debate has been raised on a dilatory motion in spite of the assurance held out by the Leader of the Unionist Party that the effect of this motion, whatever may be the intention or motive of it, would be to retard the passage of this Bill, with the result that the benefit to this province by this Bill would be delayed for a good long time.

One of the arguments advanced by the honourable member who has just sat down is that public opinion has not been given time enough to express itself. Unfortunately that is not true. The Bill has been before the public for a sufficiently long time and I can speak, after having attended various meetings, that the country wants that a legislation of this kind should be pushed through at once. Evidently the honourable Leader of the opposition has forgotten that only in the last budget session about six out motions were placed before the House regarding the industrial development and suggestions were given with regard to the improvement of industries by almost all sections of the House. I took it, though I am not very certain, that it was an indication of the will of the House which has made the Honourable Minister bring forward this measure. Not only were there suggestions with regard to four or five points raised by the honourable Leader of the opposition which I shall examine presently, but suggestions on a much wider scale than the question raised by him with regard to this measure were made on the floor of this House. Therefore my submission is this that both inside and outside this Council Chamber we have got a very strong and definite volume of public opinion that something must be done by the state to help industries. (Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : I never disputed that fact. My point was that public opinion has not been expressed with regard to the specific provisions in the Bill). I will come to that presently. The demand by the people for legislation for state aid has been there for a good many years and it was very strongly expressed at the last budget session. Therefore, the Bill, I submit, should not be retarded by a motion such as the one which has been moved by the honourable member opposite.

Coming to the arguments of the Leader of the opposition, he has propounded certain questions. I do not know by whom they are intended to be answered. For example in the first instance, he has raised the question, what representation there should be on the board which is to be constituted under the Act. This question can be easily tackled in the select committee. Whether the Legislative Council should have three, four or five members on the Board is not a matter on which we need invite the public to give its opinion. It is a matter for experts and especially for us members of this Council to go into and decide and that can easily be done in the select committee. Therefore, this reason advanced for the circulation of the Bill is entirely groundless. Public opinion outside this Council cannot possibly be given or any direction given so far as this question of representation of the Legislative Council on this board is concerned. It is the select committee which shall be elected by this House or rather approved by this Council which is in the best position to give a lead to the people on this point.

The honourable member then wanted that public opinion should express itself as to what type of industry should be aided by the state. Unfortunately, the honourable member has not looked at clause 18 of the Bill which is quite comprehensive. It says—

“State aid may be given to—

(a) a new nascent industry;”

New or nascent industry has been defined very clearly by the new Government of India Act—

“(b) an industry to be newly established in an area where such industries are undeveloped;

(c) a cottage industry; or

(d) an industry which needs revival or development by modern methods.”

The Bill, I submit, is comprehensive so far as the question of industries goes. There are some people who hold that cottage industry cannot possibly compete in modern times with industries which are on a large scale outside this province or even in foreign countries. This will be an aid to the settlement of the question of providing bread for people with small means and therefore it is very good to see that cottage industry has been mentioned. After all the boards or the people that are to be represented on these boards will be alive to the needs of the province and I submit for the consideration of the Unionist Party that we have got such a large and comprehensive programme and when this programme is worked out by a particular machinery where the members of the public will be fully represented it will be open to them to give aid to those industries which require aid. Therefore, there is nothing new in the question propounded by Chaudhri Sahib in his speech. He then asked,—I do not know, whether seriously or humourously—whether the Punjab should be made self-sufficient. I do not know what he meant. Did he mean to say that Punjab was to be an independent state having no connection with other provinces? If that was so, that has been fully decided by the Constitution Act. Punjab is going to be one of the several provinces of India. It is not going to be a province standing by itself not taking anything, manufactured or otherwise, from other provinces. This is a question which would not arise and the honourable member should not have raised this question. It has been decided by the new Government of India Act. We have to see that India forms one united whole. If the Punjab is rich in certain things it must produce those things for the benefit of other provinces. If there are other provinces which can produce things for the whole of India, there is no reason why Punjab should levy taxes on them and should exclude those things from the Punjab. This is beyond the scope of public opinion or this Legislative Council or even the Legislative Assembly, the question having been clearly decided and defined by the new Government of India Act which has now received the seal of sanction of all authorities concerned. Another question mentioned by the honourable member is, “what connection is there between this and agriculture?” There is always a connection between agriculture and industry. Agriculture produces certain things and the factory or machinery owners convert them into various kinds of finished goods. Unfortunately there are people who would see no connection between industry and agriculture. But the laws of nature are too strong for them and I submit it is not a question on which public opinion can be elicited or can be a guide. The last argument of my friend is, why this desperate hurry. We are in a hurry because we have been sleeping over this thing for a long time and we cannot afford to waste further time. There is war going on now and perhaps many industries and many industrial products may be needed and we must take full advantage of the opportunity which has now come. Therefore there must be even desperate hurry to create industries and take advantage of the opportunity which is afforded.

Another point which the honourable member urged was, what is the use of hurry when we cannot make any provision in the next budget? This is no argument which can be seriously advanced. If the Unionist benches and other benches are unanimous and force the Government to make certain provision for the growth of industry, it shall be done. Otherwise all talk of putting the industrial programme into operation is useless. So this argument of there being a deficit or there being a surplus does not appeal to me at all. But to my way of thinking if there are industries in the province they will really go to help the budget of the province. There would be more income and more money to spend and he is an unwise man who will not spend Rs. 5,000 in order to earn Rs. 50,000. Therefore, this argument absolutely holds no water and I therefore would submit to this House and especially to my friend, Chaudhri Riasat Ali who has moved this motion, that they should not retard the progress of this Bill. I am aware myself and I am perfectly willing to concede that in one or two places the Bill requires modification. But I submit that such arguments as are put forward in favour of the motion have no force.

Sardar Arjan Singh (Hoshiarpur and Kangra, Sikh, Rural): I think this question has been discussed at great length. I, therefore, do not propose to make any lengthy speech at this stage. But if my memory serves me right I believe this was the only subject that took up no less than three days of the time of the Council at the budget session, and perhaps this was the only topic for which the Government were charged with indifference, with apathy, with unsympathetic attitude and what not. It was pointed out that in most countries including Japan, England, Russia, the State has been coming forward to assist the development of industries and it is only the development of industries which can make any country prosperous. It was, I believe, pointed out, that having regard to the economic depression which we have had for the last six or seven years and also having regard to the credit of the tax-payer of the province and also having regard to the huge expenditure to be incurred over the administration of this province, the only panacea for all these ills was the development of industries. Not only that, the Government were charged a great deal more. It was pointed out that the Government had then not come forward to help the people of this province at that juncture. Therefore, I think that we should congratulate the Government on the response they have shown to public feeling as expressed by the elected representatives in this House by coming forward with this legislation and we should not try to adopt any dilatory tactics at this stage. I myself am not very optimistic regarding certain provisions of the Bill and I am myself not very hopeful regarding the operation of the Act and I am one of those who think that this legislation perhaps might help the capitalists.

a good deal more than the labourer or the agricultural interest, but that is absolutely no reason for deferring a discussion on this legislation. I think that all the points raised by Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram have been answered in detail. But there is one point to which I would like to refer. That is the point which he took up last. He said we have had the budget and passed it and we are not hopeful that we may have a surplus budget. I think with the great experience that he has of the budget of this province or any other province he should have remembered that after all money is not to come from the budgets. If the state is serious, if it is in right earnest and if we call upon the state to help the industries of the province, then perhaps some step will be taken and that is the only way in which provision can be made for such an enterprise which we are undertaking. The Government have undertaken to provide some guarantee for the return on the capital. That is a big step and we should not try to delay this legislation. Some honourable member objected to the provision that the loans have to be realised or recovered as arrears of land revenue. I think this is what may be called blowing hot and cold in the same breath. On the one hand we want that the money of the tax-payer should be safeguarded and should not be squandered and on the other we want to help the people. Therefore Government should provide some such measures. I, therefore, support the motion for referring this legislation at once to the select committee.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I am glad that although no debate was necessary some members have had their say on my motion. I do not want to make any speech, but I may just say a few words on the amendment moved by Chaudhri Riasat Ali. I hope he is not very serious in moving this motion and that he is not going to press, as I believe the object he had in view has been quite served and the other side of the picture has been placed before the House and the views which he wanted to express on the motion that I moved have already been expressed. The various points raised by the Leader of the Opposition may be noted just in a passing manner. He has been, I think, very satisfactorily dealt with by the Honourable representative from Hoshiarpur, Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit. But there is one thing said by him in connection with the budget about which I may say a word. The most important provision in the Bill is not the giving of loans, on which much emphasis was laid by the labour member. But what I consider to be the most important point in the Bill and but for which I would not have placed this Bill before the House is the provision relating to the guaranteeing of a certain return on the capital invested in an industry. I assure you and I assure all the members of Government that when this provision is passed into law it is very likely that expenditure of not even a penny will have to be incurred by Government and yet immense amount of good will be done to the province in the form of encouragement of industries. You have only to satisfy people that if they invest capital their capital would not be wasted and that they might rest assured that until the industry in which they invested their capital is able to stand on its own legs, they will get a fair return on their capital. They will come forward and will be prepared to take the risk and the money which in some cases now lies buried either in banks or underground will become available for the industrial development of the province.

[Hon. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang.]

simply by this inducement. I assure you that the people who take up industry cannot be presumed to be fools and cannot even be expected to launch an industry which is likely to bring them not more than 3 or 4 per cent. beyond which the Government is not likely to guarantee a return on the capital. It can be taken almost for granted that any industry which is launched by people who understand their business will not fetch to the shareholders and the investors less than 3 or 4 or 5 per cent. so that no necessity whatsoever might arise for the Government to spend a penny of its own money. Therefore no question of the budget would arise at all. And if it is a matter of loans, the Chaudhri Sahib must be aware that there is an Industrial Loans Act already in force under which Government can give loans and has been giving loans so that there is absolutely nothing new so far as giving of loans is concerned. The only important new thing is the guaranteeing of returns and as I have said, it may not be necessary at all even in one case out of a hundred for the Government to spend any money and yet be able to afford to the growth of industry all the necessary encouragement. Besides this I really do not see any necessity of dealing with the provisions of this Bill because there is nothing new in it. Already there are four similar Acts in existence in this country. There is a similar Act in Bengal, there is one in the Central Provinces, there is one in Madras and there is one in Bihar and Orissa and I assure the honourable members that in framing this Bill these Acts were always before the Government. This Bill has been framed on the lines of these Bills particularly the Bihar and Orissa Act. So that it is not that we have trotted out something new about which we know nothing or about which nothing is known to the honourable members of this House who can be presumed to be gifted with at least average intelligence and many of whom certainly possess more than average intelligence. There is nothing in this Bill which they cannot be presumed to understand or on which they cannot advise especially when they have before them the various other Acts. The various points which have been raised will certainly be considered, as has been very ably pointed out by Mr. Pandit, in the select committee and I assure Mr. Sadiq though he is not present that informally we shall take such expert advice as is available in this province. The Bill has been before the public since the 7th of September and it is not that it has not been noticed. It is an important measure, it has been recognized as an important measure and many important newspapers in the province have already commented upon it. Some have commented more than once on this Bill and they have all been pleased that a measure of this kind has been brought forward and I assure you, unless I have missed anything, no paper has been able to suggest anything of any importance which is not already contained in this Bill. Therefore I venture to submit that no useful object will be gained by delaying the reference of this Bill to a select committee and I trust that the mover of the dilatory motion will not press his motion.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : My amendment has been discussed more as a substantive motion and therefore I think I can be allowed to reply to the debate.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I move that the question be now put.

Mr. President : Will the honourable member please refer to the proviso to sub-clause (8) of clause 64

" Provided that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to give any right of reply on an amendment, except in the case of amendments proposed to Bills under Article 90 and in the case of motions relating to supplies made under Article 134."

As the honourable member's amendment does not fall under Article 90 he has no right of reply. The question is—

That the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting public opinion thereon by the 15th of December, 1935.

The motion was lost.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab State Aid to Industries Bill be referred to a select committee.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the select committee should consist of the following members:

The Legal Remembrancer;
 Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath;
 Professor W. Roberts;
 Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq;
 Mr. Labh Singh;
 Sardar Arjan Singh;
 Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand, Mehra;
 Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri;
 Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh;
 Khwaja Muhammad Eusoof;
 Chaudhri Asadullah Khan;
 Khan Bahadur Captain Malik Muzaffar Khan;
 Honourable President's Nominee;
 Mr. F. C. Bourne; and
 The Mover.

Mr. President : The next question is—

That the quorum of the select committee should be five—

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the select committee be directed to submit its report by the 4th of November, 1935.

The motion was carried.

THE PUNJAB ENTERTAINMENTS DUTY BILL.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I beg to introduce the Punjab Entertainments Duty Bill.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I beg to move—

That the Punjab Entertainments Duty Bill be circulated for the purposes of eliciting public opinion thereon.

This Bill is a purely fiscal measure which will be administered in the Excise Department of the Punjab. About the Bill itself I need say very little indeed because it is almost an exact replica of an Act which has been in existence in Bombay for a considerable time. There are two provinces in India which have taxed entertainments, Bombay and Bengal. Bengal adds to its entertainment duty a tax on betting which does not exist in Bombay and which we do not propose to introduce for the present at any rate. The entertainments duty was recommended first by the Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee, and the Provincial Sources of Revenue Committee which was appointed in 1931 recommended that the Punjab also should adopt this plan for raising money. That we need it, I think, there can be no doubt. As, perhaps, members will remember, I budgetted for a surplus of round about half a lakh only in the current year, and while the results of last year are probably better than I expected at the time of the budget speech, the results of the present year up to date are anything but favourable. Up to the end of August we were 27 lakhs down. Fortunately, for this year we estimated our income below the income of the previous year and we estimated our expenditure above it. That may help a little. It is also true that last year also at about the same time we were considerably below the income of the previous year, but I have very strong grounds for hoping that we may make up a certain part of lee-way later on in the year. Unless kharif revenue and kharif abiana are exceptionally favourable, we are likely to be down considerably at the end of the year and there cannot be any doubt that we need every rupee that we can get. It is also unfair that so much of the burden of taxation should fall upon the land-owning classes in this province. This Bill is an attempt to enlarge the sphere of taxation, to broaden its basis which is always a sound process because if you depend too much on one source of revenue, that source may fail you badly in any particular year and knock out your budget so that it may be difficult for the time being to carry on without hasty and very unpleasant adjustments.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

As for the Bill itself, we have followed the Bombay Bill very closely. The rates of duty which it is proposed to levy are exactly the same as in the case of Bombay. The method of levy will be by stamps, mainly, at any rate, by stamps affixed or embossed upon tickets sold for admission to entertainments. The usual exemptions of charitable and educational entertainments will be made and generally I think the Bill will be found to be a very simple one, easily administered and costing very little to administer. The Financial Commissioners forecasted that the cost of administration will be about Rs. 14,000. At the same time the income was estimated at Rs. 2 lakhs. Two lakhs is not much to get out of it and I sincerely hope that we shall find that the estimated income has been considerably under-estimated. In Bengal the entertainments tax brings in Rs. 4,11,000 and in Bombay it brings in Rs. 8,60,000. In each case the expenditure upon administration of the tax is very light. In Bengal it is only Rs. 5,000 and in Bombay it is only Rs. 20,000. The tax, even if its returns are slight, seems to be well worth putting on and I would like to see it enforced as soon as possible. At the same time we must remember that it is a tax upon caterers for public entertainment, and their numbers are not very great. I am also told that they are not in a very flourishing condition so that it is only fair to give them a chance of making representations with regard to rates of taxation and with regard to the whole principles of the Bill. It is only fair that they should be heard upon the subject. For this reason we do not propose to rush the Bill and I only move that the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab Entertainment Duty Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon.

The motion was carried.

THE PUNJAB CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member) : I beg to introduce the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Bill and to move—

That the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Bill be taken into consideration at once.

This Bill is intended to continue the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act which was passed into law in November 1932 after a long debate in which all the arguments for and against were fully discussed. This lightens my task and I think that all that I need do is to show that the present circumstances demand the continuance of this measure just as the circumstances of 1932 made its enactment imperative.

To begin with I should say that the Bill is exactly the same as the existing Act except of course with regard to the period. The present Act was enacted for three years which will expire on the 30th November of the current year. And it is proposed that the new Bill should come into force with effect from the 1st December, and one clause has been added, clause 18, to ensure the continuation of the action of the present Act. Otherwise the Bill before the House is exactly the same as the Act at present in force. When that Act became law the province had just emerged from a struggle with the civil disobedience movement. Members will remember that that movement began in an active form in the beginning of April 1930 and it flourished exceedingly for most of the summer months or all the summer months of that year. The Government fought it naturally with all the forces at its disposal at that time but those forces were proved very clearly by the experience of the time to be insufficient. Government had not sufficient powers and it was only when the various ordinances were brought into force towards the autumn of 1930 that the movement began to wane and about September or October 1930 its defeat became quite certain. What I would like to emphasize at the present moment is that the ordinary powers contained in the Criminal Procedure Code and other criminal legislation were insufficient to fight the civil disobedience movement. Whatever our politics are, whatever our views of that movement may be, we must all of us, if we are honest, admit that civil disobedience means anarchy. The term really spells anarchy and anarchy cannot possibly be allowed to continue. I think it was the leader of the National Unionist Party who correctly described the position during the debate on the Bill which is now the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act. He said :—

“Intellectually I have very deep convictions on the subject. No Government can afford and no Government should allow its laws to be defied. That is the fundamental principle which will have to be observed by all Governments which deserve the name of a Government. It is absolutely impossible to put up with civil disobedience.”

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

Members may say that all that I am saying may be quite true but what has it to do with the present circumstances? It is quite true that the civil disobedience movement is at the moment in abeyance, but who will be bold enough to say that it will never be revived in any form by any party or by any community? It is absolutely impossible to say that. It is a form of opposition or expression of opposition to Government which has been demonstrated in India. It has been tried in India. It has been found to be very embarrassing to Government in this country and there is no reason to suppose that any section of the community which may in future find itself harassed and oppressed, as it thinks, or unfairly treated by the Government of the day, will not resort to this weapon. At the same time it is imperative that the Government of the day should be able to squash any such movement and for that reason alone I think that this Bill is a necessity.

Apart from civil disobedience, in November 1932, the Government was faced by several manifestations of terrorism. Here again it is just possible that members may think that we have got rid of that menace. It is true that terrorism is not very much in evidence in the Punjab at the present moment. But why? I can assure members that one of the reasons is that we have these special powers by which we have been able to keep it in check. I do not ask you merely to take that from me. I think I can demonstrate it quite clearly. As late as May of the present year when the Jubilee celebrations were close upon us, the Government received information that a gang was being formed with the intention of marring those celebrations by terrorist outrages. The information was verified as carefully as it could be verified. At the same time no overt criminal act had been committed. Nothing had brought these conspirators within the ordinary law of the land and if we had not been able to use section 2 of the Act and arrest them for a few days very hastily I have no doubt whatever that the outrages which were being planned would have been committed. The gang would have become consolidated; they would have gained cohesion and learnt to act together and possibly for years to come they would have been a menace to the province. You may say that I am merely guessing when I say that the gang must have committed outrages. I think I am justified in saying that it is not a mere guess because when the leader of the gang was arrested he was found in possession of a revolver and there was good reason to believe that he would have used it. But he was caught just in time. I think this is a clear instance of the value of section 2 of the Act which is now in existence and of the Bill which we hope will become an Act. That is not an isolated instance. Within about a month of the occurrence we heard of another gang. Once again the information was verified and once again we were unable to proceed under the ordinary law because no overt criminal act had been committed. Once again the members of the gang were arrested for a short period, the gang was broken up before it had attained any cohesion and no outrages occurred. There is another use of this Act against terrorists which has proved very useful. As the House is doubtless aware the Punjab from time to time is pestered with the attentions of terrorists from other provinces. Sometimes they think that our own young men who are inclined to that cult have not been sufficiently active and they come to stir them up. Sometimes they come to get recruits to terrorism and sometimes they come to arrange a liaison between this province and other provinces. What we would like of course is that other provinces should consume their own terrorist smoke and if they cannot do that there is no reason why we should not have the power to waft it back and see that terrorists from other provinces do not corrupt our own youth and put a blot upon the fair name of the Punjab by stirring up terrorist outrages within our boundaries. Just the other day within the last two or three days, we have had to serve an order under section 3 on a Bengal terrorist who came on one of those visits to our province. He was known to have access to arms and when he was arrested he was found in possession of them. Therefore it was possible to deal with him under the Arms Act and he has just completed a sentence under that Act. Now we are going to get rid of him by externing him under section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act. I think every member of this House will approve of that action which saves our youth from being tempted to join the cult of terrorism and saves the fair name of the province.

In all these cases I think members who are acquainted with the ordinary law will agree with me that we could do nothing but for the powers provided by sections 2 and 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act.

Members will remember that at a recent debate in another place where a Bill of somewhat similar nature was under discussion, one of the arguments which was used by the opponents of that Bill was that the local provinces could cope with their difficulties by their own local laws. That argument was repeated by various prominent speakers in that other place. They seemed to me to assume that legislation of some kind was necessary and I think we may fairly take that recognition to mean that something like the present Bill is really required in the province. While civil disobedience and terrorism may not be very apparent to the ordinary man in the street at the present time, there are two other evils very definitely in evidence at the present time which cannot be dealt with adequately under the ordinary law. Of these the most serious at the present moment is communalism. I have no desire to enter into details on this subject, because the less said about communal differences the more likely they are to subside—an axiom which I wish to goodness that the press of the province would observe. With the new constitution close upon us it is essential for its good working that communalism should be kept in check until the various communities have had time to realise that they can live together in peace in spite of the apprehensions which they may entertain at present. It unfortunately pays unscrupulous persons to exploit communal tension, to fan the flame of communalism for their private ends, in order to sell their newspapers and for other forms of gain or in order to acquire popularity and the votes which popularity brings. That is one of the reasons why communal agitation lasts so very long and why the province is not allowed peace. You must have some power of controlling the activities of those unscrupulous persons who for their own ends exploit communal tension and the only way I know of controlling their actions is by the use of section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act. It seems to me a very plain proposition that this section is very badly wanted indeed.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

The other evil which makes the necessity of the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act very evident to my mind is the evil of communism. We know that many young men have been trained in Moscow in the ways of communistic propaganda and have recently returned to this country, and to the Punjab in particular, with the object of subverting not only the government but the whole social system. Here again those of us who have inside information are in a better position to appreciate the magnitude of the evil and the danger attending on it than the ordinary man in the street. But I think I can convince members that it really does exist by quoting from one or two leaflets which have been found within the last few days.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Are they printed or typed ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I have seen them. They were with me till this morning. They are cyclo-styled or gestetnered or duplicated. These leaflets are called Red Front and bear the sign of the hammer and sickle at the top proclaiming quite clearly what their origin is. I shall quote one or two passages from them. In one of them they say :

" We have organised the Young Socialist League with view to organise the masses and prepare them for the revolution through armed insurrection, eventually destroying Capitalism and building up the Socialist state as a transition to a classless communist society."

In another—

" The reformists are clamouring for peace, but we want war, the war of the classes, between the old and the new, between the rich and the poor, Capitalism and Socialism. Victory shall be ours."

In yet another—

" Through a process of class struggle in which dynamic class consciousness will be created, we shall lead the workers and peasants to overthrow capitalism through armed insurrection, Proletarian revolution that is, and set up the dictatorship of the Proletariat as a transition to a classless society."

The language is a trifle difficult and a trifle involved, but the same aim is there all through, to destroy the present system of society through blood-shed if necessary, in order to establish a communist state. These are the extracts, but I think members have heard enough of this sort of thing that it is not necessary to have very much more.

One might think that in a land of peasant proprietors like the Punjab, communism with its central theory of the abolition of private property in land and everything else, would have no chance whatever ; but a skilful communist does not go into a village and say to the people " You have no right to own land, give it up and cultivate as servants of a communist state." If he unmasked his battery in that way, he would not get a hearing at all. What he actually does is to hold meetings, diwans or whatever you may call them, in villages, preferably in a district under settlement, at which he cunningly exploits the desire of the zamindar that the land revenue demand should be kept as low as possible, represents the Government as purely tyrannical and selfish and hopes, by stirring up discontent and civil commotion, finally to seize the power which will enable him to put his theories into practice and it must be remembered that the central theory of his system is that there shall be no such thing as private property. That is the last thing one would like to see flourish in the Punjab and I know of no way to stop propaganda of this kind except by the use of section 3.

Members will remember that last year we did notify various communist associations as unlawful associations. In spite of that notification which has very greatly hampered their activities, their members have succeeded to some extent in evading the consequences of the declaration and they are still striving in underhand ways to tamper with the loyalty of peasants and manual workers and motor drivers and various other people of that kind, and you cannot entirely stop their activities merely by declaring them unlawful associations. The use of section 3 has been found expeditious and effective because by the use of the section you can control their movements, you can prevent them from attending these diwans and you can prevent them from making speeches at those diwans and otherwise propagating the tenets of communism. For this reason the Government regard the retention of the powers conferred by sections 2 and 3 as essential. We consider that it would be most unfair to our successors under the new constitution if we failed to pass on these powers to them. They will have a sufficiently difficult time in any case, until the ship of state has found herself, and they should certainly be armed with powers adequate to prevent the spread of subversive movements. The fact that these powers will under the new constitution be ordinarily invoked, if at all, by a government responsible to the legislature is, I think, sufficient guarantee that they will not be used unfairly to the detriment of any one community. I think we can claim that in the past they have not been used unfairly. The powers under section 2 have been used in 46 cases of which 40 were cases of terrorism and 6, cases of communists. The powers under section 3 have been used in 181 cases altogether in these three years. The use of these sections has been sparing. While section 2 has in the past only been used against communists and terrorists, I do not wish to bind the government of the future by any undertaking regarding the manner in which the section should be used. So much for chapter II of the Bill.

Chapter III of the Bill does not require much explanation. It is obvious that if you wish to stop propaganda of a subversive nature, you must have the power to ascertain what is being said at public meetings. The provisions of this chapter are of a perfectly reasonable nature and I do not think that any fair objection can be taken to them.

Chapter IV contains special provisions against instigation to the illegal refusal of the payment of certain liabilities. In the first place, I would like to point out that this chapter does not apply automatically to the whole province but only to such area as is declared to be a notified area and it only applies to such dues of Government as are declared to be a notified liability. The chapter makes penal the instigation to refuse the payment of Government dues. It is not that the withholding of payment is penal. It is the man who instigates others to withhold payment who falls within the scope of this chapter and it is against him that the chapter is aimed. During the debate in which this Bill was first discussed by the Council, the Leader of the National Unionist Party rightly declared himself as totally opposed to the withholding of Government's just dues, and I believe that he has consistently maintained that attitude ever since. I think we can fairly expect him to support us in asking that this portion of the Bill be passed into law. I would at the same time like to endorse the statement made by Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram when he said that "the zamindar is very reluctant to hear anything about non-payment of land revenue." This is perfectly true and the Government have a firm trust in the loyalty and commonsense of the peasantry of the Punjab. But this very fact makes it incumbent on Government to shield the zamindar from the unwelcome attentions of those who would use him as a pawn in their own political game.

I would like to draw special attention to the explanation to clause 11 which safeguards comments made in good faith regarding the incidence, rates or amounts of a notified liability without instigating refusal to pay. All fair comments, all attempts to get land revenue reduced by constitutional means are free from the mischief of this chapter of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act; and no law-abiding citizen need be afraid of the provisions of chapter IV. Now, it is for members seriously to consider what will be the position of the ministry under the new constitution if they are confronted with a movement for non-payment of Government dues and do not possess the power which this chapter gives. It is not too much to assume that if an attempt is made by any party or class to obstruct the orderly introduction of the new constitution, one of the methods employed will be the instigating of non-payment of Government dues; and while there is no reason at present to apprehend that the new constitution will not be introduced with the approval and support of all reasonable men, at the same time it would be folly to deprive the Government of the future of the powers necessary to meet any emergency that might possibly arise; and this I think is the kind of emergency which is most likely to arise.

With regard to chapter V very little need be said. It provides punishment for taking part in mock funeral ceremonies with the intention of intimidating, insulting or annoying the unfortunate victim of this despicable form of pressure. I do not think there is any form of pressure that is more abhorrent to the mind of an average Punjabi than this very low down expression of disapprobation. I think all members will support the measure intended to provide a swift and sure means of checking it. With regard to the last chapter of the Bill I need only draw attention to the fact that it is proposed that offences punishable under this Act shall be cognisable and to the last clause which as I have already mentioned secures continuous action of the present law when it expires. I move that the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration.

Mr. President : Motion moved—

That the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : I regret that I cannot support the motion which has been put forward by the Honourable Finance Member. I have very carefully listened to the arguments that he put forth in support of his motion and I find that not one of them is convincing. First of all the Honourable Member started by saying that this Bill is the same as was passed in 1932 and that the reasons which existed then for passing this measure exist now. He referred to four or five such reasons. He said that there was civil disobedience movement at that time and a measure of this kind was needed then, a measure to combat the forces of civil disobedience movement. At the same time he admitted that there was no civil disobedience movement at present. The conclusion then is that there is no need for such a measure at present. But he added that there was no guarantee that this movement will not be revived. If this argument is to be accepted then every kind of oppressive measure should be passed by this Council because, who can guarantee for the future? It is argued, "Civil disobedience movement may or may not be revived, but we will have a Bill on the statute book for certain." I do not see any sense in this argument. May I say one thing to the Honourable Finance Member, movements like the civil disobedience movement cannot last long. They cannot be of a permanent nature and therefore we cannot have a permanent measure to defeat a passing movement. Those were extraordinary days brought about by various causes into which we need not go into at present; but those causes do not exist now. Therefore it is futile to advance an argument of this kind to make this emergency measure which was meant for three years a permanent measure. That would be an entirely wrong thing to do. I may submit even that had this measure been in existence at the time when the civil disobedience movement began, the measure would have proved ineffective. It was only when the movement had spent its force that this measure came into being and it may not be altogether correct to say that it was this measure that suppressed the movement. I hold that the movement was of such an abnormal character, that it had spent its force and could not go beyond a certain limited period. That is the real explanation why the movement died out after three or four years. Had this measure not come into existence at all, my own conviction is that this movement would not have gone on for any length of time. People are not prepared to bear lathi charges and to go to jails for all times to come. There were certain reasons then which impelled the people to court jails and to face lathi charges, to suffer tortures and to make self-sacrifices. It is therefore futile to take credit for this Bill. In any case there is no civil disobedience movement at present in the province. The Honourable Finance Member could not find any movement in the province during the last two or three years which could be dubbed as civil disobedience movement. I entirely agree with him that the civil disobedience movement which aims at breaking the law of the land cannot be tolerated by any person. Law and order have been preserved in the province during the past few years and it is most unjust that a Bill of this kind should be presented to the province as a reward for its peace and tranquillity, a measure which is the mere negation of liberty. So far with regard to the argument about the civil disobedience movement.

The next argument advanced by the Honourable Member was that we were likely to have a terrorist movement. In any case it did exist then and therefore there was a necessity at that time. But I can say now that there is no terrorist movement in the Punjab. There are 8,85,00,000 of people living in the Punjab and the Honourable mover has given only two or three instances of terrorist gangs. These cases have not been actually tested in a court of law and I do not think we can accept the report of the Criminal Investigation Department that there was a gang at the time of the last Silver

[Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit.]

Jubilee celebrations. If a person carried an unlicensed revolver, that is no justification for holding that in the Punjab there is a crop of terrorist movement. On the other hand let me tell the Government that the Silver Jubilee celebrations gave the most marvellous manifestation of the loyalty of the people. (Hear, hear). If anything the celebrations showed that the province was most loyal and law-abiding and that they were not prepared to tolerate either the terrorists or those who created disturbances. Then, is this the reward which the Government proposes to give to the loyal manifestation of the people who gave money and time and went about singing songs of loyalty? The Honourable Member referred to two or three instances of gangs about the truth or accuracy of which there are extremely grave doubts.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Does the honourable member then doubt the correctness of my statement?

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : No. I doubt the truth of the Criminal Investigation Department report on which the Honourable Member's statement is based. Even accepting the implications contained in the Criminal Investigation Department report, I contend that it does not mean that the province is prepared to listen to terrorists or to give shelter to them. The instance of a gang here and there does not show that the province is really ripe for receiving the pernicious doctrine of terrorism. If there is anything that this province can pride itself on it is this that it has been singularly free from the pernicious influence of the terrorists movement. It is not therefore fair to say that there are terrorists in the province or that the people will give shelter to them.

The other argument put forward by the Honourable Member is equally fallacious. He said that terrorists from other provinces might come to this province. In that case there is already the ordinary law of the land which can be applied to them and they can be externed. There is also the Regulation of 1818. The Government had been suppressing movements of this kind in 1906, 1907 and 1908 without the provisions of this extraordinary law. After all, it is not a very difficult thing to take hold of one or two people and ask them to go out of the province. I therefore consider it an insult to the intelligence of the Punjab that we should be told after this manifestation of loyalty that a stern measure of this sort is required so that terrorists here and there or a gang here and there may be caught hold of and dealt with under the provisions of this measure. Further, if this argument is to be accepted, why then should this measure deal with terrorists only in this manner and not deal with dacoits and murderers and plunderers in the same manner? So far as these two classes of enemies to society are concerned, there is nothing to choose between one or the other. Put the law into operation as regards the dacoits and murderers and save the province from seven or eight hundred murders which take place in the province every year. This argument of the terrorist movement from Bengal and other provinces getting hold of our young men does not at all appeal to me. Evidently Government desires to give a certificate in the shape of this Bill to the people of the Punjab for their patriotism and loyal fervour which they manifested on the Jubilee day!

5 P.M. The next argument advanced by the Honourable Finance Member is that there is communalism in the province. I ask the Honourable Finance Member, has not communalism existed in this province since the beginning of history? Communalism in one form or another has always been there. The question is, what are the causes which have intensified communal bitterness in this province? My belief honestly and frankly, is that the separate electorates in the province, the system of Government which was introduced under the last reforms and which has been made permanent under the new Act, is responsible for this sort of communalism. When a Muhammadan has to go for the votes of his own Muhammadan brothers, he has no regard for either the Sikh or the Hindu and the same thing applies to the other communities. It is this system of Government that is responsible for it. You may say that I am mad on this subject, but I do very sincerely and honestly feel that if joint electorates had existed, these communal movements in this shape or form would never have existed and would never have brought a stain on the fair name of this province. That is my firm conviction and Government at one time gave sanction to these methods which are not employed in any responsible country and it now blames the people for the results which are the direct product of its methods. I do say this and I could not refrain from writing some articles in the press on this question, that time will come when the Government will find itself face to face with civil discord in this province and that is due to your own policy and you cannot blame the people of this province. Undoubtedly there are certain people who want separate electorates. But the Government being fully aware of the dangers into which communalism leads should have said 'no' to those people and I would not shirk the responsibility of agreeing to no reforms so long as communal movement in this shape or form existed. But I do submit that the blame for this movement based on communalism cannot be laid wholly or solely at the door of the communities alone. The Government must share and share to a very considerable extent the blame in this matter. This argument therefore should not be utilised when you are talking of communal movement in this province. After all, there have been riots in the past. In 1927-28 there were very serious riots and there was no Criminal Law Amendment Act in this form. Still the thing was suppressed. Moreover, is it not telling the future legislature that we are going to say what you should do, we would frame laws for the guidance of the people who succeed us. We may have legal authority to do this, but we have no moral authority. The Honourable Finance Member, knows that the Governor under the new constitution has been given very wide powers for dealing with extraordinary situations. The power has already been given to the Governors in case of any destruction of the rights of a minority when there is menace to peace and tranquility. In the face of that what is the necessity for a Bill like this to be placed on the statute book which reason and common sense alike condemn? After all what is there in the Criminal Law Amendment Bill which is not already there in the existing law? You can deport people in the same way. Section 2 or 3 may be very necessary; but they already exist in one shape or other and those powers can always be employed. Therefore I do say with all the emphasis that I can command that this argument has got absolutely no force. The other argument advanced by the

[Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit.]

Honourable Finance Member is that we have got communism in this province. I am afraid I cannot accept this. There is no communism in this province. The Honourable Member has read from a pamphlet. Perhaps the ordinary person would not be able to follow the doctrines of communism. I do not know how many of us have read that pamphlet. There are many things in our society, in our customs and habits which will not be helpful to the growth of communism. First of all there is the system of caste. The Muhammadans, the Sikhs, the Arya Samajist and others and everybody else have tried to do away with caste in this province but in vain. And so long as caste exists here communism cannot come in. It is an impossibility. People are not prepared to tolerate the kinds of doctrine or theories propounded by communists. Can you possibly talk to the Pathan and the Mochi in the same way? Will those people be prepared to accept this doctrine? You have yourself admitted that where there is a system of peasant proprietors, land distributed evenly and equally, communism cannot possibly be tolerated by the people. This is an argument certainly in favour of those who say that communism cannot possibly find a place here. After all communism has been tried in various places outside India and it has failed except in one country Russia and we do not know much about that country, and if the British Government goes and makes alliance with Russia, with what face do you preach here to us that we should not encourage this doctrine? Here is the British Government, an ally of the communist Government (An honourable member: Is it?), they have accepted it on equal terms. Russia was an outcaste state once. To-day the British Government recognise Russia. I therefore say, please break off all connection with Russia; do not have anything to do with Russia; we have been taught to be afraid of Russia. We are told it is a terrible monster and Government must guard the frontiers of India and the British Government by example should show to the world that it has no sympathy with Russia and her doctrines and then people would listen to the voice of the Honourable Finance Member. But you are only preaching this theory to us. You are putting forward your arguments to us through which we at once see. (An honourable member: What about socialism?) Socialism is entirely different. There was a socialist Government in England and India was governed by that Government. But communism nobody understands here in the Punjab. The system of castes and hundred other 'isms that exists here are arguments to show that we are not prepared to accept communism as preached in the west. It has no chance here whatsoever. The real trouble—and I wish the Honourable Finance Member would take note of it—is the unemployment of the large number of people in this and other provinces. This problem is never seriously tackled by Government. Whenever a youngman commits suicide and whenever a youngman goes from door to door cursing rich men, persons in power, or authority, do not take him as preaching communism; but go deep into the matter and consider, here is a man who inspite of his training and high education, cannot get Rs. 50 or even 20 which is necessary for bare sustenance. In other countries the problem of unemployment is tackled in all seriousness. But here the Government is entirely callous even to the very moderate demands of the unemployed. The problem exists among Hindus, among Sikhs, among Muslims, among the educated and among the uneducated. Government at one time had appointed some sort of committee which made its recommendations and the whole thing ended there. Now this is a most serious problem. It has been accepted by the Bengal Government that terrorist movement gathers strength on account of unemployed, immature young men and young women. If you therefore want sincere advice from those who call themselves representatives of the people, it is that you must go to the very root of the problem. It is not your communism or communalism but the real thing is that people have not got enough to eat. Muhammadans and Hindus fight because they know that Government does not provide jobs for all. Try to tackle this problem. Remember what the Rt. Honourable Sir Samuel Hoare said: "We have given to India to-day a very big step in self-Government. Now do not try to undo it." Do not try to throttle the new Government before it has started functioning. Large masses of men and women would be enfranchised now. They are clamouring for certain rights. I beg and pray, do not have their voice crushed as you would be crushing by passing a legislation of this kind. The Honourable the Finance Member would not be there in the new legislature. This official bloc would disappear. But we will be leaving a heritage of bondage to our successors in the Council or the Assembly. Let us not say to them, "you must fly, you must ride, you must swim, but only with these bonds round your feet and necks." That is not fair. Let the province have a fair trial. If your admiration for their loyalty is genuine, if you sincerely believe that the province is really loyal, why do you not trust the province? Why should you put on the statute books such harsh laws? If this Bill is passed in this Council by the votes of the elected members, I can only say that these people do not represent the feeling outside. The Assembly, through its elected members, has rejected a similar measure. This Council was elected only for two years. It has outlived its utility. It was not meant to go on for 5 or 6 years. We had a mandate from the people that after two years there would be a new constitution. Fortunately for some members the legislature has gone on for six years. But if you do not give voice to the feelings of the people, then you would be giving an impression that you no longer represent the people. Under the new reforms you should give the people a chance to express themselves through the new legislatures; you are coming forward and putting chains on them and on their successors. Now this measure is going to be permanent. That itself is a sufficient condemnation of the measure. I can go on dealing with this matter; but I say you must trust the people; you must not consider that we are here to say ditto to what the Government say. The Government is entirely wrong. It does not know the feelings of the country. It is really casting a stain on the loyalty of the people. In the Great War before 1919 the people of this province gave splendid proof of their bravery and of their loyalty and the reward to them was the "Rowlatt" Act. Do not provoke the people to despair. That is a wrong thing to do. After the province has enjoyed comparative peace—I say comparative because we are not legislating for the ordinary state of affairs—it is wrong to bring in measures of this kind. You must therefore stay your hands. Let the Punjab have the proof of your goodwill and trust in her people, and let the world know that the province can do without a legislation of this kind.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan (Sialkot, Muhammadan, Rural): Being a new recruit to this honourable House, I crave the indulgence of the House. The Honourable Finance Member while giving his reasons for putting this Bill permanently on the Statute Book said that the use of the Act, which was of a temporary character, has been fair and sparing. I beg to differ from the Honourable the Finance Member in that respect. The temporary measure was passed in 1932 and in 1934, there was neither the civil disobedience movement nor terrorism but still, I will endeavour to show that the Government in order to get a taste of that power which was given to it still used it; I beg to say that "use" would not be the correct word and I may be allowed to say "abused," that power which was given by the legislature to the Government (hear, hear). When the Government found that there was no valid occasion for the exercise of that measure, the Government sought to create the occasion for the use of that measure. The occasion that I refer to was the occasion in October 1934 when a notice was served on the present head of the Ahmadya community on the 17th of October 1934 asking thereby, or ordering him under section 3 (1) (d) of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act to cancel and revoke any summons sent by him or under his authority to any person to attend Qadian on the dates 21st of October to 23rd October inclusive and to abstain until after the 24th of October from summoning any person or persons to Qadian and to abstain until the 24th of October from permitting or feeding any one in Qadian and to abstain until after the 24th of October from making any arrangements for residence at Qadian of any persons called by him and from providing them with food and shelter. I beg to ask, was the head of the Ahmadya community, who was served with this notice, carrying on civil disobedience at the time the notice was served on him? Was he carrying on any terrorism at the time the notice was served on him or was he exploiting or having undue advantage of "communalism"? I say no. These (civil disobedience, terrorism and communalism) were the reasons given by the Honourable Finance Member for bringing this measure on the Statute Book permanently. But I submit that on this occasion, at any rate, and there would be many forthcoming I am sure where the Government has not only not made a fair use of this measure, but abused the measure. Then under section 7 of the same Act, notices have been sent to head constables ordering them to attend meetings held by school children; children who do not even know what the word politics means, children who cannot realise what civil disobedience means and children who have absolutely no initiative. These meetings were held not for the purpose of discussing politics, but for the purpose of developing oratory among its members. On the 5th of April 1935 a notice of this kind was issued to a head constable to attend the meeting of the مجلس ادره which was announced to be held at Qadian in the مدرسة احمدية (a school); a meeting to be held in a school obviously for the purpose of creating some interest not in regard to politics but with regard to something that was being taught in the school. That was a meeting of school children. Does the Government justify the statement that this was a fair and sparing use of this measure? I would submit no. Then another notice was issued regarding the meeting of the مجلس which was held at the house of the امام احمدية. This too was a meeting consisting of members who were all children and held with that same object, i.e., discussing religious tenets and trying to inculcate the power of oratory amongst the members thereof. Then another notice was issued on the 3rd of April 1935 regarding مجلس حزب الله meeting of which was to be held in some house in the mohalla دارالرحمت. Now you ordered a head constable to go about in a mohalla inhabited by perfectly loyal and perfectly respectable citizens and citizens who had done nothing and were doing nothing against public tranquillity or public peace, causing no annoyance to the Government whatsoever. These constables were expected to go into that mohalla to roam about in the whole of the mohalla trying to find the house where the meeting was to be held. Not only were these constables to go there by themselves but they were in many instances asked to take with them even non-official people and other persons who were not head constables themselves. Was there any apprehension in the minds of the Government that these children, who were holding absolutely harmless meetings in their private houses, would try to upset the Government or to upset the public peace? I submit no. That mohalla in which a constable along with four or five or six other people had gone under this order, would the inhabitants thereof have taken this as a manifestation of the kindness of the Government for themselves or would they have taken that as a manifestation that even in their own houses, their children whom they wanted to grow up as educated children, whom they wanted not only to grow up as educated children but to know something about their spiritual welfare, could not only not discuss religion, but could not even try to create harmonious relations among themselves? Would they take this as a manifestation of that affection which every Government should have for the governed? I submit no. There is another notice dated the 5th of April 1935 asking the constable to attend the meeting of زم احمدیہ to be held at Qadian in the مدرسه احمدیہ the same school again. There is another notice against a meeting of the زم النصار to be held at مدرسه احمدیہ dated the 6th April 1935. These are six instances which I bring to the notice of the House proving definitely not only that it was an unfair use of the Act but that it was a rank abuse of the power which the legislature gave to the Government. There are certain lines of a poem which I would quote here with just one little difference. Instead of saying

“Speak gently, it is better far to rule by love than fear”

I would say :

“Rule gently, it is better far to rule by love than fear.”

No Government would by that self-same power given to it by the legislature try to lose the confidence of the people that it is governing. Perfectly loyal citizens who had absolutely neither before nor at the time of the notice nor even after the notice given any genuine occasion to the Government against them, were, if I might be allowed to say, harassed by the action taken under the Act which is now being sought to be placed permanently on the statute book. If a weapon is given to somebody not permanently but temporarily, the use he will make of that weapon will certainly be sparing and fair in order that when the time comes to ask for that weapon to be given permanently nobody might have occasion to get up and say because you did not use that weapon fairly, therefore we do not give you that power for all times to come. But in this case that power when it was only a temporary power was not fairly used, and therefore there can be a just apprehension in the minds of the representatives of the people that when this power is permanently given to the Government it certainly shall not be used for the benefit of the people or in a way which is not calculated to show the people that they are not being fairly treated by the Government which they have every time and on every occasion, treated very fairly indeed. This measure if it is placed permanently on the statute book, when it has been shown that during the time it was only a temporary measure it was abused, would certainly give the Government power to create opportunities for the self-same taste of satisfaction in the use of it referred before, occasion or no occasion. I submit that when it is permanently placed on the statute book such occasions will be made to arise and Government at one time or another would have the satisfaction to feel or to say: "We were given a power; there is no occasion to use it, and, therefore we would abuse it and create an opportunity for doing so whether there is justification for it or not." Therefore I would again submit that it is "better far to rule by love than fear." Let the Government create trust in the people as the people have on the occasion of the jubilee shown that they place as much trust in the Government, have as much affection for the Government, have as much loyalty for the King Emperor as any other peoples in other parts of the Empire or in other Governments can have or manifest. No grander manifestation than that at the time of the jubilee could have been shown by the people of this province. And I would be right in saying that no other province had beaten the Punjab in the manifestations of loyalty exhibited on that occasion. To a province of that kind a treatment like this, a reward like this cannot even be thought of. A reward in the shape of this measure which has not been fairly used in the past, which I would say has been abused but which is now wrapped up in an envelope addressed "for the good of the people" whereas in truth it only shows that the people could never more be trusted by Government is a most inadequate reward. I would therefore oppose this measure.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban): The Honourable Finance Member appealed for consistency to the honourable the Leader of the Opposition on this side. It means, I take it, that he wants me also to be consistent. Lest I be accused of being inconsistent I have cast my arguments in the line of consistence throughout and hope to show that my consistence is absolute right whereas his persistence in carrying this Bill into an Act is wrong. The fine speech delivered by my honourable friend Chaudhri Asadullah Khan has made it clear that at least one section of the Punjab feels aggrieved at the orders imposed on the head of that community by the Government and on the people of that particular town. Similarly there may be chances, not to-day but to-morrow, probably not to-morrow but ten years hence, for misusing this power. It might be Ahrars to-morrow, it might be the Muslim League the next day, it might be the Akali movement five years hence, which would be the victim. It is easy to argue that the necessity for executive action exists. The Honourable Mr. Boyd is only fifty-three years old but I could quote the history of the times when he was not thought of in this world, may far, far back, five, ten or even five thousands of years ago; right down from the days of the Pharaohs to the days of Mr. Boyd, this demand for executive action has existed. The Honourable Mr. Boyd is not the first man to ask for these powers. Even in the days when the Pharaohs ruled this power was in existence. And what is this power? History records of several occasions when there was a fight between the executive and the judiciary. The executive says, we have all the wisdom in the world because we know all facts, we have extraordinary sources of information, we know from the criminal intelligence department what is going on in the minds of the people; give us credit. We refuse to divulge the information as evidence before the judiciary, because the judicial officer and the set of lawyers, the entire lot of them is rotten and cannot appreciate. That is the argument which has been traditionally put forward. These gentlemen on our executive side have themselves been judicial officers sometime in their life and yet when they leave the judicial side they consider that the judicial officer is only a third rate official and the executive are not prepared to present their case before him but would proceed to take action on the verdict of the police. I know that by themselves the executive officers are often good men. I know that Mr. Puckle is not a blood-thirsty tyrant and I have the pleasure of knowing him and can say that he is a perfect gentleman. I know equally well that Mr. Boyd is not a political blue-beard who is going to try to kill people suspected of political movements. But look at what is happening. If the present Government with the mild Mr. Puckle and the mild Mr. Boyd could intern twenty or twenty-seven people within two months, if they could stop the Zamindar from publication by demanding heavy security, the Siyasat and the other newspaper, the Ahsan, by similar demand for security, what will happen in the next ten years, can anyone say? When party politics will come into force and alter the phase of things in this country, Mr. Boyd who is now moving this Bill would have retired and perhaps would have quietly settled in an English countryside and would not like to be disturbed with what happens here. But any one who knows the course of party politics in history can foresee the future when this Bill is enacted. We are going, by this Bill, to arm our Government with powers which Signor Mussolini enjoys now in Italy. What has Mussolini done? The ex-premier of Italy, Signor Nitti is hiding somewhere in Paris. Similarly in Germany under the Hitler regime. The opponents of Hitler are however nowhere hiding for they have been killed forthwith, or expelled in thousands. Again, in Turkey under the regime of Mustapha Kemal, the finest man that any nation can produce, where is Rouf Bey and where the commanders and admirals of the Turkish army and the navy? They had to leave the country and live in other countries for ten years after the beginning of the Turkish Republic, simply because they could not agree with the politics of Mustapha Kemal and were exiled. And how can the course of politics in this country tell a different tale? I ask, is this the jubilee present that the Government is giving to the Punjab? The Government have given medals to many persons here. Is this Bill a present to the nation after its impressive manifestation of loyalty to the King Emperor? It only means that the Government thinks that the people at heart are revolutionaries, that they need a chabuk, they require sticks and perhaps jailing, because they do not really have any affection.

for the King Emperor, and for the maintenance of law and order. And how does the Government come to this conclusion? Why? The criminal intelligence staff tells them so. The Honourable Mr. Boyd showed two cyclostyled pamphlets, I do not know where they come from. I have been for ten years a member of this House and these communists have never thought fit to send me one circular of theirs, but they always send a circular to Mr. Boyd. Is there any honourable member here who can stand up and say that he has ever received a single circular from a communist source? I am sure there is none. I do not know from which museum they produce these circulars and pamphlets. I do not know where they are printed. I do not know where they are copied from, from the literature of the second or the third Internationale. But they are produced every time the Bill comes. Some circular is produced by the honourable member and he always refers to it but never places it on the table. He always folds it back and pockets it and when asked, he says he need not bother the House further about it. Of course he need not bother us, but what is the opinion it leaves behind? We find hundreds of handbills advertising patent medicines, this and that, distributed to us every day. But are we buying any of them? No, the people of the Punjab have sense enough, they are no fools to destroy the peace of their own country because they have read some such circular. They will not start civil disobedience against their own people who will be at the helm of the Government within twelve months. Let me refer to the government that is to come in one year's time. The administration will change and there will no longer be the members of the Indian Civil Service in charge of this subject but an Indian Minister, a politician he would be. The question therefore is whether we can entrust these powers to a politician. We have seen that nearly 50 to 60 thousand people were imprisoned by the present administration a few years back, so if we entrust these powers to politicians they may be used for political purposes and what would happen? Let the party in power, for instance, be Master Tara Singh's party. We will see all Giani Sher Singh's men running beyond Delhi if this power were invoked by the party running the Government. If Mussolini can use it, if Herr Hitler can massacre forty of his best lieutenants simply because they did not follow his programme, if in Mexico people could be turned out of the country in thousands, if the same could happen in Uruguay, Paraguay, Bolivia and in fact everywhere in the world, what is there to suggest that the course of events would not be exactly similar in India as well? This Act will be like a poisoned sweet in a child's hand. I ask the Government, give milk to the baby, give sweets but never poison and still never a poisoned sweet. Power once in one's possession no one wants to give it up whether white or brown. It is not your fault because of your white skin and it will not be our fault, because we have brown skin. It is only human nature. I am just now acting as a democrat. Give me power and I will be perhaps the worst autocrat. Because a judge punishes a criminal we cannot presume that he will not commit the same crime himself. A lawyer while he is arguing for punishing a certain offence is not himself in all cases above committing the same offence himself. It is therefore no new thing, this abuse and misuse of power. I am not attacking the present Government at all, though I know they have also misused power, because their regime is going to finish very soon ; but I ask what will happen in the future ? Is this power to be handed over to an untried Government formed on the basis of communalism, and on the ground of caste and creed ? Who is going to prevent its abuse and how ? Let us suppose that there is a Minister and it is election time. Let us also take it that there is an opposition party fighting in the elections. The police officer has that party arrested for a few days till the election time is over, and when he goes to the Minister in office, he is greeted with thanks and the Minister says I can rule very nicely now and if every time these chaps oppose how nice it would be if the police could make use of this power. Is this that the Government want to offer us for the future ? I have very grave apprehensions and I honestly and sincerely assure the House that this power could be misused. It is being misused to-day in Italy, in Russia, in Australia, in Spain. Go through the newspapers for the last twenty years and you find the same tale repeated over the whole of Latin America. Only a few days ago in Greece, Kondylis says we will have monarchy and the Prime Minister disappears in five minutes, law and order changes instantly because the executive have got the power in its hands. I tell my Civil Service friends opposite, you may be leaving, you may be easily pensioned off, but think of us. Who shall stop the misuse of the power in the hands of the party in power ? Surely the Governor is not going to poke his nose into the little details of government and a letter from the Minister to the Superintendent of Police will be sufficient indication and the party opposed to the Minister will disappear, may be to return after the elections are over. A letter from Government to an Inspector or a Superintendent of Police will be an indication that a party has to disappear. You will find that the election system is useless and the Honourable Revenue Member will find that there will be no necessity for Election Commissioner which post he has often held. My friend, the Finance Member, in bringing forward this Bill entertains grave fears for the future government that things will not work unless there is some special power vested in the executive. Does he feel that it will be more harmful not to have these powers than to have them ? The honourable friend who is going to give us the present of this Bill says that future governments must be protected. He says that it would be unfair to deprive the future government of the powers exercisable under the Criminal Law Amendment Act. What worries me is whether it would be safe to entrust these powers to popular Ministers. If I become a Minister to-morrow what is there to prevent me from arresting my opponents during elections. If the future government will not have the strength enough to pass such Acts under grave provocation the sooner that government disappears the better. Let them test their own capacity. Let them not take to the method of pistol shooting which we see in Mexican films, because that method will not succeed. I want to make myself clear. I do not say that they will be there to misuse the power. We have amongst us men who are greater bureaucrats than the bureaucrats in the present government. You have sometimes to keep the balance between communities and sometimes not to keep the balance in many cases (laughter). You call people unscrupulous. Are you sure in your heart of hearts that you never used to have a tamasha between two communities ? I am doubtful. Why have this power which is liable to abuse ?

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

Just think. Any gazetted officer will have the power to arrest a person for fifteen days for a breach of the peace, which means even a forest officer not necessarily an Imperial Service man. It does not even say a magistrate, it says any gazetted officer. Any veterinary surgeon who has fear of the breach of peace will arrest anybody.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The gazetted officer must be authorised to use this power by a general or special order of Government.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : You can authorise anybody. You might authorise a veterinary assistant for this purpose. He will say : you are not fit to be examined by a good doctor ; I will hand you over to a salotri and the salotri will say to him ; you are not a man, so I am going to treat you like a donkey.

My friend, the Finance Member, says I have a poor opinion of our future Ministers. I say 99 per cent. of them will be good men, even super-men, but it is the one per cent. that is worrying me every time. There are times when communalism might run riot. There will be difficult times for which we have to provide ourselves. If you bring a Bill which will give the future government all the emergency power, emergency will always exist. I certainly do think that all governments should possess certain powers but they should be clearly defined. The first thing for you to do is to tell us what are the terms of the recently passed Criminal Law Amendment Act which was certified by the Governor-General. The Government of India has passed it. You show us whether it is not on all fours with the Bill now before us, so that we may know whether these powers are necessary or not. At least Government ought to have the courtesy to show us the Bill passed by the Imperial Council in Simla and tell us what powers it confers. You should have at least shown us what was passed in Bombay. There were some very important amendments which were carried with the consent of the Government. But here with a pistol at our head you want us to do everything in one day. If this is your attitude to-day that we should read the Bill, discuss it and pass it the same day, then what reasonableness can be expected of the future Government? With these powers, you can to-morrow stop all the presses in the Punjab.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : This has nothing to do with the press.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : This is one of the ways you do it. You put the whole staff in prison. You will pass an order that no paper shall be printed ; you will say that such and such a paper shall not be delivered. It comes to the same thing. You will say ; "you should not sit, you should not sneeze, you should not do this thing, you should not do that thing." You have all the power under this Act. I wish to remind you of the saying that an Englishman's home is his castle. Please do not make an Indian's home his jail. Why bring this Act on the statute book permanently. If you must have it, pass it for one year or two till the new constitution comes into force and leave it to the future government whether they should have it permanently or not. Next year the new Council is coming. Pass it for two years if you must. There will be ample time to reconsider it then. Why do you want to make this Act permanent? If you say things are bad, and seek our help we will gladly help you. Our object is not to destroy the peace of the country but to help Government. We want sincerely to help you, it is not you but ourselves whom we will be helping by maintaining the peace of the country. Then come forward with a clean hand. Tell us what your difficulties are, we shall consider them and try to remove them by reasonable methods. If you just say, no, the Bill must be considered and passed at once, then my answer will be a definite, no, no. We want to consider it on its own merits.

The Honourable Finance Member spoke of sections 2 and 3. Would he like it to be applied on him? Would he like to live in a country permanently where sections 2 and 3 are in force? What did Austin Chamberlain say about Germany about three months ago? He said, that none of the British people who have to be admirers of Hitler and Mussolini would like to live in Germany and Italy. That is a fact. Mussolini and Hitler and other dictators invested with extraordinary powers have been abusing them in order to crush opposition. Are you going back to dictatorship? I want you to give us reforms. On the other hand, you thrust us 800 years back. Trust us as we are trusting you. It may be that in India riots have taken place, so they have even in the best administered country in the world. The production of communist circular in Council is an old trick not used for the first time. Some five years back when there was a general election in England some letter was said to have been sent by the Russian Ambassador to the Labour party. It was photographed by Mr. Baldwin's party and on the strength of that letter elections took place which brought the present Government into power. That letter was later proved to be a forged letter.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That was never proved to have been forged.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : That was never proved not to have been forged (laughter). Elections were fought on the basis of that letter which was denied to have been received by Labour party from Russian authorities. The conservatives had a huge majority and they ruled for five years. If this can happen in England, why can it not happen in India. So I beg of you not to press the Bill. Suppose I were the Prime Minister and Mr. Boyd my opponent. Fancy my ordering Mr. Boyd : you shall sit in your drawing room, you are not to come out till 4 o'clock, you will take lunch at 6 o'clock, you will not write letters to any one, and not leave this house for one year and so on and that if you break the law, you will suffer imprisonment for so many years. All these things are possible under this measure. How would he like it? You know what party system is. When a party system of Government is introduced in the province under the new constitution the powers now sought to be taken might be abused by the Government in power. You have been a high officer. You do not know what politics are. If you enter politics and spend one year in jail come under the clutches of Mussolini, receive a baton from the police constable or if a macaroni is thrust down your throat in an Italian jail then you will know what jail is and what liberty is. The Indian Superintendent of Police dare not touch you. But what about us? The police do things that you will not believe, and yet which member is here who will stand up and say that what I say is not true or that the powers are not being misused. The people are afraid of the police. You have been a ruler for 35 years. You have not been ruled, so you do not know.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I was held up in Lahore myself.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Yes, but then that person must have apologised! He said : hamara gustakhi muafi! Or perhaps he mistook you for a commercial traveller.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I was held up and threatened with prosecution.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Mistaken fool! how dare he do that : You are a good man, some other officer would have given him a kick. Severities of law cannot touch you. You seem to think that everything is being administered rightly, so you do not feel as we feel. We the subject people know how people are being treated by the head constable of our own thana. The position is very serious. We only know how serious it is.

At this stage the Council adjourned till 2 P.M. on Tuesday, 22nd October 1935.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Tuesday, 22nd October, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber at 2 P. M. of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

GARHI SHAHU.

*4567. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether his attention has been drawn to a letter published in the daily "Ihsan," Lahore, dated the 3rd May 1935, under the heading "Garhi Shahu ki mazlum abadi par khudavandan-i-baldiah ka zulam";
- (b) if so, what action has been taken by him on the various complaints mentioned in the article;
- (c) if no action has been taken, the reasons for not taking any action?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Not to the best of my recollection.

(b) and (c) Do not arise.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Did the Honourable Minister see this letter at least after he received notice of the question?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : No.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : May I know the reasons for his not sending for the paper and seeing the letter in question?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I am not supposed to read everything that appears in the papers.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : When notice of the question was sent to him it was the duty of the Honourable Minister to have sent for the paper and read the letter.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : If there was any genuine complaint in that letter, why did not the honourable member send me a copy of it? I am not a subscriber to the paper in question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I sent him notice of the question.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The question does not mean to say that the Minister, whoever that may be, should read every paper that appears in Lahore. If he were to do so he will hardly have time to do anything else.

APPOINTMENT OF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, LAHORE.

*4568. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) when and under what circumstances the present Executive Officer, Municipal Committee, Lahore was appointed ;
- (b) by whom he was appointed ;
- (c) whether the post was advertised ; if not, why not ;
- (d) on whose recommendation he was appointed ;
- (e) whether any applications for the post were invited, departmentally or otherwise, from the past or present members of the Indian Civil Service, the Punjab Civil Service, the Punjab Engineering Service, the Punjab Bar, etc. ;
- (f) if the answer to (e) be in the negative, the reasons for not inviting applications ;
- (g) on what special qualifications he was appointed ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) and (b) The present Executive Officer was appointed in June 1932 by Government under section 3 (4) of the Punjab Municipal (Executive Officer) Act, 1931, as the Municipal Committee, Lahore, failed to appoint an Executive Officer under sub-section (1) of the section.

(c), (d), (e), (f) and (g). When Government makes appointments of this kind it considers whether an official or non-official should be appointed and if the decision is in favour of an official it makes a selection from among officers specially qualified for the post. The procedure was followed in this case. The Executive Officer in question was appointed because of his administrative and executive ability and his excellent record in Government service.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Was any advertisement published in the papers calling for applications of qualified persons for this post ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : In view of the answer to parts (c), (d), (e), (f) and (g) just now read, it was not considered necessary to advertise the post.

Mr. M.A. Ghani : What was the municipal experience that this officer had which justified his appointment as Executive Officer ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The very fact that he was appointed for the post should suffice to show that he was considered to be the best qualified for it.

Mr. M.A. Ghani : Is it a fact that this officer is closely related to the Honourable Minister ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The Executive Officer of Lahore is a maternal uncle of the son-in-law of the Honourable Minister as the local Muslim papers are never tired of reminding the public.

Mr. M.A. Ghani : Did the fact that the Executive Officer was a near relation of the Honourable Minister, influence his appointment or not ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Not a bit. He was appointed not because he was related to the Minister, but because he was considered to be the best qualified person for the job. Even before his name was considered in the Secretariat he was specially recommended by the Deputy Commissioner, Attock, under whom he had done distinguished service. As a great deal too much has been made of the fact that he is related to the Minister it would perhaps be proper to say that as soon as this gentleman's name came up for consideration for the post, I told Sir Geoffrey deMontmorency, the then Governor, that this gentleman was related to me. He asked me what the relation was and I told him and he laughed and said that that was no relation at all. That is the history of the appointment of Rai Bahadur Lala Shankar Das as the Executive Officer of Lahore.

(At this stage Mr. President called on the next member to put the next question.)

I may also add that one of the points taken into consideration at the time of appointment of Rai Bahadur Lala Shankar Das was the fact that he had served very successfully as the City Magistrate of Lahore for seven years.

An Honourable Member : Is it in order for the Honourable Minister to supplement his answer after you had called on the next member to put his question ?

Mr. President : After the next member was called, the Honourable Minister should not have supplemented his answer.

RABI CROPS AND REMISSION OF LAND REVENUE AND ABIANA.

*4569. Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether Government is aware that damage has been caused to the present rabi crops (rabi 1935) by untimely rains, hailstorms and strong winds ;
- (b) if so, whether this damage is universal, i.e., throughout the province or is confined to some districts only ;
- (c) the extent of this damage ;
- (d) whether Government has taken any steps to give relief to the zamindars in the shape of remissions of land revenue and abiana ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Damage was done in all districts except Hissar, Simla, Hoshiarpur, Rawalpindi and Attock.

(c) The extent of damage varied from district to district. In most of the districts, it was confined to small areas only.

(d) Suspensions and remissions have been given by subordinate authorities under the ordinary rules. As for the remissions given by Government, the attention of the honourable member is invited to Press Communiqué No. 1153, dated the 15th June, 1935, a copy of which is laid on the table.

[Hon. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

Press Communiqué.

Copy of a Press Communiqué, No. 1153, dated 15th June, 1935.

In order to give some measure of special relief in respect of the land revenue for the current rabi harvest, the Punjab Government have examined the agricultural statistics of the districts where there has been a marked fluctuation in prices from those assumed at settlement, and have granted special remissions of land revenue to the following eight districts and the Nili Bar Colony, amounting to over eleven lacs of rupees, the approximate distribution being :—

The principal crops of the rabi harvest are wheat, gram and toria. The difference between the wholesale prices prevailing on the 25th May, 1935, and the commutation prices assumed at the last settlement was found to differ to an extent justifying the grant of special remissions in these districts. This is in addition to the relief in land revenue granted in the Lower Bari Doab Colony (in the Multan and Montgomery districts) where a special remission of land revenue amounting to 40 per cent. of the demand on this harvest has been given under the operation of the sliding scale of assessment introduced in 1934.

Apart from the above and as a special case Government have given relief amounting to over five lacs of rupees in regard to both land revenue and abiana on the canal irrigated areas under wheat in the Jhang, Lyallpur and Sheikhupura districts on account of the widespread damage suffered by wheat through extraordinary calamities of the season.

ALIENATION OF LAND BY TOLA RAM SINGH.

*4570. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that one Tola Ram Singh, a money-lender, and contractor of village Campbellpur Musa and for many years a resident of Civil Bazar, Campbellpur, started acquiring agricultural land in Campbellpur and various villages round about Campbellpur, notably Jassian, Mirza, Mari Kanjoor, Abdul, Gondal, Campbellpur Sayaidan and Hazro and any other villages in the year 1905 or thereabout and he has no land in village Campbellpur Musa ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that his first purchase was in village Jassian from Kalakhan, from Ferozekhan, Shaheencha Khan, etc., in 1905 or 1907 or thereabouts ; and if so,
  - (i) the area of the land acquired,
  - (ii) whether the sanction of the Deputy Commissioner under the Alienation of Land Act was obtained for this alienation, and
  - (iii) the castes of the vendor and the vendee as entered in the mutation in favour of the vendee ;
- (c) the total area of land in each of the villages mentioned in (a) which stood in the name of Tola Ram Singh in the year 1905 ;

- (d) the total area of land in each of these villages which stood in the name of Tola Ram Singh in 1920 ;
- (e) the total area of land which stands in his name in each of these villages at present in jamabandi 1933-34 ;
- (f) the total area of land acquired by the said Tola Ram Singh from Ghulam Hassan, Awan, in village Jassian ;
- (g) the caste of the said Tola Ram Singh as at present entered in the revenue papers ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Tola Ram Singh was a resident of Kamalpur Musa, where he holds no land, and subsequently settled in the Civil Bazar, Campbellpur. He acquired agricultural land in the following villages—

- (1) Dher,
- (2) Kamalpur Sayadan,
- (3) Mari Kanjoor,
- (4) Abdul,
- (5) Hazro, and
- (6) Jassian.

(b) No.

Parts (i), (ii) and (iii) do not arise.

(c) Tola Ram Singh held 148 kanals, 15 marlas of land in village Dher only.

(f) 6,878 kanals, 9 marlas.

(g) Rajput Janjar of Agra district, non-agriculturist in Attock district.

RESTRICTIONS ON TAZIA AND DULHUL PROCESSIONS IN AMBALA.

*4571. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that the Sunni Muslims of Ambala city have not taken out their tazias and dulhul out of protest against the restrictions imposed on them in respect of a portion of a street this year ;

[Ch. Allah Dad Khan.]

- (b) what the restrictions were ;
- (c) whether the restrictions were imposed ever before ; if so, when ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) is in the negative, why the restrictions were imposed this year ;
- (e) whether he is aware that intense dissatisfaction has been caused among all the Muslims of Ambala city by the event mentioned in (a) ;
- (f) whether Government intends to make an independent investigation in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No : tazia and duldul processions were taken out on the 18th and 19th of May.

(b) The Sunni Muhammadans were prevented from taking out these processions accompanied by music which would have been an innovation.

(c) and (d) Yes ; ever since these processions were first organized in 1932 ; in 1934, however, the Sunni Muhammadans took out these processions accompanied by tashas and matams before the local authorities were able to take action to prevent what amounted to an innovation.

(e) No : the leaders of the Sunni Muhammadans thanked the Deputy Commissioner, Ambala, for the satisfactory arrangements made by the authorities for the completion of Muharram.

(f) No.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : May I know what the Honourable Member means by saying 'No' to part (a) of the question ? Does it mean that the Honourable Member is not aware of the fact mentioned in the question or that the fact stated in the question is wrong ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : It means that the tazia and duldul processions were not taken out on the 18th and 19th of May. They may have been taken out on another day. That is another matter.

MACLAGAN ENGINEERING COLLEGE.

*4572. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that out of 15 vacancies in the 'C' class for apprentices for the workshop opened in the MacLagan Engineering College, Mughalpura, 53 per cent. vacancies have been reserved for the Hindus and only 20 per cent. for the Muslims ;
- (b) whether he is aware that the percentages in (a) are in view of 8 stipends offered by a private gentleman for the Hindus ;
- (c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, why the Muslim representation in Government service which is 50 per cent. of all the appointments under the Punjab Government has been allowed to be reduced ;

- (d) whether he is aware that the Muslims of the Punjab are greatly agitated over the news of the proportions mentioned in (a) ;
- (e) if the answer to (d) is in the affirmative, what action the Government (Ministry of Agriculture) intends to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) The matter is under consideration. When accommodation is available, it is proposed to open a C class with 25 entrants, and so to distribute them that no community shall receive an excessive share.

(b) It is true that a Hindu gentleman has generously offered eight stipends, which will be awarded to Hindus.

(c) The honourable member is mistaken in thinking that any proportion has been fixed for any community generally for service under the Punjab Government.

(d) No.

(e) Does not arise.

DISTRICT HEALTH OFFICER, DERA GHAZI KHAN.

*4573. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether his attention has been drawn to a letter by the Secretary, Vaccination Committee, Dera Ghazi Khan, published in the daily "Zamindar", Lahore, dated the 5th May 1935, under the heading "District Health Officer, Dera Ghazi Khan" ;
- (b) if so, what action has been taken against the District Health Officer ;
- (c) if no action has been taken, reasons for not taking any action ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) None.

(c) None was called for.

RATE OF SUBSCRIPTION OF THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

*4574. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the rate of subscription of the Indian Law Reports, Lahore series, was fixed in 1920 ;
- (b) if so, whether he is aware that the cost of printing, paper, etc., has much gone down since 1920 ;
- (c) if so, reasons for not reducing the rate of subscription accordingly ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No. The rate was fixed in 1928.

(b) Yes.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

(c) The cost of production of the Indian Law Reports (Lahore series) is approximately Rs. 6 per annum. Forwarding charges (freight, packing and posting) amount to Rs. 9. The existing subscription (Rs. 9 per annum) leaves no margin of profit.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : May I know if it would not be cheaper to get the reports printed in some private press?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I am afraid I cannot answer that question. No enquiries have been made.

INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

*4575. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that in the matter of quoting rulings of the High Court, Lahore, the Indian Law Reports, Lahore series, is not given any preference in any way or manner to the various non-official Law Reports published at various places in India;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the rulings published in the Indian Law Reports, Lahore series, are also published in the various non-official Law Reports;
- (c) if so, the reasons for continuing the publication of the Indian Law Reports?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The honourable member is invited to refer to section 8 of the Indian Law Reports Act, 1875, which declares that no law reports other than those published under the authority of the local Government shall be treated by the Courts as authoritative.

(b) Many of the rulings published in the official Reports also appear in un-official collections.

(c) Apart from other considerations, the provisions of the Indian Law Reports Act, 1875, entail an implied obligation on the local Government to arrange for the publication of an authoritative Report.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is the Honourable Member aware that in practice in all the courts in the Punjab reports published in unauthorised Reporters are treated as good as those published in authorised Reporters and that the reports published in unauthorised Reporters are quoted freely in courts?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I understand that they are quoted freely, but whether the courts attach the same importance to them is very doubtful.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : They do. No difference is made between authorised and unauthorised reports.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : If the honourable member knows that, why should he put the question? (Laughter).

Mr. M. A. Ghani : It is to find out why authorised reports should be continued and not put a stop to.

RATE OF SUBSCRIPTION OF THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

*4576. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that the rate of subscription of the Indian Law Reports, Lahore series, is Rs. 9 per annum and the rate of subscription of the All India Reporter, Nagpur, is Rs. 80 per annum ;
- (b) whether he is aware that the matter contained in the All India Reporter is more or less fifty times of that contained in the Lahore series of the Indian Law Reports ;
- (c) if so, reasons for charging Rs. 9 as the rate of subscription of the Lahore series ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The rate of subscription for the Indian Law Reports (Lahore series) is Rs. 9 per annum as stated by the honourable member ; that for the All India Reporter Rs. 86 per annum.

(b) Yes.

(c) As the honourable member has already been informed in the reply to his question *4574, the price at which the Indian Law Reports (Lahore series), are sold leaves no margin of profit. There can be no comparison between this Report and the Nagpur compilation, which is composed largely of matter reproduced from the official Reports and which naturally has a wider field of sale than any provincial series can have.

GRIEVANCES OF THE PRESS WORKERS' UNION.

*4577. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether any representation was made to the Punjab Government by the Press Workers' Union, Lahore, on the subject of their grievances ;
- (b) if so, what action was taken on the representation ;
- (c) if no action was taken, reasons for not taking any action ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The Registrar of Trade Unions considered the representation and communicated his views to the Union.

(c) The reasons were explained to the Union by the Registrar of Trade Unions.

PRINTING PRESSES IN LAHORE.

*4578. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to secure the particulars and lay on the table a statement showing the following :—

- (i) the names of the printing presses in Lahore ;
- (ii) the names of their proprietors ; and
- (iii) the number of employees in them, as on 31st March, 1935 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (i) A list of the names of printing presses for which declarations were filed by their keepers is placed on the table.

(ii) and (iii) This information is not available.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT OF THE PUNJAB.

*4579. Mr. M. A. Ghani: Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- whether he is aware of (i) the Five Years' Plan of the Soviet Russia and Turkey, (ii) the New Deal Scheme of the United States of America, (iii) the Ten Years' Scheme of the Madras Presidency;
- if so, whether the Punjab Government also have formulated any scheme for the betterment and amelioration of the people of this province on the lines of the schemes mentioned in (a);
- if the answer to (b) be in the negative, the reasons for not formulating any scheme or schemes?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh: (a) Government are of course aware of the existence of development plans in the foreign countries mentioned. The Ten Year's Scheme for the Madras Presidency has not yet been worked out.

(b) The Punjab Government have from time to time formulated 5 years' plans for the development of the Agricultural and Veterinary Services, Education and Co-operation, and these have been carried out as far as financial conditions have allowed. A Road Development Scheme is at present being prepared. Industrial education is being gradually overhauled. A Joint Development Board has been set up to advise Government in such matters.

(c) Does not arise.

BHAKRA DAM PROJECT.

*4580. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) the reasons for the Government not undertaking the Bhakra Dam Project ;
- (b) whether the nature of these reasons is technical or political ;
- (c) if the reasons are technical, what they are ;
- (d) in case the reasons are political, the exact nature of trouble and the steps the Government is taking to overcome these obstacles ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The honourable member is referred to the reply to question No. *1070<sup>1</sup>.

WATERLOGGING OF LANDS IN CHAK No. 7, TAHSIL
NANKANA SAHIB.

*4581. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable the Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that agricultural lands in and in the vicinity of Chak No. 7, tahsil Nankana Sahib, are rapidly becoming waterlogged, and kalar is spreading due to the action of canal, and the lands are becoming unproductive ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, what steps have so far been taken to counteract the waterlogging of the lands of the above description and for improving their productive power ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) It is believed that conditions in the chak referred to are no worse now than in the past.

(b) A general improvement in conditions may be looked for when the diversion of the Upper Chenab Canal, viz., the Deg is completed.

SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4582. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that there is no time-scale for the salaries of members of the Subordinate Educational Service of the province ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that officers and members in the clerical line of the Education Department and members of subordinate service of all other departments of the province enjoy the above privilege ;
- (c) whether Government is aware that in all other provinces in India the members of Subordinate Educational Service enjoy this privilege ;

[L. Jyoti Prasad.]

- (d) if the answers to (a), (b) and (c) be in the affirmative, the reasons for not creating a time-scale for the members of the Subordinate Educational Service of our province up till now ;
- (e) what steps, if any, Government proposes to take to redress the grievance of the members of the Subordinate Educational Service of our province ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that Professor Ruchi Ram Sahni in the capacity of a member of this Council pressed upon the Government by means of a resolution in November 1924 the dire necessity of creating a time-scale for the members of the Subordinate Educational Service ;
- (g) the reasons for not giving effect to this resolution ;
- (h) whether the same conditions hold good now as did in 1924 ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

HILL ALLOWANCE TO TEACHERS IN SIMLA DISTRICT.

*4583. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that hill allowance is given to teachers of the Government High School, Simla ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that teachers in the Government High School, Kotkhai, in the Simla district do not get any hill allowance ;
- (c) if so, the reasons for this distinction ;
- (d) whether he is aware that in Kotkhai all the foodstuff and other necessities of life are imported from Simla and are sold at a dearer rate ;
- (e) the distance of Kotkhai from Simla and the means of conveyance from Kotkhai to Simla and vice versa ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Simla is expensive because of high rents for houses and the cost of bringing in milk, wood, grain, and other supplies from long distances.

(d) Yes, except potatoes, ghee, milk and fuel.

(e) The distance from Simla and Kotkhai is 33 miles. The journey can be made on foot, on horseback, or in a palki, mules or coolies are used for transport.

SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4584. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether there are any teachers in the Subordinate Educational Service who have not been promoted to the higher grade even after their service of twenty years in the department ;
- (b) the starting and final grades of the clerical as well as vernacular teachers ;

- (c) whether it is a fact that there are such teachers in both these sections who have remained in the same grade of pay even after their service of twenty years in the department ;
- (d) on what principles the judgment of a teacher's work is based, whether it is on the percentage of passed students or on the written work of the teacher and the taught or whether it depends on the discretion of the Inspector ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) No.

(b) The Clerical and Commercial teachers are now ordinarily recruited in the grade of Rs. 80—4—100 of the Subordinate Education Service Anglo-Vernacular Section and one of them is at present officiating in the Provincial Educational Service, Class II. The Vernacular and Classical teachers are ordinarily recruited in the grade of Rs. 35—3—50 and they can rise up to the grade of Rs. 140—10—190.

(c) No.

(d) A teacher's work is ordinarily judged by his methods of teaching, daily preparation of lessons, the instructional condition of his classes and the part he takes in the general life of the school. The remarks of departmental officers also carry due weight.

SENIOR VERNACULAR TEACHERS.

*4585. Lala Jyoti Prasad : (a) Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state whether it is a fact that appointments four years ago on Rs. 80—4—100 and Rs. 100—5—135 of senior vernacular teachers on falling vacant used to be given to vernacular teachers only ?

(b) During the last four years how many such senior teachers retired and to how many the abovementioned grades were given ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes, but under the old rules no vernacular teacher could be promoted to Rs. 140—10—190 grade, which is the highest grade of the Classical and Vernacular Section of the Subordinate Educational Service.

(b) Thirteen Vernacular teachers retired and four were given the grade of Rs. 110—5—135 and Rs. 80—4—100. It may, however, be added for the honourable member's information that for the purpose of appointment and promotion the Classical and Vernacular Section, like the Anglo-Vernacular section of the Subordinate Educational Service, is now treated as one and promotions are made according to certain well-defined principles which were explained in part (a) of my answer to question No. *2825<sup>1</sup> asked by Shrimati Lekhwati Jain in the Budget session of 1934.

LEAKAGE IN M. A. MATHEMATICS PAPERS.

*4586. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether there was any leakage in M. A. Mathematics papers in the examination for the year 1934 ;

[L. Jyoti Prasad.]

- (b) the names of those responsible for that leakage ;
- (c) whether the University got written complaints against those responsible for the leakage ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, whether the University conducted an enquiry into the complaints referred to above ; if so whether it was an open enquiry or a confidential one and what the result of that enquiry was ;
- (e) whether the complainants, if any, were allowed to explain their position and prove their allegations ; if not, why not ;
- (f) what steps, if any, the University took against those responsible for leakage ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) No.

- (b) Does not arise.
- (c) The University received some complaints about leakage.
- (d) A confidential enquiry was conducted in the matter, the University was satisfied that there had been no leakage.
- (e) Definite allegations were made in relation to one paper only. One complaint was anonymous and the other from a candidate. Everything necessary was done to obtain statements and to sift the evidence.
- (f) Does not arise.

KILABANDI OPERATIONS.

*4587. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) what is meant by acreage rates ;
- (b) whether these rates include only kilabandi expenses or kilabandi expenses plus the expenses on watercourses made under the instructions issued by the Canal Department ;
- (c) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, whether the watercourses were made after their inspection by some responsible Canal officers ;
- (d) whether it was explained to the landowners of the ilaga wherein kilabandi operations were introduced that they shall have to bear the acreage rates ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the landowners did not in the first instance agree to the introduction of kilabandi operations in their lands simply on pecuniary grounds and that the landowners were persuaded to agree to the kilabandi operations on the assurance given by the officers on the spot that they or their tenants shall not have to bear any expenses in this connection ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that Government has now proposed to make demands on account of acreage at the rate of Re. 1-10-0 and Re. 1-12-0 according to its payment by lump sum or in instalments, respectively ;

- (g) whether it is a fact that the kilabandi operations were introduced by Government at their own initiative and not on any suggestion made by landowners or their own tenants ;
- (h) whether it is a fact that kilabandi operations go a long way to simplify the land administration and to do away with most of the settlement operations and to save Government from a considerable amount of expenditure ;
- (i) if so, whether Government proposes to consider the advisability of remitting the acreage rates ;
- (j) whether it is a fact that in 1927 or 1928 kilabandi operations were introduced in fourteen villages of the Muktsar tahsil on the understanding that the cost of operations will be defrayed by the Mamdot Court of Wards ;
- (k) whether it is a fact that a cheque for Rs. 9,390 was sent to the Deputy Commissioner, Ferozepore, by the said Court of Wards to meet the expenses incurred by him on kilabandi ;
- (l) whether the Mamdot Court of Wards was interested in the introduction of kilabandi operations in the villages owned by it being the sole proprietor of them ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Acreage rate is a charge, per acre, leviable in addition to the charge for the use of water, until such time as the cost incurred by Government in construction of water-courses, which include rectangulation surveys has been recovered.

(b) This rate does not include kilabandi which is ordinarily paid for by Government.

(c) Watercourses were carefully designed in accordance with contour plans, and inspection of excavated watercourses is very generally done before payment is made.

(d) No, as it was not necessary.

(e) Yes.

(f) Yes.

(g) Yes.

(h) Yes.

(i) No, the acreage rate has nothing to do with kilabandi operations.

(j), (k), and (l). Yes.

Pir Akbar Ali : Is the Honourable Member aware that the water-courses are all uniform in depth, that is on high ground they are one foot and on the low ground they are of the same size ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I do not know that.

MOVE OF THE COURT OF SUB-JUDGE, PHALIA, TO MANDI BAHA-UD-DIN.

*4588. Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government is aware that the court of the Sub-Judge, Phalia, has been shifted to Mandi Baha-ud-Din ;

(b) in whose interest this step has been taken ;

[K. B. Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan.]

- (c) whether the people of the Phalia tahsil have made several representations to the local officers as well as to the Honourable Judges of the High Court against the move of the civil court from Phalia ;
- (d) whether a representation was made by the people of the Phalia tahsil to the Honourable the Chief Justice when he recently visited Gujrat ;
- (e) what action has been taken by the High Court on these representations ;
- (f) whether his attention has been drawn to the fact that Mandi Baha-ud-Din lies in a corner of the tahsil, while Phalia is a central place ;
- (g) whether Government will take some steps to redress this grievance of the people of the Phalia tahsil ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) In the interest of the public generally.

(c) Representations have been made to the Honourable Judges, and doubtless to the local officers also, both in favour of moving the court back to Phalia and in favour of retaining it at Mandi Baha-ud-Din.

(d) Government have no information.

(e) Government understand that after a careful consideration of the case the Honourable Judges have decided to keep the court at Mandi Baha-ud-Din.

(f) Since the abolition of the civil court which was formerly located at Dinga, the subordinate judge who now has his headquarters at Mandi Baha-ud-Din exercises jurisdiction throughout the Kharian tahsil, as well as over the Phalia tahsil. Mandi Baha-ud-Din though it is in a corner of the Phalia tahsil, is a more central place than Phalia for the two tahsils taken together. It is moreover a growing town, and is on the railway, while Phalia is not. It would be a positive hardship to require the people of the Kharian tahsil to take their cases to Phalia, fourteen miles from a railway station.

(g) The matter is one for decision by the Honourable Judges, under section 81 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1918.

PROPRIETARY RIGHTS IN GOVERNMENT TENANCIES IN THE CANAL COLONIES.

*4589. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased—

(i) to lay on the table a copy of—

(a) Punjab Government letter No. 186 (Rev.), dated the 19th December 1910 ;

(b) letter No. 7863, dated the 25th November 1915, from the Senior Secretary to the Financial Commissioners to the Commissioner of Multan ;

(c) Senior Secretary's letter No. 1718-D, dated the 17th—23rd April 1926 ;

(d) Senior Secretary's letter No. 1359-D, dated the 26th February 1929 ;

- (ii) to lay copies of such letters, circulars or instructions, if any, whereby any of the above letters might have been modified ;
- (iii) to state whether Government consider that it would be against public policy to lay copies of these documents on the table and if so whether it would be convenient to issue the gist of such letters, etc., which govern important public rights in the form of correction slips to the Punjab Colony Manual or other suitable form in which they might be available for the public ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The Government consider that it will not be in public interest to lay copies of official correspondence on the table. The rules prescribing the conditions for the purchase of proprietary rights by Government tenants holding land in the Chunian and Chenab Colonies, which form the most important part of this correspondence and are of public interest, have already been published in Supplements Nos. I. and II of the Punjab Colony Manual, 1933 edition.

BOARDING HOUSE OF GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, AMBALA.

*4590. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Boarding House of Government High School for Girls at Ambala is located in a Government building that was originally meant for the office of the Divisional Inspector of Schools, Ambala ;
- (b) whether he is aware that the said building is in a very close proximity of the Khalsa High School Boarding House ;
- (c) whether he is aware that the girls living in the above-mentioned hostel have to pass a railway level crossing gate when going to and coming from their school and in so doing they not only run the risk of being run over by railway trains but have also very often to keep standing for a considerable time at the railway crossing gate ;
- (d) whether he is aware that the girls living in the aforesaid hostel have, while going to and coming from their school, to pass by the same road that leads from the city to the district courts and that particularly in winter season when the times for opening and closing the girls' school and the courts almost coincide, the young girls and teachers have to encounter on the road a large crowd of people coming to or going from the offices and courts ;

[Ch. Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan.]

(e) whether it is a fact that in both summer and winter the timings for the opening and the closing of the girls and boys' schools being almost coincident the young girls and teachers living in the said hostel have to walk along the same road for more than a quarter mile side by side with the grown up boarders of the Khalsa Boys' High School while going to or coming from their schools ;

(f) whether it is proposed to remove the girls' school hostel to some more suitable site ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) and (b). Yes.

(c) Yes, but there are about twenty-five girls in the hostel which is ten minutes walk from the school ; two mistresses take the girls to school and back. They have to cross a railway level crossing but the Inspectress reports that no inconvenience is felt in going to the school.

(d) No.

(e) The Inspectress reports that this is not correct.

(f) No. Does the honourable member know of a better place, if so, will he very kindly inform me of it.

CANDIDATES FOR THE POST OF SUB-JUDGE.

*4591. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly place on the table the rules which govern the actual selection of individual candidates for the post of Sub-Judge after the semi-competitive examination is over ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : A copy of the rules which govern the selection of candidates for the post of Subordinate Judge after the qualifying examination is over is laid on the table.

Rules for the guidance of the Honourable Judges in selecting Sub-Judge Candidates.

1. Twenty per cent. of the appointments open at the time will ordinarily be given to the candidates appearing at the head of the examination list without reference to community or class.

2. A preliminary selection will then be made of candidates according to communities, in accordance with the proportions laid down in Punjab Government letter No. 352, dated 23rd February 1900.

3. The list will then be examined with reference to whether candidates are certified to be "zamindars" or not, in order to provide that as nearly as possible 50 per. cent of the candidates (except Christians) finally selected shall be zamindars. If this percentage is not provided by selection according to rule 2, the Judges will go lower down the list of zamindars. A non-zamindar candidate occupying the lowest place in the preliminary selection will be ousted by a zamindar candidate of the same religious community chosen from below, if available. If he is not available, then a zamindar of another community will replace the lowest selected non-zamindar of his own community.

4. The Judges may direct any or all of the candidates to appear before them for a personal interview.

ARRESTS UNDER THE PUNJAB RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT.

*4592. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly place on the table districtwise a list showing—

- (a) the number of arrests in execution of decrees which have taken place after the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act came into force ;
- (b) the number of houses attached or sold in execution of decrees since 19th April, 1935 ;
- (c) the number of cases in which notices to judgment-debtors have been issued calling upon them to show cause why they should not be arrested ;
- (d) the number of cases in which objections against the attachment of houses of agriculturists have respectively been allowed or disallowed ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that it has only been possible so far to obtain figures for the period up to the 30th June, 1935, and even for this period we have not yet been able to collect information enabling a reply to be given to parts (b) and (d) of the question. A statement is laid on the table containing such statistics as it has been found possible to get together. I hope to supply more complete information to the honourable member subsequently.

DEHRI RATES AS COMPARED WITH BARANI RATES FOR LAND REVENUE.

*4593. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state the number and names of the villages comprised in the Dehri Chak in the Jhajjar tahsil of Rohtak and the extent to which dehri rates are higher than ordinary barani rates for land revenue ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (1) Statement showing the names of villages is enclosed.

(2) The barani and the dehri rates in the Dehri circle are the same.

COMPENSATION FOR LEAVE DUE TO DISCHARGED PANCHAYAT OFFICERS.

*4594. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) whether any money was provided in the current year's budget for payment as compensation for leave due to the panchayat officers who had been discharged in 1932 ;
- (b) whether this money has been paid to those panchayat officers ; if not, the reasons for the delay ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Provision was made in the budget of 1984-85 for payment of leave salary to the panchyat officers retrenched in 1982.

(b) The money has been paid.

SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4595. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly lay on the table a list showing—

- the number of persons appointed to the Subordinate Educational Service (Anglo-Vernacular section) otherwise than by promotion during 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984 and 1985 ;
- the number of Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs among the persons referred to in (a) ;
- the number of statutory agriculturists among the Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs referred to in (b) ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to the answer to his question No. *4229<sup>1</sup> giving the requisite information for the year 1981—84.

The information for the current year is laid on the table.

SCARCITY OF WATER IN HISSAR DISTRICT.

*4596. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- whether he is aware that the villages Dabwali, Alike, Masitan, Saktahera, Lakhwana, Mahangiana, Manjgarh, Lambi, Gidar Khara, Khairanawala, Ganga, Modi, Darawala and other neighbouring villages in the Hissar district experience great difficulty in obtaining water for drinking purposes during the greater part of the year ;
- whether he is aware that due to failure of rainfall generally the crops fail in these villages ;
- whether he is aware that on account of remodelling carried out in 1985, there is surplus water in the Hambi, Teona, Bhatinda, Behman and Kot Bhai distributaries near the villages mentioned in (a) ;

[Ch. Allah Dad Khan.]

(d) whether the officers of the Irrigation Department connected with the distributaries referred to in (c) had correspondence among themselves in order to make the surplus water available to these villages ;

(e) if the answers to (a), (b), (c) and (d) are in the affirmative, whether the Government intends to take steps to make the surplus water available to the villages mentioned in (a) ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No figures regarding barani crops are available but in 8 out of the 13 villages named the average irrigation of the past 4 years has been 474 acres on which the average remission was 9 acres only.

(c) As a result of remodelling of certain distributaries some additional supply has become available for utilization elsewhere in British territory, but the villages in question are far removed from the distributaries, which have been remodelled and in any case it would be impracticable to give them a regular supply through the Kotla Branch, a channel under the control of Patiala State.

(d) No : the correspondence bore no reference to the villages in question.

(e) No.

MUSLIM REPRESENTATION IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, BERI.

*4597. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) the population of the town of Beri in the Rohtak district communitywise ;

(b) the voting strength of the various communities in the Municipality of Beri ;

(c) how many members there are in the Municipal Committee of Beri,—(i) elected, and (ii) nominated ;

(d) whether he is aware that there is not a single Muslim member in the Municipal Committee of Beri ;

(e) if the election held last time brought in no Muslim, why no Muslim member was nominated to the Municipality of Beri ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Muslims 842, Hindus 7,003, others 32.

(b) Muslims 126, Hindus 1,882, others 1.

(c) Elected members 6.

Appointed members 2.

(d) It has been brought to the notice of Government that there is no Muslim member in the Municipal Committee of Beri.

(e) No Muslim member was appointed by the Commissioner, Ambala division, as the then Tahsildar, who is an appointed member, was a Muslim. But the Commissioner has now been asked to appoint a non-official Muslim if no Muslim is elected in the next elections, which are due in November, 1936.

WOUND PENSION TO MR. PRAKASH CHANDRA.

*4593. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Mr. Prakash Chandra, M.Sc., was severely injured in the course of "discharge of special duty which had the effect of increasing his liability to injury or death beyond the ordinary risk of the civil appointment held by him" and whether it is also a fact that the Principal, Government Intermediate College, Hoshiarpur, admitted this in his report which he was asked to submit under Article 746, Civil Service Regulations, in August, 1931 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that as a consequence of this accident he incurred a permanent loss of his left eye at the prime age of 28½ years and has permanently been disfigured ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that special disability leave for 3½ months was sanctioned to him under F. R. 83-A by the Governor-General in Council ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that Mr. Prakash Chandra applied for compensation under Article 746-B read with Article 746, Civil Service Regulations, according to which he was entitled to special wound pension at the rate of one-third of his salary or an equivalent gratuity under Article 742-C. S. R. ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that instead of applying Article 746-B, Article 747, C. S. R., has been applied and only a small sum of Rs. 780 (equivalent to six months' salary of the incumbent) has been sanctioned (after three years) ;
- (f) if the reply to (a) and (c) is in the affirmative, why Article 746-B read with Article 747, C. S. R., which refers to cases in which a 'public servant' has sustained injury in the ordinary discharge of his duties, has been applied ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that even under Article 747-C. S. R. the incumbent is entitled to extraordinary pension not exceeding Rs. 25 per mensem or its equivalent gratuity of Rs. 1,000 whichever is greater and on account of the irreparable loss he has sustained he is entitled to the maximum under the rules ;
- (h) how the Government has calculated his compensation which even under Article 747 should be many times the sum of Rs. 780 awarded ;
- (i) whether Government is aware of the fact that a temporary Engineer of the Public Works Department much older in age than Mr. Prakash Chandra sustained injury of Coccyx bone by an accidental slip during the course of a quarry and was compensated by the grant of as much as Rs. 15,000 or thereabout ;
- (j) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, why such a low compensation is being awarded to Mr. Prakash Chandra ;
- (k) what the Education Department, in which Mr. Prakash Chandra is serving, has done to compensate him departmentally in view of the serious loss he has incurred which has affected adversely his future career and his chances to do further research ;

[R. B. L. Sewak Ram.]

(D) whether Government is aware of the fact that Mr. Prakash Chandra has not accepted this low sum of Rs. 780 (as sanctioned in April, 1934) so far ;

(m) what action the Government proposes to take to adequately compensate Mr. Prakash Chandra for the irreparable loss of an eye sustained by him ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Mr. Prakash Chandra was injured while carrying out an experiment of match-making in the college laboratory on the occasion of an educational exhibition.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) In his memorial to His Excellency the Governor Mr. Prakash Chandra demanded the application of Article 747 of Civil Service Regulations under which article his claims have been considered.

(e) Yes, article 747 has been applied.

(f) In the opinion of Government the appropriate article has been applied.

(g) Yes, on re-consideration Government have decided to double his compensation and he will now be awarded a total sum of Rs. 1,560 instead of the original sum of Rs. 780.

(h) Government considers that Rs. 1,560 is adequate compensation.

(i) Ministry of Education is not aware of this case.

(j) In view of what is said above, does not arise.

(k) Promotions in the Department cannot be made on the basis of personal injuries.

(l) No.

(m) Does not arise.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Is the Honourable Minister aware that Mr. Prakash Chandra is a very highly qualified teacher ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : Since the honourable member says so, he must be.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : If so, will he consider the desirability of giving Mr. Prakash Chandra some special treatment ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : Does the honourable member wish me to overlook the claims of other persons ? Promotions are made strictly by selection and the Director of Public Instruction is the best judge as to which of the persons is best qualified for promotion. I am afraid that promotion cannot be given on account of physical injuries.

SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4599. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state as to how many third class M.A.'s or M. Sc.'s have been appointed in the Subordinate Educational Service from 1928 to 1935, and how many of them have been appointed (a) in grade Rs. 200—10—250 and (b) in grade Rs. 140—10—190 ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to the Subordinate Educational Service gradation lists, copies of which are in the Council Library.

SCIENCE TEACHERS IN GOVERNMENT COLLEGES.

*4600. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state how many of the permanent science teachers in the various Government colleges in the grade Rs. 140—10—190 and in grade Rs. 110—5—135 are either First class B. Sc.'s or First class M. Sc.'s of the Punjab University ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to part II of the gradation list of the Subordinate Educational Service corrected up to 1st April, 1934, a copy of which is placed in the Council Library.

PROMOTION TO MEMBERS OF THE SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4601. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) how many accelerated promotions (not on seniority) have been given to members of the Subordinate Educational Service from 1927 to 1934, stating the qualifications of those who got such promotions ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that M. Obeidullah, M. A. (Persian), B. T., Mr. S. F. Dean, B.A., S.A.-V., Mr. Siraj Din, M.A., Government College, Lahore, have been promoted over the head of several capable Hindus ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Sardar Dharam Singh, M.Sc., has been promoted to class I, Rs. 200—10—250 superseding 121 men ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The honourable member is referred to the departmental lists, copies of which are placed in the Council Library.

(b) No. In regard to M. Siraj-ud-Din the honourable member is referred to my answer to his question No. * 869,<sup>1</sup> asked in the June session of the Council in 1934. M. Obeidulla and Mr. Dean were appointed as Head Master, Government High School, Hissar, and District Inspector of Schools, Simla, respectively on the recommendation of the Inspector of Schools, Ambala division ; the appointments of head masters and district inspectors are made by selection and not by seniority.

(c) Sardar Dharam Singh is an M. Sc. (Physics), Class I, and was appointed as lecturer in Physics at a degree college. None of his seniors was M. Sc. (Physics), Class I.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : What subject is he teaching now ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I am afraid I really cannot tell you this off hand.

SCIENCE TEACHERS IN GOVERNMENT COLLEGES.

*4602. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state whether he will lay on the table a list of teachers of different subjects of Science in the various Government colleges in the Subordinate Educational Service with their qualifications?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to the departmental lists and the University Calendar, copies of which are placed in the Council Library.

COMMUNAL REPRESENTATION IN THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

*4603. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : (a) Will the Honourable Minister for Education please lay on the table communitywise the number of district inspectors, assistant district inspectors, headmasters of normal schools and headmasters of Government schools;

(b) Will he please state why there is such a great under-representation of minority community?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The honourable member is referred to the departmental lists which are placed in the Council Library.

(b) The honourable member is referred to items (1), (2) and (5) of the reply given to question No. *362,<sup>1</sup> asked in the June session of 1984 and to part (a) of the reply given to question No. *3532,<sup>2</sup> asked in the October session of 1984.

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

*4604. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

(a) the number of candidates communitywise admitted to various normal schools in the province;

(b) whether it is a fact that despite several Hindu and Sikh candidates, all the students admitted to the Normal School, Campbellpur, are Muslims;

(c) why the claims of Hindus and Sikhs have been ignored?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) A statement is laid on the table.

(b) No. Out of the ten students admitted, two are Hindus. It may, however, be added for the honourable member's information that as the population of the Attock district is preponderantly Muslim more Urdu teachers are required in village primary schools for girls and, therefore, more Muslims have to be admitted to training classes. Moreover, as the District Board, Campbellpur, provided an open air class room and hostel accommodation for junior vernacular students, Government agreed that of the total number of students admitted to the training classes at Campbellpur each year 80 per cent. should come from areas controlled by the Attock District Board.

(c) Does not arise.

<sup>2</sup>Volume XXV, page 370.

APPOINTMENT OF MR. S. M. SHARIF AS INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS.

*4605. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Mr. S. M. Sharif without any training degree has been appointed Inspector of Schools, over the head of several old experienced Hindus and Sikhs ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that Rai Sahib Rattan Lal, Principal, Rohtak College, Chaudhri Bhana Ram, Deputy Inspector of Schools, and Lala Indar Bhan, Deputy Inspector of Schools, had far greater experience and had been serving in the inspectorial line for a long number of years ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The appointment of a divisional inspector is a question of selection. Mr. S. M. Sharif was carefully tested as a deputy inspector and proved that he was the best possible selection for the post which he now holds.

(b) Yes.

As stated above, the appointment of a divisional inspector is based on selection. Length of service is not the only criterion of promotion.

SUPERSESSIONS IN THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

*4606. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Mr. U. Kramat has been promoted to the P. E. S., Class I, within three years of his appointment and put as Deputy Inspector of Schools ignoring hundreds of Hindus and Sikhs ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that Mr. Chirag Din, Lecturer, Government College, Lyallpur, has been put as Principal, Government Intermediate College, Jhang, over the head of several Hindus and Sikhs ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) There are only 105 posts in Provincial Education Service, Class II. Mr. U. Kramat therefore cannot be said to have superseded hundreds of Hindus and Sikhs. He had, however, a number of Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs and others above him, whose claims were duly considered. It may be added for the honourable member's information that Mr. U. Kramat is one of the best qualified men in the Department. It may further be added that appointments of deputy inspectors are made by selection and not by seniority.

(b) Yes. It may, however, interest the honourable member to know that M. Chiragh Din has already officiated successfully as Principal of an intermediate college. It may further be added that appointments of principals of intermediate colleges are also made by selection and not by seniority.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

DHARI RATES OF LAND REVENUE, JHAJJAR TAHSIL.

1175. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state the villages in the tahsil of Jhajjar, district Rohtak, where dhari rates of land-revenue have been imposed, stating the years during the period between 1918 and 1934 in which these villages received the benefit of dahar supply of water?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : A list of the villages has already been supplied to the honourable member in answer to his question No. 571<sup>1</sup> in February, 1933. The name of village Kolana should be excluded from that list because it was erroneously entered in it. These villages received the benefit of dahar supply of water in 1918, 1924-25 and 1933-34.

APPOINTMENT OF ZILLADARS.

1176. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state whether it is a fact that instructions have been issued to Superintending Engineers that they should send up the names of an equal number of Muslims and non-Muslims for the post of zilladar from their respective circles regardless of the proportion in which Muslims and non-Muslims are represented in the population of their circles?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No such orders have issued, but the practice is that Superintending Engineers send up the names of representatives of both Muslims and non-Muslims.

APPOINTMENT OF ZILLADARS.

1177. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly lay on the table of the House the instructions, if any, which have been issued to Superintending Engineers as to the communal proportions which they should observe in sending up the names of zilladar candidates from their respective circles?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No such orders have issued, but the practice is that they send up representatives of both Muslims and non-Muslims.

LAND REVENUE IN GURGAON DISTRICT.

1178. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state whether the land revenue in Gurgaon district is an annual charge or a tax per harvest?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The land revenue in the Gurgaon district is mostly fixed and paid in two half yearly instalments—rabi and kharif.

COMPLAINTS BY CHAUDHRI UMRAO SINGH AGAINST THE DISCREPANCY IN THE GRADED LIST OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

1179. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a teacher Chaudhri Umrao Singh of the Government High School, Hansi, in the Hissar district, submitted an application to the Director of Public Instruction through proper channel on 27th February, 1935, complaining against the discrepancies in the graded list ;
- (b) if so, whether he will lay a copy of it on the table ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that sixteen teachers from No. 11 to No. 26 in the vernacular section (Rs. 55—3—70) who are junior to the said teacher as regards length of service as well as grade promotion are shown senior to him in the new graded list ;
- (d) if so, the reasons for the same ;
- (e) what action Government has taken on the application mentioned above ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) to (e) Government do not consider that it is in the public interest to supply the information of the kind required by the honourable member. If the subject of the question feels aggrieved he can have his grievances redressed by an appeal to the competent authority.

It is, however, added for the honourable member's information that the petition of Chaudhri Umrao Singh was duly considered and the position explained to him through the Divisional Inspector.

PAY OF COPYISTS IN THE COPYING DEPARTMENT.

1180. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Copying Department is a self-supporting agency ;
- (b) if so, what is the income and expenditure of the department for the last five years annually ;
- (c) the total number of copyists employed in the department at present ;
- (d) what circumstances compelled the Financial Commissioner in fixing their pay as rupees twenty-five per month once for all without taking into consideration their length of service and without any hope for a rise in the future ;
- (e) whether it is under the consideration of the Government to bring about reduction in the number of copyists or whether reduction has already been brought about ;
- (f) the number of copyists to be reduced or brought under reduction ;
- (g) whether the present system of advance is beneficial to the department, and what is its effect on the income and expenditure of the department ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) and (b) The figures of gross receipts and expenditure of the Copying Agency Department for the last five years are given in the attached statement.

(c) to (g) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the reply given to parts (d) and (f) to (g) of question No. 1105<sup>1</sup> during the Budget session of the Council.

Figures of gross receipts and expenditure of the Copying Agency Department for the last five years.

M. A. MATHEMATICS EXAMINATION OF THE PUNJAB UNIVERSITY.

1181. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- whether it is a fact that certain modified rules were published as a result of the Syndicate meeting of 14th December, 1984, of the Punjab University ;
- whether they apply to all subjects or to Mathematics alone ;
- whether the modified rules regarding the setting of the papers by the external examiners alone were applied to all M. A. examinations ;
- if the answer to (c) be in the negative, the reasons for the same ;
- what the Senate did regarding these rules in its meeting of the 30th March, 1985 ;
- whether the Senate passed them over ;
- if the answer to (f) be in the negative, what objection the Senate raised ;
- whether under the existing rules and regulations it was necessary to send these rules to the Senate ;
- if the answer to (h) be in the negative, why they were sent at all ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) To all subjects.

(c) No ; only to Mathematics.

(d) Because the papers in the other subjects had already been set before the Syndicate decision.

(e), (f) and (g). The Senate proceedings, dated the 30th March, 1935, are published in Part III-A of the Punjab Government Gazette, dated the 3rd May, 1935.

(h) and (i) There was difference of opinion whether under the Regulations it was necessary to submit the new rules to the Senate for approval or not. But to avoid any possible objection, it was decided to place the rules before the Senate.

M. A. MATHEMATICS EXAMINATION OF THE PUNJAB UNIVERSITY.

1182. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

(a) on what dates the M.A. Mathematics papers for 1935 as set by the external examiners were received by the Punjab University ;

(b) whether it is a fact that M. A. Mathematics papers were received very late ;

(c) if the answer to (b) be in the affirmative, the reasons for the delay ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) On various dates, from 4th December, 1934, to 20th February, 1935.

(b) Yes, they were received later than usual.

(c) Because the letters to the examiners were issued late under instructions from the Vice-Chancellor.

M. A. MATHEMATICS EXAMINATION OF THE PUNJAB UNIVERSITY.

1183. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

(a) when the Punjab University issued letters to the external examiners in M. A. examinations to set the papers for examinations in 1935 ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the issuing of the letters of appointment to the M. A. Mathematics examinations was delayed ;

(c) if the answer to (b) be in the affirmative, why, under what rules, and by whose authority they were delayed ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) On the 10th November, 1934.

(b) Yes.

(c) There is no rule prescribing the date by which letters to Examiners are to be issued. The letters are issued at the discretion of the Controller who is responsible for the printing of the papers. In this instance he was instructed by the Vice-Chancellor to postpone the issue of letters until further orders. This action was taken for certain confidential reasons to which reference was made by the Vice-Chancellor in his statement made at the Senate meeting held on the 30th March, 1935, the proceedings of which are published in Part III-A of the Punjab Government Gazette, dated the 3rd May, 1935.

M. A. MATHEMATICS EXAMINATION OF THE PUNJAB UNIVERSITY.

1184. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in the Punjab University before the M. A. results are published, they must be signed by the convener of the Board of Examiners ;
- (b) whether the M. A. Mathematics examination result of 1934 was so signed ; if not, why not ;
- (c) if the answer to (b) be in the affirmative, whether it was signed conditionally or unconditionally ;
- (d) whether any letter was written by the convener of the Board of Examiners in this connection to the Controller of Examinations ; if so, whether a copy of it will be laid on the table ;
- (e) if the answer to (d) be in the negative, why and by whose authority the result was published ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) No. It may, however, be stated that under the rules in force for the M. A. examination held in 1934, the Result Sheet was to be signed by the members of the Board of Examiners or their consent duly secured. There is no rule requiring the signature of the Convener as such.

(b) The Convener's consent is on the file.

(c) Conditionally.

(d) Yes. But the Convener's letter being confidential it is not in the public interest to disclose its contents. It may however be added that the Convener required certain facts to be brought to the Vice-Chancellor's notice which was done.

(e) The result was published under the orders of the Vice-Chancellor.

THE PUNJAB CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President : The Council will now resume discussion on Mr. Boyd's motion that the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban) : I think the Government is ill-advised not to have asked this House to send this Bill to a select committee. That the Government should expect this House to pass this Bill section by section, word for word and comma by comma is absolutely too ridiculous to be believed. If we go through section 2 it will be found that it does not specify the person who has to arrest a man, whether he is to be a judicial officer or an executive officer or even a police officer ; it simply says that the officer should be a gazetted officer. Any officer drawing over Rs. 200 can act by simply being gazetted in the official gazette. It is impossible to believe that any Government can ask for these powers. I strongly object that a respectable man, he may be anti-Government, should be arrested and handed over to the police simply because it is feared that breach of peace is likely to take place. If there is only a danger of breach of peace, how can we allow the Government to arm itself with such powers? We cannot allow respectable persons or any person, for the matter of that, to be handed over to the police to be kept in the thana where there is not even a charpai and not even a clean decent latrine nor any utensils.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Is it not possible to move amendments to that effect later on when the Bill is taken into consideration?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I am telling you what you have brought before us. I am telling the House your intentions and what you are doing before us. You can throw out amendments. I am now utilizing my right to point out what the nature of Government demand is. They have not even taken the trouble of sending the Bill to select committee. The waving of the pencil by the Honourable Finance Member shows that he feels that he is wrong in making this motion (laughter). He feels that he is pinched and he knows that he has made a mistake and that no one will grant such a request.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : You already passed it twice.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : He knows that three years ago there were extraordinary circumstances, civil disobedience and Mahatma Gandhi were before the eyes of the Government and Gandhi was confronting the eyes of my friends.

Mr. President : The honourable member will please not wander away from the motion before the House.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : If one is to be interrupted, one has to wander away from his subject. Let them hear me and let the Honourable Member reply word for word and I will not interrupt him. I strongly object that any Government officer should be empowered to use such powers and to hand over men to custody for 15 days. Those who have seen a thana even from outside know that there is not even a decent blanket in the room, which is never swept and there is not even a lota to drink water from and the poor inmate is at the mercy of any and every passing constable to provide him with water. These are the arrangements in the thana. Let any member stand up and say that I am wrong even by one hundredth of one per cent. in the allegations I am making. The system is wrong. People put in these thanas are not treated as human beings. These policemen are used to jail birds like dacoits and they do not know how to treat people guilty of political offence or of communal offence. Communalists and politicians are not members of criminal tribes. Again this custody may last not only for 15 days but may go on for 2 months. Have you ever heard of such a thing? You can arrest a man, you can send him away to a distant place, but what is the meaning in arresting a man and putting him in lock up for two months? I refuse to believe that Government is serious in asking us that the police officers should be given the right to detain a man for two months in custody under this section. The Honourable Finance Member has read the Bible and he knows that the Pharaoh of Egypt ordered that every person born in a particular year shall be killed. Is it not history? Do you not know how Moses escaped? I am sure you have not forgotten your history as well as your Bible.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I think it was the first born in every family (laughter).

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Then the honourable member does not object to killing, he only objects to others than the first born being killed.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : You would have escaped all right (laughter).

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I know, but in the heart of his heart he is sorry for it (laughter). I would have escaped as Moses escaped. Perhaps Sir Macworth Young or some other potentate of the old days may have killed me but luckily I escaped. I do not mean to impute any motive, but if the power is there it is likely to be misused. A few days ago a C. I. D. man reported that a very, very respectable member of this House was instigating people to strike and was preaching sedition. The superintendent of police of the ilaqa at once rushed to the place without a moment's thought and started investigations. He did not pause to inquire whether it was true or not. On enquiry he found that the information was absolutely unfounded. Luckily that member was too big a person to be caught, but had it been my friend Mr. Ghani he would have at once been caught and challaned, as he was once arrested and challaned on the allegation that during the tonga strike he instigated certain persons to attack a policeman.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Was that under this Act?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : If the ordinary law can be misused against a member of this honourable House, then this lawless law can certainly be very easily used against any ordinary being in the country. Mr. Ghani was lucky enough to have courts to hear his case and he had the right of appeal, but under this law there are no courts, no appeal and no dalil.

Now I come to section 7. The normal thing is to go to thana and report. But reporting in thanas is not an easy job. It is different for the Honourable Revenue Member who goes in his car and calls the thanedar out; but for an ordinary man it is different. The thanedar is out so often on investigation and the poor man has to wait for two or three days before he can get an audience with the thanedar and all this time he is exposed to the jeering of the policemen. I am not trying to give an exaggerated picture of the events. I have passed through all these phases in Amritsar during the last ten years. We have seen communal riots, we have seen martial law riots and these benches also are in the know of those troubles. The Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government rode a horse one day in a procession during the 1921 days and the next day he was locked up in a very small neat nice cabin and he remained there for six months.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I did not ride a horse.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : At least that is what the gossip says, but if that was the fate that met him without riding a horse, if he had ridden one he would certainly have been hanged. Another ex-Minister suffered exactly the same in similar conditions. He was also arrested. Can you imagine Mr. Manohar Lal doing anything against the law? (Laughter). He will be a very bold man who will say Mr. Manohar Lal would consciously or unconsciously step on the wrong side of the law. Then there was a person who was till recently a judge of the High Court. He was also arrested and Mr. Labh Singh another honourable member of this House was also arrested. When there is a political disturbance, the mental balance is upset and naturally people forget their friends while the conflict is on. We find brother fighting against brother at elections, metaphorically trying to shed the blood of each other, and it happens not only here but in advanced countries as well. Under those conditions what will be the effect of this legislation? The words used are, "shall not enter, reside, or remain in any specified area, shall reside or remain in any area specified in the order, shall remove himself from, and shall not return to any area specified in the order." That means that a man can be externed from the province, the old days of "Tavion par" order of Maharaja Gulab Singh being revived and once you pass an order, "Go out of the Punjab," the man has to go out of the province altogether, just as so many refugees from Spain, Portugal, Roumania, Bulgaria and other countries. Are we going to create under British rule exactly similar conditions? It is not only Bolsheviks but everyone of them who had the powers has misused them. It is not only Indians who will misuse them. Start from Portugal at one end and go right up to Turkey; with the exception of France you will find everywhere where so-called democracy has invested the executive with the power, the power has been utilised to the disadvantage of the opposite party. Are we going to allow the future politicians here to start the game simply in the hope that they will be more patriotic than partisan? Think of the position in the Punjab. A few members are pressing the Ministry and urging that unless the Ministry got an order passed and the District Magistrate was given the power to remove all opponents, those members had no hope of being returned. The Minister, thinking that the Government is going to fall to pieces if he was not elected next time and did not occupy the Minister's place, apprehending that he would in case of defeat have to fly for his life, decides to use the power under the Act. I concede that ninety-nine per cent. that will not be the case. But still the power can be used in case of necessity if it is there.

I now come to a section where the power is given to enter a house if a public meeting is held there. Suppose a party meeting is going on and a police officer comes and says: I want to know what is going on. Is it right that we should allow any police constable—it need not even be a constable; it may be any person, the words are so wide—to any party meeting?

Mr. President : At this stage only the principle of the Bill should be discussed and not its details, while the honourable member has been discussing clause after clause.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Very well, Sir. I will not name the clauses. I think this principle of enabling the Government to send any one to the opposite camp at the time of a meeting is reprehensible. I can understand it being a police officer but as the words of the clause stand, the police officer need not go himself but any one from the opposite faction can be sent. Honourable members of the Government, I mean the European members of the Indian Civil Service, have no public meetings of that kind and cannot therefore imagine what will happen. Think of an Ahrar holding a meeting and an Ahmadiya is sent there or when the Ahmadiyas are holding a meeting at Qadian a member of Ahrar party is sent to the place of meeting. I therefore appeal to the Government to carry on as best as they can under the all-India Act which has been certified now, which I understand, gives ample power and practically covers all the clauses which are before us. Government can, after listening to our speeches and the views of the public, at the next session of the Council bring before us an acceptable Bill and this House will not refuse to pass it. As the Bill stands however we cannot but say that if it is passed and put permanently on the statute book it may absolutely create havoc, it will cause untold misery if ever misused. It will be a cause of ferment in the future and it will make India a Latin America, it will make India a Mexico or Greece. We want to march steadily forward and not by flourishing pistols, bombs and swords, but depending upon our own strength not of the fist but of brain and commonsense, instead of being armed to the teeth like the heroes in a cinema by these dangerous powers. To foresee progress with pistols and swords is really dangerous for a young democracy like ours.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh (Sikh, Urban) : After a long, interesting and very humorous speech from my honourable friend the member who preceded me, I would be very brief in my observations. Those of us who are opposing the Bill are doing so I believe mainly for the wide powers given to the executive in chapter 2 of the Bill. The idea of arming the executive with any extraordinary powers is certainly repugnant to all those who love personal liberty. In all countries people and their representatives in the legislature have always resented arming the executive with any additional authority. Of late, however, circumstances and conditions in some of the countries have changed the mentality of the people and we find dictators in Italy, Germany, Turkey and some other countries. Even in the United States of America, the President possesses very extensive powers. We in this country are naturally very shy in arming the executive with any extraordinary authority. We are suspicious that those powers may be abused by the Government. It is perfectly true that in some cases Government in the past have abused their power. We are consequently very much afraid that the Government may use such powers again for stifling the national spirit. But if people are convinced that these powers are needed and if given, will be used only for public good and for the maintenance of peace and I am sure much of the opposition will disappear. Of course, however small the power you may give the executive, there remains always the risk of its being abused. Every law enacted is an inroad on individual liberty. But the good of the community as a whole has actuated even free nations to place voluntary restraints on individual actions. The proposed measure is limited in its scope and if used in the restricted sense in which it is sought to be enacted I am sure it will no more be an encroachment on personal liberty or be a negation of personal liberty than all the laws which place restraints on our individual actions. Clause 2 of the Bill, I suppose, is to be used to stop the menace of terrorism and communism. I understand that that was the assurance given by Sir Henry Craik in 1932. I might quote his words where he says :

I stress the point because clause 2 of the Bill which gives the power to arrest suspected persons is designed to be used mainly, if not entirely, against terrorists.

I believe the Honourable the Finance Member, Mr. Boyd, has also given that assurance. If he has not done so, he would be well advised to do so at this stage.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : No. I think I must correct that at once so that there may be no misunderstanding. I actually said that I did not want to bind the future Government at all.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : In my view clause 2 should be applicable to terrorists and communists and not to ordinary law-abiding citizens. If the application of the most objectionable part of the Bill is to be restricted to revolutionaries we should not grudge any powers to the executive if it needs those powers to face such a menace. I am sure nobody in this House has any sympathy with a terrorist. The terrorist deserves no consideration or sympathy from any true lover of the country. It has been argued, if these extraordinary powers are needed, why are they not needed for arresting ordinary murderers or dacoits? The answer to that is simple. The ordinary murderer or dacoit can be caught under the ordinary law. Even a terrorist offender can be caught under the ordinary law. But the case of a terrorist is somewhat different. For the man who actually commits the crime is very often the tool of an organised body. The actual brain of the whole movement usually keeps in the background. It is therefore impossible to catch hold of the man who is guiding the movement without some powers beyond the ordinary law.

The other parts of the Bill are meant to be applied against civil resisters who might break the peace of the land by unlawful actions or take the law into their own hands or instigate the peasantry to non-payment of taxes. Civil disobedience no doubt in the form in which the Congress started stands suspended, but the spirit of civil disobedience movement has come to stay. Any community or any section of the population which might feel aggrieved resorts to that weapon. Only lately Lahore was the scene of such an action. I do not wish to dwell on this unfortunate episode. The authorities had a very difficult and delicate task to perform. If the authorities had not acted promptly in the maintenance of peace and the preservation of law and order, I am afraid the trouble would have spread far and wide to every corner of the province. The threat of civil disobedience movement in this connection still exists. Lest I should be misunderstood I want to make it clear that I do not advocate the application of this measure on any particular occasion. Whosoever or whatever community threatens to break the peace of the province must suffer the penalty of law. Communalism has disgraced the fair name of this province. It may have its roots in separate electorates, old traditions, or divergent religious practices but the fact remains that by our ignoble demeanour in matters communal we have given a handle to others to interfere in our affairs, and so long as this curse remains we will be providing some justification for a measure of this nature. It has been said that under the new constitution the executive may use this Bill or this Act against its opponents. I personally think that no extraordinary powers are needed under the new constitution. The new constitution provides sufficient safeguards in the hands of the Governor under the Governors' special powers. But even so it must be remembered that the new executive, the future executive, will be responsible to the legislature—to a legislature which will be wholly elected. Even if this Bill is enacted and placed in the hands of the future executive, unless that executive retains the confidence of the legislature it can no longer keep this Act on the statute book against the wishes of popular representatives. The legislature in future will be entirely at liberty to retain or to repeal the Act.

Reference was made to the Bombay Bill of a similar kind. I have not read the Bill but I have read a criticism of the Bill in the "Servants of India," and in that criticism it has been stated—I do not know whether rightly or wrongly—that the Punjab Bill is a milder measure than the Bombay Bill. I will just read those words. It is stated that—

"Despite a diligent search we have not been able to discover such a law or such procedure elsewhere. Even in the corresponding law of the Punjab there are no sections corresponding to sections 5 to 9. The maximum punishment is one year imprisonment and a fine not exceeding Rs. 2,000."

I would like to submit, however, that Government should be prepared to consider sympathetically any amendments that honourable members of this House might suggest and which Government might consider reasonable. During the course of its consideration in Bombay the Government accepted, I believe, two or three amendments. One was with regard to deferring of payment of land revenue with a view to the removal of grievances by lawful action. I suggest that any reasonable amendments moved by the members of this House should be acceptable to Government and Government should not oppose those amendments simply because they are coming from the members opposite.

I would also suggest that Government should consider the advisability of limiting the period of operation of this Act to the life of this Council or to a period of, say, two or three years. Such a Bill should not be placed in the statute book permanently. The hands of the future executive and the future legislature should not be tied down in a matter of this kind.

With these few words I support the motion for consideration.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani (West Punjab Towns, Muhammadan, Urban): It is rather strange that members one after another from this side of the House should have got up to oppose a measure of this nature but it is the doings of the Government that has brought about this situation.

Yesterday I was listening very carefully and attentively to the speech made by the Honourable the Finance Member and I was on the look out to find out if a case had been made out for the passage of such an extraordinary measure, which will be in force not only for two or three years but for ever. We are asked to put this measure on the statute book for the guidance of a Government that has to come. Some extraordinary situation, some unusual ferment in the country, some upheaval of unprecedented magnitude could only have justified the passing of this Bill and that should have been borne out clearly by facts and figures in order to ask us to pass a legislation of this nature. I fail to see any plausible or convincing argument throughout the speech made by the Honourable the Finance Member. We gave our support to the previous Bill in 1932 and after a lapse of three or four years I am convinced that that was absolutely an ineffectual measure. It is a measure of no political use at all. It simply provokes people. It creates an atmosphere of discontent and unpopularity in the country against the Government and it can be used to no useful purpose. I have got facts and figures to bring that home to you. You have just had the Shahidganj affair. There were some talks, there were some meetings where people collected to devise means to approach the Sikhs to respect Muslim feelings and not to demolish the building. There were certain responsible gentlemen at the helm of affairs on the side of the Muslims. But the authorities on certain reports, false or true, took action under the Act. Maulana Zafar Ali and certain other gentlemen including the Editor of the Siyasat, Sayad Habib—a thoroughly law-abiding gentleman—and certain other persons were deported. What was the result? Some gentlemen, very highly placed who can never at any moment countenance any movement for disorder seeing that they stood discredited, their comrades being deported as outlaws and as people who would bring about trouble in the country, naturally stood aside. I think the gentleman sitting close to me and several others out of fear that they would get a bad name kept aloof. What was the result? The masses were left without any leader. There was none to advise, none to guide and the end was deplorable. Did this Act help the situation? It made it worse. We who live in a distant district in the Punjab were not prone to attach much importance to Shahidganj at the outset and did not interest ourselves much. But the deportations attracted the attention of everybody and a fuss was created. Government acted hastily on advice tendered and mishandled the situation. Did the Act put a stop to the agitation or the further ugly developments that cropped up? This Act, I would submit, cost the lives of innocent persons. Thirty-five innocent persons were shot down.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Where does the honourable member get his figures? Fifteen is the correct figure.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : I was ill in those days. I withdraw the statement.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The honourable member will please not misrepresent. He will please be accurate in a very serious matter like this.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : And more than 1,000 persons received injuries. Where was the Act at the moment? It was the pistols and bayonets that came to your help, it was the infantry bullet that ultimately succeeded. What did this provision do? How can you in an emergency of this nature rely upon this provision and consider it as an efficient remedy? My first objection against the Bill is that it is simply oppressive, provocative and of absolutely no political use and in a case of emergency it would not help you in any way.

There is another instance. We know of the Muslim meeting in Rawalpindi. The dictator, or call him by whatever name you will—Pir Jamaat Ali Shah—presided over that meeting. The proceedings were reported in the papers. I myself had occasion to see them but if I am wrong I hope the Honourable Finance Member would correct me. After that meeting was over we learnt that Maulvi Muhammad Ishaq and certain other gentlemen were deported or interned. I think there was a communiqué issued by Government and that communiqué stated that civil disobedience had been decided upon in that meeting and, therefore, these men had been expelled. A few days after the meeting the dictator of the meeting gave out that the question of civil disobedience was touched upon in the meeting but that it was deferred. This may or may not be true. Had the matter been put before a court of justice it would not have taken long to come to the conclusion that the question of civil disobedience was not decided upon by the meeting and all those persons would not have been molested in that way.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The Secretary of the Conference himself gave out that it had been decided to embark upon civil disobedience.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : What is the guarantee that the Secretary had circulated the wrong report ? These are the matters which ought to have been gone into and finally determined, that is why I oppose this measure. It gives opportunities for the Ministers to go wrong, to commit mistakes and punish innocent persons—persons who before an ordinary court would be absolutely innocent.

This is the second mistake which is due to the application of this Act. Would anybody say that this measure should be passed when we see that the Government has twice failed to handle it properly? How can we trust the Government with extraordinary powers ? The Member in charge of the Bill gave an assurance yesterday that no distinction between community and community will be made in the application of this Act. I can see that the Government means it. Yet what do we see daily? Quite unconsciously it might be on the side of the Government yet we find this oracle of the Mall, the Civil and Military Gazette, coming out occasionally with insults sometimes to one community and sometimes to another. Has the paper ever been asked to deposit any security? Has the security of that paper, if any, ever been forfeited for saying things which are very harmful ? Has that paper come to grief for writing that highly offensive article in its columns ? Only the other day I was reading a leading article in that paper, which began by saying that Muhammdans had got the present advantageous position in the province because they had always been following the Government and pleasing it and helping it in every way and if they now kicked up a row—referring to the Shahidganj affair—they will know to their cost that the Government which was powerful enough to grant them all those rights and privileges, would soon be in a position to take them all away. What does it imply? It implies two things. The Prime Minister favoured us or rather the British Government favoured us, Muslims, because we were flatterers and sycophants and for our following the Government salvishly all these years we got this reward, even though the award was quite unjust and derogatory to the rights of the other communities. Secondly, it implied that the Government favoured the flatterers without considering the merits of the case. I ask in all humility, are not these allegations made by a responsible journal in the province sufficient to excite hatred against Government and to create bad blood between community and community? What has the Honourable Finance Member done to see that such insolence is not hurled on the self-respecting nations in this country. I ask, why is a discrimination made in favour of this paper while other newspapers like the Ehsan and Zamindar are punished for writing articles of a less insulting or injurious nature?

Mr. J. D. Anderson : Is not the honourable member confusing the Bill before the House with Act XXIII of 1931 which deals with the Press?

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : The confusion is in the mind of my honourable friend on the other side. There is no confusion on my part. I am criticising the capabilities of the Government that is bringing forward this measure, because we know that in 1932 we gave the Government a better measure, a wider Act with greater discretion and greater powers and I am submitting that they failed to discharge their duties under that Act and I am giving an instance of the failure of duty on the part of Government in the application of that Act to the Civil and Military Gazette.

Mr. President : The honourable member, instead of reading the article from the newspaper, is giving his own version of it. Would it not be better if the honourable member reads the article as printed in the paper so that his criticism of it may be better appreciated by the House?

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : I am sorry the paper is not before me at present. I read the article while at Murree and threw it away in utter disgust because of that article. So far as the capabilities of the local administration are concerned I may submit very respectfully that I with my conscience in me would not entrust powers to the Government which has misused them glaringly already.

The next point is whether there are any circumstances which can seriously be urged in justification of the passing of this measure. Four sources of mischief have been touched upon by the Honourable the Finance Member. The first is the civil disobedience. It has been repeatedly pointed out by several speakers who have gone before me that the civil disobedience movement is now dead. Honourable members may take it from me as one of the representatives of Rawalpindi and other urban areas that it is not likely to be ever put into action by us, so far as this particular issue is concerned, that is the Shahidganj affair. Can my Honourable Friend cite a single case—I do not say that there is none, I ask only for information—can he cite a single case which is pending in any court of justice anywhere in the Punjab which relates to civil disobedience? If there is none, are we then to enact for things which do not exist anywhere? If the condition of the province is what it is, that is, peaceful and law-abiding, is this measure a reward by the Government and the legislature to the province for behaving as it does? Is it not an injustice to impose this unjust measure on the province for no other reason than that it is behaving peacefully and loyally?

The next point touched upon by the Honourable Member was terrorism. I would submit respectfully with respect to terrorism that I am not at all cognisant of any instance in which an act of terrorism has been committed in the province during these days. My learned friend mentioned an anecdote that a Bengalee youth came here from another province and they had to deport him under certain suspicious circumstances. This is hardly any justification for enacting this measure especially when we know and every lawyer member knows that the existing Penal laws are replete with measures to prevent any individual or body of individuals collectively resorting to terrorism on a large or small scale. I would therefore submit that so far as this point is concerned no case has been made out for this legislation.

Another point mentioned was communalism. Here I would like to take sometime to explain to the House that the charge against the Punjab that it is communally minded is not literally true. Of course in a sense it may be true, because our very existence, as the constitution now is, depends upon this communalism, I am here because I am a Muslim, Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh is here because he is a Sikh and so on; our representation, our political living in this province depends upon this constitution which recognises communalism. I strongly resent, if by that phrase is meant that there is communal strife in the province. I say without fear of contradiction that this year 1935 has been the best in the annals of the Punjab history. So much for communal strife and the communal-mindedness of the province. Are we blind to the fact that an unprecedented upheaval took place a few months ago in Lahore? The issue lay between the Sikhs and the Muhammadans and the Muhammadans and the Government. But the former never came to a clash, though there was a clash in the latter case. Several lives were lost and several persons received injuries at the hands of the police and the military and there was an unusual stir in the country. What was the result so far as the two communities were concerned? I remember of only one instance in which a Sikh constable was alleged to have been stabbed by a Muslim. Excepting that solitary instance I am not aware of any other incident in which there has been any conflict between the Sikhs and the Muslims. Be it also said to the credit of the Sikhs that though this murder was committed under very provocative circumstances the Sikhs practised remarkable restraint. Even in the matter of Muslims, although the police had been firing on the masses, not a single instance can be cited in which the Muslims resorted or attacked the Sikhs or the Hindus. The Hindus and Sikhs living in the same mohallas with the Muslims were not at all molested by the Muslims after the firing on the first day. I learnt that there was only very little police in the city, because a big force was not considered necessary on account of the restraint practised by the Muslims. To say that there was bad blood between the Muslims and the Sikhs to an unusual extent is absolutely incorrect. I reside in Sargodha and I represent a constituency which extends from Bahawalpur on one side to the Frontier at the other. The Hindus and Sikhs living in that area are in a minority and the Muslims are in a majority. Yet, not a single incident has happened where the Muslims have molested the Sikhs or the Hindus. I would therefore submit that there is no animosity of feeling between the various communities residing in this province. If the feeling were in reality embittered we would have seen the whole province flung into a sort of revolution. But what do we see?

[Sh. Abdul Ghani.]

Even in Frontier Province there is not a single instance to quote where the Muslims have in any way done any harm to the Sikhs or the Hindus. Are we then justified on the strength of these facts which are as clear as day light to hold that this province is communally minded in the sense that there is every likelihood of riots between the Sikhs and the Muslims or the Hindus and the Muslims? People have now begun to learn the wisdom of residing side by side with one another as brothers and they now realise fully well that their destinies are bound together and that sacrifices are to be made on both sides if they are to live in peace and harmony in this unfortunate land.

So my submission is that on the pleas of so-called terrorism and communalism the Government case is hopelessly weak. With regard to other things, communism, for example, my honourable friend had to fall back upon three pamphlets which perhaps he received and none of us did. With respect to payment of taxes, our province is very peaceful and the land revenues are very regularly paid. If I mistake not the other day I read the annual report of the Revenue Department in the papers and my honourable friend the Nawab Sahib had some very good words to put in for the zamindars—the way they behaved, the way they paid up their arrears—and the tone of that report was very hopeful and jubilant. It was said therein that only a small fraction of the revenue was outstanding. In a province which has behaved as Punjab is doing to-day I do not think we are justified in giving it a measure of this sort. Another argument advanced is that we should leave a good legacy behind. I think before I sit down I should also expose the fallacy of this argument. It is fallacious on the face of it. From a legal point of view what right have we to legislate for a Government that has not taken its inception yet? To legislate for a Government that is yet to be born and which is to come into being for the first time is not proper. We do not know what would be the conditions in the province at that time and what would be their needs and wants. So far as the legal aspect is concerned I would submit that we are absolutely disentitled to bring forward any legislation, extraordinary legislation of this sort and to tell our successors here we are, we put this on the statute book to remain there for your life unless you make an extraordinary effort to shake it off. I think there is no justification for this. In the next place if my learned friend and his Government are so solicitous of leaving a good legacy behind, I will direct his energy to better channels. I tell him, and he knows it, that yearly our graduates, young men, after spending a lot of their parents' money are going out into the world unable to make a bare living. There are herds of them. They are flocking the Law College and even after leaving the College they cannot sustain themselves. Here is an opportunity for this Government.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : How is this relevant? I cannot possibly answer this as the subject is not unemployment.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : It was argued by my learned friend that we should leave a very clean slate and a good legacy behind.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I did not make any such statement.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : I do not exactly remember his words ; but there was something of this nature said by him and my honourable friend from Amritsar and Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit also referred to that point and so far as my memory goes I think there is some such thing in his address. Can I proceed, Sir ? What I am submitting is, do away with unemployment.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : How is unemployment relevant ?

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : After your ruling Sir, I would consider it a mere disturbance. Let the Government bring in a measure in which they devise means for the employment.

Mr. President : May I ask which principle of the Bill the honourable member is now discussing ?

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : My submission is that we are here wasting the time of the House in discussing measures that are not wanted, in discussing measures that are absolutely unnecessary and this time could better be spent in devising and considering other measures, for instance in connection with unemployment, reducing land revenue and abiana.

Mr. President : May I point out that the honourable member is not relevant ? An able lawyer like him could easily make anything relevant but his speech, as delivered is full of irrelevancies.

Shaikh Abdul Ghani : So I would say with respect to communism, it is due to unemployment, it is due to heavy taxation. I deny there is any such movement ; but if the Government thinks there is then I would tell them to bring in measures to remedy unemployment, to reduce taxes and then to see that your fears are soon at rest. If you really think there is communism I will be one with you and my party also would be with you to support you in that measure. But the proposed Bill is a very unjust reward for the excellent conduct and behaviour of this province during the difficult days. Kindly take it off the agenda. We cannot countenance it ; our conscience does not permit it.

Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra (Non-Official, nominated) (Urdu) : I have very attentively listened to the speeches delivered by the honourable members opposing the Bill. I am very sorry to find that they have ignored facts and have said things which are not actualities but mere creation of their imagination. They attempted to make sentimental appeals to the House. It is a fact which cannot be denied that in the days of civil disobedience movement there was great unrest in the country. Law and order was flouted and not cared for. The law of the country was not sufficient to meet the situation that was created by the originators of the civil disobedience movement. The mere recollections of the tyrannies committed by the followers of the so-called non-violent movement in those days make one feel horrified. At the time this Bill was first moved in this Council I had related all those tyrannies which were practised by the followers of the cult of civil disobedience and non-violence on the people. I need not repeat them here. Honourable members are very well aware of them. It was only this law which appeared first in the shape of an ordinance that checked the movement and saved the situation then. It is this very law that had been able to keep the movement in check during the last three years. I see no reason why it should not be continued. It has been said that the civil disobedience movement does not exist now, that the congress has withdrawn it and that this law had nothing to do with its suppression. But all this is contrary to facts. Congress has not withdrawn it, but congress has been forced to withdraw it by this law. The civil disobedience movement would have been revived had this law been not in force all this time. Some honourable members said that the civil disobedience movement has come to stay. If it is so, then also it is necessary that the law under consideration should also be made permanent to keep this movement in check.

It has been said against this law that it curtails our liberty. I admit it does. But every law is a check on one's liberty and man never likes his liberty to be checked, but in spite of this in every civilized country law has been considered a necessity for the good of society. The only test is whether the act which is prohibited by the law is a good act or a bad one. If it is a bad act then it is our duty to support the law which penalises the bad act. Liberty is the birthright of man, but the liberty which interferes with the liberty of others is no liberty but a crime and it is the duty of the Government to check it. This law does not interfere with the liberty of the general public. It checks the liberty of only those followers of civil disobedience movement who interfere with the liberty of others who coerce people not to sell and buy foreign cloth who picket their shops, who arrange their social boycott, who abuse them, who insult them and who stage the mock funerals. They not only intimidate those who would not submit to their unlawful demands but even perpetrate murderous assaults on them. A cloth merchant was fired at in Amritsar simply because he did not stop selling foreign cloth. It is a fact which is on record. Luckily the man who was fired upon escaped with an injury and did not die. The men who attempted the murder was awarded 5 or 7 years. The fact is known to honourable member representing Amritsar muslim constituency. (Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Some such case might have occurred). It did occur. If the honourable member wants to plead ignorance of it, it is open to him to do so. This law is meant for such people and for those who want to upset the present order by preaching communist ideas and non-payment of taxes. From the experience of the last three years this law has proved very useful for the people in general. It is not only useful for the ordinary citizens but it is also beneficial for those who practise civil disobedience movement. It stops them from doing unlawful thing and so from going to jails. Had this law not been in force during the last three years these people would have preached their cult and they and also those who would have followed their preaching would have been convicted and sent to jails. This law had kept them in check and consequently saved them the sufferings. A preventive remedy is always better than a cure.

Then the honourable member from Amritsar (Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq) said that the future Government will be a party Government and that the parties in power will misuse this law against their opposition. On the one hand the members claim that they are themselves capable of administering their own country and on the other they are diffident and show distrust in those whom they would select to govern them under the future reformed Government. It is height of inconsistency. We need not entertain such fears because under the reforms safe-guards have been provided in the constitution and special powers have been given to the Governors to save such situations as suggested by the honourable member. With these few words I support the Bill under consideration.

Sardar Arjan Singh (Hoshiarpur and Kangra, Sikh, Rural) : It has been pointed that the circumstances are such as demand exceptional and extraordinary powers for Government which it has possessed for the last three years in the shape of this Act of 1932. It cannot be denied and the opponents of this measure have not denied that there are exceptional times. Government might demand exceptional powers and unusual powers for unusual times. It also cannot be denied that no Government worth the name can look with equanimity its laws being defied, its authority being flouted and non-payment of taxes and other liabilities being preached. With these premises I would try to examine the grounds on which the Honourable the Finance Member has asked this House to give the Government these exceptional powers. He has enumerated as his learned predecessors described the movements as public enemy No. I, public enemy No. II, public enemy No. III and so on against which this Bill is to provide. The Honourable Finance Member has in the first instance emphasised that these exceptional laws are required to meet the civil disobedience movement. He has very frankly conceded that it can safely be said that the country is free from the civil disobedience movement at the present time. He has at the same time been pleased to state that there can be no guarantee that this movement would not be revived in the near future. With respect to this I am afraid I cannot endorse the view of the Honourable Finance Member because there are certain circumstances which clearly show that this civil disobedience movement is dead for all time to come. My reasons are that the very protagonists of this movement are now openly saying that the blind paths of non-co-operation and civil disobedience led the country nowhere and they are seriously contemplating whether they should not accept offices under the new constitution and whether they should not work the new constitution.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Has Mr. Gandhi ever said that ?

Sardar Arjan Singh : I think the Honourable the Finance Member clearly knows that for the time being he has left politics and therefore there is no question of civil disobedience. It is very difficult to say that there should be a guarantee to that effect in any other form except the form in which we have it. Therefore, I am afraid, this bogey of civil disobedience movement does not hold water. If that were the only argument and the only movement it would have been difficult to support the Government when it asked for the exceptional powers, but the next question is with respect to terrorists. Well, terrorism certainly is a movement which, sometimes it may not be apparent on the surface, has undercurrents and it sometimes spreads with alarming rapidity and I think he would be a bold man who says that this province is altogether free from this terror. The worst thing about terrorism is that it spoils the raw youth of the country and it has been very rightly pointed out by another member of the Government in another House that the real culprits sometimes escape and it is only the man used as a cat's paw who is caught and punished. Therefore terrorism is a real danger to the peace of the country and it cannot be said that this country is altogether free from it and is an exception to the cult of terrorism.

After terrorism comes communalism. I think we have heard very good sentiments expressed by our friend from Sargodha, but the facts are where they are. Can we deny that communal tension in this province is at the highest pitch at this moment? We have seen demonstrations on communal lines, we have seen boycott movement gaining ground simply on communal reasons. Can it be therefore said that this province is altogether free from communalism? I do not mean to suggest that I am for giving powers to the Government for crushing one community or for setting one community against another. I do not mean to suggest that, but to say that the province is altogether free from communalism is far from truth.

Pir Akbar Ali : The province is inhabited by three communities.

Sardar Arjan Singh : And therefore it is that there is so much communalism in evidence at this moment. Then comes the question of communism. I do not personally understand what it really means, but I think there are members who really know that there are paid agents of communists propaganda. These people are carrying on their propaganda in the countryside and I as a zamindar can very well say that they are trying to break up the very fabric on which the daily work of the zamindars is depending. Therefore to say that the country is not suffering from this movement is not correct.

Pir Akbar Ali : Question. There is absolutely no movement in the villages of this kind.

Sardar Arjan Singh : There are people who sometimes pose as congressmen, but when we know they declare themselves to be the worst enemies of the Congress and they carry on communist propaganda and they are hired agents of the communists. It has been pointed out by the oppositionists that ordinary laws would be sufficient to meet the ordinary requirements of the country. I think experience has shown that it is only these exceptional powers which have saved the country in these days of communal strife and therefore it can very well be said when it is claimed by the Government and claimed by the House that this Act of 1932 was not very much in operation, it can be very well claimed by the Government that it was so because the Government possessed those powers. It was only because the Government possessed all these powers that these activities, subversive activities, were kept in check and the very presence of this Act had a very salutary effect upon the peace and tranquillity of the province as a whole. My submission therefore is that this law is absolutely necessary for sometime to come. But I would make one limitation and that is regarding the term of this Act. I am dead against this law being made a permanent law and my reasons I will state presently.

It can very well be said that the Honourable Finance Member has expressed his solicitude for future Government so much so that he refused to give an undertaking just as his illustrious predecessor had given as to the nature of cases for which this Act would be employed. He said that he would not bind the future Government. I remind him that just as he is anxious to leave this legacy to the succeeding Government, we on this side are as much anxious that we should not fetter in any way the discretion of the succeeding Assembly. That Assembly will have a more representative character than this House has and we in this House are not prepared to mortgage the future of the Assembly. Therefore if the future Government mainly dependent upon the goodwill of the House then in existence can convince that House, the latter might be willing to give extraordinary powers to the Government if they wished that Government to carry on. Therefore I make it quite clear to the Honourable Finance Member that this legislation should be only co-extensive with the life of this Government and with the life of this Council. It should not extend for one moment beyond the life of this Council and the life of this Government.

With these words I support the motion of the Honourable the Finance Member.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq (Hoshiarpur-cum-Ludhiana, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I feel that the Government would have realized by now that there is absolutely no force in the arguments adduced by the Honourable Finance Member in support of this Bill. The Government is fully conscious of the weakness of its position in this matter, but it is proud of its power and it feels that it can get every measure passed in this House by reason of its strength, and can do whatever it likes. The present Government wants to leave a curious legacy to the coming Government.

There lived once an old woman, who was a regular shrew and was constantly teasing and pestering her daughter-in-law. It so happened that she fell ill and her condition became very serious. She told her daughter-in-law that though she was dying she was leaving her spirit behind in a particular earthen pot. If she would make any mischief, the spirit of the old lady would severely punish her. Similarly the present Government is on its death bed, but it wants to warn the people that although it will have gone, still if they will misbehave or make any mischief, the spirit of this Government which will be embodied in this Bill, will come forward and severely take them to task. Now just fancy, in 1932 the then Finance Member brought forward a similar Bill with a view to fighting terrorism and the civil disobedience movement. But the present Finance Member, in his zeal to outshine his predecessor, has introduced two more items, namely, communalism and communism, as justifications for bringing forward such a legislation. He is apprehensive of great disturbances and communal riots in this province. He says that on account of the Shahidganj Mosque affair the relations between the various communities have become very much strained therefore a measure of this kind is extremely necessary to prevent any disorder and communal riots in this province. But if we go to any part of the province we find everybody condemning the attitude of Government in this case. The truth is that it is the Government which has produced and encouraged communal tension in the Punjab in order to find pretext for a measure of this kind. The Government has not so far made its position clear in regard to the Shahidganj affair. We have only to see who stands to gain by the present state of affairs, whose position is strengthened by a situation of the present type? The answer to these questions will establish the identity of the agency responsible for this mischief.

Sometime back the very same question came up before Parliament. It was argued that as the Hindus and the Mussalmans were quarrelling with one another it was better to have Europeans at the helm of affairs. As you know, at about the same time this unfortunate Bill was on the anvil of the central legislature. We made it clear at that time before our countrymen that neither the Hindus nor the Mussalmans stood to gain by its passage; it would result only in the ultimate advantage of a third party, that is, the Government. I assure you with a clear conscience that if I had power the first thing which I should like to do would be to intern those Government officers who are generally responsible for creating mischief. But what has the Government done in connection with a recent occurrence? They interned those people who would certainly have been instrumental in bringing about an amicable settlement of the whole dispute. By the internment of responsible, influential and well-meaning leaders the Government unleashed the dogs of strife. But nobody has the courage to lay this blame at the door of the Government which richly deserves this indictment. People know it full well that if they ever dare to fling the truth in the face of the Government they will have to come out of prison much wiser men. And the Government goes on reprimanding the people in its own fashion saying, "Why don't you end your quarrels?" But there is no one to get up and say, "It is you who are perpetuating this quarrel". I am speaking from my personal experience. An affidavit was once given by an officer of the Punjab Government that I was a member of a conspiracy hatched or about to be hatched for murdering European officers, although the fact of the matter is that such an idea had never entered my poor head. I may have participated in a campaign of civil disobedience and done other things unpalatable to the Government but the idea of hatching a conspiracy to murder European officers is simply against my creed. But the Government never hears any argument in such matters. It lent credence to the reports of its informers and removed me from the Jail Committee. We should remain alive to the tactics of the Government and never miss an opportunity of placing the truth before it however inexorable it may be. I know certain people were in favour of the Government measure when it was last brought before the Council but when a totally harmless clause of the Act was applied to some of them they began to raise a hue and cry against its application. This should not be our attitude. We should try to nip the evil in the bud. We should try to oppose all unreasonable legislations brought forward by the Government knowing it full well that if they are meant to be applied to some other people to-day they may be applied with an increased force to our case to-morrow. I am not one of those who think that it is bad to oppose a law of the land. If a wrong law is put forward or enforced in our country we should have the courage to oppose it. Every gentleman living in a country has the right to oppose unreasonable and foolish laws promulgated by the Government. Who knows that people like the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government and the Honourable ex-Minister, Mr. Manohar Lal may come into conflict with the Government and truth may be on their side? If they think that any of the Government laws is unreasonable or based upon a defective knowledge of circumstances they have a moral right to revolt against such a law. Moreover the Government should not be unmindful of this fact that it is just possible that those very people may come into power against whom they propose to make such drastic laws to-day. Such things have happened in the past and they may happen in the future also.

The greatest argument put forward for placing this law permanently on the statute book is the discovery of some leaflets though they have not been read out to us fully; only extracts have been read out to us. Perhaps they are copies of some essays written by some school urchin who dropped them from his satchel and they were picked up by some vigilant C. I. D. man. This is the whole proof of the presence of a communist organisation against which the Government wants to make this drastic law permanent. I do not think, that the Government has any justification whatsoever to impose this nefarious law on the people of this province. I have grave doubts that the Government does somehow or other manage to create circumstances for the enforcement of the laws of their own liking. I am not making merely a hypothetical statement. Government has actually behaved like this in the past. The fact is not unknown to us that in 1929 the Superintendent of Meerut Police sent a youth to the Punjab to hatch a plot here. When the young man was arrested and imprisoned he wrote a letter from jail to the authorities that he was a police officer and not a political offender. On that this Council censured the conduct of the Government. The people did not know anything about this affair until the letter written by the young officer in question was intercepted.

Then the Government has no justification to ban a communist organisation in this country. If I were to form a party in the Council on communistic lines the law does not stand in my way. Communism is a political creed recognised all over the world. Only the other day a communist member has been taken in the Cabinet along with the French Premier, Monsieur Laval. So the Government cannot interfere with the political creed of anybody. If politically speaking I say that no Englishman should remain in this country the Government has no right to find fault with my political views so long as they do not come into actual conflict with the administration set up under the constitution. I say that the Government has slighted this legislature by bringing forward such a measure for its approval. I am sorry that Government which is proud of its democratic traditions asks us to pass this anti-democratic law. I do not think any of the Englishmen sitting on those benches could ever think of proposing such a law in his own country. There are such people in their own country that if they had been here the English Government would have sent them to the gallows. But their presence is tolerated by the beneficent British Law and their political susceptibilities are respected in their country. I fail to understand the necessity of this law when already there is section 151 in the Indian Penal Code under which you have ample powers to arrest, detain and imprison any gentleman living in this country. I know that people bow before your power but I assure you that nobody is convinced by your arguments. We are weak and you are powerful. The fear of incurring your displeasure makes us tremble in our shoes. But this is a fact that you have no reason on your side. I say if you had placed this law before a gathering of school boys they would have refused to listen to your lecture. How, then, do you expect reasonable people to see eye to eye with you in regard to this Bill. I think the Government has taken undue advantage of our weakness. They know that we dare not incur their displeasure by refusing support to this Bill, so they have brought it forward. The Government officers are fully aware that the convincing power is not in their brain but it is their angry looks which make people yield to them. I am sure there is not a single reasonable person here who may be willing to lend support to this Bill but the Government has brought it forward relying on the power of their prestige. Then I fail to understand how Mr. Boyd comes by such leaflets. I have been leading the life of a public man for the last 15 years or so, but never has anybody handed over such a leaflet to me. Circumstances show, Sir, that the Government itself manages to create the mischief. For instance, what happened with regard to the Shahidganj affair? The Government issued a communiqué that the mosque will not be allowed to be demolished. This was on the third. But in spite of this promise the mosque was allowed to be demolished. I ask, did not the Government know that the mosque was about to be demolished or was being demolished? We all know that our Government has the capacity of smelling very deep plots in the air. How could it remain ignorant of the fact that the mosque was being demolished? The fact of the matter is that it slept over the news because this was, perhaps, in accordance with their expectations. I may not be able to produce a documentary proof but this is a fact that no responsible Sikh leader was willing to associate himself with the idea of demolition. But the Government did not give them any opportunity to intervene. Nor the responsible Muslim leaders were allowed to intervene. Sardar Mangal Singh, M. L. A., rushed to the place at 8 A.M., but the authorities did not permit him to have a discussion with the Sikhs. The officers said, "Sikhs and Muslims are equal in our eyes." I, for one, cannot understand the attitude of the Government officers. Let the Honourable Finance Member explain whether it is or is not a fact that influential Sikh and Muslim leaders were not allowed to interfere when the mosque was being demolished. I assure you that the Ahrars did their best to avert the catastrophe of a communal clash and they did so at the risk of incurring the displeasure of a vast number of their community. They have made a great sacrifice in this affair. We honestly believed that the Sikhs were not so bad as they were depicted and we hoped that if they were approached properly they would have acceded to our demands.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Are we discussing the Shahidganj affair or this particular Bill? The details of the Shahidganj affair do not appear to be relevant.

Mr. Deputy President : The honourable member may make passing reference about the Shahidganj affair but should not go into the details.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : The affair was mentioned in the speech of the Honourable Finance Member himself. Now he objects to a remark being made about that affair. However, I would not make any more remarks. I had no intention to deliver a lengthy speech on this subject but I wanted to make just one complaint before the honourable members of this House. It is very regrettable that we have made ourselves completely subservient to the wishes of the Government. We dance to the tune of the Government officers. This has turned their heads and now they expect that we should support any reasonable or unreasonable proposal emanating from them. But we should make it clear once for all that the Government may seek to take undue advantage of our weakness or our dissensions but the truth is not on its side. It cannot convince us of the righteousness of their position. The Government ought to have taken a lesson from what happened in the Assembly. The verdict of the Assembly on this Bill ought to have opened their eyes. But they think that the Punjab is Punjab and here they are the masters of all they survey; nobody has the courage to raise his voice against their policy. So they are sure that they will be able to place this law permanently on the statute book. But I must make it clear that I am not convinced by their arguments; I may bow before their power but that is another thing.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain (North-East Towns, non-Muhammadan, Urban), (Urdu): The Government has brought forward this drastic measure at a time when there is quiet in the country. To provoke the dormant forces of disorder and mischief at a time when there is not the least justification for it means that the Government is digging its own grave. Does not the Government or this House realise that one who tries in this world to bring trouble to others suffers himself from it in the end? This is what the history of all nations and that of our own country tells us. There is positively no danger and no fear of any subversive movement being started or even revived in the near future. It is only an imaginary fear and it is that imagination alone that has worked up and prompted the Government to come forward with such a measure. I can very well see that the state of the mind of the Government and its officers is exactly the same as it was in the case of Kans on his being informed that Krishna had been born to put an end to his life. After that information he smelled danger everywhere, even in his rooms and from his chairs and beds where he used to find rest and peace. Similarly the Government is smelling rats even though there is no danger and no fear of any movement being started against it as I have already said. The civil disobedience movement has died out and the terrorists have been removed from the scene as the Government has itself told us on more than one occasion. I wonder why the Government should have thought fit to bring forward this measure when it has itself assured us that it has succeeded in crushing these movements. I should think that it is afraid of these movements even after they have been buried under the grave with its own hands.

As I have said there is no likelihood of the civil disobedience movement being started even in the remote future. If there is some dissatisfaction or discontent to be found amongst the people, it is because of the economic conditions prevailing in the country at present. Many of our brethren are, in these days, finding it difficult to have sufficient to eat to keep their bodies and souls together. They rightly resent the present arrangement of things under which the foreigners, who have come from abroad and who do not belong to this place, live in luxury and have all sorts of amenities of life, while they, who have a better claim to all these facilities, are being denied even the bare necessities of life. Not only that. They resent this arrangement all the more because even the dogs of these foreigners are treated in a better way. These dogs have velvety beds to sleep on and they have biscuits and milk to eat and drink while the sons of this soil do not get even sufficient to eat. This is the only serious problem which faces the Government to-day and which requires solution. But the Government, instead of facing it squarely, is trying to evade it and is seeking refuge in blaming us for tendencies which in fact have never found favour with us. I must say again that our masses are certainly dissatisfied over the present arrangement of things and they do want and they have begun to insist on being given means of subsistence. It is to deny the means of subsistence to these labourers that the Government is trying to arm itself with such lawless laws. Otherwise there is certainly no need for enacting such measures.

It has been said that the spirit of communalism is growing and to fight this spirit successfully it is very necessary that this proposed law should be placed on the statute book of the province permanently and without any delay. It is wonder of all wonders that our Government, which has flourished only because of this spirit of communalism in this unfortunate country, should now think of arming itself with such measures in order to crush that very spirit. I should think that the spirit of Mahatama Gandhi is working in Government circles. Otherwise the Government which is responsible for giving Communal Award to the country and dividing the people into different groups, could not have thought of fighting communalism in the country. It knows and knows full well that it is the Communal Award which has made our differences keen and enlarged the gulf between the different communities. It knows that it can remove these differences to-day if it were so minded. But it will never do so because it is fully aware that the greater our differences the more secure it feels. Therefore it is safe to say that this bogey of communalism has been put forward as a plea to serve the end the Government has in view at present. I would warn the honourable members not to take the Government at its word. It is only to win our support to this Bill that the Government has shown this solicitude for our welfare for the first time during all these years.

We have seen that there is no danger of civil disobedience nor of the terrorist movement. We have also seen, at any rate, it is more than clear that the plea of communalism has been advanced only as a time-server. I ask, then, what is the ground on which the Government can reasonably expect us to bless this Bill? Of course, if it is thinking of taking some such step in the immediate future as will set the country aflame and will compel all right-thinking men to rise in opposition to that step, it must take us into its confidence so that we may be able to decide whether we should support this Bill or not. If the Government cherish some such intention, then I must give it credit for preparing itself for that contingency. But I may at the same time let the Government know that such tactics will not avail and will most likely react on itself. It is acting like that man who sets a house on fire on one side and rushes to the other side and raises an alarm that the house has caught fire and the fire-brigade should be at once sent for. I shall be excused for saying all this. But this is what I feel the Government is doing now. I am very glad to see that the members of this Council have after all come to realise the situation. I shall be all the more glad if I find them sticking to the present attitude and throwing out this Bill just as the Assembly has done. We should henceforth make up our mind never to support such lawless laws which give powers to the executive to perpetrate all kinds of tyrannies on innocent people of the province.

I may take this opportunity to inform the Government that it will never succeed in stopping the people from raising their voice against any act of high-handedness of the Government. Let it have any number of such laws and even more stringent laws, but it must remember that these laws will not help it to crush the spirit of people for ever. It will have to yield to the legitimate demands of the people sooner or later and that being so, why should it insist upon passing such laws even in the teeth of opposition? I wonder why it should not allow the people to say what is true and what cannot be evaded for long. It is now an admitted fact that the peasants are not able to pay all Government dues at the rate at which they are demanded and if that is so I ask why a person who says all this in public should be arrested by the so-called guardians of peace and order. If the Government is honest, it should allow the people and their representatives to give expression to their views freely and frankly. But that is the attitude that it will never adopt. In the circumstances, the only course left open to us is to oppose this and all such measures that the Government may bring forward before this Council.

Mr. M. A. Ghani (Nominated, non-official): I was extremely sorry to find yesterday afternoon the Honourable Finance Member indulging with all his experience and learning in the same old bogey of communism as a sort of argument for bringing this measure permanently on the statute book of this province. It seems to me that it has become the fashion of the day with the high Government officials, the capitalists and the imperialists to connect every little activity to help the poor people of this province with communism. This being so, it appears to me that just as they have developed big bellies so they have developed big nostrils to smell the germs of communism everywhere. It has been pointed out by my honourable friend, Pandit Nanak Chand, and the honourable member for Amritsar, Mr. Muhammad Sadiq, that there is no communism whatsoever in this province. With all my love for those ill-clad, ill-fed and down trodden masses called the depressed, labouring and kamin classes and with all my activities for their uplift and with all my activities for organising them, I say here on the holy floor of this scared House where on the sacred throne you sit as the uncrowned Deputy King of the province that I have never come across any communism among the labouring and depressed classes of this province. My honourable friend, Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit, was absolutely correct when he pointed out that in this province where the people are caste-ridden, creed-loving and religiously mad there can be no communism. Communism can never find a place in a country like this. Communism can only find place in a country which is highly developed and where the people are most ruthlessly crushed and where the masses are cruelly treated. I say that these conditions do not exist in this province. Neither the people are cruelly oppressed nor are they highly developed as was the case in Russia. Therefore, I submit that it was a very fallacious argument advanced by the Honourable Finance Member when he wanted this measure to be put permanently on the statute book on the score of the prevalence of communism here. Again, the Honourable Finance Member quoted from two or three pamphlets and said that they were published by certain communists trained in Moscow. Here again, I submit that I am the only person in this House who should receive such pamphlets more than anybody else. I have been connected with labour movement in this province ever since its inception for the last 15 years, but I have never received any such pamphlet or poster or advertisement or anything of that sort. I fail to understand how this beautiful little pamphlet or letter reached the hands of the Honourable Finance Member and not of anybody else. My friend, Mr. Sadiq, was perfectly justified in saying that the pamphlet must have been written by some Criminal Investigation Department or by some police officer so as to strengthen the hands of the Honourable Finance Member to advance an argument in support of his contention that this measure was very necessary for this province. You should know that our Criminal Investigation Department and the police are perfectly dishonest and it is no wonder if the Criminal Investigation Department or the Police had stooped so low as to fabricate such evidence and to create such false evidence to be put before the House. It was not, therefore, right on the part of the Honourable Finance Member to use that fabricated and false evidence cooked and prepared in the Criminal Investigation Department.

Again, the Honourable Finance Member said that several young men trained in Moscow were touring round this province teaching the gospel of Lenin, Trotsky and Karl Marx. I think I am the only person who goes about the factories and workshops where the labouring classes are and I say with all the vehemence at my command that I have never come across any such young man. I wish I could meet such a young man so that I may have a talk with him and get first hand information of the things that prevail in Moscow and other parts of Russia, for my own enlightenment. If I were to meet such a young man, I would like to tell him to go to Bengal and other parts of the country with his preachings of communism and not to stay in the Punjab where his doctrines would not be heard. The Punjab is a land of peasant proprietors. The land is almost equally divided. We have not got here big talukdars as in the United Provinces. Therefore, I should like to meet that young man who, according to the Honourable Finance Member, has been trained in Moscow to tell him to go to Bengal where there is permanent settlement, where there are big jute factories or to go to the United Provinces and preach there the gospel of Lenin because the poor peasants there are simply trodden down by the big talukdars.

If there is any communism in the province, then in order to do away with communistic ideas section 2 or 3 of this Bill would be no remedy. The best remedy would be, as has been pointed out by so many members, to do away with the unemployment problem as is being tackled by the Bengal Government as regards the detainees. Another plan would be to encourage trade unionism which according to the Minister for Local Self-Government is nothing but communism. He called me a communist yesterday. (The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I did not). You did. I want to tell you there is a world of difference between trade unionism and communism and it is a pity that the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government does not know even this much. In a recent speech delivered by the Right Honourable Mr. Baldwin and quoted in the Statesman of the 13th of this month, he is reported to have said that trade unionism was a bulwark against communism. Therefore, it behoves the Punjab Government to encourage trade unionism and not to prosecute trade unionists like myself who are law abiding and peaceful and who do their level best to eradicate the evil of communism from this province. It has been said by some members that by one prosecution I have not been made straight. There is still something in me which I may do against Government. I have never received a single pamphlet or leaflet on communism. I am afraid that in my absence some Criminal Investigation Department might go to my house and throw some pamphlets there and get me prosecuted again.

Apart from this weak argument, there were other very cogent and strong arguments advanced by the Honourable Finance Member for bringing this measure permanently on the statute book. One was about the communal tension in this province. One or two honourable members have denied that there was any communal tension in this province. I would like to challenge that statement. Communal tension is prevalent in this province. The politics of this province depend on communalism. Every inhabitant of this province is communalistic. Every Hindu, every Muslim, every Sikh is a communalist and if any member of this House says that there is no communalism in this province, I am afraid that he is not putting things correctly. What happened recently in Lahore? A certain decree was obtained by a certain community and that community in obedience to that decree wanted to demolish—

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : May we get rid of these communal details?

Mr. Deputy President : The honourable member will please speak to the motion and not repeat the arguments which have been already advanced by other members.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I was going to touch very briefly the Shahidganj affair in order to show that the communities of this province do not tolerate other communities and cannot appreciate their religious susceptibilities. Heavens would not have fallen if the Sikhs had consented to concede to the demands of the Muslims. That shows that we need some measure of this sort which the Honourable Finance Member has moved before this House. We speak of Sikhs, Hindus and Muslims and indulge in communalism right and left and when the Government want certain powers to cope with the communal tension then these very Hindu, Muslim and Sikh members get up and oppose Government. I cannot understand the mentality of the representatives of these communities in this House. One argument was advanced, I think, by Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq that there was no occasion for such a measure being put on the statute book. He said that there was no civil disobedience in this country and that there was no non-co-operation movement and, therefore, such a measure was not needed at all. I refer again with your permission to a certain resolution that was moved in the Muslim Conference at Rawalpindi recently in connection with the Shahidganj affair. There it was seriously moved that Muslims should indulge in civil disobedience and non-co-operation. (Interruption). It was moved but it was not carried. That shows that the idea of civil disobedience and of non-co-operation is there. It may be launched at any time. As my friend says, the germs are there. Therefore, if there is no such measure as this, how will the Government be empowered to meet such contingencies? If there is no such measure, what would happen? The civil disobedience might take the form of non-payment of taxes or non-payment of revenue. (An honourable member: Lead the tongawalas procession). Yes; we are permitted because we are law abiding. It reminds me of the Persian couplet:

نا تمیز از عراق آوردہ شود مار کزیدہ مرده شود

By the time the civil disobedience is launched, if there is no such measure, then do my friends suggest that the Government should call a meeting of this Council and sit here and then talk about for a week or a month to pass the measure and in the meantime things may get worse and become out of control? So my submission is that under the present circumstances this measure is essentially for the good of the province. It may be that there are one or two sections which are not quite palatable to us. Take, for instance, section 8. Under this section, the Government is empowered to send away any man for any time. An amendment may be moved fixing a period. Again, it was argued that we are leaving a bad legacy for the coming legislatures. It was said by Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq in a very humorous speech, what would happen when the Government bloc is done away with and there will be all elected members on the Treasury benches? My submission is that the elected members of the future Assembly who would be appointed as Ministers would be persons of intelligence and wisdom and learning and they would not use this measure in a bad manner and if they consider it is not needed for the good Government of the province, they could repeal or amend it. What would be there to prevent them from doing it? Again, our new friend, Chaudhri Asadullah Khan, made much, yesterday, of certain notices issued against the venerable head of the Ahmadiya movement. In my extensive tours in connection with the Labour movement, I happened to go to Qadian last September and I happened to meet the head of the Ahmadiya community. I found that the people there were very peaceful and law-abiding and their head is simply a charming personality. It was very wrong on the part of the Government officials to issue a notice under this Act against such a law-abiding and peaceful community. But those notices were issued by a certain Government official and that official abused his powers under the present Act (Hear, hear), but on that score only this measure cannot be thrown out. We see daily that the police, the Criminal Investigation Department, the magistracy and a number of Government officials abuse their powers. Do you mean to say that we should repeal the Indian Penal Code because a certain official has abused it or that we should repeal the Police Act because a certain sub-inspector or inspector has abused his powers? (An honourable member: What do you think?) I think that the honourable member should bring in a motion demanding action against that Government official and demanding his dismissal from Government service. That is the proper course for the honourable member to do. It is said that we should be consistent and because the Assembly has thrown out a similar measure we should also throw out this measure. That is no argument. As pointed out by the Honourable Finance Member, in the Assembly the Honourable the Leader of the Opposition said that it was for the provincial councils to pass such a measure and if the present Government consider that this measure is essential I think we should give this power to them. With these words I support whole heartedly the motion made by the Honourable Finance Member. (Cheers).

Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani (Non-official, nominated) (Urdu): I have listened to all the speeches that have been delivered on the Bill under consideration very attentively. While I was listening I made up my mind not to be swayed this way or that, merely by the impulse of the moment, but to weigh the arguments advanced for and against calmly and support the side which convinced me of the relevancy of its point of view. Consequently I decided to wait and to seek opportunity to have my say last of all when I have heard all the honourable members. I assure the House that I will place before it most honestly the conclusions I have arrived at after listening to all the speeches both for and against the Bill. The Honourable the Finance Member said that there was need for enacting the law under consideration permanently and he gave his reasons for it. He also mentioned the circumstances which made it necessary to have all the powers which the law under consideration gives. This was in a way making an admission that the Government was unable to meet the situation with the help of the ordinary law of the land. This is a confession on the part of the Government of its inability. But if you look at it from another angle you will find that such a frank admission of its inability to meet the situation with the present law in force is admirable on the part of the Government. The extraordinary situation that has arisen in the country requires extraordinary powers to meet it and the frankness with which the Government has admitted its inability shows its anxiety to maintain law and order and to check the disorderly conditions in the interest of the people of this country. The sense of responsibility of the Honourable the Finance Member and the Government is admirable in that they have in the interest of the country admitted their weakness. (At this stage Mr. President resumed the Chair.) An honourable member said that the Government is fond of having more arbitrary powers. I fail to understand the logic of this remark. If really it is a fact that the Government is anxious to have more powers notwithstanding all those powers which it already possess under various enactments on the statute book, then no doubt it is deplorable. But fortunately it is not a fact. The Government are not desirous of having extraordinary powers. The extraordinary situation that has arisen demands extraordinary powers, powers that the Government do not possess beforehand to meet that situation. Then there was the objection that by enacting this law the present Government was imposing something on the future Government which the latter may or may not require. The present Government is anxious to make this law permanent because it is desirous of giving a chance to the future Government to establish itself with the help of the present law. In a way it is making a sacrifice inasmuch as it is incurring all the unpopularity by enacting this law which otherwise the future Government would have incurred by bringing forward such a Bill. The present Government wants to leave this law as a legacy to the future Government so that it may have a chance to establish itself firmly. We at present are passing through a transitional stage and it is natural that at such a time new and extraordinary situations might arise and cause disturbance. In order to meet such situations it is necessary that some suitable law should be legislated beforehand. The Honourable the Finance Member has enumerated all the grounds which necessitate the enactment of this law and no member has proved that those grounds did not exist. The Honourable the Finance Member also stated the number of cases in which this law was applied and he also showed that its application was not unjust. The honourable members said that it was possible that the future Government may use this law unjustly. If this law has not been used unjustly in the past, how can it be said that in future it would be unjustly used? Only one honourable member said that this law was misused against the head of the Ahmadya community. I cannot say whether the attention of the Government has been drawn to this accusation which the honourable member has made by saying that this law was unjustly applied against the head of the Ahmadya community. The Honourable the Finance Member will, I hope, explain to the House the circumstances which required the application of this law against the head of the Ahmadya community. I know the Ahmadya community is very law abiding and peace loving. They have always been loyal to the Government and have always avoided taking part in any political movement. The circumstances in which this law was applied against the head of that community must have been extraordinary. I have not read about them in any newspaper.

Then, the honourable members, Sh. Mohammad Sadiq and Shaikh Abdul Ghani, expressed their inability to understand how the magazines issued by the communists come into the hands of the Government while they are never sent to them. The communists do not send their literature to the honourable members because they think that the honourable members are above all such things and that they are too loyal to the Government and that they are the well-wishers of the province and that as such their literature cannot have any influence on them and that supplying them with their magazines amounts to wastage of paper and labour. On the other hand the Government have to be on their guard against all such movements and consequently they keep themselves well informed to suppress them. Perhaps after to-day's speeches which have been delivered by the said honourable members communists might send their literature to them also.

Then, it was said by an honourable member that these magazines which contain communist literature are printed and sent to the Government by the Criminal Investigation Department people themselves in order to show themselves busy and actively keen in the performance of their duty. This is a most irresponsible statement and quite unfounded. When under the new reforms you will have your own Government the same or similar charges could very well be brought against you. Then in the event of such a charge being brought against you, what would be your position? Will such a charge stop your framing laws to meet some extraordinary situations that would arise at that time? Members ought to refrain from making such irresponsible statements. They should not bring such charges against the Criminal Investigation Department or the police. (Mr. M. A. Ghani: The police that can launch false cases against people, is also capable of this.) (Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq: Sir, on a point of order. I object to this gentleman's first opposing the motion and now taking sides with the member who is supporting it.)

Moreover, an honourable member said that as Mahatama Gandhi has now retired from politics the congress movement has also subsided and, therefore, there is no need for enacting this law. These remarks are an adverse reflection on the respected personality of Mahatama Gandhi for they mean that Mahatama is a god of law-breaking and that as he has retired from politics there would be no law breaking any more. The honourable member who said it did not consider that it was open to Mahatama ji to enter the field of politics at any time and, moreover, the Congress has not withdrawn civil disobedience movement. Congress can revive the movement at any time.

Further, the country is advancing and new circumstances and new needs require new laws. We see that some time before the Municipal Act was different from the one now in force. The Executive Officers Act was recently passed because the new circumstances had necessitated its passage. Similarly at some time there may be felt the necessity of making new rules or enacting a new law regarding the district boards. Similarly with the change of the point of view of the people new and changed laws are passed. In the beginning, civil disobedience movement and the evil of non-payment of taxes were regarded temporary things and consequently temporary laws were passed to suppress them. Now it is regarded that these movements have come to stay and as such necessity of a permanent law is keenly felt and the Government have placed this Bill before the Council to be enacted as a permanent measure. It would be a folly to suggest that one should take quinine only when one gets fever. Dr. Rahman would laugh at such a suggestion. To avoid fever one has to take quinine even before one gets fever. A law like the one under consideration is permanently needed.

What I understand from the speech of the honourable member Shaikh Abdul Ghani is this that the present law is urgently needed. Towards the close of his speech he referred to the Shahidganj affair and said that all the trouble arose because the Government had failed to apply this law. He also said that such deplorable situations as the Shahidganj affair can only be controlled by the use of force. From all this I understand that he is in favour of this law. The Government really want some more powers to meet such emergencies.

My honourable friend, Pandit Nanak Chand, in the course of his speech remarked that the present legislation is a reward for the loyalty which was shown by the loyal subjects on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty The King Emperor. I am afraid that my friend is labouring under a slight misapprehension. The object of this Bill is not to punish the loyal subjects but to prevent definitely undesirable people from disturbing the loyal and faithful subjects. In my opinion, there cannot be a better compensation for the loyalty and devotion of faithful subjects than to enact measures which may protect them and their property from the harm and mischief of undesirable and lawless people.

[K. B. Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani.]

It has been argued by the opposition that there is no terrorism in the province and that an occurrence of an outrage or the explosion of a bomb here and a bomb there, is not adequate to justify the introduction of a legislation of this character. I am greatly amazed at the attitude of some of the honourable members of this House who are opposing this wholesome measure and are advancing such arguments. Do they want to see the whole of the province steeped in confusion and chaos in order to justify this measure? I am proud of my province and the wonderful loyalty and sense of law which it has exhibited up to this time. I hope my honourable friends who are opposing this Bill will not try to tarnish the fair name of our province which has not allowed any such wicked and nefarious movements to flourish here and take deep roots in its soil. The honourable members have always felt their responsibility. They have always lent their wholehearted support to Government to maintain law and order in the province and I feel perfectly confident that even on this occasion they will give a good account of themselves and will help the Government in passing a useful and helpful measure.

Again, it was observed by an honourable member that communism is prevalent in Russia and the British Government is making friends with the Russian Government and is admitting it into the League of Nations. If the Government really wants to fight the dragon of communism, why does it not break its relations with the Russian Government? This is a very funny argument indeed. But I should like to point out to those friends who say so that like India in Russia too there are some fire-brands who are making mischief.

Now I should like to submit a few words to the Honourable Finance Member. I lend my whole-hearted support to this Bill, but I would request him not to insist on its being permanently placed on the statute book. There are many laws on the statute book, but we do not always make use of them. It is quite likely that the future Government may not stand in need of this legislation at all. In future people may begin to have great confidence in the Government and the Government in turn may completely rely on the people. In that case there will be no occasion to enforce this law and it will merely be a dead letter. The future Government will always take pride in this fact that whereas the previous Governments had to pass very stern laws to maintain peace and order, they were doing without them, that will certainly reflect great credit on that Government. I would therefore request the Honourable Finance Member to pass this Bill only for a period of three years. If the future Government thinks that this Bill is necessary for all time they can pass it again.

In the end, I would submit to the honourable members of this House that they should not try to throw out this wholesome measure in a thoughtless and hasty way. Like practical men they should consider the Bill in all its details and try to make it more useful and agreeable when it is taken into consideration. At that stage if they deem fit, they can suggest amendments and if they find that there are some really objectionable and disagreeable portions they can delete them. But it is highly improper and unwise to throw out a useful and important Bill without serious thought and consideration. I fervently hope that the honourable members will dispassionately and coolly consider this Bill, and will not be carried away by their sentiments. I trust that they will help the Government in passing this wholesome measure. With these words, I lend my whole-hearted support to the motion under consideration.

Mr. J. D. Anderson (Legal Remembrancer): All I wish to say at the moment is that I am authorised to say that Government is prepared to consider any amendment putting a fixed period to the operation of the Bill if it is passed.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram (South-East Rohtak, non-Muhammadan, Rural): On account of an important professional engagement I have to leave Lahore tonight, and I thought that it would be only fair that before I leave Lahore I should give expression to my opinion on the present Bill.

This Bill raises a very grave issue. The executive government has requested the legislature that it should pass a measure which will arm the executive with powers which are appropriate only to a time of emergency. On the other hand the representatives of the people have denied that any emergent legislation is required, that any conditions either exist in the country or that there is any real apprehension of conditions arising in the country which will justify the legislature in passing a law of the kind which is before us. They also contend and rightly contend that so far as their knowledge goes there has been a very material and distinct improvement in the conditions which prevailed, say in 1932, and which induced the legislature at that time to pass the law which was identical with the Bill which is now under consideration. I hold that the executive has a right to expect every reasonable help from the legislature in suppressing movements which are subversive of either Government or society itself. And if the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill had been able to put forward facts which could convince me that there was a real, genuine need of a legislation of the kind which we have now in front of us I for one would have supported the present motion and the Bill as a whole in spite of the fact that it is a legislation of a very disagreeable character, a legislation which will not appeal to the general public and which has already been condemned very severely all round.

The Honourable Member for Finance was pleased to quote a couple of sentences from the speech which I made in 1932 when the predecessor of the present Bill was under discussion. Those sentences related to my belief in regard to the duty of a Government towards movements which aim at paralysing the executive government or which aim at shaking the very foundations of society. I stand by every word which I uttered then, and if the Honourable Member is able even now to put forward any facts which will give a sure indication of the existence of conditions which existed in 1932 I would certainly support the present measure also. The executive is under a clear obligation to maintain decent conditions of peace and security in the country and it can legitimately request the legislature to place adequate powers at its disposal for this purpose. But has the Honourable Member in charge been able to produce convincing evidence in order to induce an impartial jury to give a verdict in favour of the existence of circumstances which would justify the enactment of the present Bill into law?

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

I would draw the attention of the House to certain undeniable facts. We all know that this Bill has met universal condemnation in the general public. It has been condemned by the Press universally. It has been turned down in the Legislative Assembly by an overwhelming majority of elected members. And I find a very significant reluctance in this House itself on the part of elected members to come forward and say a word in support of this measure. There has been only one solitary elected member who has spoken in favour of the motion so far and even his support was neither unqualified nor whole-hearted. He was speaking more or less in an apologetic tone. Therefore if I submit to the House that there is no genuine feeling in support of this Bill among the elected members of even this House I would certainly be quite correct in saying so. There has been a very significant silence on those benches. . . (Hindu benches). If anybody from those benches stands up and speaks giving his blessings to the Bill I would welcome it. It would mean a very distinct change in the mentality which has so far governed that particular section of the House. Even the voice that I heard on my right (pointing to Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh) in support of the Bill as I have already told the House came in a very halting tone and was probably guided by the same considerations which might possibly influence certain members in the Hindu Sabha section of the House to lend their support to the present Bill. I need not be more explicit on that point at least in the House.

I may explain the considerations which induce me to oppose this Bill. I have already drawn the attention of the House to the universal condemnation which a measure similar to the present one has met in the Assembly, has met in the country generally and has also met in the Press. Now let us come to the existing conditions and see whether those conditions justify the passing of a measure of this character. The honourable member in charge of the Bill himself had to admit that civil disobedience had disappeared for the time being. I may add that it has been definitely given up by the Congress though only for a temporary period of indefinite duration. The Congress has decided to come into the Councils and make use of the powers which the new constitution will place in the hands of elected members. The temporary giving up by the Congress of the weapon of civil disobedience by means of a formal resolution and the passing of another resolution enabling those who were once believers in the cult of boycott to seek election to the future legislatures, taken together give a very sure indication of the fact that civil disobedience is not likely to be revived at least in the near future. That is one very solid, substantial ground which differentiates the present conditions from the conditions which prevailed in 1932. Let us come to another very striking difference which is noticeable in the present conditions. That difference is to be found in the present general temperament of the people. As was observed by one of the previous speakers the old weapons, the old drastic remedies which were once popular and fashionable have lost their charm and the people have lost all faith in those weapons.

After the bitter experience of approximately fifteen years people have come to a definite conclusion that the heroic remedies once advocated by the Congress were no remedies, and certainly were not practicable. That general change in the mentality of the people is visible to anybody who would care to observe things for himself. This is another very striking difference between the conditions of today and the conditions which prevailed in 1932.

Again, the experience of the working of the present Act during the last three years definitely shows that terrorism is all but gone so far as the Punjab is concerned—I am not speaking of Bengal. I am speaking of the Punjab. It had never taken any deep root in this province but during the last three years whatever vestiges of terrorism existed in the Punjab before have disappeared by now. The Honourable Member in charge of the Bill has not been able to quote instances of the existence of terrorism in this province. He just quoted the seizure or receipt of three leaflets or posters—I do not know what he called them—in which there was a certain amount—

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That has nothing to do with terrorism. I was then speaking of communism.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : The Honourable Member in charge says that he made no reference to cases of terrorism.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Entirely wrong. I mentioned two very definite cases.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Yes, one man with a revolver was arrested in the Punjab and that man had come from Bengal?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Quite wrong. He is a Punjabi.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Two instances were quoted by the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill indicating the existence in this province of terrorism. The evidence is that they had revolvers or pistols.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That is not correct, Sir.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : What is correct then?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I have once made my speech and I am not going to make it the second time.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : The impression made by his speech on the House is that it really does not exist in the province. The instances which he quoted did not show, at least unmistakably, that terrorism existed. The arrest of a wild young man here and there with weapons or undesirable literature on his person does not mean that he is necessarily a terrorist. A thief or a robber or a burglar may have a revolver on his person. That does not necessarily mean that the man arrested was a terrorist.

Then, again, one portion of the present Act dealt with instigation to refusal to pay taxes. Happily the Punjab was never in a mood to listen to the preachings of either outsiders or of those living in the Punjab in respect of non-payment of taxes. That cult never took root here. The Punjab is not at all a congenial soil for the growth of a cult which would incline people to refuse to pay taxes. At any rate, the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill has not been able to state a single instance in which any refusal to pay taxes was made. He has not been able to quote a single case in which anybody was, at least successfully, prosecuted for preaching non-payment of taxes. I know that the zamindar would be the last person to listen to preachings of non-payments of taxes, because the risks incurred by listening to that preaching are so serious that he would rather risk his life than risk his land. Therefore, incitement to the refusal to pay taxes does not exist. It has not been alleged. The Honourable Member in charge also admitted that the Punjab is primarily and essentially a land of peasant proprietors and a better, more practical, more evenly-balanced distribution of land is not feasible. Therefore, the Punjab is not a congenial place for the growth of communism either. Then, what is left on the basis of which the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill asks this honourable House to give its support to the Bill? Nothing is left. Terrorism is, to all intents and purposes, non-existent. Non-payment of taxes has not even been alleged. Communism cannot prosper in this province. I do not see anything which can really be pleaded as a serious ground by any member of the Government for the support of this House.

Now another ground was put forward which related to the existence of communalism. I am afraid communalism does exist. It would be useless to deny its existence. It does exist. But the question is whether the existence of communalism will really justify the enactment of a measure of this kind. Has communalism resulted, in a large number of places or on sufficient occasions, in creating a situation which will justify the enactment of a measure of this kind? Certainly not. It has been alleged that a very ugly situation came into existence in Lahore and continued for some time. While the cause of that situation related to a matter which may be regarded as communal I think I can reasonably and justly claim that the ugly situation itself was not the result of any communal tension. I think one of the honourable speakers on this side of the House made it quite clear that in spite of the existence of that tense situation there were only two instances of a deplorable character. Beyond that there are absolutely no instances of breach of the peace attempted either by Sikhs or by Hindus or by Muslims. Will the occurrence of just those two instances of a deplorable character justify any Government in asking this House to pass a permanent measure placing in the hands of the executive government repressive powers of the most radical character? Certainly not.

Another reason which was put forward by the Honourable Member in charge was that the present Government was very very solicitous indeed for the coming Government—the Government under the new constitution. The present Government seems to think that it would be very unfair on its part if it does not leave behind it a reserve of repressive powers for use by the coming government. I do not know whether it should be reckoned as a service to the coming government or as a dis-service to the coming government. In any case, I can claim that it is wrong to have a legislation of this character meant to be used by the coming government, passed by the present House. The present House is a mixture of nominated members and elected members. The present Government is practically an irresponsible government. Will it not be better to leave the enactment of a Bill of this character to the coming legislature which will be able to claim, justly and rightly, to represent the true feelings of the country, and to a Government which will be responsible to a wholly elected House? Personally I feel that the present House is not a very proper House to be asked to undertake the responsibility of passing this legislation. Why should it pass a legislation of an unpopular character for the benefit of a government which will rest on the votes of elected members, and which will be responsible to the province as well as to an elected House? Is this Bill a good Bill? If it is a good Bill, if it is a desirable legislation, it is unfair that the present Government should seek to deprive its successor of an opportunity to enact this measure for itself. If it is a bad measure it is wrong that it should be enacted by a Government which is practically irresponsible, by a House which is a mixture of nominated and elected members and in which the determining voice rests not with non-official members but with the official block. Is there any measure which can be passed by the House except with the active support of the official block? Is there any measure which cannot be defeated in this House with the support of the official block? Therefore, I think I can rightly and fairly ask this House not to lend its support to this Bill, but leave it to the coming government.

Then, again, a friend behind me was asking: what is it which induces me to denounce or withhold my blessing from the present Bill? I would advise my friend to go through the last two Administration Reports relating to crimes. These two reports definitely show that there has been a very welcome decrease in crime in the Punjab. Then, the general situation comes to this. There has been a decrease in crime. Terrorism does not exist, communism cannot grow in this province, instigation to non-payment of taxes has not been alleged. If so, where is the ground on which this House is being asked to pass this Bill? So far as I can judge no valid ground exists except this that the official block can very easily exploit the unfortunate differences which divide one section of the House from another. That is the only valid ground to which one's finger can be pointed or on which hope can be built for the passage of this Bill.

Before I resume my seat I desire to state that my feeling is that no representative of Government is able to produce facts which would convince the average man that a situation calling for a legislation of this character exists. If it were otherwise I would be the first person to support the measure and would gladly advise all members of my party to support it. But, unfortunately, on the basis of the data supplied by the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill to the Council it cannot be claimed by the Honourable Member himself reasonably that this Bill is justified.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Entirely wrong. The honourable member did not hear those instances that I quoted.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : I did listen to them. I did weigh them, but the general impression left on my mind was practically nil. I refuse to believe that those instances were instances which indicated terrorism. After all the reports that you receive are very tainted reports.

The risks of a legislation of this kind to the ordinary citizens are very great indeed. One instance was quoted by the honourable member from Amritsar as to how a gentleman of very eminent position in this province was, without a word of enquiry from him, suspected of an action which he could not possibly be guilty of. Another instance was quoted by the honourable member for Hoshiarpur relating to the incident of the arrest of Mr. Bannerjee. Another instance I can quote from my personal knowledge. An official of a very low rank, a constable of the Criminal Investigation Department, sought to divert suspicion in a murder case from the real culprit to absolutely innocent persons, and, in order to achieve his object, he made a report that such and such persons were really at the bottom of that crime. In order to give his theory an appearance of circumstantiality he pretended to have picked up from the place of occurrence a letter addressed to one of the persons whom he desired to implicate. Fortunately the real culprit was arrested along with his alleged companions. One of these companions made a confession throwing full light on the actual perpetration of the crime. The actual murderer himself confessed that he was the murderer. Yet, this is the sort of information on which the Government so often bases its action and claims that it receives very reliable information from its Police Department. This is what happens every day. These two or three instances have shaken my faith in the infallibility or integrity of the Criminal Investigation Department very much. This constitutes, to my mind, a fresh danger which will accentuate the evils of the working of a measure of this kind.

Before I close I desire to suggest that if more light had been thrown, if more convincing matter had been placed before this House we might have changed our mind. I waited for a long time to see if any representative of Government would stand up and give more facts of a convincing character. But no such facts were forthcoming. Consequently, on the basis of the material that is before the House I cannot but refuse to give my blessing to the present measure.

Pir Akbar Ali (Ferozepore, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): If this Bill, which has been opposed by all the members who have spoken so far with the exception of one, is intended, as its sponsors have said, to preserve peace in the country and to maintain law and order, then we are better without that peace and without that law and order. We are prepared to sacrifice this and thousands of other Bills of this nature on the altar of that much-maligned chaos that we have to witness without this Bill if our honour is not safe. There are three main grounds which have been stated and on which this Bill is sought to be placed permanently on the statute book of the province. The first ground is the fear of civil disobedience movement. About that we have been assured that it has died out and we are aware of no declaration made by anybody in the country to the effect that it will be resorted to again. The second ground on which we have been asked to give our support to this Bill is the fear of a movement being started for the non-payment of taxes in the Punjab. But that ground is also not valid. The people of the Punjab who are known for their loyalty to the Government have never before even thought of refusing to pay taxes to the Government. Their loyalty stands in the way of their taking such a step. Therefore there can be no fear of such a movement being started in this province. As far as communism goes, which has been advanced as the third ground in favour of this Bill, it cannot flourish in a province like the Punjab and I should say in a country like India. But one may reasonably ask—If that is so, where do these papers or documents.

or whatever you may like to call them, come from, which the Finance Member brings here to convince us that there is such a movement afoot? That is really a question which must be answered. But before answering that question I would like to ask, how is it that all such papers and documents have a tendency to come into the hands of the Government and its officers only? Do the so-called communists and founders of this movement think that the Government officers are the best propagandists of their movement? Are they men of such a type that they are not prepared to rely upon their countrymen but have more faith in the Honourable the Finance Member? And above all, how is it that all such papers and documents are written in English which language very few Punjabis can read and write? Therefore naturally we have our doubts about the source of such papers and documents which supplies them on occasions like this when such Bills are sought to be placed on the statute book.

There is yet another ground which has been advanced by the Honourable the Finance Member in support of this Bill and that is the spirit of communalism which is said to be growing in the province. In answer to this charge I may at once say that it is not so much the fault of any community as it is that of the Government which has allowed this spirit to grow. And it is apparent from what happened in connection with the Shahidganj affair. I wish I had not touched this point, but I cannot help saying something about it. It is my belief and it is the belief of every sane man that neither the Sikhs, nor the Muhammadans nor the Hindus are responsible for these unpleasant occurrences. It is the Government alone which is to blame for what happened on that occasion. I ask why did not the Government raise even a little finger when jathas after jathas of Akalis were coming and mustering strong in the city of Lahore? Where was the Criminal Investigation Department of the Government at that time and what had become of all the sources of information at the command of the Government? I ask, why were these Akalis allowed to collect in large numbers here in Lahore on that occasion? These and other omissions on the part of the Government and the dereliction of its duty have confirmed the impression in the minds of the general public that it is with the help of the Government that the mosque has been demolished. A mosque which had remained intact for 2,000 years and which had not been demolished even when the Sikhs were the rulers of the province, could not have been demolished if the Government had not acted in the manner in which it acted on this occasion. May be that the Government is now sorry over what has actually happened. I am also prepared to admit that it condemned the attitude of the Sikhs in this connection. But I may inform the Government that this condemnation of the attitude of the Sikhs and other statements issued afterwards have not in the least helped to remove the impression that it is with the aid of the Government that the mosque was demolished.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : May I ask how all this is relevant to this debate?

Pir Akbar Ali : I may as well say that this spirit of communalism has not grown because of the communal electorates as the learned Pandit Nanak Chand would have us believe. I am inclined to think that these denominational institutions, from one of which Pandit Nanak Chand himself graduated, are responsible for the growth of the spirit of communalism. For that also the Government is to blame. It has not opened as many educational institutions as there is demand for them and the different communities had to open their own colleges to meet the growing demand of the public. Any way it is the Government, I think, that has allowed this spirit of communalism to grow in the province (hear, hear). Therefore it does not lie in its mouth now to come forward and say that to fight that spirit it must have this law on the statute book. I may as well say that these repressive laws will not help the Government in stopping the people from making legitimate demands. Where were these laws when the civil disobedience movement was in full swing and when the people caring little for all such laws went to jail in large numbers? We all know and the Government also knows that all these repressive laws proved ineffective at that time. In not a few cases did these laws prove engines of oppression and many innocent persons were deprived of their liberty and even of their means of livelihood on account of their being mishandled by the executive officers. If such laws help at all, they help to produce feelings of resentment and enmity in the minds of the public at large against the Government. It is the presence of such laws that was responsible for the internment of a lieutenant of Pir Jamait Ali Shah on the strength of an unconfirmed news rather rumour, which the Honourable Finance Member has said appeared in the papers, that the said Pir had decided to launch civil disobedience movement against the Government.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Nobody on this side said anything of that sort.

Pir Akbar Ali : I say this came out in the papers.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I said nothing of that sort.

Pir Akbar Ali : Any way it is an undeniable fact that no decision was taken in the meeting at Rawalpindi to launch this movement. All that was decided upon in that meeting was that the whole matter will be discussed in the meeting that was to be held at Lahore on the 20th and yet the gentleman was deported or rather interned.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Perhaps I had better explain. What I said was that the secretary of the conference declared that it had been decided to start civil disobedience.

Pir Akbar Ali : This declaration or whatever it was proved ultimately to be wrong as the Government now knows. I would like to know, however, in which paper that declaration appeared and whether Government had ascertained that the secretary who made that declaration had the authority of the Pir Sahib to make that declaration.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : In answer to that question I may say that quite apart from other sources of information it appeared in the A. P. I. telegrams.

Pir Akbar Ali : I will pass on by saying that the sources of information at the command of the Government are not reliable or there is some defect in them.

I may take this opportunity to say that the primary duty of the Government is to afford us all sorts of opportunities to broaden our outlook so that we may become good members of society. It is no good to tighten the bonds of our bondage and thus to help the growth of our slavish mentality. If the Government continued to stick to its present attitude, we can never become useful members of society and I shall not be wrong if I say that we shall never prove of any help to the Government as well. The Government should not at every step think of restricting our freedom. It is against its own traditions which every Englishman rightly boasts of. We hoped that you would try for our up-lift. Our expectations were that we would be able to tell other nations of the world that the British Government brought countless blessings to our country. But we are sorry to see that you are adopting such ways which will not redound to your credit as a civilized and a beneficent Government. You are trying to add to the number of chains which are already round our legs. For God's sake do not bring forward such measures which may throttle the small sense of freedom which is left in us. I will not go into the details of the proposed measure but this is certain that if it is enacted into law the honour of any gentleman will not be safe. Yesterday it was pointed out by many honourable members of this House that many respectable people are being harassed by the Government officers by virtue of this law. This is not merely a question of apprehension but it is a fact. I do not mean to say that the Government is entirely to blame. May be, some of its officers take the initiative and begin to harass the people of their own accord but there are certainly some who do it with a view to pleasing their high officers. Officers under the Government seem to be under the impression that they please the Government by being harsh to the people. They seem to believe that the Government is wedded to nothing but a policy of repression in this country. Has the Government ever given a moment's thought to this matter? Has it ever tried to find out the reason why sometimes people are dissatisfied with it, why speeches in this House are made against the Government. Why sometimes the friends of the Government have to join the ranks of its enemies? The reason of all this is that the Government seems to mistrust the people and the people in their turn have ceased to have reliance on the friendship of the Government. Therefore, they go to swell the ranks of its enemies. It is not an unknown thing that the Government gives more credence to the report of a constable than to the version of a respectable gentleman from amongst the public. This is contrary to all principles of law and justice but the Government sticks to this policy and never fails to give preference to the reports of its constables over those given by respectable citizens.

6 P. M.

Mr. President : Will the honourable member please speak to the motion?

Pir Akbar Ali : I am speaking to the motion. I am refuting the arguments brought forward in support of this measure. The principle which the Government seems to have established is this that they can allow anybody to attend any meeting of the public.

Mr. President : Which principle of the Bill is the honourable member now discussing?

Pir Akbar Ali : Checking the reports of the police.

Mr. President : Is that the principle of the Bill ?

Pir Akbar Ali : Clause 7 deals with it.

Mr. President : That may be, but the principle underlying clause 7 is not the principle of the Bill.

Pir Akbar Ali : I was discussing the provision allowing people to attend any public gatherings.—

Mr. President : I have expressed my view and cannot allow it to be discussed. The honourable member will please discuss the principle of the Bill and not its clauses.

Pir Akbar Ali : Very well, Sir. The Government has given four reasons for bringing forward this measure but at this time not a single one of them holds good, and the Government itself admits this. Under these circumstances, what is the reason for bringing forward this measure ? Is the Government solicitous of the public safety ? If it is so, it should not worry over this affair as the people do not want this Bill. If in spite of all this the Government insists upon pressing this measure we cannot but quote the significant Punjabi proverb

مارن نالوں داڑی ہیجلی

Perhaps the Government is solicitous for the welfare of the future Government of this province. But this is also not a fact. The future Government will be in a great difficulty on account of such a measure which is so universally hated. Now the people are thinking that our present Government does not want the new Government to come.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : They will be glad if the new constitution does not even pass Aden on its way to India.

Pir Akbar Ali : You will be also glad if this is so. The Government should not pass such a law at a time when their tenure of office is rapidly nearing its end. With these words, I oppose the motion under consideration.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Thursday, 24th October, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber at 2 P. M. of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4607. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) the number of II Class M. As. and M. Ses. in the S. E. S. (grade Rs. 110—5—135) with the approved service of five years or more ;
- (b) whether he proposes to consider the desirability of promoting them to the grade Rs. 140—10—190 ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The honourable member is referred to the Subordinate Educational Service gradation list placed on the table.

(b) Promotions in Subordinate Educational Service rest with the Director of Public Instruction who deals with each case according to its deserts.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Is it a fact that several new appointments have been made direct in Rs. 140 grade since these people have been promoted ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I require notice of that.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Is the Honourable Minister aware that one Qazi Abdul Rashid has been appointed direct in Rs. 140 grade ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I cannot answer off-hand unless I make enquiries.

GAZETTED OFFICERS IN THE CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT.

*4608. Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- (a) how many gazetted officers there are in the Co-operative Department ;
- (b) how many of them belong to Ambala division ;
- (c) what reasons led the Government to give poor representation to this division ;
- (d) what the Government intends to do in the matter to help this backward division ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) 27, of whom 24 are Indian.

(b) One.

(c) No quota of representation is prescribed for divisions and districts. The best selection was made from the material available.

(d) In future recruitment, if suitable candidates from the Ambala division come forward, their claims will be given every consideration. The first consideration is, however, efficiency and aptitude for co-operative work.

SUSPENSION OR REMISSION OF LAND REVENUE.

*4609. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly lay on the table a statement showing :—

(a) the amounts of land revenue recommended for (i) suspension or (ii) remission in each district by local officers ;

(b) the amounts of remission and suspension sanctioned by the Government for each district ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Government do not consider it in the public interest to disclose the recommendations of local officers.

(b) The remissions sanctioned by Government in rabi 1935 are detailed in press communiqué, dated the 15th June, 1935, a copy of which is laid on the table. These remissions are in addition to the suspensions and remissions which are being sanctioned by the Commissioners of divisions and the Financial Commissioner, Revenue, under the ordinary rules.

REMISSIONS OF LAND REVENUE OR WATER-RATE.

*4610. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state whether any remission of land revenue or water-rate has been granted in any district on the ground of low prices of rabi crops prevailing in May and June last, and if so, the amount per district so remitted ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : A copy of the press communiqué giving the required information is laid on the table.

Copy of a Press Communiqué No. 1153, dated 15th June, 1935.

In order to give some measure of special relief in respect of the land revenue for the current rabi harvest, the Punjab Government have examined the agricultural statistics of the districts where there has been a marked fluctuation in prices from those assumed at settlement, and have granted special remissions of land revenue to the following eight districts and the Nili Bar Colony, amounting to over eleven lakhs of rupees, the approximate distribution being :—

|                 |    |    |    |    | Rs.      |
|-----------------|----|----|----|----|----------|
| Sheikhpura      | .. | .. | .. | .. | 94,000   |
| Gujrat          | .. | .. | .. | .. | 51,000   |
| Shahpur         | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1,18,000 |
| Mianwali        | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4,000    |
| Lyalpur         | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6,27,000 |
| Jhang           | .. | .. | .. | .. | 29,000   |
| Multan          | .. | .. | .. | .. | 94,000   |
| Muzaffargarh    | .. | .. | .. | .. | 34,000   |
| Nili Bar Colony | .. | .. | .. | .. | 65,000   |

The principal crops of the rabi harvest are wheat, gram and toria. The difference between the wholesale prices prevailing on the 25th May, 1935, and the commutation prices assumed at the last settlement was found to differ to an extent justifying the grant of special remissions in these districts. This is in addition to the relief in land revenue granted in the Lower Bari Doab Colony (in the Multan and Montgomery districts) where a special remission of land revenue amounting to 40 per cent. of the demand on this harvest has been given under the operation of the sliding scale of assessment introduced in 1934.

Apart from the above and as a special case Government have given relief amounting to over five lakhs of rupees in regard to both land revenue and abiana on the canal irrigated areas under wheat in the Jhang, Lyallpur and Sheikhupura districts on account of the widespread damage suffered by wheat through extraordinary calamities of the season.

CANDIDATES FOR THE POST OF ZILLADAR.

*4611. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) whether there are any instructions as to the proportion of Muslim and non-Muslim candidates for the post of zilladar which should be maintained by each Superintending Engineer when forwarding the rolls of candidates ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, whether it is a fact that this proportion is the same for all circles irrespective of the extent of the Muslim, Hindu and Sikh element in the population of each circle ;
- (c) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, whether Government will kindly place a copy of these instructions on the table of the House ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The honourable member is referred to the reply to his question No. *3274,<sup>1</sup> dated the 26th June, 1934.

(b) and (c) Do not arise.

PATWARI CANDIDATES.

*4612. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Executive Engineer of Rohtak Irrigation division was instructed to remove the names of all patwari candidates excepting four Muslims and two Sikhs ;
- (b) the relative population of Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs in this division ;
- (c) the number of statutory Hindu agriculturists among the patwaris of the Rohtak division, what proportion this number bears to the total strength and to the strength of Hindus in the cadre ;
- (d) what is the number of statutory Hindu agriculturists whose names were removed in pursuance of the instructions referred to in (a) ;

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

- (e) whether the instructions referred to in (a) were issued with regard to all the divisions in the Punjab or with regard only to a few divisions, and if the latter, the names of the divisions concerned;
- (f) who issued the instructions referred to in (a);
- (g) whether the Government is prepared to lay on the table of the House a copy of the instructions referred to in (a); and if not, why not;
- (h) what is the proportion of statutory Hindu agriculturists in the whole cadre of partwaris and of Hindu patwaris respectively in the province?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No such instructions were issued to Executive Engineer, Rohtak. A copy of certain general instructions issued by the Superintending Engineer to all his Executive Engineers on the subject of passed patwari candidates is laid on the table.

(b) All attempt is being made to ascertain the approximate relative population by communities in the Rohtak division.

(c) 33. This represents 38 per cent. of the total number of patwaris in the Rohtak division and 2.75 per cent. of the total provincial cadre excluding the Sutlej Valley Canals and Mirabs in the Derajat Circle.

(d) Nil.

(e) Circle instructions issued to the 4 Executive Engineers in the Western Jumna Canal Circle only.

(f) The Circle instructions were issued by the Superintending Engineer.

(g) Yes: a copy of the Circle instructions is laid on the table.

(h) The proportion of Hindu agriculturists in the total cadre as referred to in reply to (c) is 8.5 per cent. and 48.7 per cent., respectively.

No passed candidates of any community were removed from Executive Engineers' lists.

Copy of a letter No. 3623/26, dated 5th May, 1935, from F. A. Farquharson, Esq., M.C., Superintending Engineer, Western Jumna Canal Circle, to the Executive Engineer, Karnal, Delhi, Rohtak and Hissar.

honour to forward the Circle Statement which shows the present situation and the following general orders are herewith given for future compliance and which are much on the lines of the recent Committee's recommendations in Lahore, and which will, I think, be accepted by Government:—

1. General Orders.

(1) Each Divisional Officer will open a register of accepted candidates, i.e., candidates who have not been trained or sent up for the Patwaris' Examination.

(2) No candidate may be brought on to this register unless—

(a) he is a Matriculate,

(b) he is over 18 and under 22 years of age at the time of acceptance.

No candidate may remain on this register after attaining the age of 25 years.

As per I.M.
O. 1-6 (1) (c)
and (d).

(3) The Divisional Officer will make sure that he brings on to his list only 3 candidates for each communal vacancy that will occur in his division during the next five years, and these candidates should be as far as possible 60 per cent. agriculturists and 40 per cent. non-agriculturists.

(4) The Divisional Officer will arrange to get these accepted candidates trained in accordance with the orders in Irrigation Manual of Orders 1-6 (2) and they will then appear in the examination which will be held in rotation at the divisional headquarters, viz., Delhi, Rohtak, Karnal and Hissar in that order for all candidates.

(5) Those candidates who pass will be brought on to the Passed Candidates Register of the division concerned in the serial order of passing by communities.

(6) Permanent vacancies will be allotted to the men by seniority in the order of passing the examination.

Temporary vacancies will be allotted similarly by communities.

(7) In the event of any passed candidate not obtaining permanent employment before the age of 25, his name will be struck off the Passed Candidates' Register.

(8) In the event of any Divisional Officer not having a passed candidate of the required community, he must first apply to each of the other divisions before making a permanent appointment, but temporary appointments in a division in such cases may be filled from passed candidates of other communities borne on the Divisional Register.

(9) On January 1st each year each Divisional Officer will forward a statement to the Superintending Engineer as per the attached form from which the Superintending Engineer will prepare a Circle statement and pass orders as to the—

(a) Transfers of passed candidates from one division to another to even up inequalities;

(b) The necessary numbers of men to be trained by communities in each division;

(c) The date and place of the next examination.

(10) The filling up of vacancies in a division will be carried out in accordance with the orders in Chief Engineer's letter No. 9683-Est.-S., dated 17th November 1934, until such time as the correct communal ratio has been arrived at, after which a communal vacancy will be filled by a passed candidate of that community.

The Circle statement shows that under Muslims and Sikhs there are insufficient passed candidates on the lists to comply with the filling up of permanent appointments and having a reserve for temporary leave and unforeseen vacancies, and the following candidates are to be put into training now for an examination to be held by Executive Engineer, Delhi, in October next:—

II Special orders for 1935.

PATWARI CANDIDATES IN WESTERN JUMNA AND SIRHIND CIRCLES.

*4614. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state the number of (a) Hindus and (b) statutory Hindu agriculturists whose names have been removed from the list of patwari candidates in the Western Jumna and Sirhind circles in pursuance of instructions issued lately to the various divisions concerned?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No specific orders for the removal of Hindus or of any other community have been issued; but in pursuance of orders to reduce the number of patwari candidates generally the following numbers of Hindus and Hindu agriculturists are among those removed from the lists—

(a) 107.

(b) 8.

EXEMPTION FROM PAYMENT OF LAND REVENUE.

*4615. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state whether land comprised in the sites of (a) villages and (b) towns is exempt from the payment of land revenue ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The attention of the honourable member is invited to Appendix XV to the Settlement Manual.

EXEMPTION OF AGRICULTURAL LAND FROM LAND REVENUE.

*4616. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state whether agricultural land acquired for the location of a factory or residential houses and actually built upon ceases to pay any land revenue after the next land revenue settlement has been made ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The attention of the honourable member is invited to section 48 (1) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, and Appendix XV to the Punjab Settlement Manual—especially paragraphs 7 and 8.

GOVERNMENT'S SHARE OF NET ASSETS AT THE LAST SETTLEMENT OF ROHTAK, HISSAR, KARNAL, GURGAON AND AMBALA.

*4617. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) the proportion of the nett assets taken by the Government as its share at the last settlement of Rohtak, Hissar, Karnal, Gurgaon and Ambala districts respectively ;
- (b) the commutation prices adopted at the time of the settlements referred to in (a) ;
- (c) the rise in the wages of agricultural labourers since the settlements referred to in (a) were made ;
- (d) the rise in the prices of the various items of the cost of production usually deducted from gross assets since the settlements referred to in (a) were made ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) and (b) The honourable member is referred to the Final Settlement Reports of the districts concerned.

(c) and (d) The answer to these parts of the question would entail a special enquiry involving an amount of labour that would be out of all proportion to the value of the information sought.

PUNITIVE POLICE POSTS IN ROHTAK.

*4618. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly lay on the table of the House a copy of the report, if any, of district officers with regard to the advisability of lifting the punitive posts from the thirty-four bastis of the Rohtak district before their usual time ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The report to which the honourable member appears to refer is of a confidential character, and it is not in the public interest to publish it.

APPOINTMENT OF STATUTORY AGRICULTURISTS TO THE SUBORDINATE EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4619. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of appointments made in the grade of Rs. 80—4—100 or higher grades of S. E. S. during the years 1927—1935 (both years inclusive);
- (b) the number of Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs among the persons appointed to the grades and during the years referred to in (a);
- (c) the number of statutory agriculturists among the Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs referred to in (a)?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member's attention is drawn to the information supplied in answer to question No. *1924,<sup>1</sup> asked by Chaudhri Ram Sarup in 1932. For the rest of the information he is referred to the Subordinate Educational Service gradation lists corrected upto the 1st April, 1933, 1934 and 1935, copies of which are placed in the Council Library.

It may, however, be added for the honourable member's information that the communal representation in the Subordinate Educational Service (Anglo-Vernacular Section) as it stood on the 1st July, 1935, was as under :—

|                    | Per cent. |    |    |      |
|--------------------|-----------|----|----|------|
| Hindus .. .. .     | ..        | .. | .. | 46·9 |

APPOINTMENT OF STATUTORY HINDU AGRICULTURISTS IN THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

*4621. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether any statutory Hindu agriculturists have ever been appointed direct to a post in the P. E. S. or in the two highest grades of S. E. S. during the period of 1927 to 1935 ;
- (b) the number of Muslims and Sikhs without foreign qualifications or teaching experience or teaching experience of less than five years who have been appointed direct to the P. E. S. or to a post in the two highest grades of S. E. S. during the period referred to in (a) ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) One in the P. E.S. (Class II).

(b) Hindus—Thirty-four.

Muslims—Seven.

Sikhs.—Five.

PARTIES TO GOVERNMENT SERVANTS BY THE PUBLIC OR SUBORDINATES.

*4622. Lala Chetan Anand : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Government servants are not allowed to accept parties the expenditure of which is subscribed by public or subordinates, without the permission of head of department ;

- (b) if so, whether a party was given to M. Abdul Rahman, Superintendent, Deputy Commissioner's office, Multan, on the eve of his transfer, which was subscribed by his subordinates;
- (c) whether any permission was obtained for this party;
- (d) if not, whether the Government proposes to take any action in the matter?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes, unless the party is of a substantially private and informal character.

(b) A private party was given at the residence of the head vernacular clerk.

(c) and (d) No.

RAISING OF SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM THE MINISTERIAL ESTABLISHMENT TO PAY OFF THE DEBT OF A PEON.

*4623. Lala Chetan Anand : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that subscription was realised from the ministerial and copying staff of the Deputy Commissioner, Multan, to pay off the debt of one Abdullah, peon;
- (b) whether any complaint was made to the Deputy Commissioner, Multan, regarding this subscription;
- (c) whether it was brought to the notice of the Deputy Commissioner that the subscription was raised under the orders of Superintendent, Deputy Commissioner's office, Multan;
- (d) whether any enquiry was made into the matter;
- (e) if so, what was its result;
- (f) whether the Government proposes to take any action into the matter to put a stop to such practice?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) This was alleged but disapproved.

(d) Yes.

(e) As indicated in (c) above.

(f) Yes, if such practices are proved to occur.

APPEALS AND REVISION PETITIONS AGAINST DEPARTMENTAL PUNISHMENT.

*4624. Lala Chetan Anand : Will the Honourable Member for Finance please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the appeals and revision against departmental punishment made to the Financial Commissioner or the High Court are exempt from court fee;
- (b) whether these appeals or revisions are ordered to be sent through the head of the office to which the appellant belongs;

[Lala Chetan Anand.]

- (c) whether it is a fact that the heads of the departments have to forward these appeals or revisions with all the relevant papers including the order appealed against ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the appellant has to file a copy of the order appealed against properly stamped ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the appeals or revisions in other departments such as Irrigation, Education, Medical are not required to be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against ;
- (f) whether in view of the fact that the appeal and revision is to be sent through the head of the department with all the relevant papers including the order appealed against and also in view of the practice in other departments, Government proposes to do away the filing of a certified copy of the order with the appeal or revision ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) The High Court does not as a rule require that relevant papers be forwarded with application for revision ; otherwise the answer to this part of the question is in the affirmative.

(d) The appellant has to file a properly stamped copy of the order in appeals to Financial Commissioners and Commissioners. The High Court require a copy of the order, but do not require it to be stamped.

(e) All departments, except the Education Department, require a copy of the order along with appeals or applications for revision.

(f) Unless a copy of the order under appeal or revision is forwarded, there may be doubt regarding the exact order against which an appeal or application for revision is lodged. For this reason Government regret that they cannot dispense with the requirement of a certified copy.

AUDIT FEES CHARGED BY THE CO-OPERATIVE UNION, JULLUNDUR.

*4625. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state whether it is a fact that the Central Co-operative Bank, Jullundur, has passed a resolution that the audit fees charged annually by the Co-operative Union from that district are about Rs. 60,000 and the Co-operative Union gives only Rs. 40,000 in return ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : Yes. But the correct figures are --

|                    |    |    | Rs.    |
|--------------------|----|----|--------|
| Total contribution | .. | .. | 52,274 |
| Total expenditure  | .. | .. | 44,087 |

RECRUITMENT TO THE PROVINCIAL VETERINARY SERVICE.

*4626. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) what is the system of recruitment to the Provincial Veterinary Service, Class II ;

- (b) whether any recruitment has been directly made to the service ; if not, why not ;
- (c) whether there are no candidates with M. R. C. V. S. qualifications waiting for employment ;
- (d) whether Government proposes to consider such candidates for direct recruitment to fill up existing vacancies ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) The system of recruitment is laid down in the Punjab Veterinary Service, Class II Rules, promulgated with Punjab Government Notification No. 1470-D., dated the 16th June 1933.

- (b) Not since the Class II rules were promulgated.
- (c) There are some candidates with M. R. C. V. S. qualification available.
- (d) Yes.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : How long have the vacancies been existing?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : There is no permanent vacancy which has not been filled temporarily or otherwise.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : When are you going to fill them ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : Very shortly.

PERCENTAGE OF SIKHS AND THEIR EMOLUMENTS ON THE CLERICAL ESTABLISHMENT.

*4627. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : (i) Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state the percentage of Sikhs and their emoluments on the clerical establishments in the Punjab in the—

- (a) Agricultural Department ;
- (b) Veterinary Department ;
- (c) Co-operative Department ; and
- (d) Public Works Department, Buildings and Roads Branch ?
- (ii) What steps is it proposed to take to increase their representation ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (i)—

[Hon. Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh.]

(ii) The policy of Government was stated by the Honourable Finance Member in a debate in the Legislative Council on the 19th of July 1927. This is still the policy of Government, and Government will continue to carry out the requirements of the formula contained in the said statement of policy.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Does the Honourable Minister consider 8 per cent. and 6 per cent. as showing that he has been following the policy laid down by the Honourable Finance Member?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : Recruitment has been very slow and as now recruitment takes place the deficiency will be made up.

RAILWAY BONDS.

*4628. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : (i) Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state if the answer to question No. *4245<sup>1</sup> is now ready?

(ii) If the answer to (i) be—

(a) in the negative, what is the reason for delay;

(b) in the affirmative, it may kindly be read?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (i) Yes.

(ii) (a) Does not arise.

(b) Read.

SENIOR VERNACULAR TRAINING.

*4629. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

(a) whether the courses of studies for Senior Vernacular (one year) and Senior Vernacular (two years) are different;

(b) whether there is any difference between the certificates awarded to the candidates of the said examination;

(c) whether the certificates awarded to Senior Vernacular (one year) before 1922 empowered them to teach the high classes;

(d) whether there have been cases who were already Senior Vernacular (one year trained) but joined the training classes of Senior Vernacular (two years);

(e) if the reply to (d) is in the affirmative, whether these candidates were awarded such certificates as did not allow them to teach the high classes;

(f) if so, why their previous right to teach the high classes was withdrawn?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The Senior-Vernacular (one year) course ceased to exist since 1931.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes. They, however, continued to be considered as entitled to teach in the high classes by virtue of the old certificates possessed by them, provided their work was satisfactory.

(f) Does not arise.

RESULTS OF THE MIDDLE SCHOOL EXAMINATION FOR GIRLS.

*4630. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) when the last middle school examination for girls was held by the Education Department ;
- (b) when the result of the said examination was declared ;
- (c) what circumstances, if any, were responsible for the publication of the result being delayed for over three months ;
- (d) whether the Education Department requires the recognised schools for girls to have the promotion of their girl students for the 8th class into the 9th class on the result of this examination, if so, on what authority ;
- (e) whether the recognised schools for boys are not free to hold their own promotion examinations for the 8th class ;
- (f) the reasons for adopting a different rule in the case of girl students ;
- (g) what provision is made by the recognised schools for the teaching of girls who have appeared for the 8th class examination ;
- (h) whether the matriculation course commences on the 1st April ;
- (i) whether he proposes to consider the advisability of the Education Department publishing the result before the 1st April each year ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : : (a) The middle standard examination for Indian girls was held on the 8th to 19th March, 1935.

(b) The result was announced on the 8th June, 1935.

(c) There has been no delay in the publication of the result ; for it is ordinarily published in the first week of June.

(d) It has hitherto been the general practice, but the Department are reconsidering the matter in view of the fact that the promotions in the boys' schools from 8th to 9th class are made by the head masters.

(e) Yes, except vernacular middle schools which must send up their boys for the vernacular final examination.

(f) There are advantages in having a uniform standard for promotions from 8th to 9th class, but as suggested above in (d) the Department are reconsidering the matter.

(g) The general practice is to admit them to IX class provisionally.

(h) Yes.

[Hon. Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon.]

(i) The Department will consider the honourable member's suggestion, though it appears to be difficult to publish the results before 1st April each year.

BUILDING FOR THE GOVERNMENT GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, AMBALA CITY.

*4631. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the authorities are going to take on lease one kotli in Ambala city for the Government Girls' High School on Rs. 200 per mensem ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the rental value of this building shown in the Municipal Committee registers is only Rs. 20 per mensem and house tax has been assessed up to this time at this rate ;
- (c) which of the officers of the Government is negotiating the terms of the lease with the owner ;
- (d) whether he proposes to make an enquiry as to the reasonable rental value of this house and to pay only that rent ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The question of renting another house for the school on Rs. 150 per mensem is under consideration.

- (b) No.
- (c) Inspectress of Schools, Eastern Circle, Ambala.
- (d) Yes.

JAGIRDARS AND ASSIGNEES OF LAND REVENUE.

*4632. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) the total number of jagirdars and assignees of land revenue separately in each district of the Punjab, communitywise ;
- (b) the total amount paid as jagir in each district annually and the amount received by jagirdars of each community ;
- (c) the total amount of land revenue assigned in each district in favour of jagirdars and the amount of land revenue assigned to each district ;
- (d) the names of the biggest and smallest jagirdars in each district and the amounts they receive ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a), (b) and (d) The information is not readily available and the time and labour involved in obtaining it would not be commensurate with the results achieved.

(c) A statement showing the total land revenue assigned in each district is placed on the table. No fixed amount is allotted to each district for jagirs.

THE PUNJAB RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT AND WARRANTS OF ARREST.

*4633. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- how many warrants of arrest issued by the civil court in each of the districts of the Punjab were cancelled or withdrawn on the coming of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act into force ;
- whether the process fees paid by the decree-holders for the issue of those arrest warrants have been refunded to any decree-holder ; if not, what steps Government proposes to take to refund the process fees paid in court by the decree-holders ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

RETRENCHMENT OF BAILIFFS.

*4634. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state how many bailiffs have been retrenched in the Punjab on account of the provisions of civil arrests being deleted ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : None.

DECRETAL MONEY DUE ON ACCOUNT OF SIMPLE MONEY DECREES.

*4635. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) the amount of decretal money due on account of simple money decrees at the end of each year during the last five years ;
- (b) the money realized through court at the end of each year during the above period ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) A statement is laid on the table showing the total amount realised through the courts in execution from 1929 to 1933 and the percentage these realisations bear to the decrees outstanding. These figures are for all classes of civil suits. No separate statistics are maintained for simple money suits.

BUILDING FOR THE GOVERNMENT GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, AMBALA.

*4636. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Government Girls' High School, Ambala, is located in a rented building ;
- (b) if so, what is the annual rent ;
- (c) what was the rent of the kothi before it was taken over by the Government for the school ;
- (d) which of the officers of the Department negotiated the lease contract with the owner ;
- (e) whether he proposes to make an enquiry as to whether the rent paid is excessive ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) Rs. 1,200.

(c) Exact information is not available.

(d) Inspectress of Schools, Eastern Circle, Ambala.

(e) The Executive Engineer, Public Works Department, Buildings and Roads Branch has certified that the amount of rent being paid for the building is reasonable.

INTERNMENT OF KARTAR SINGH UNDER THE CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT ACT.

*4637. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that one Kartar Singh of Montgomery has been ordered to be confined and interned under section 3, Criminal Law Amendment Act, since the 24th November, 1933 ;
- (b) if so, whether his case has been ever reconsidered by the Government for withdrawal of these orders ;
- (c) if so, when ;
- (d) whether the same gentleman has ever represented to the Government that he has never done any act of violence or associated himself with the subversive activities of the terrorists ; if so, whether he will lay copies of the memorials and petitions on the table of the House ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the same internee Kartar Singh has extensive business of money-lending spread throughout the district and on account of his internment orders he cannot make any regular attempt to realize his dues from his debtors ;
- (f) whether the Government intends to reconsider his case ;
- (g) whether the Government is prepared to withdraw these internment orders on any condition ; if so, what ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Kartar Singh was served with an order under section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1932, on the 24th November, 1933, not to go outside the limits of the revenue area of Okara without the permission of the District Magistrate of Montgomery.

(b) Yes.

(c) December 1933 ; January, May, June, July and August 1934 ; and January and May 1935.

(d) Five such representations have been received. Copies of the representations are laid on the table.

(e) Government have no information about the details of Kartar Singh's business.

(f) Not at present.

(g) The order will be withdrawn when Government are satisfied that the reasons leading to its imposition are no longer valid.

To

The Chief Secretary to Government, Punjab, Lahore.

SIR,

I most humbly and respectfully beg to lay before you the following for your consideration :—

- (1) A restraint order restraining me to the "revenue" area of Okara was served on me on November 24th. I have not been able to understand the exact meaning of the term "revenue area." I request you to define for me the limits of the "revenue area" Okara.
- (2) I have to realise about a lakh of rupees from people in Montgomery, Hoshiarpur and other districts. This sudden restraint order has restrained me from realising the debts, and so has adversely effected my business interests. Therefore

I request you to revise your orders and thus save me from incurring unnecessary loss.

- (3) I am at a loss to understand why I, a strict follower of Mahatma Gandhi and a believer in non-violence and moreover after release having done nothing to further acts of any unlawful association, am served with a restraint order which has done an incalculable harm to my business interests.

I hope these points will be favourably considered and restraint order will be withdrawn.

I beg to remain,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

KARTAR SINGH,

Okara Mandi.

Copy forwarded to the Superintendent of Police, Montgomery.

7th December 1933.

To

The Chief Secretary to Government, Punjab, Lahore.

SIR,

I RESPECTFULLY beg to lay the following few lines for your kind perusal:—

- (1) A restraint order was served on me on 24th November, 1933, restraining me within Okara Municipal limits. I applied to the Deputy Commissioner, Montgomery, to allow me to attend civil court at Delhi in connection with a civil suit but the Deputy Commissioner did not allow me to attend the same.
- (2) At another time my father was ill in Chak No. 55/4-R, a village in the Montgomery Tahsil of the same district and I applied to the Deputy Commissioner to allow me to visit my father in Chak No. 55/4-R, but he refused me to see my father.
- (3) All this means that in spite of my obeying restraint order Government wants to put me in Jail and is simply waiting the opportunity.
- (4) As I have been restrained within Okara limits so I cannot attend my business which lies in the whole of Montgomery district, hence other share-holders of the firm have refused to continue my share, under the above circumstances myself and my family are simply starving in Okara.
- (5) A fine of Rs. 200 was realised from me last year when I was in Jail but the same was refunded to me by the order of the Punjab High Court, my relatives tried to get the refund but the court refused to refund the sum of Rs. 200 and ordered that I should get the refund myself personally, but the Deputy Commissioner refused even to allow me to get the refund.
- (6) The meaning of Government by restraining me is to cut off my political activities and not to starve me and so I hope you will very kindly make arrangements for me and my family's maintenance and also allow me to attend my business which is in the whole of Montgomery district.

Yours obediently,

KARTAR SINGH,

Okara Mandi.

Dated 5th January, 1934.

To

The Chief Secretary to Government, Punjab, Lahore.

SIR,

I RESPECTFULLY beg to lay the following few lines for your kind perusal, that I have been interned in Okara Municipal limits from 24-11-33, which means nearly six months, and as the firm of which I am a share-holder has got business in the whole of the Punjab, so my business is suffering. Hence during these six months I have to suffer a great financial loss. As I have been obliged to live within nearly an area of half a mile so it has got a bad effect on my health. Our firm has given nearly a lakh of rupees in the shape of debts, which we cannot get back unless I am allowed to visit all the different points in consideration. I hope you will be very kind to take back the internment order and allow me to conduct my business freely and recoup my health.

Thanking you in anticipation,

Yours obediently,

KARTAR SINGH,

Okara.

To

The Superintendent, Criminal Investigation Department, Political, Punjab, Lahore.

Sir,

WITH reference to your letter No. 6 (10)/11-S.B., dated 22nd-23rd November 1934, I have the honour to submit most respectfully the following few lines for your due and sympathetic consideration :—

That your honour has asked me to reproduce in writing my contents of interview but I may submit that all the facts required to prove my allegations mentioned below can be fully discussed on personal interview and not through correspondence.

I am aware that the information carried to you regarding my political activities is much misrepresented. By studying that in true light thoroughly I am sure you will be convinced of the fact that I am a mere non-violent Congressman and not a revolutionary and as such the internment orders should have been cancelled and never imposed.

I pray for an interview for no other reason but to discuss with you and to clear up your doubts regarding my reality in the political movement. You will be fully convinced that the previous diaries have given a clearly wrong notion of my views.

Since you are well-known to be a judicious officer I have, therefore, ventured to lay before you the whole thing with a view to arrive at the truth and not to waste Government time and money in watching my movements and doing other necessary things from a revolutionary point of view.

I am sure you will thoroughly read the diaries submitted against me with a judicious and unbiassed mind to find that I am an ordinary non-violent Congressman and if needed you can grant me an interview wherein my position can be fully proved to your honour's satisfaction as such.

I beg to remain,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

KARTAR SINGH.

N.B.—It was only in an answer to a question put in the Punjab Legislative Council Honourable Mr. Boyd, Finance Member, replied that the persons who are interned are regarded as dangerous revolutionaries and that I have come to know only since then that I am interned simply because I am regarded as a dangerous revolutionary. I therefore, have thought it my duty to clear this misunderstanding and it is, therefore, that I have been praying for an interview.

Dated 28th November 1934.

KARTAR SINGH AND COMPANY.

To

The Finance Member to the Government, Punjab, Lahore.

Respected Sir,

The following few lines are respectfully submitted for your kind perusal and immediate favourable action :—

That in reply to certain questions of Chaudhri Afzal Haq, M.L.C., in the Council Session some months back, your honour remarked that the persons who have been interned are closely and deeply connected with the revolutionary parties. On reading this remark in the newspaper I submitted an application to the Superintendent, Criminal Investigation Department, praying for an interview so that I might clear my position. Therein I definitely alleged that I am in no way directly or indirectly connected with any such body but it was rejected.

Now once again I venture to submit to your honour that since I am not connected with any revolutionary body I take it my duty to clear these misunderstandings and that can be done only by granting me an interview wherein the matter can be discussed at length. If no interview is granted then the other alternative is to charge me with some such case and put my case before two Sessions Judges as tribunal so that I may have a chance to rebut it and clear my position.

Soliciting an early reply,

I beg to remain,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

KARTAR SINGH,

Okara Mandi.

Dated 9th May, 1935.

INDUSTRIAL LOAN TO MANUFACTURERS.

*4638. Khwaja Muhammad Eusooif : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Government have granted loan to firms carrying on industries at Lahore, Amritsar, Jullundur, Ludhiana and Khanna ;
- (b) if the reply is in the affirmative, whether he will be pleased to supply the following information :—
  - (i) the names and addresses of such firms,
  - (ii) the amount of loan granted to such firms individually,
  - (iii) at what security such loans have been granted,
  - (iv) on what terms and at what rate of interest ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes, except at Khanna.

- (b) (i) Government do not consider it to be in the public interest to supply the names and addresses of borrowers.
- (ii) From Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 25,000 generally about Rs. 5,000.
- (iii) Land, houses or machinery.
- (iv) The loans are generally repayable over a period of 5 years with interest varying from  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

THE PUNJAB RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT AND WARRANTS OF ARREST.

*4639. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Member for Finance please state—

- (a) the number of cases pending in the civil courts of the Lahore division in which judgment-debtors have been arrested in execution of decrees after the enforcement of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act ;
- (b) the number of cases in which notices of arrest were issued ;
- (c) the number of cases in which these notices were personally served ;
- (d) the number of cases in which mere affidavits of the decree-holders were considered sufficient proof for holding that the judgment-debtor was avoiding "contumaciously" the payment of debt ;
- (e) the number of cases in which warrants of arrest issued before the enforcement of the Act were cancelled under the provisions of the Act ;
- (f) the number of cases in which the judgment-debtors have been arrested for a decretal amount not exceeding Rs. 200 ;
- (g) the number of arrests made at the instance of the Co-operative Department and the decretal amount in each case ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : A statement is laid on the table containing the information required up to the 30th June, 1935. More up-to-date information is being collected and will be supplied to the honourable member later.

HONORARY CIVIL JUDGES AND THE WITHDRAWAL OF THEIR CASES BY THE DISTRICT JUDGE.

*4640. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Member for Finance please state—

- the number of honorary Civil Judges in the province specifying their powers ;
- if ever the civil cases on the file of any of them were withdrawn by the District Judge ?
- if so, from whose file and by which District Judge ;
- the reasons for such withdrawal ;
- if the cases were again restored to their files ;
- the reasons for such restoration with the persons passing the orders of restoration ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) A list of the honorary Subordinate Judges working in the province is published in Part II of the half-yearly Civil List, to which the honourable member is invited to refer.

(b) to (f) If the honourable member will kindly specify the particular courts which he has in mind I will make enquiries.

HONORARY MAGISTRATES AND THANAS UNDER THEIR CHARGE.

*4641. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- the number of 1st class honorary magistrates in the Lahore division ;
- the names of thanas under their charge ;
- if any one of them has ever been doing cases of the thana in which his actual place of residence is situated or in which he owns landed property ;
- if so, the reasons for such allotment of work in each case ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a)—

|             |    |    |    |    |
|-------------|----|----|----|----|
| Lahore      | .. | .. | .. | 2  |
| Amritsar    | .. | .. | .. | 3  |

| Gujranwala  | .. | .. | .. | 1  |
| Sheikhupura | .. | .. | .. | .. |
| Total       |    |    |    | 7  |

(b), (c) and (d) The three first class honorary magistrates in the Amritsar district hold charge of police stations as follows :—

|  |    |    |               |
|--|----|----|---------------|
| Rai Sahib Lala Diwan Chand               | .. | .. | Kathu Nangal. |
| The Honourable Sardar Buta Singh         | .. | .. | Jandiala.     |
| Honorary Lieutenant Sardar Raghbir Singh | .. | .. | Ajnala.       |
| Sandhanwalia, O.B.E., M.L.C.             |    |    |               |

Sardar Raghbir Singh owns land and resides in the area of the police station of which he holds magisterial charge. The other two have no such connection with their ilaqas. Government do not think that any special reasons need be given to justify the allotment of the Ajnala work to Sardar Raghbir Singh.

In none of the other districts of the division have honorary magistrates been placed in charge of police station areas.

ASSISTANT JAILORS.

*4642. Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Member for Finance please state—

- (a) the number of assistant jailors in this province ;
- (b) their number communitywise ;
- (c) the number of statutory agriculturists among them ;
- (d) the number of assistant jailors from Jhang district ;
- (e) the number of Muslim statutory agriculturists in this cadre from Jhang district ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Presumably the honourable member refers to the cadre of assistant superintendents that has now replaced the old class of assistant jailors. If so, the reply is as follows :—

- (a) Ninety-two.
- (b) Hindus—Forty.
Muslims—Twenty-nine.
Sikhs—Twenty-two.
Others—One.
- (c) Thirty.
- (d) Three.
- (e) None.

BOARDING HOUSE OF GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS,
AMBALA.

*4643. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Boarding House of Government High School for Girls at Ambala is located in a Government building that was originally meant for the office of the Divisional Inspector of Schools, Ambala ;
- (b) whether he is aware that the said building is in a very close proximity of the Khalsa High School Boarding House ;
- (c) whether he is aware that the girls living in the above-mentioned hostel have to pass a railway level crossing gate when going to and coming from their school and in so doing they not only run the risk of being run over by railway trains but have also very often to keep standing for considerable time at the railway crossing gate ;
- (d) whether he is aware that the girls living in the aforesaid hostel have, while going to and coming from their school, to pass by the same road that leads from the city to the district courts and that particularly in winter season, when the times for opening and closing the girls' school and the courts almost coincide, the young girls and teachers have to encounter on the road a large crowd of people coming to or going from the offices and courts ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that in both summer and winter the timings for the opening and the closing of the girls' and boys' schools being almost coincident the young girls and teachers living in the said hostel have to walk along the same road for more than a quarter mile side by side with the grown up boarders of the Khalsa Boys' High School while going to or coming from their schools ;
- (f) whether it is proposed to remove the girls' school hostel to some more suitable site ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to my answer to question No. * 4590.<sup>1</sup>

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SECRETARY, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DALHOUSIE.

1185. Mr. E. Mayadas : With reference to unstarred question No. 1118<sup>1</sup> of 25th March, 1935, will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state if among the applicants was one who held the degree of Civil Engineering from Thomason College, Roorkee?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Yes.

BIKANER CANAL AND SALTPETRE.

1186. Mr. E. Mayadas : With reference to answer to unstarred question No. 1114<sup>1</sup> of 25th March, 1935, will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state whether any complaints have reached the Revenue or Irrigation Department of the area concerned that fresh patches of saltpetre have appeared along the Bikaner canal and are gradually increasing ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The reply is in the negative.

BIKANER CANAL AND SALTPETRE.

1187. Mr. E. Mayadas : With reference to answer to unstarred question No. 1114<sup>1</sup> of the 25th March, 1935, will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether patwaris or other employees are required to report when fresh patches of saltpetre make appearance ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the negative, whether it is the intention of Government to order patwaris or some other suitable agency to report when fresh patches of saltpetre make appearance in any locality, if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan :—

(a) and (b) Each year Superintending Engineer sends in an annual report on waterlogging in general. Saltpetre often appears in the winter and disappears in the summer. The reports of such employees as patwaris, on the appearance of saltpetre, is likely to cause confusion, as they are not in a position to know whether any particular appearance is new and additional or merely a repetition of similar appearances in past years.

Hence Government does not propose to change the present procedure re reports on waterlogging and its attendant evils.

ELECTRIC CURRENT TO CANAL COLONY, FEROZEPORE.

1188. Mr. E. Mayadas : With reference to answer to unstarred question No. 1116<sup>2</sup> of 25th March, 1935, will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether in rural area adjoining the Canal Colony, Ferozepore, there is a demand for hydro-electric current ;
- (b) if so, whether Government intends meeting the demand, if so, when and from what direction the cable will be brought ;
- (c) whether the Canal Colony authorities are in a position to make available some current in their neighbourhood for rural consumers ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) So far applications have been received for supply amounting to only 4 kw.

(b) Not until the demand has increased sufficiently to justify an extension of the Electricity Branch's distribution system at Ferozepore.

BOOTAWALA CANAL.

1189. Mr. E. Mayadas : With reference to answer to unstarred question No. 1121<sup>1</sup> of 25th March, 1935, will the Hon'ble Member for Revenue be pleased to state if since then the matter has been enquired into further, if so, with what result?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready. It will be supplied to the honourable member when ready.

EXPENDITURE ON TEMPERANCE.

1190. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state whether it is proposed to spend up to Rs. 5,000 for temperance purposes during the present year, if so, whether any proposals have been worked out for the expenditure, if so, whether he will lay a copy of these proposals on the table?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : It is regretted that no funds are available during the current financial year, but a request has been made for the provision of Rs. 5,000 in the budget for the year 1936-37, through the Schedule of New Expenditure.

PATWARIS.

1191. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of patwaris employed by the Punjab Government ;
- (b) how many of them are Entrance passed ;
- (c) how many F. A. passed ; and
- (d) how many B. A. passed ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) 8,898.

(b), (c) and (d) The information is not readily available and no useful purpose will be served by collecting it.

PATWARIS.

1192. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) the usual retiring age for patwaris ;
- (b) whether there are many patwaris over the age of 55, and whether there are any amongst them who are Entrance passed ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that there is much unemployment among Entrance passed men ;
- (d) whether Government is considering the question of retiring such patwaris as have attained the age of 55 years, if so, whether Government intends employing Entrance passed candidates in their place ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No retiring age has been fixed for patwaris.

(b) The information required is not readily available and no useful purpose will be served by collecting it.

(c) Yes.

(d) No.

Uzardaris AGAINST GREY CANAL parchees.

1193. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) the number of uzardaris against Grey Canal parchees, by tahsils in Ferozepore district for season 1934 ;

(b) how many of these were enquired into before the canals commenced running in 1935, and by what official the enquiry was made ;

(c) whether it is necessary for any particular official to make such inquiry, if so, what is his status ;

(d) whether it is a fact that some of the uzardaris were not enquired into, if so, what is their number by tahsils ;

(e) if answer to (d) be in the affirmative, what action Government intend taking to grant necessary relief ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Five hundred and sixty-five as detailed below :—

|                       |    |    |     |
|-----------------------|----|----|-----|
| (i) Ferozepore tahsil | .. | .. | 106 |
| (ii) Zira tahsil      | .. | .. | 242 |
| (iii) Moga tahsil     | .. | .. | 217 |
| Total                 |    |    | 565 |

(b) All were attended to before the canals commenced to flow for the current season. Some by the Superintendent, Grey Canals, and the others by the tahsildars and naib-tahsildars of the ilaqas concerned.

(c) Officials below the rank of tahsildars and naib-tahsildars are not allowed to decide cases regarding “ Uzardaris.”

(d) Does not arise in view of the reply given to (b) above.

(e) Does not arise.

1194. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) on what date the Bootawah Grey Canal ceased running during 1934 ;

(b) whether it is a fact that this canal ceased running prematurely ;

(c) whether it is a fact that this canal had ceased running before the time when water is turned on for rabi “ raoni ” ;

- (d) whether it is a fact that when canal water is not available the cultivators carry out the necessary rabi raoni by means of wells where wells exist ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that even so in many areas where canal water failed prematurely, wells existed, and rabi was sown, it has been presumed that raoni was done by canal water, and charges are being demanded ;
- (f) whether he will lay a statement on the table showing in the case of Bootawah canal -
- (1) the names of villages where wells exist,
  - (2) the names of villages where canal charges for rabi raoni are being demanded, as well as the amount demanded,
  - (3) how many of these villages had made uzardari and how many had been enquired into and how many not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) On the 9th September, 1934.

(b) It generally flows till the third week of September, but during the year in question it ceased to flow somewhat earlier.

(c) No.

(d) Yes.

(e) In certain villages wells exist but rabi raoni done by means of wells only was neither taken into account as canal irrigation nor were canal dues demanded, except in the case where there was mixed irrigation by canal as well as by wells.

(f) (1) A statement is laid on the table.

(2) The amount demanded is given in the statement (column 3).

(3) Records show that uzardaris were received from four villages and all were attended to.

NOTES.—(1) With the exception of No. 10 wells exist in all the other villages.

(2) The amount demanded is given in the statement.

(3) Records show that Uzardaris were received in four villages and all were attended to.

PAPERS LAID ON THE TABLE.

USE OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC ENERGY FOR AGRICULTURAL PURPOSES.

Secretary : Report as required in Mr. Mayadas' resolution passed by the Legislative Council on the 25th of March, 1935, regarding the use of Hydro-Electric energy for agricultural purposes is laid upon the table.

Proceedings of the Punjab Government (Ministry of Local Self-Government).

On the 25th of March, 1935, Government accepted the following resolution moved by Mr. E. Mayadas, in the Punjab Legislative Council :—

Volume XXVI,
pages 819-20,

This Council recommends to the Government that with a view to making hydro-electric current more accessible for agricultural purposes the Government may examine and report to the Council the possibility of—

- (a) tapping cables by transformers necessary charges being levied from persons concerned either in lump sum or by instalments,
- (b) pumps and motors being supplied for lifting water, necessary charges being levied from persons concerned either in lump sum or by instalments.

A project estimate has been prepared with a view to carrying out an experiment with tube-well pumping in the neighbourhood of Qadian. Unless and until this experiment is undertaken, Government will not be in a position to decide whether tube-well pumping by electric lift should be developed extensively in the Punjab and, if so, exactly what lines that development should follow. It is first necessary to gain experience both on the administrative and on the financial side.

2. But it appears that the mover of this resolution did not contemplate the institution of pumping by tube-wells by Government agency over large areas. He appears more to have had in mind the position of one or more well owners who find electric supply lines from which they can at present derive no benefit passing in the neighbourhood of their holdings. The following remarks are communicated for the information of such persons.

3. No line operating on a higher pressure than 11,000 volts can be economically tapped for the benefit of well owners. Moreover, speaking generally, it does not pay to tap an existing 11,000 volt line for supplying a single well unless at least a load of 12 kilowatts is available at the well and for every mile of additional line required an additional 10 kilowatts of load is necessary to make the extension a commercial success.

4. The standard voltage for power supplied is 400 volts. Wherever a load sufficient to guarantee commercial success, as defined above, is available, Government would be prepared to install the necessary transformer station. Transformers suitable for supplying energy to tube-wells from 11,000 volt mains cost from Rs. 500 to Rs. 700 each, and the total cost of a transformer station suitable for this purpose including the transformer itself is about Rs. 1,400 to Rs. 1,500. Power, however, would in the circumstances under consideration be supplied at the relevant industrial tariff and the entire cost of the transformer station would be borne by Government.

5. The following particulars regarding cost of horizontal spindle pumps with built-on A. C. motors wound for 3 phase, 400 volt 50 cycle supply have been supplied by Messrs. The Associated Electrical Industries (India), Ltd., from their current catalogue :—

[Secretary.]

In reading the above table it is necessary to remember that in any case the greatest discharge is obtainable at the lowest head. Thus the 3 H. P. pump will discharge 10,080 gallons per hour against 20 feet total head, but it will deliver only 2,700 gallons per hour against a total head of 60 feet. For all heads intermediate between the above stated limits the discharge will vary in inverse proportion.

In order to complete the pumping installation at site the cost of piping, wiring, staging and access ladder, if same are necessary, must also be provided. These would have to be provided by the owner and, depending on local conditions and size of pump installed, might add from Rs. 100 to Rs. 300 extra.

Horizontal spindle pumps can be used for pumping from existing wells. If the pump has to be placed inside the well, e.g., in cases where the water is more than 10 feet below ground level, it is desirable that a special motor, capable of resisting damp, be installed. This would add to the cost but the exact amount would depend on circumstances and cannot be indicated. Makers should be asked to advise in each case.

Vertical spindle bore hole pumps range in cost from about Rs. 1,800 or Rs. 2,000 and upwards. They are suitable for pumping from tube-wells where water lies deep, i.e., more than 25 feet below ground. Under such conditions the cost of a masonry chamber which is required if a horizontal spindle pump be used becomes so high that the total cost of a horizontal spindle pump with chamber, etc., is higher than that of the vertical spindle equipment.

6. The usual surface well is good for a discharge of from 2,000 to 4,000 gallons per hour. If the discharge of the pump is within these limits the well will not be pumped dry. If, however, for example, a pump which is capable of giving a discharge of say 10,000 gallons per hour against the head obtaining be installed in a well which is safely capable of supplying say only 3,000 gallons per hour it might lead to the well being damaged.

It might be advisable to recommend in all cases where the pump to be installed in a surface well has a discharge exceeding 2,500 gallons per hour that one or more tube-wells with proper strainers be first sunk in such well. The provision of strainers in all such cases needs to be stressed since there have been cases where after going to the expense of boring the owner has installed a length of ordinary pipe without any strainer. It is hardly necessary to remark that this practice does not improve the discharge of the well and is only a waste of time and money.

Where strainers have been put in very large discharges can be obtained. For example at Dolianwala, 3 miles south of Kasur, a 16 feet diameter surface well is yielding  $1\frac{1}{2}$  cusecs with a draw down of 16 feet after being provided with 5 bores each containing strainers.

7. As regards part, (b) of the resolution, the project estimate for the Qadian pumping scheme referred to above, includes the cost of pumps and motors. But this scheme also includes the cost of sinking the necessary tube-wells, and the return which Government will have to demand is enhanced accordingly. In the case now under discussion, the circumstances are different. Given the load necessary for commercial success, Government are prepared to supply current at their normal industrial rate, but it will be for the well owners to supply the well gear, and if necessary to increase the capacity of their wells. Well owners, who desire to do so, can apply for iqari for these purposes under the Land Improvement Loans Act. Under section 4 of that Act, the term "improvement" covers the reconstruction of and additions to wells.

RAILWAY ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan (Revenue Member): Sir
I beg to move—

That this Council do proceed to the election, in such manner as may be approved by the Honourable President, of three representatives who may or may not be members of this Council to serve on the North-Western Railway Advisory Committee, representing Agriculture, Trade and Industrial interests, respectively.

The motion was carried.

Secretary: The Honourable President has directed that the method of election for electing three representatives to the Railway Advisory Committee shall be by card vote and that it shall be held at 6 o'clock in the evening on Thursday the 31st of October, 1935. Nomination papers should be sent to me by 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Monday the 28th of October, 1935.

Mr. President : The Council will now resume discussion of the Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd's motion that the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural) : Sir, I am not going to inflict any long speech upon this House. My speech will be a short one, though it may not be sweet. I will begin my speech by a couplet of Hafiz of Shiraz.

شب تاریک و بیم موج و گرداب چنین خائل
کجا دلد حال ماسپک ساران ساحل ها

The famous poet enumerated only three difficulties which he felt. These were the pitch dark night, mountain high waves and eddies or whirlpools of the ocean. His boat was in the midst of all these difficulties. But the lapse of time has added one more difficulty to the list of difficulties in the way of the present-day Governments. These are four. One is terrorism, the other is Congress, the third is communalism and the fourth is communism. Practically all "isms." This was natural and expected, because centuries have rolled by and there have been many upheavals, natural and artificial, in this globe of ours. So all that was expected. Terrorism may stand for dark night, Congress for waves, communalism for eddies and communism is, of course, a new danger.

I was not present when the speeches were made by several of my friends, but I was surprised to see subsequently that most of them belonged to the legal profession. All these were gentlemen who had never come into contact with the actual realities of the life and who had nothing to do with the executive work of the Government. These men could be compared to arm-chair politicians sitting very cosily in their rooms under fans or pull-punkhas and they could not, therefore, be in a position to lend any help or support to the Government, because all their lives they had applied their minds to legal points. It is absolutely necessary for a good Government that it should be in possession of all sorts of conceivable weapons in its armoury. It is not necessary that when it possesses all these weapons it should necessarily use them, but it should be prepared to meet all eventualities and emergencies and, therefore, it is absolutely necessary that this House should not grudge any powers which the Government demands for good government and maintenance of law and order. We have got instances before us. Only recently we have had one. Any government which neglects its duty and does not arm itself with all sorts of weapons is bound to suffer every consequence of its negligence and not only the Government but the people as well whom it is bound to protect. Take the case of Abyssinia. That country has been sleeping for centuries and has been living in mediæval times and the result is that it has invited to its country unwelcome guests and is not in a position to protect itself and it has not armed itself with all sorts of weapons which are necessary for the maintenance of peace and for the protection of its people. I do not think that some of the members, for whom I have the greatest respect and regard, would have made the speeches that they did had their vision not been blurred by an incident which took place a few months ago in this city of Lahore. Consequently they were not in a position to offer any dispassionate and impartial opinion on this very important Bill and this is the reason why they have been carried away by their passion or sentiment. I, therefore, am of the opinion that it is absolutely necessary that we should concede all the powers which the Government demands in connection with this Bill and for the maintenance of law and order and for the protection of the people it is absolutely necessary that the Bill should be passed. I do not think that any law-abiding person can have any fear or apprehension in his mind when this Bill is passed. As Shaikh Saa'di has said—if a man is not guilty in his own mind or not guilty of any subversive movement, he need not be afraid of anything, but a person who harbours any evil or pernicious designs in his mind will certainly be caught by this Bill. I, therefore, lend my support to this Bill. (Hear, hear).

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural) : I rise to oppose the motion so ably moved by the Honourable Finance Member. In opposing this motion I want to make it clear that when this Act was last introduced I was the sole man on whom the brunt of opposing it fell and when I was far out in the day other men joined me, but the number could not exceed four then. I am glad that to-day almost the whole House has condemned it except one or two honourable members. Why has this change occurred in the mentality of the members? The reasons are plain. This Act was meant to be applied only for checking two movements, as was stated by the Honourable Finance Member who introduced it in 1931. At page 70 of the proceedings of the Council for 27th November, 1932,<sup>1</sup> it is said that there were two movements to combat which this measure was being moved, that is, the civil disobedience movement and the terrorist movement. The civil disobedience movement was then subsiding and the Honourable Member for Government then said that there was only the fear that it might spring up again. He made it clear then that the Act would be applied to no other movement than the civil disobedience and terrorist movements. There is now noticeable on the part of honourable members who supported the measure then a change of mentality on the present occasion. Why? It is because the Act has been applied recklessly to a movement altogether different, a movement which was never contemplated at that time. It was never thought that there would be a breach of faith in such a short time.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The honourable member speaks of a breach of faith, although he says that it has been made by my predecessor rather than by myself. But may I ask him whether any undertaking was given that that Bill would only be used against civil disobedience and terrorism?

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : I have already referred to the page in the proceedings of the Council. Here is the honourable member then in charge of the Bill speaking—

“The two movements which I have referred to are, of course, the civil disobedience movement and the terrorist movement.”

He never spoke of any other movement throughout his speech.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That is not an undertaking of any kind.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Is there any one in this House who can say that when the Bill was being passed there was the least justification for any apprehension that its provisions would be applied against a movement, like the Shahidganj affair? There was here no talk of civil disobedience. The speeches made it clear yesterday that the meeting held at Rawalpindi expressed no indication that civil disobedience would be started. They only deferred the matter and resolved that they would consider it on the 20th September. But before there was any talk of civil disobedience four leaders were deported from Lahore, Maulana Zafar Ali, Sayad Habib, Khwaja Nazir Ahmad and Lal Khan. There was a weapon ready in the hands of the Government and it was taken hold of. I submit that this has probably changed the mental outlook of honourable members of this House. Honourable members who abstained from taking part in the discussion of the Bill which was then introduced or who were ardent supporters of the Bill have now opposed the present Bill vehemently. The fact is that the provisions of the previous measure have been made use of for such innocent gatherings as those of school children at a declamation contest, as the honourable member from Gurdaspur pointed out the other day. This is applying the Act with a vengeance. Can any one say that this misuse was thought of at the time when the Bill was passed? I am glad that honourable members have now come to realise their mistake in having supported the measure then. I am not out, however, to find fault with them, and I can say to them in the words of the poet :—

کئے وہ دن کہ نادانستہ غیروں کی وناداری
 کیا کرتے تھے ہم تقریر تم خاموش رہتے تھے
 بس اب بگڑے یہ کیا شرمندگی جانے دو مل جاؤ
 قسم لو ہم سے کر یہ بھی کہیں کدوں ہم نہ کہتے تھے ؟

At the time when that Act was passed that was the idea in the minds of the members who helped in its passing. If there be still any doubt on the point I shall make it plainer. It is an open secret that those who were supporting that Bill called each one of the Muslim members and said to him : This is a measure directed against civil disobedience which is confined mainly to the Hindus and that the Act would be applied mainly against them and you need not fear. This very idea was put to me by some honourable members. But I said : No, you do not know the ways and methods of Government. They will surely apply it against the Muslims as well. The time has come when my words and fears have proved true. The Act has been applied against the Muslims with a greater vengeance than against the Hindus. To-day I find the same manoeuvre is being used. It is freely talked in this Council and outside that the present measure is intended to be applied against certain audacious Muslims who are agitating over the Shahidganj affair and that the Hindus would not be touched; even if they were to be, the Act would be limited in its operation only for a short period. This is again a manoeuvre to win support for the measure in quarters where such support will not be forthcoming ordinarily. (The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Manoeuvre by whom?) By those people who are inclined to support this measure. I know that the Honourable Member would take it ill and I have avoided raising this charge against anybody. It is, I say, a manoeuvre by those who want to win support for the measure. The powers which this Bill seeks to arm the Government with will be used on the slightest pretext. I, therefore, urge that the Bill should be judged on its merits apart from such considerations as whether it is intended to apply against the Hindus, Sikhs or Mussalmans. Let it be applied to anybody. The question to ask is, "Is it proper for any honourable member to give his support in the name of the people whom he is sent here to represent to a measure which will enslave them? Is it proper for us, I ask, that we should welcome a measure when a measure similar to that had been thrown out by the Legislative Assembly the other day with such a tremendous force?" (The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : This measure was not thrown out, but quite a different one. This is as different as chalk from cheese). Just imagine what would happen even if you confine this measure to three years. In three years things may happen which may upset the whole province and this Act instead of doing good to the country may do infinite harm. Just in the instance before us, if this weapon had not been in the hands of the Government, they would have dealt with the Shahidganj affair in a more tactful manner. It was an affair which even a novice, a tahsildar could have handled better than the Punjab Government. The way the Government have managed the affair shows their incompetency and if this Act were not with them they would have thought of some other measure which would have served them well. The first measure they could think of should have been to prevent the jathas of Sikhs pouring into Lahore. Government failed to prevent the jathas for fear that they would create trouble. But later on why should they have taken a different attitude and prevented Muslim jathas from coming which were pouring into Lahore some time after? I myself saw many jathas stayed by the Deputy Commissioner at Sheikhpura and Gujranwala and other places. Why was not that done in the case of the Sikhs? When their jathas had arrived, even if you did not prevent them in time, you should have brought into use the provisions of section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code without any loss of time. But that was not done.

Mr. President : I will request the honourable member to discuss the principles of the Bill and not its details.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : I may submit that there is no principle in the Bill. It is a soulless, lawless and senseless measure as was pointed out in the debate on a similar measure in the Bombay Council. I have not been able to find any principle in it. Is there any principle in depriving a man of his liberty without proper trial? That is what clause 3 provides, and when is he to be deprived? When he is about to act. It is impossible, unless you possess the gift of second sight, to find out a man about to act before he has actually acted. Whatever reasons you may adduce that a man was going to act in a particular way will never carry conviction. Can there be any principle in such a legislation? This measure then would have been justified to however little extent it might have been if there were subversive movements going on now. The Honourable Finance Member admitted that civil disobedience has disappeared altogether. (The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: No, I said it was in abeyance.) When the Honourable Member has not pointed out any single case of civil disobedience in the province I take it that his words mean that it has disappeared, whatever else might have been in the Honourable Member's mind. When there is no civil disobedience, when there is no terrorist movement, why should you take these powers on the plea of precaution? Suppose I and my neighbour have been fighting for a long time and I sharpen my knife when he sits quietly, being pigheaded, and show him the sharp weapon with the threat that in case of future trouble the weapon is there. Can anyone believe that such an action will not exasperate him, that it will not lacerate a heart already wounded? Is it not natural that he would take it as an insult? In a similar way the Congress has made a good gesture. It has laid down the weapon of civil disobedience. It is for the Government now to extend its hand of friendship to the Congress. But on the present occasion, as in all past ones, this Government never takes the tide in time. Whenever there is a favourable turn of events, this Government never takes advantage of the moment. Far from it, it acts in such a way as to worsen the situation. As an illustration I may quote the Rowlatt Act. During the Great War the whole of India rose like one man to rid the Government of its difficulty. Men and money were unreservedly laid at the disposal of Government and even Mahatama Gandhi was bringing recruits during the Great War. But when the War was over and when people were looking for a reconciliation between themselves and the Government and for a reward, they brought the Rowlatt Act in. There were many men whom I could name who dissuaded the Government from bringing in the Rowlatt Act, but the powers that be never listened to sane counsel with the result that there was created in the country such a great upheaval as to embitter the relations between the rulers and the ruled for a long time to come. The Government is reaping bitterly the fruits of that unwise step. Up to 1919 there was clearly no revolutionary movement in India. Till then all efforts were constitutional for the extension of popular rights which is natural in the history of every country. The thought of sedition, revolution or any change in the system of Government by means other than peaceful was not enough in evidence in the mind of India. The Rowlatt Act brought for the first time in its wake a great deal of misery, a great deal of embitterment of relations and it produced political stalwarts like Mahatama Gandhi, Mr. Muhammad Ali, Pandit Motilal Nehru and in the Punjab, Lala Lajpat Rai and several others like him in other provinces. But for the Rowlatt Act and the effects that flowed from it, the course of our history would have been entirely different. Again at present when things are getting settled, when the atmosphere is getting calm, they disturb it by bringing in measures like this. When any good words are addressed to Government they are never accepted by the Government authorities as correct. You should take the advice of the representatives of the public, but instead of that you look for the advice of ultra-loyalists who can give you, no good advice. Whatever advice these latter give is usually tainted by ideas of flattery and by ideas of selfishness.

I daresay that if you had taken advantage of the times after the War you could have done much better than you are doing now and you would have saved this just and equitable Government much trouble. I do not say that Government is to blame for it, but now when there is a good opportunity of creating a good atmosphere when the new constitution is coming and the people are taking to legal ways of doing things, they are again bringing these illegal things. You must admit that this is an illegal measure. When people are coming to legalism, if I may so call it, why are you doing illegal things? Why are you taking such powers which are not needed? The Honourable Member for Finance says that he is having this Bill passed more with a view to empowering the new Government. I think that the new Government will be able to enact such a measure at any time whenever they find any necessity for it. Why then pass this Bill now? To bring forward such a measure when the atmosphere is calm is nothing but an insult to the intelligence of the honourable members of this House, and the Government should abstain from moving such measures at this time.

Then again, as I said on the last occasion when this Bill was under consideration, this Bill does not prevent a man who is out for civil disobedience or for terrorism from committing an act. As I said before, you cannot catch hold of a terrorist before he has committed an act of terrorism. If you have succeeded in capturing you have captured him after the act has been done. This Act will involve the innocent and the guilty alike, as the verse says :—

جہان ساقی ہو پھر باطل ہے دعوتِ ہوشیاری کا

What I want to say on this point I shall put in a nutshell. The provisions of the Bill give power to arrest and detain suspected persons and those interfering with meetings, and so on. Do you think that deportation is a harder punishment than sending a man to jail? If you deport a man, say, to Fatehabad, what does it matter to him whether he lives here or there? Do you not know that people go hundreds of miles away from their homes, and yet these deported persons have the satisfaction of getting something from you as subsistence allowance? They only produce disaffection in the minds of peace-loving subjects there. Deporting a man is no punishment at all. Sending him to jail is a more rigorous and harder punishment, deportation is only a pastime to him.

There is another point. As I submitted last time there are thousands of tuberculosis germs in the Shahpur jail. Suppose they take with them thousands of germs and they pass them on to other places, say Fatehabad. Similarly when you deport people to Fatehabad they carry with them the germs of disaffection and spread them there. In deporting a man like that Government is itself doing propaganda for the movement. Do you not think that it would be better to keep such men in jails? There they can only spoil a few people, but if you send them to a place like Fatehabad or to a place like Sirsa, do you think that that town can remain immune? The man you have sent to Fatehabad will contaminate the whole place. He cannot go out of Sirsa, but he can on the pretence of shikar go here and there and spread the contagion. What is this remedy? This remedy is worse than the disease. Are you out to spread the contagion of disaffection as embodied in the civil disobedience or terrorist movements? Are you going to spread it throughout the Punjab? You have sent a man to a tahsil where there was not the least bit of any talk of civil disobedience or anything else and he may be spreading the contagion, if he is so minded. This Act will not help you at all. The other is that you keep a man, say in custody where he is for fifteen days or at the most for two months. What is the effect of it on him? After two months when he comes out he will come out with the belief that he was treated unjustly and human nature being what it is he will feel inclined to turn to disaffection. The best remedy in his case would have been to persuade him to adopt peaceful means.

As regards the Shahidganj affair, I have already said that you could have dealt with this affair very easily without this Act. You could have, for instance, passed an order under the Criminal Procedure Code prohibiting Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs from going near it. I am surprised that such a thing did not appeal to Government, though it was suggested to it. The suggestion should have appealed to Government and there was absolutely no fear of any trouble arising. (An honourable member: What kind of order did you want Government to pass?) Government should have taken possession of the mosque under section 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code and prohibited people, Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs from entering the precincts. Had that been done, no trouble would have arisen.

The Honourable Finance Member stated that the effect of the Act is that the subversive movements have been kept under control. He said that Government had been able to do so only because it had a weapon in its hands. I say this argument should not have been repeated. It does not appeal to anybody. Do you think this was due to the effect of arrest or detention that people have given it up? My answer is, no. This is due to natural causes, this is due to saner element coming into the ranks of the Congress or those bodies which were acting against Government. It is due to this reason, and not to the measures. If at all, these measures might have kept it longer.

Sir, you said that the principles of the Bill should be discussed. There is one principle which is a violation of the principle of habeas-corpus. Clause 17 says:—

“No suit, prosecution, or other legal proceedings whatsoever shall be entertained in any court against any police officer or person for anything in good faith done, or intended to be done, in pursuance or execution of this Act.”

You will remember that it has been the rule of law in England that no man is above law. Every man is liable to be brought to a court and that no man can be above the law. This is laid down in so many Acts of Parliament and this is a very well recognised and a definite codified law in the British Empire enacted by Parliament. The present Act violates the authority of the Parliament and under section 80-A (4) of the Government of India Act such an Act is ultra vires because upon this depends all the other provisions of the law. Section 80-A (4) says:—

“The local legislature of any province has not power to make any law affecting any Act of Parliament.”

[Ch. Allah Dad Khan.]

Thus the Act is ultra vires. No man is above law but, here is a law which says that no legal proceedings shall be entertained in any court against any police officer or person for anything done in good faith. Who is to judge that the officer has done an act in good faith, the executive Government or more plainly the heads of the police department? The superintendent of police or the deputy superintendent will give a statement that the sub-inspector or the head constable acted in good faith and no court is authorised to try him. This is a matter which I submitted some time last time and I submit it again and say that the Act is ultra vires. If you take away this section, then all other sections go automatically, because you are powerless to make use of sections 2 and 3 for fear of civil suits being brought.

This measure which it is proposed to enact now will have no effect on those people whom it is proposed to bring under. I would, therefore, appeal to the honourable members here not to proceed with it. With these words I oppose the motion.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural): Fortunately I am not labouring under the same disadvantages which my friend Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan was labouring under. I have been following the whole debate on this Bill closely. I have been hearing all the speeches made on both sides in the House. I must confess that even after hearing all these thundering speeches I am confirmed in my belief that this Bill is not only essential but indispensable under the present circumstances. (Hear, hear). The opposition both in this House as well as in the House of elders has not been able to adjust itself to the call and needs of the times. The opposition must as a rule conform with the times. There are times when an old law becomes a dead letter being practically useless and has got to be repealed, but there are times when measures which seem to be abnormal and special have to be re-enacted. Special times always demand special measures. No Government in the world can ignore a challenge to law and order, whether that challenge proceeds from a satyagrahi who delights to experiment with the truth or from a communalist who cuts throats in the name of religion. The communalist thinks that his God and his God alone is right while that of another is an impostor. It is to prevent the political law-breaker and the communal cut-throat from having their own way that this Bill is being enacted. Communalism, communism and terrorism, as has been said in this House, might have died, though I do not believe it, but they are not buried yet. The monster might stir up at any moment and might work havoc and destruction in the whole population of our province. It is, as is well-known, impossible to legislate on the spur of the moment. The only thing that can be done at once is to issue ordinances which the House, I am sure, abhors so much. When the Government takes resort to the ordinary course of legislation, even then it is opposed and the argument advanced is that when an emergency arises it can be met by the extraordinary special powers of the Governor and the Viceroy. But when that contingency arises and the Government wants to resort to its extraordinary powers, it is contended that Government should have resorted to the ordinary law of the land and should have adopted the ordinary method of legislation and should not have resorted to its extraordinary powers of legislation. I do not understand the logic of this argument. While honourable members want the Government to protect the people in times of trouble they deny the Government necessary and sufficient powers to protect them. Is this logical, is this reasonable, is this commendable, is this honourable? When we want Government's protection we must furnish it with the weapons necessary for the purpose.

I may submit that the president of the Congress himself said that civil disobedience has been suspended, and not abandoned. I do not understand why the ordinary meaning of the word 'suspension' has been misunderstood by my honourable colleagues. No less an authority than the president himself has said so. It is not necessary for me to dwell on the havoc and destruction which the civil disobedience has worked in the province. Honourable members are well aware how the civil disobedience disturbed the peace of our country and the tremendous trouble it caused, how many lives it had cost to our country, how much unnecessary expenditure it brought about to bear on the provincial revenue, how much provincial wealth it squandered and how many families it ruined. If honourable members realise all these things, they should not under-estimate the dangers which are facing them or which are in ambush for them. I would, therefore, request the honourable members to be alive to their responsibilities and, as the proverb goes, not to bury their head in sand like the ostrich which when it sees its enemy shuts its eyes and buries its head in sand under the impression that it is thereby quite safe with the result that ropes are found round its neck and nets round its wings and it is completely overpowered. I would also request the honourable members to be true to their convictions. In this connection I may remind the House of what Dr. Gokul Chand Narang once said in this House when he was speaking on the communal award, that he was being blamed for having said certain things outside, and that whatever he said in this House he would be proud of saying outside it and would declaim the same from the housetops and everywhere in melas, markets and mandis. That should be the spirit of every member in this House.

The next point which I should like to dwell upon is this. We have had experience of the working of this Bill for three years. This is not a new measure to inspire doubts in our minds. I have the courage to say that we have sufficiently tried the Punjab Government and I am of the opinion that even in matters purely official it has the reputation of taking the advice of non-officials. Further, whoever may be the custodians of law and order, either the present form of Government or the future form of Government, we must have some sort of faith in their discretion and judgment.

Now, I would like to deal very briefly on the Bill itself. I do not propose to take any length of time on this subject, because it has been already sufficiently dealt with by the Member in charge. Even a cursory glance at the Bill will be enough to satisfy the keenest critic that there is some justification, rather much justification, for having this Bill on the statute book. The mere cry that we should not leave a legacy to our successors which may not even be touched with the proverbial pair of tongs, and that we should not disgrace our statute book by putting this Bill in there, will not do. The chapters which are to come into force at once, as you know, are chapters 3, 4, 5 and 6. Chapter 3 relates to public meetings. Honourable members are sufficiently aware of the disastrous results which these meetings were able to produce in the days of martial law. There is no check on the liberty, there is no restraint on the sacred right of the freedom of speech as long as these are peaceful. When people act in a constitutional manner, nobody tampers with their liberty. It is only when people go beyond certain limits that they are controlled by the provisions in this chapter. These meetings are controlled only when they go beyond certain limits. As to the chapter relating to emergency powers, I would only like to refer to the Bill in one or two sentences. The Bill says that any person "who has acted, is acting or is about to act in a manner prejudicial to the public safety or peace" will be dealt with in this way and that. Now, I would ask, "Would you suffer a man to act in a manner which is prejudicial to the peace and tranquillity of the country and then allow him to go scot free?" I do not think any reasonable man will do that. His liberty must be checked and his activities must be controlled in order to save the peaceful and law-abiding citizen. I should like to mention here that I have no axe to grind and no iron in the fire. I am not looking at this Bill from any party point of view or from any communal point of view. I look at it from the point of view of an honest law-abiding and peaceful citizen. The next chapter is one which relates to mock processions. It does not lie in my power to impress this point adequately. We all have had experience of how communal riots have occurred on account of these syapas and other processions. The next chapter makes instigation against the payment of certain legal liabilities illegal. That thing is more valuable and beneficial to you rather than to the Government. Imagine for a moment what will happen if the tenant refuses to pay your rent. No-rent campaign will lead you to a life of starvation and if the zamindar who is the backbone of our province is crushed, everybody is bound to be crushed, whether he is a factory owner or a lawyer or a doctor or a Government servant. As to the refusal of payment of land revenue, suffice it to say as you know this is the sixth budget which you are examining—fortunately you have got sufficient experience by now—the water rate and land revenue forms the lion's share of the revenue of the province. If people refuse to pay that revenue, it is impossible for you to run your Government whether in the Veterinary Department, or Public Works Department, Education Department, or any other department. Without having that revenue at your beck and call it is impossible to run the administration. If anybody tampers with the payment of that revenue then he tampers with the whole running of Government of this province and this should not go without any punishment. In this connection I would like to quote a sentence from the speech of the Honourable Home Member of Bombay Government. He said: "Instigation to non-payment of land revenue was not a criminal offence and organised non-payment for political purposes could not be dealt with effectively by the ordinary law" and he asked whether it would be fair to let the instigator go free while the poor cultivator suffered. This alone is sufficient to justify the provisions of Chapter IV of this Bill.

Chapter VI relates only to rules of procedure and I need not dwell on it very long. As to certain reasons advanced by the various honourable members of this House I would like to throw a bit of light and discuss them.

The honourable member from Hoshiarpur was the first critic of this Bill. His argument was that it was a sort of preventive measure and there was no necessity for it. (Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I never said anything of the kind). You may refer to the debates. (Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I have got the speech in my hands). Preventive measures, he knows, though now he refuses to recognise it, are necessary. There is section 107 to check breach of peace and sections 109 and 110 to check the activities of burglars, vagabonds and so on. I do not understand the logic or reason that when the mischief is done you should apply the remedy. If a fire breaks out in a mohalla, do you mean to say that you should wait till it devastates or ruins 30 or 40 houses and then prevent ? This sort of logic would not do in these matters. Another very important thing he said and Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan also supported him was that this Bill will not prove a remedy to check the vice which it aims at. If we believe in this sort of argument then I venture to say that we do not want any sort of law to control any vice in this country. As 600 or 700 murders are being committed in this country, as he said, is that a reason to wipe out section 302 from the Indian Penal Code ? If simple and grievous hurts continue to be caused daily, is that a reason that you should delete sections 323 and 325 from the Indian Penal Code ? If dacoities and robberies are being committed every day, is that a reason that we should omit sections 392 and 395 from the Indian Penal Code ? If the Excise Act has not been able to stop the distillation of illicit liquor, should we repeal that Act ? On the other hand that is a reason to make more laws and make them more rigorous. Otherwise we should repeal all laws in this country. It is no reason for us that if a certain enactment is not able to check the vice which it is meant to check we should repeal that enactment or we should not enact any law. Another argument which he advanced was that this was a negation of legislation and that it is a restraint on liberty. I would refer him in this connection to the words of Mr. Hasan Imam when speaking in the Council of State and ask him to note this important sentence. Liberty unchecked and unrestrained is no liberty at all ; that is something meant for the brutes and not for human beings. In the course of his speech the honourable member said : " I am ready to admit the dictum of the Honourable Home Member that liberty uncontrolled is no liberty at all. I go further and say that uncontrolled liberty is the prerogative of brutes and civilised humanity means that it must submit to certain rules and regulations of morality, jurisprudence and practices of the world."

Now, the other argument which he advanced was that communalism has been in this province since very long. He means that if a disease has sufficiently developed and has eaten up a major part of the body of a man, he should stop taking further care of it and resort to no remedy at all. If consumption or tuberculosis is advanced to the third stage we should leave the man then and there and not take any steps to cure him of the disease : That is a very strange argument. There was communalism in 1908, he says. But in those days I am sorry to say, that his intelligence was not working with so much activity as now. But that fact shows that a further and more effective check should be taken. The faith of the villager is easily understood. He is ignorant of all these complications and even in these days communalism is to be found in a very acute form in the headquarters of a district or a tahsil. Because it has been existing so long does not mean that we should not pay any attention to it now. The next thing he referred to was special powers of the Governor. When those powers are used you cry against him. When resort is had to special legislation and ordinary law of the land you accuse him. So I do not think that this is a reason to enable us to form an opinion against the Bill. As I have already said, no Government can witness bloodshed and lawlessness with impunity. It must check them. Then he took unemployment as being the reason against this Bill. I say it must be the reverse. How many jobs can the Government afford to give to the people? Unemployment in the present sense of the word is that these people are not given Government jobs. Now you yourself know that it is very difficult to provide all people with Government jobs. Then again you admit that these unemployed people are dissatisfied and desperate people and they can go to any limit whatsoever. Therefore unemployment is rather a reason for putting this Bill on the statute book than a reason for its rejection, because a desperate man, a man who is dissatisfied who cannot get sufficient to eat is apt to commit any vice which we can conceive of. Again there is an argument advanced by my honourable friend from Amritsar. He said that these Ministers who will come under the new constitution will use these powers against us in elections and so forth. I would ask you a simple question. The House will pardon me for the language. Does he think that the future members of Government will be a set of fools and idiots, does he under-estimate so much their qualities of head and heart that he thinks that they will go to such a depth as to use these powers to serve their personal ends? He has too poor an opinion of the future Government. If this is his opinion of the future Government then I would ask him a simple question? Why have you been asking for the reforms? Why have you been entreating the Government to give you provincial autonomy? Why have you begged for it? Why have you craved for it? If these were going to be the people in the Government, then it was better not to have asked for the reforms. Another reason which the honourable member, Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit, advanced was that this will hamper the future constitution. I want to tell him this. The responsibility is changing hands very soon. We are on the threshold of a new constitution. The Ministers will be in charge of law and order and they will be taking greater burden on their shoulders. So, why should we not give them greater powers to sustain it? When we place greater responsibility on them it is our duty to give them powers to meet that responsibility. It is all the more the reason why we should sufficiently arm them with all sorts of weapons so that in the beginning they might not be handicapped in any way in the absence of sufficient tools. A workman who runs to bring a borer from Anarkali and a saw from Shahalmi Gate cannot finish a single table even in one day. So all the tools must be there in a workshop for a workman to work with properly. Another thing which was mentioned was that this relates to civil disobedience and it was useless to enact it. I have sufficiently dealt with that point. But there is one point, as has been said by Khan Bahadur Zaman Mehdi Khan, and that is, why should you be afraid of any laws whatsoever if you are going to lead the lives of honest and peaceful citizens? Let there be hundred laws, so long as we are going to be peaceful, why should we be afraid of them? Just as he said :

اُن رَا كِه حساب رَاك است از محابو چه باك

(Those people who have their slates clean should not be afraid of any auditors who might check their accounts). That is the literal translation. When you are not going to offend in any way, let there be 3,000 Acts of this sort and we need not be afraid of any. After all an Act is not like a fire engine that it should be tried every week. It will be only applied when there is mischief and nobody will try it otherwise. Another thing which was stated by Mr. Sadiq was that there have been Dussehra festival celebration recently and there have been no troubles. I need not dwell on this point. I think it is better not to enter into details on this matter. I would only remind him of the incident at Rohtak where the police had to open fire and there was some trouble on the Dussehra day. Moreover, I would like to read a single sentence from the Tribune of yesterday which says "Explosion took place at New Delhi Railway Station" and as for the details, you must have read, that a country bomb exploded and there was confusion everywhere and that no arrests have been made so far. Now Delhi is practically in more than one way part and parcel of our province for many purposes and if there things have been done where there are such elaborate arrangements, where the Viceroy lives, why cannot these things take place at Lahore or any other place near by? What I mean to say is that the danger is not away and that alone is a sufficient reason for our saying that we should not oppose the Act. One thing more. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan was pleased to say why Government should make a law to apprehend a person who is only about to act. I would refer him to the Indian Penal Code where there are three offences at least for the preparation of which a man can be apprehended and punished. That is not a new thing, it already exists in the ordinary law, preparation to wage war against the King, preparation to wage war against a power in alliance with His Majesty the King and preparation to commit dacoities. At least three preparations are already offences. It all depends on offences and offences. There are offences for which we should wait till the stage of their actual commission and there are offences the preparation of which must be made penal and there are offences an earlier stage for which is also penal. Now for these reasons I would like to say that the mere existence of the sentence "about to act" does not make the Bill unreasonable. He has taken objection to the saving clause and I would like to say that he has not sufficiently understood the Bill in spite of his experience as a revenue officer. This saving clause occurs almost in every piece of legislation, anything done in the colour of office, anything done in the execution of a government official's duty is always pardonable under all laws and I need not quote any of them for his guidance. Suffice it to say that unless there is saving clause in the Act, unless there is some sort of an Act of Indemnity, it is very difficult to enact a new law.

Now, after discussing this Bill so much, I would like to ask a single question. "Will you wait till the civil disobedience movement re-appears in full swing, till the communist party gets more recruits, till more murders and dacoities are committed by the terrorists, till the communal unrest develops into civil war and, then re-arm the executive with the necessary powers or would you like to give them those powers here and now to maintain a peaceful and healthy atmosphere? I am not a believer in what Mr. Bakhale said while speaking on the Bill in the Bombay Council, i.e., "I would much rather be denounced by the communist as an exploiter of the proletariat, be bombed by the terrorist as a mercenary and traitor, than have such a law for my supposed benefit." I would rather be the reverse, i.e., have the benefit of this law rather than incur the other odiums. With these words I want to support the Bill. (Hear, hear and cheers).

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary): My excuse for adding my voice to the voice of members who have arisen in favour of this Bill this afternoon is that as an official I have access to certain knowledge which is not commonly known to the members of this House and the fact that the members of this House do not know all that passes through the Secretariat is one of the reasons why they have doubted the necessity for re-introducing this Bill. Before I can come to this point, however, I want to clear up a question which was raised by two honourable members, one from Sialkot and the other from Ferozepore. I may be permitted to congratulate the honourable member for Sialkot on making his speech and I also congratulate the National Unionist Party, if the honourable member is going to join the ranks of that party, on the new recruit. He complained, and he was backed by my friend from Ferozepore, of the wrong use made by Government of section 3 and section 7 of the Act at Qadian. As regards the use made of section 3 in connection with the events at Qadian about a year ago I may say that on the facts as reported to the Government there appeared to be a great danger of clash between two parties at Qadian, unless, that is to say, immediate action, some kind of immediate executive action was taken. Government were advised by the local officers that the only form in which action could be usefully taken was under section 3 of the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act. Action was accordingly taken under that section. As far as the complaint of the misuse of section 7 is concerned, as soon as the circumstances which attended the use of that section in this particular instance were brought to the notice of Government, it took steps to see that unnecessary resort should not be taken to that section. However, even if I assume for argument's sake that this charge of misusing these powers is correct—I do not admit it—the fact that perhaps in one case in a hundred there has been a mistake or error of judgment in some minor matter of the administration of this Act is not a reason why this House should be asked to refuse to renew any of the powers which are given by this Act. I will now turn to what was perhaps the most important speech made against this Bill, that of the honourable member for Rohtak, the leader of the Nationalist Unionist Party. On the whole I think that that speech was one which was welcome to the Government benches. It put very clearly the difficulties which the honourable member felt and it contained several statements of principle to which no objection could be taken from these benches. The honourable member said that he stood by every thing he had said in this House three years ago when the original debate on this Bill was continuing. Three years ago, he said—

"I concede that under certain circumstances Government has a right to enact laws which will enable it to deal effectively with activities and movements which affect the very foundations of human society. Intellectually I have very deep conviction on the subject."

and he went on to say:—

"I would make it perfectly clear that so far as the keeping in check of subversive movements such as the civil disobedience or terrorist movement or the movement for non-payment of taxes is concerned, I am entirely at one with the mover of this measure."

All that the honourable member asks before giving his vote for this measure is that he should be satisfied that the circumstances of to-day render the measure necessary. I propose to try to show to the members of this House that the circumstances of to-day do call for this Bill. To clear up two preliminary points, it has been suggested that section 151 of the Criminal Procedure Code arms the executive with all the powers which it requires. I looked through the debates of 1932 on this Bill and I could not find that this point was raised at all then, which is somewhat peculiar. So I had my doubts about the validity of this objection from the start. Section 151, Criminal Procedure Code, empowers a police officer to arrest without warrant a person designing to commit a cognizable offence. This section can only be used for the prevention of cognizable offences and it is implicit in the section that such an arrest must be followed by the registration and investigation of a specific charge of a cognizable offence or by way of proceedings for preventive security. This is the only way you can use this section, unless you want to make a dishonest use of it. The whole difficulty about these offences of terrorism and communism is that you cannot always put the case into a court of law. The nature of the evidence, though it may be good enough to convince men of commonsense and good faith, as I hope members of Government are, may be such as to make it quite impossible to publish it to the world, firstly on account of the danger to the person who is giving information, secondly on account of the fact that if you reveal your sources of information you dry them up and thirdly because putting terrorists into court is very often the thing that they desire. It gives them a feeling of importance, they get a lot of publicity and they are widely hailed as heroes; and having done that your case sometimes fails. Section 151 is not good enough and I think honourable members may take it that Government, being composed, as it is, of men with certain amount of honesty, would not cause all the fuss and excitement which the introduction of a measure like the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act causes, if they had in existence sections amply empowering them for these occasions. My honourable friend the member from Hoshiarpur among the other surprising statements which he made day before yesterday stated that he would much prefer, I gathered that to be his meaning, the use of Bengal Regulation III to the enactment of this new measure.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I did not say I prefer, all I said was that Regulation III exists.

Mr. F. H. Puckle : I accept the honourable member's correction. Bengal Regulation III is infinitely a severer measure than the measure before this House. Under Regulation III a man can be taken and put, not in more or less comfortable surroundings in Lahore Fort for a maximum of two months, but in any jail in the province where he will remain until the executive like to let him out. This Regulation is so severe that the Punjab Government have only in the most serious cases applied to the Government for action to be taken under that Regulation. Provincial Governments cannot use it on their own; they must get the permission of the Government of India. The use of that section is like using a sledge hammer to crack a nut, and it is no alternative to the present legislation. As I was saying, the honourable member for Rohtak said that if he were convinced that terrorism and communism were at the moment a real danger in the province he would be prepared to change his views about opposing this Bill. Several honourable members have declared that they know nothing of any terrorist movement. They have no terrorists among their acquaintances, they have no communists among their acquaintances, they have seen no communist literature. Therefore, say they, there is no terrorism and there is no communism. It is rather as if I were to say: I have never seen the Victoria Memorial in Calcutta and therefore there is no Victoria Memorial in Calcutta. It is not the least surprising that honourable members do not know the existence either of communism or terrorism. Most of them, a great many of them here, are land-owners, others are bankers, others are capitalists in one way or another. We have Rajas, Diwan Bahadurs, Khan Bahadurs, Rai Bahadurs and Sardar Bahadurs, and these are the precise classes of people whom in the days when communism and the Soviet Socialist Republic are established in India you will see hanging from the lamp posts of Lahore. It is not likely that the communists would disclose their designs to these gentlemen. In the same way the ranks of terrorists are hardly recruited from men like the honourable member from Hoshiarpur or from any mature man who has brains and balance enough to think sensibly. It is not the least surprising that the existence of these two movements is unknown to members of this House. But it is very well-known to people like myself through whose hands, under whose eyes, every day come reports of a meeting here at which communism has been preached, report from a source of information there that such and such youngman has been preparing for what they call "an action." We see it, we weigh it and we know roughly how much of it is true, and unfortunately there is a good deal of it that is true.

Communism, as honourable members consider, is not on the face of it a plant likely to grow with rapidity in a country like the Punjab where there are many peasant proprietors and where the sense of property is strong. Communism as honourable members perhaps know allows no private property at all. It allows none because according to the communist an individual only exists in so far as he is a member of a state. He has no value as an individual. Therefore, the State which is the supreme authority naturally cannot allow property because people become attached to property and the possession of it colours their action. In the same way communism allows no religion. If there is God, naturally you put His authority high. He is an authority above the State, at the least an authority co-equal with the State. And therefore communism will not tolerate religion. So the Socialist Soviet Republic of communist dreams is a propertyless and religionless State where everyone is equal. No one has anything except what the State likes to give him. I think so far perhaps it does not sound so very dreadful; it is not very far from extreme forms of socialism. But the difference between socialism and communism roughly is that socialism is prepared to advance towards its end by constitutional means while the communist is not. The idea of the communist is to stir up the feeling between classes, to produce the class war which ends in extermination of all propertied classes, whether their property is land or anything else. Having achieved that desirable end you then proclaim your republic. I do not think that that is a doctrine which should be encouraged among the many landless men and labourers of this province. These doctrines are sent into the Punjab from Moscow. One honourable member said, if the Russian Government is a communist government and communism is a danger, why do we trade with Russia? The answer to that is, the communist organisation and the Russian Government are separate. There are regular channels of intercourse between this country and Moscow. Every year a certain number of youngmen are sent to Moscow to learn the principles of communism, to learn how to start class war and to run revolutionary "cells." They proceed there by devious ways, for it is difficult in India to obtain a passport to Moscow. They frequently go via California where they get into contact with the Ghadr Party, they are provided with forged passports and sent to France. There they are met by an emissary from Moscow and with the forged passport they proceed to Moscow where they stay for a year or two and are taught thoroughly well by teachers, who are very often Indians, how to start revolution in their own country. They then come back by devious ways and again by forged passports. I have a forged passport which I will gladly show to any honourable member who would like to see it. When they come back, they arrive in Bombay generally in disguise, a Sikh appearing like a Hindu and so on. They report to the Communist Party of India which is an unlawful association. They are then sent up to Punjab where they get into touch with people who have already gone to and returned from Moscow, previous students of the Moscow school of revolutionaries. They then start their working. Honourable members may be interested to know what this working and what their objects are. I may read from the first issue of the organ of the Punjab Provincial communist party, Lal Dhandora. This is for the month of August and this is the first number, I think. It starts—

"Let the Government beware for we who have been undergoing hardships for centuries are bent upon razing to the ground the capitalists, destroying the government of robbers and uniting to hoist the red flag. Let the peasants be masters of all lands and Rajas, Khans and Sardars may all perish. Big traders have exploited you. Do not forget to crush them. In order to establish Soviet Raj, we should unite all workers and peasants."

It goes on—

"English imperialists, thirsty for the blood of Indians, with the help of Rajas, Nawabs, jagirdars, big zamindars, money-lenders and big traders are making every possible effort to suppress the ever-increasing struggle of labourers and peasants for bread, land and independence."

There is a lot more in this style—

"Let the peasants and labourers form themselves into such a storm as to throw the British Government and its dacoit companions—big zamindars, rajas, bankers and nawabs into the sea."

It finishes up—

"Unfortunate brethren beware of these machinations of their so-called religious leaders who are in reality puppets of the British Government and its allies—the capitalists, jagirdars, money-lenders, rajas and nawabs. The exploiting capitalists, jagirdars, money-lenders, etc., have to plunder them as much as it is in their power, whether they be Hindus, Sikhs, Mussalmans, white or black. They subsist on this. They have no sympathy with any Hindu, Sikh or Mussalman labourer. The exploited are on the one side and the exploiters on the other. The present society is divided into rich and poor, capitalist and labour, big landed proprietors and peasants, tenants, debtors and creditors. Oh! poor working classes, you should realise yourselves and rally round the standard of the communist party for the struggle for bread, land and independence. Down with the agent of the British who bring about religious disputes. Long live the revolutionary united front of the revolutionary labouring public of India."

This is the kind of stuff which is being published about in this country and I leave you to judge whether it is the sort of stuff that you want circulated or not. I have here a copy of that interesting publication which I propose to lay on the table<sup>1</sup>.

Before I move on from communism I should like to give the House a few more facts. I am afraid they are rather dull. The following districts we know to be infected with communism and we know communist practices are active there: Jullundur, Amritsar, Hoshiarpur, Lahore, Lyallpur, Sheikhupura, Ferozepore, Gujranwala, Ludhiana and Rawalpindi. During the year 1935 alone seven communist—very bad communist—pamphlets have been proscribed, to be correct, two of which are about to be proscribed. Within the last three months forty-six public meetings have been held in the province at which communism has been publicly preached. The communist bodies in the Punjab and a good many which under other names are really communist bodies receive twelve periodicals devoted to the spread of communism. They do not actually receive them for we manage to intercept them, but every week they come out regularly and they are regularly intercepted. There are plenty of people outside India anxious to spread these doctrines. These Associations have had to be proscribed as unlawful because they are communist. And tired though the House may be of communism, I would like to read to the House just one sentence from the 9th Tract of "Our Programme" issued by the Labour Research Society—

"In the class war the use of violence is necessary and any socialist who believes in class struggle cannot and should not shirk the responsibility, however, onerous the task may be, the responsibility for violent class war."

Terrorism is very closely connected with communism. In fact you can say that all terrorists are communists but all communists are not terrorists. The main difference is that the terrorist thinks that his end can be achieved by isolated murders of officials and other prominent people whereas the communist thinks that that is waste of time except for publicity purposes and as practice and prefers to wait until he is ready for a general armed rising of the proletariat.

Another point raised especially by my friend, Mr. Manohar Lal, who is not here to-day, is that there have been no outrages in the Punjab during the last three years; he almost makes this a grievance. That point has been dealt with by my friend who has just spoken and I shall not refer to it again. I admit that for the last three years there have been no terrorist outrages in this province and I say it with a great deal of pride. But for what there was before, three years ago, before this Act came into working, I may refer you to Sir Henry Craik's speech in this Council on the 7th November, 1932. He was speaking of the year 1932—

"Since the beginning of this year we have had the following cases of terrorist crimes. We have had a dacoity committed in Lahore city in which firearms were used and which was committed by student followers of the terrorist leaders. We had a gang arrested in possession of arms in Jhelum and another large gang in Gurdaspur district equipped with bombs and firearms. We had a bomb outrage in Ludhiana, a bomb explosion in Gujranwala, and here again in Lahore Cantonment two youths captured with a pistol and ammunition. These are all cases in which there is direct evidence of acts of violence by means of bombs and firearms."

That was the state of things in this province before this Act came in.

There is still terrorism in this province. I say this advisedly and with a sense of responsibility. This is a view which is 4 P. M. expressed also in the Police Report for the last year where the Inspector-General of Police writes—

"The absence of any overt act of terrorism during the year under review must not be taken as an indication of a complete absence of terrorist activities. This menace has unfortunately not yet been completely eradicated from the province and only constant vigilance and effort have prevented the maturing of dangerous plans. But for the existence of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act the campaign against this dangerous type of crime would in all probability have proved ineffective."

That is the opinion of the expert in crime in this province. As far as terrorism is concerned this Act is preventive and preventive only. It is not intended to punish terrorism, but to prevent it. It has various advantages. You can keep the local terrorist quiet under it; you can keep out terrorists from outside the province; you can get information of what terrorists are doing. I may mention that one young man who was kept in the Fort for a couple of months made a statement which ran to 187 pages of foolscap paper and revealed practically the entire working of terrorist organisations in the province. Under this Act you can check a terrorist gang before it has committed an outrage. If you have not got this Act you have to wait for outrages being committed. I do not think even the opponents of this Bill want to wait until someone is dead before they attempt to capture the gang which has been working.

However this is not proof that there is terrorism here. I am going to take the House still further into confidence. In April 1933 a Bengal terrorist who had been hiding his movements for some time was located and arrested under this Act. He had succeeded, as we found out after he had been questioned, in recruiting 78 Punjabi youths and 82 Bengalis to his party. That would have meant running an enormous conspiracy case which might very well have failed. As a matter of fact the arrest of six of these young men and their prosecution for the possession of arms completely broke up the gang and the Punjab was undoubtedly saved from at least one terrorist outrage. In November 1933 a plot was discovered to murder jail officials. Three members of the gang were interned and the gang was broken up. Nothing happened. In 1934 a gang of terrorists, mostly from Ajmere, came to the Punjab in order to establish connection with the Punjab terrorists and work them up. It was detected and exterminated. In April last year we received information of a group of terrorists who intended to commit an outrage on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee. Their leader was found in possession of a revolver. They were arrested and kept in the Fort for a few days, and their effort failed too. Again in July 1935 an outrage on similar lines was talked of for His Excellency the Viceroy's visit. That was also nipped in the bud by this Act. At the present moment the police have under inquiry five or six cases in which the essentials of terrorism are present, and three of these cases are connected with the explosion of bombs.

[Mr. F. H. Puckle.]

Then only the other day there were two bomb explosions at Delhi. Finally, the figures for action against terrorists under this Act during the last year are under section 2, 33 and under section 3, 27. These figures prove that terrorism exists in the province.

I have very little more to say. I want to emphasise that this Act is preventive and not curative. You can cure only by the ordinary law. I want before I sit down to quote to you the words of Khan Bahadur Shaikh Din Muhammad spoken in this House three years ago —

So far as the principles of the Bill are concerned, I would assert that none of the honourable members of the opposition would be in a position to say that it is a virtuous act to jeopardise the peace of the community. None of the honourable members would be in a position to say that it is a virtuous act to instigate the non-payment of taxes. None of them would be in a position to say that it is an act of piety to take out mock funerals and to intimidate people by such demonstrations. If you are not in a position to say so, you agree with the principles of the Bill.

In conclusion I would quote the couplet from S'aadi which the Khan Bahadur also quoted at the end of his speech.

تو پاک باش برادر مدار از کس پاک
ز نقد جامه ناپاک گافران بر سنگ

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh (Jullundur, Sikh, Rural) : It is with great regret that in discussing this Bill the subject of Shahidganj affair has often been brought in. I must say that Government has very wisely avoided making a reference to it notwithstanding the fact that it was the strongest argument in favour of this measure to show that communalism was at its height. It has been said that though the feelings of the communities were at a breaking point, yet nothing happened except a solitary murder. The credit of all this goes to the Government for handling the situation so ably, and nonetheless to the existence of this measure. A good Government is always prepared for any emergency that may arise, and not look for ways and means when the actual calamity befalls them. The question of using that power rightly or wrongly is the only point worth the consideration, and I think the fact that during the last three years Government have used this measure sparingly and with caution is an ample proof of the right manner in which this measure has been used. One of the honourable member said that the Government sent a constable to attend a meeting of school children who were only holding a debating club; I should say that if it was merely a debating club there should be no fear of a constable being present there. If it is really true that it was only a debating society, I think the Government would think twice to commit such a mistake over again. (An honourable member : This was done five times). I am sure there must be something wrong and it could not merely be a debating society. Then again it was mentioned that a head constable was given permission to go about the whole lane to find out the house in which this debating society of school children was being held. I think the school premises are the proper place to hold a debating club of school children more than any private house. If however it was proposed to hold a debating club of school children in a private house, there was no harm in specifying the place or house and thus avoiding the inconvenience to all the inhabitants of the lane and also to the poor constable.

Again, it was mentioned that terrorism does not now exist. I think the honourable members who are fond of reading newspapers are aware that no less than five bomb explosions have recently occurred at Lahore, Banga, Delhi, Amritsar and Chiniot. At Banga the bomb burst while it was being prepared and the police captured a lot of explosive material for making bombs from the house of the man who was injured while preparing the bomb. In the first week of January a suspicious man with a pistol without licence was caught at Jullundur city railway station. All that shows that terrorism is not dead but is dormant because of the unfavourable conditions mostly due to the existence of this measure. Similarly, the communist movement is also there as has been so ably explained by the Chief Secretary. Again it was said that we should not thrust this measure on the new legislature. I for one was of the same opinion but the arguments that have been advanced in its favour have changed my views, because it has been said that the new legislature would be a more representative body of the people and that it would mostly consist of Congressmen. Then I think there could be no apprehension in the minds of the honourable members who oppose this Bill that this measure will ever be used and if they like they can repeal it. With these words I strongly support the motion.

Mr. Muhammad Din Malak (Lahore City, Muhammadan, Urban): When the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act III of 1932 was passed, apprehensions were entertained in certain quarters that the very great powers it gave to the executive would be both misused and abused while some at least of its provisions would prove a veritable engine of tyranny and oppression. That Act has almost lived its three years life, and although it is only fair to acknowledge that no instances of a wilful misuse or an intentional abuse of the emergency powers can be cited, yet it is not to be denied that here and there the executive has committed more or less serious blunders. For instance, the internment orders issued against certain Muslim leaders in connection with the Shahidganj affair can hardly be justified. That however does not prove that there is anything mischievous or wicked about the principles of the Bill. All that it does prove is that like any other human institution Government also are not infallible or incapable of committing occasional errors of judgment. At the same time it must be conceded that, as responsibility for maintaining law and order is exclusively theirs, we need not be unduly disdainful to repose a certain amount of confidence in the Government. This is all the more necessary because, as we know, the ghost of terrorism is still abroad. Cold blooded murders and other diabolical crimes are still not unknown. Even the so-called peaceful picketting has more often than not degenerated into open violence and, worst of all, into communal riots, leaving in their wake a plethora of highly surcharged communal feelings. The question, then is whether we shall stand by as disinterested spectators while in the name of motherland, in the name of religion, in the supposed interests of this or that community our valiant though misguided youth, the centre of our future hopes, the flower of our manhood deprave themselves, destroy themselves and withal tarnish the fair name of India? If of late there has been any appreciable decrease in the type of crimes with which the Bill before the House seeks to deal, it must be put down to the existence on the statute book of the Act which expires in about a couple of months time and which this Bill is intended to replace.

There is another aspect of the case for the Bill to which I would like to draw the attention of the House. Whatever the quality or the quantity of the powers which may eventually become vested at the Centre, as we know, in common with other provinces, we are about to enter upon a sort of provincial autonomy when the reserved half of the present diarchical system will have become transferred to the people's representatives. It is, therefore, for us to consider, whether we shall let the bureaucracy take the responsibility for passing this unpalatable measure and use it ourselves, if necessary, when responsibility for due maintenance of law and order devolves on us or shall we oppose it now and assume the entire responsibility of bringing it up almost immediately after the transference of power has taken place. If I knew that the present Government wanted to re-enact this measure in order to give a fillip to its repressive policy, I for one would oppose it tooth and nail. But the next Government, the Government which alone can have any possible occasion for using it, will be the sole creature of this House; it will be fully responsible to this House, it will be headed by one of you and manned exclusively by yourselves. That being so, no ulterior motives can be imparted to it if it uses these powers when face to face with a situation requiring swift and expeditious handling. And if for the sheer want of these powers you fail to discharge the primary duty of a Government, the duty of maintaining law and order you will have confessed your own incompetence and inability to carry on the administration. On the other hand, if after you have served your probation for, say, a year or two you find that you can do without this odious measure, you can either let it drift into desuetude or forthwith repeal it. To my mind the question is a simple one. It resolves itself into this—whether when at the helm of the Government you can or cannot trust, not the bureaucracy but yourself in the matter of making a proper use of the special powers embodied in the Bill.

Objection is also taken to the Bill on the ground that it curtails the liberty of the people very considerably. I concede it does, but I contend that it being a necessary evil, we must be prepared to put up with it. Civilization not only expects but has invariably levied a toll in the shape of surrender to it of a portion of individual liberty for the common welfare of an ordered community. Indeed, at the present day, unrestricted liberty and unhampered freedom may only be found, if at all, amongst the lowest strata of humanity still surviving in the wilds of Africa or about the wastes of the two poles. The word 'liberty' and its manifold implications convey a deliciously sweet meaning to the mind—liberty is a gift of the gods. It is a great asset and as such highly covetable. But is it because liberty in the abstract may be classed amongst the blessings of manhood that we may seriously felicitate a madman escaping from the protecting restraints and wholesome darkness of his cell, or are we to congratulate a highwayman and a murderer who have prized open the lock of their cells on the recovery of their natural rights?

It is for the reason inter alia that I cannot share the optimism of those who are labouring under the delusion that there is no likelihood of the Congress resorting to civil disobedience; it is for the reason that I consider it to be quite within the range of practical politics for the Congress to resume civil disobedience any day, most probably at the introduction of new reforms and most certainly if they receive a set-back at the polls; it is for the reason that the opposition to the Bill in its entirety or the proposal to limit its duration to one or two years necessarily carries with it an implied insult to, a misplaced distrust for, and a gratuitous want of confidence in the Government which is to succeed the present Government; and, lastly, it is for the reason that the principle of the Bill is sound in all essentials that, in spite of certain lapses of the executive in the past, I would strongly support it—subject of course to certain modifications of certain provisions. I would, however, warn the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill that if he allows himself to be cajoled into reducing the duration of the measure to a period less than five years I would stoutly oppose it and ask my friends to do the same.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri (Punjab Industries): The subject has been thrashed out at considerable length and I have therefore no desire nor is it necessary to add much to what has been so ably said on both sides. But there are two matters which have been mentioned in the House to-day which require a certain amount of elucidation. A threat has been held out by the last speaker that unless the Government makes the life of the present Bill fairly long he would oppose it although he is in favour of the Bill. That is an attack on the concession to public opinion which has been made by the Government and communicated to the House on its behalf by the Legal Remembrancer and as it might possibly influence the action of Government it becomes necessary to examine the entire basis of this legislation.

Mr. President: Notices have been received of amendments proposing different durations for the operation of the Bill. When those amendments are moved this aspect of the question may be discussed. I think it is premature to discuss that point just now. The honourable member for Lahore (Mr. M. D. Malak) ought not to have referred to the period of operation of the Bill until an amendment in that connection was before the House.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri: I was trying to place before the House, the raison d'être, the underlying principle of this legislation which authors of this legislation have themselves put forward so often. It is frankly conceded and nobody would admit it more readily than the Government itself that it is not a kind of legislation which can be called ordinary legislation, ex hypothesi it is extraordinary legislation enacted to meet an extraordinary situation and can therefore be justified to continue only as long as the extraordinary situation lasts or may be expected to last. The Government never intended that such a piece of legislation should be placed on the statute book of the country permanently. When I say this I have no better authority than that of Sir Henry Craik himself our late Finance Member and now Home Member of the Government of India, whom the Chief Secretary quoted to-day. I think that instead of addressing my words to the non-official members of the House only, who may, as experience has shown, speak on one side and vote on the other, or absent themselves at the time of voting, I would make an appeal to the Government itself to consider the implications of their proposed legislation dispassionately, to reconsider whether in its present form, this measure is in the best interests of the people or even in the best interests of maintaining law and order. I submit that the basic principle of this Bill is, that it is an emergency legislation intended by the Government to meet an emergency and therefore it can last only during the period of emergency and we should not, taking advantage of a real or assumed emergency, try to foist upon this province an undesirable piece of legislation for all time to come and if the Government is successful in doing so, it will not be doing justice either to the province or to itself. In support of what I say, may I just quote to you a few words said by no less a person than Sir Henry Craik himself when dealing with sections 2 and 3 of this Bill :

He said :

I do not deny that some of these powers are of an extraordinary nature, and in the case of the emergency powers of arrest and control of the movements of suspected persons I do not for a moment deny that they do constitute a serious interference with personal liberty, and they must on that ground be repugnant to anybody who respects the rule of law. They are no less repugnant to me personally than to any other honourable member of this house. Everybody must regret as I do, the necessity for retaining these two powers.

He then went on to point out that the terrorist movement then existing in the province was the strongest argument in favour of what may be described as the most drastic clauses. He asserted that : "The terrorists at present are better led, better organised, and better equipped than they have been at any time within the past two years." He emphasised that the Bill was a preventive legislation. "I know it is very drastic but you would certainly not like me to wait for a person committing the crime and then catch him; you will like to catch him before the mischief is done". And he concluded, "I would limit this Bill for the period for which I expect this subversive movement to continue" and therefore he limited it for three years. The second restriction which he placed upon himself was that with respect to certain provisions of the Bill he would only confine them to the terrorist movement. You know that this Bill consists of four parts. Sections 2 and 3 deal with arbitrary powers of arrest and restriction of movements of suspected persons. Then there is the chapter dealing with public meetings and another dealing with that objectionable propaganda called siapa. Then there is another part dealing with the prevention of the campaign for non-payment of taxes. Leaving these provisions relating to public meetings and the non-payment of taxes, etc., out of consideration for the time being let us confine our attention to sections 2 and 3 which I consider to be most objectionable features of the Bill. And with respect to sections 2 and 3 I will ask any one who has read the sections through, whether he is justified in placing in the hands of the executive a power of that type without any limitation. I will read the sections to you and ask you whether this House or any Member of the House would give the Government that power in such unqualified form. I will leave it to the Government and ask them whether they are justified in asking for that unrestricted and unqualified power. If the Government persists in their claim, they are certainly going back on what their predecessors, Sir Henry Craik and his non-official protagonist, Khan Bahadur Shaikh Din Muhammad, definitely asserted and promised in the Council. They said that these powers were of such a kind that they would only be used against terrorists. Their argument was that the terrorist was outside the pale of law and the Council should not hesitate to give them these powers, drastic and extraordinary though they are, against such a menace, and although the Government may occasionally err in dealing with such cases, it is absolutely necessary in the interest of the safety of the peaceful citizen, that such a risk be taken and Government armed effectively to deal with this danger to society and ordered progress in the country. The Chief Secretary was pleased to read to you to-day some extracts from the speeches of Sir Henry Craik and Khan Bahadur Shaikh Din Muhammad on the occasion of the last Bill. And I wish to complete the quotations. Now, Sir Henry Craik said that with respect to sections 2 and 3 that they would only be used against terrorists. Reading from page 515 of Volume XXII of our Council Proceedings you would find that Khan Bahadur Shaikh Din Muhammad said :

" The Honourable the Finance Member has always been prepared to give an undertaking to the effect that this chapter would be used against terrorists and anarchists only. I am perfectly sure that he will even to-day repeat the same assurance which he gave in the select committee. And if this provision is to be used against terrorists and anarchists only, I fail to understand why any objection is being levelled against the present provision. "

Sir Henry Craik is reported to have said on page 528 of the same volume :

" When I introduced the Bill in this House, I assured honourable members that the powers given by the section of the ordinance corresponding to clause 2 had been used only against terrorists. " and on page 580 he repeated the same day that he had already explained that this section " is designed for use against terrorists ". Therefore this was the assurance given by the Honourable Sir Henry Craik, given by the non-official members who were supporting the Bill and it was on this assurance that the House agreed to pass the Bill. Now may I ask, does the Government wish to enact this law shorn of that proviso, that necessary safeguard, which the authors had laid upon themselves ? I have myself sent an amendment to that effect that the powers under sections 2 and 3 should only be used against terrorists, the fate of which depends, constituted as our House is, upon the attitude of the Government. But unfortunately the present Government has taken up an attitude which is entirely different from the policy of its predecessors, and I do not find any indication on the part of the Government that these powers would be restricted to certain kinds of persons as was done by an assurance under the last act, and with this attitude, I find it impossible to support the Bill. I was ashamed to hear the speech of my honourable friend Mr. Muhammad Din Malak, the honourable member for Lahore. He says he has no quarrel with the principle of the Bill. We are fortunate that we have statesmen, Englishmen of the calibre of Sir Henry Craik who have the courage of their convictions and who say that this is an extraordinary thing intended, we are assured, for use against terrorists. But here is a gentleman who wants to go further than what even Sir Henry Craik himself has asked for. The English civil-ians are after all trained in the rule of law, those gentlemen have been brought up in the traditions of British Law and constitution and they cannot, even if it suits them, put forward and ask for things which are obviously absurd. But it is left to some of us, I say so with shame, to press for things which the executive themselves ask for with a considerable amount of hesitation. My quarrel is mainly with sections 2 and 3 of the Bill. Now section 2 confers powers of arrest of every person on any person generally or specially authorised by Government and he can keep him in prison for 15 days and under Government orders the person arrested can be imprisoned for two months without trial. If this power were confined to a particular kind of crime say terrorist crime, howsoever arbitrary and extraordinary the power may be, one can understand the reasons actuating the Government in asking for the same. But if you are going to give that power to any person specially or generally authorised to arrest a person suspected of anything which might lead to breach of peace, I make bold to say that your Government and constitution in this province will become unworkable. The highest person whom you can authorise is the Deputy Commissioner. Would it be possible for the chairman or the vice-chairman of a district board or the president or the vice-president of a municipality who have serious differences with the deputy commissioners every day to perform their duties properly or to give proper advice to the deputy commissioner or have difference of opinion with him, if they know that the deputy commissioner can arrest and imprison them any time with impunity and without any reason. Of course if this Bill is confined to a particular kind of crime, say terrorism or even communism, one could understand it. But if it can be used against any person about to act "in a manner prejudicial to public safety or peace", then the situation is impossible. Suppose I deliver a lecture in Gujrat against communal award or insufficient grant to a school, as a result of which there is a certain amount of agitation. Next time, the deputy commissioner may order my arrest, if I go on the same errand. Is it proper that I should be placed under that fear? And if public men are faced with that possibility, it will put an end to all constitutional opposition, to all constitutional agitations. If these powers are used ordinarily with respect to ordinary crimes, you will drive constitutional agitation to undesirable channels and you will be laying seeds of secret opposition. Now leave aside section 2 for the moment because after all the utmost that the Government can do is to imprison a person for 2 months, and consider what follows. Now under section 3, I do not know whether the members of the legislature have realised it, it is permissible for the Government to confine a person for the rest of his natural life "for having committed an offence or for attempting to commit an offence or for being connected with a movement which is likely to lead to a breach of peace". Two persons quarrelling is a breach of peace under the law. Every one knows that. Therefore what I submit is that unless Government is prepared to modify the rigour of section 3 it is impossible for any one to support it. Is the Government at all justified in asking for these wide powers to them? Has the Council realised that under this section, the Government claims to obtain the power of imprisoning a man indefinitely say for ten years or for the rest of his natural life and when he has not committed any crime, nor is he even suspected of association with terrorists, etc.? And then there is no appeal, there is no revision and no officers' action can be called into question for anything he may do under this section. There is a definite section in this Bill regarding indemnity. Therefore I submit respectfully that if you must have this legislation, you can only have it with the necessary safeguards enunciated by the author of the original Bill. I am very sorry to find that the Government is going back on what it asked the last Council to do. This is really asking this Council to agree to proposals for which its original proposers never asked. Sir Henry Craik never asked for power to arrest a person, confine him for the rest of his natural life, if he was guilty of carrying on agitation say for the reforms of gurdwaras or of mosques or numberless similar other purposes. He said that terrorists were outside the pale of laws and he should be given extraordinary powers to deal with them and the Council agreed. Therefore I respectfully put it to the Government, would it not demoralize the Government and its officers, to stop all constitutional opposition by investing the executive with such extraordinary powers which will always be hanging over the head of constitutional agitators and which would induce them to adopt secret methods which will not bring them within the purview and the wrath of the executive Government or its officers? This kind of legislation conferring arbitrary and unrestricted powers for use against ordinary individuals for ordinary acts or omissions is bound to lead to consequences which would be undesirable both from the point of view of Government and the public. Therefore if this legislation must be enacted, it should only be passed with the three-fold restrictions which I have already pointed out and which are inherent in such a kind of legislation. It should be for a time, it may be for a year, for two years, have it even for three years, but certainly you should not have it for 5 years or any longer period, that smacks of permanency. You are not in any way required to make gifts of powers to your successors. They will know how to shift for themselves. This may embarrass them rather than help them. Again these are extraordinary powers and should only be restricted to particular kinds of crimes. It was stated last time that terrorism was the only danger. I wish to emphasise that powers under section 3, in unqualified form, I would not give, if I were a member of a joint family and the powers were proposed to be given to the head of the joint Hindu family, what to talk of giving it to a party Government. I would not give that power to the managing member of a Joint Hindu family and I say that no managing member would be justified in asking for such powers. Again, in an ordinary imprisonment you have to provide the prisoner with food, but here under section 3 you give the power to restrict a man without providing for his maintenance. You confine him in a particular place and let him look after himself, his family and dependents as best as he may. Then it is coupled with powers which are in our minds associated with "martial law", you have not only the power to restrict a man, you also have the power to order him to do whatever you ask him to do, for instance to report himself daily at a distance of five or ten miles at the police station. You can order him for instance not to wear English clothes. I assure you that this power exists in section 3, in all solemnity. Let me read section 3 to you. It provides that a person—

"shall conduct himself in such manner, abstain from such acts, or take such order with any property in his possession or under his control, as may be specified in the order."

A person can be ordered to do or abstain from doing any act, say smoking, or sneezing. This means that a person shall have to behave as directed.

[R. B. Mr. Mukand Lal Puri.]

He may be specifically ordered to stand up and salute when an officer approaches him. I do not say that these orders are likely to be issued by our Government, but if not, why have these powers? The order in another case may well be that he should not see his son because the son of a particular individual may be a worse person than his father from the Government point of view. Do you justify these powers? I respectfully submit that these powers were hastily passed last time, simply because an assurance was given that there will be no use of these powers except against terrorists. I ask the Government to consider whether section 3 is not worse than martial law. There is this justification in martial law that after it expires there is some kind of inquiry and the incidents are gone into, but once you place this peculiar legislation on the ordinary statute book, there is no occasion for any enquiry. I have gone into this section again and again and I am sorry to find that I cannot put any other interpretation on it. Since the Government is going to move this legislation on these lines, it is impossible to support the Bill.

Mr. C. M. G. Ogilvie (Finance Secretary): I move—

That the question be now put.

The motion was carried.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I wish to say very little on the debate generally, because the speeches of Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali and Mr. Puckle have answered most of the main objections which have been raised in the debate. But there is one subject on which I regret to say I must answer the criticisms that have been made. Before I do so, I would like to notice the question put by, I think, three members of the House—Is this Bill a reward for the magnificent exhibition of loyalty shown on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee? Well, Sir, we are all fellow subjects of the King Emperor and it is very gratifying to everyone of us to know that the feeling of loyalty to the King Emperor is absolutely unanimous in this House (hear, hear) and I certainly find it peculiarly gratifying to hear the assurance of members from different parts of this House that the Silver Jubilee celebrations were a genuine and unanimous expression of loyalty to the throne. At the same time the rhetorical question put about these celebrations is to my mind begging the question. The gift of the repressive powers of this Bill is not to those who are loyal to the King Emperor and the constitution generally, except perhaps in the case of some communalists, it is to those who are a very infinitesimal minority and the object of the repressive powers of this Bill is to secure that that minority shall remain infinitesimal and that their evil activities shall not spread.

The subject which I shall have to deal with is the Shahidganj agitation. For many reasons I would have liked to keep it out of the discussion and one very clear reason is that I think it always does harm to air communal differences in public and I would very much have preferred to keep off it, as I did in my opening speech, but attacks have been made by various members of the House and it is necessary to make clear what the action of the Government really was and to make clear the manner in which Government used the powers under section 3. No action was taken under section 2 naturally because Government is committed to using section 2 merely against terrorists and communists and the section is not used against communalists and I doubt if it is ever likely to be so used. I think it was quite clear, throughout the debate that coming elections are casting their shadows before and in one case it was a very black shadow indeed. I refer to the case of one speaker, who made the allegation, I should say—he did not make the allegation as a personal allegation but he said that some of the newspapers stated that Government had caused the mosque to be demolished. It was a mean method of making the allegation, taking refuge behind a newspaper report. If he believed that, why did he not say so? But he wanted to throw a little mud on the Government and I protest very strongly against the way he has shielded himself behind a newspaper report. If he believed the statement he should have said so and we could have tackled him direct. He was only trying to throw a little mud. I need say no more on the subject, of this allegation except that it is so fantastic that no one can possibly believe it for a second. Another speaker said that the Shahidganj agitation which started in Lahore would have ended if the gentlemen who were holding meetings and planning to negotiate a settlement with the Sikhs had not been arrested and deported. This is an absolutely false picture of what happened. It was not a deportation but an order of internment. No order under section 3 of the Act was passed before the 14th of July and long before the 14th of July all direct negotiations between the gentlemen in question, the people who were deported and the Sikhs, had ceased. It is absolutely misleading and untrue to suggest that any negotiations were stopped by the issue of the orders under section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act. It is alleged that Government deported the persons who were keeping the movement under control and that owing to these deportations the public got out of control and a catastrophe occurred. There again the impression given is entirely wrong. Immediately previous to these deportations a large meeting was held at the Mochi Gate at which speeches of a very seditious nature indeed were made. At the same meeting the body of blue shirts was inaugurated and obviously there were serious dangers in the commencement of a movement of this kind. We have already plenty of experience of red shirts and red flags and it was unwise to allow a new organization to start which would almost certainly carry on illegal activities. Any way, it was not on account of blue shirts that deportations occurred but, because the four persons concerned had been engaged in fomenting agitation and until their activities were stopped there was no hope of this agitation, which was daily threatening the public peace, stopping. These persons were undoubtedly trying to organize propaganda outside Lahore in other towns and villages in order to continue the agitation which was most obviously threatening the public peace very seriously. The statement that if these persons had been left to carry on their activities the situation would have been less dangerous is fantastic. Under their control the agitation was daily growing more dangerous until on the 14th there was a meeting of about 15,000 people at which violent speeches were made. With regard to the second internments we have been told that Government acted under a misapprehension believing that civil disobedience was intended and that it was on this misapprehension that we ordered action under section 3 of the Act. We had very good reason indeed for believing at the time that civil disobedience was intended. The information was that the principle of civil disobedience had been accepted at the Rawalpindi Conference and that all that remained was the fixing of a date.

5 P. M.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

In the meanwhile efforts were being made to prepare the province and areas outside the province for the inauguration of civil disobedience. This is not a rash statement for we knew that agitators from the Punjab had already gone to the North-West Frontier Province and had stirred up trouble in that province and had stirred up some of the transborder tribes who had made an attack on villages in the Hazara district. This attack was the result of action by agitators in connection with the Shahidganj movement. Agitation of that sort which led to actual fighting on the frontier obviously had to be stopped. We have been told by one speaker that not only was Government mistaken in thinking that civil disobedience had ever been decided on but that it had been denied by the president of the conference. All I can say is that Government's information was confirmed by the secretary's announcement on the 7th September and it was not till later that this statement was qualified by the president of the conference. And so far as Government are aware there has been no unqualified announcement that the idea of civil disobedience has been abandoned. At the same time we very gladly recognise that all responsible Muslims condemn the idea of civil disobedience. As I have already said it was not merely on account of the threat of civil disobedience that action was taken under section 3 of the Act. The trouble on the frontier was in itself ample justification. Honourable members might perhaps think that action could have been taken under the ordinary law and not under this extraordinary measure. But the answer to that is that in the initial stages of any subversive movement or of any big agitation, while Government may have definite and reliable information about all that is afoot and all the persons who are concerned in it, at the same time they may not have, and generally do not have, sufficient evidence to prosecute with success under the ordinary law.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : When I was referring to the Shahidganj affair I was asked by you, Sir, not to refer to it in detail and so I was debarred from speaking on the matter. But now the Honourable Finance Member is allowed to deal with it at length.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Definite allegations were made in the House and I am only answering them.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : My point is that if Government wants to put that matter before the Council it is well that it should allow sufficient time so that we may discuss it face to face in all its details. We were not allowed to refer to the matter at all whereas the Honourable Member for Finance is now dealing with it in detail.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I shall give no more details. I hope I have answered the several allegations that have been made. I have got no more details to give but there is just one matter of principle and that is the use of this Act in preference to the ordinary law. The answer with regard to that is that just as in the initial stages of the civil disobedience movement of 1930 owing to the absence of special powers the movement gained such momentum that it took many months to stop it, in the same way we would have had the present agitation going on for a very long time indeed. I remember that Pandit Nanak Chand said that the civil disobedience movement died of inanition, that it died a natural death, that it was a mere temporary ebullition of temper on the part of the Congress. I am afraid

I cannot agree with the honourable member at all there. To begin with I do not believe that the leader of the Congress was a man who gave way to petulant temper. But what he did was part of a very definite policy indeed and it was only by the use of the extraordinary powers conferred by the Act that the recrudescence of the movement towards the end of 1931 and the beginning of 1932 was stopped. And it was stopped very speedily because of the existence of these powers. As in the past we found it necessary to use these powers to stop civil disobedience or terrorism, so we must assume that Governments of the future will experience the same difficulty as Governments in the past have experienced. And it would be wrong, I think, if we fail to hand over to the new Government until it has got well into the saddle, until people have settled down, or as I said in my opening speech until the ship of State has found herself, I think we would be quite wrong not to hand over to our successors these powers. Perhaps you will permit me to make just one statement—it is not a matter of detail but one on which members would, I think, like to hear me—with regard to the Shahidganj movement, and it is this. We have been extremely sorry to use any special powers against persons who were concerned in this movement and whose feelings have been and probably were very genuinely hurt by what occurred in connection with it. I would like to say that Government must fulfil its primary duty of maintaining law and order. It keenly desires that this unfortunate situation should cease. It has from the outset recognised that the only satisfactory solution is by an understanding between the two communities primarily concerned, an understanding which is honourable to both parties. Its policy is definitely to encourage such an understanding. If such an understanding were reached and as a consequence the danger to law and order were removed, the local Government would at once respond by taking such measures as were within its power, for instance, (1) to release all undertrial prisoners or convicts not charged with or convicted of offences involving serious violence, (2) to cancel all restrictive orders passed under section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act, (3) to cancel all orders imposing security on certain newspapers. Even if without such an understanding the agitation is dropped or assumes a constitutional form and the danger to law and order is removed the local Government will take the same course. But before Government can make these concessions it must be fully satisfied that the danger to law and order has disappeared and this danger must include not only all subversive action against Government but also action which is a menace to the communal peace of the province. (Cheers).

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The Council will now proceed to consider the Bill clause by clause.

Clause 1, sub-clauses (2) and (3).

Mr. President : The question is—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri (Punjab Industries) : I beg to move—

That after sub-clause (2) of clause (1) the following words be added :—

‘ It shall remain in force for two years. ’

My reasons I have already given while I spoke on the motion for consideration of the Bill and it is unnecessary to repeat them except to assure the House, if any further assurance is necessary on my part or on behalf of the members sitting on these benches that it is no distrust of the future government which leads us to limit its duration. It was never my idea to express in this manner a want of confidence in the future government which as Malik Muhammad Din hopes would really be a Muslim government. It never occurred to me nor is that the feeling of any one sitting on these benches. My reason for limiting the duration of the Bill is the one given by Sir Henry Craik himself on the last occasion, when he pointed out that this measure was an extraordinary legislation for a necessity and that only the existence of the necessity would justify the continuance of this legislation. I think two years is long enough. At any rate the present Government would not be deprived of any weapons which they at present possess, and the next government also will not be deprived of this weapon at the beginning of their career. They will have it for full one year and if the new government think that this Act should be re-enacted they will have no difficulty in having it passed, for, after all they will be a party government and they will only have to put it before the House and it will be passed by the majority party. But it is unlikely that the new Government will re-enact it. They will not like to arm themselves or their opponents with such powers. Mr. Sadiq, the honourable member from Amritsar, pointed out that because Mr. Boyd and Mr. Puckle were at the head not of a party government but of what I would for want of a better word call a neutral government did not allow any element of personal animosity or personal bickering to enter into the consideration of the case of any person ; but the members of the next government which will be a party government, may not be capable of getting rid of unconscious prejudice, and therefore it is very dangerous to arm a party government with such arbitrary powers. In asking that this power should not be given to a party government, he was asserting that he could not trust himself with such arbitrary powers. And he was quite right. Therefore no harm would be done if it is to be for two years. It will amply safeguard the present government and it will give a good start to the new government, but if you put it for five years you are putting it for the natural life of the new council. Therefore by putting it for five years you are conceding nothing. Therefore, I respectfully suggest to the House that they will accept this suggestion which accords with the suggestion of my friends Sardar Arjan Singh who also made a speech to that effect.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That after sub-clause (2) of clause (1) the following words be added :—

‘ It shall remain in force for two years. ’

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural) : I rise to oppose the amendment made by Mr. Mukand Lal Puri. It is agreed on all benches of this House probably that now we have passed the motion for the consideration of the Bill we should have the period as to the life of this Bill ascertained. The majority of the speakers while making speeches on the principles of the Bill—though in some cases they were declared irrelevant—favoured the idea that the life of the Bill should be restricted to three years or to two years or in some cases to five years. The argument advanced by the mover of the amendment is that this Bill should not outlive the life of this Council, but even he admits the principle that we should arm the future government under the new constitution with some sort of weapon to deal with the situations arising in their time. I think it will be more reasonable if we should have this Bill for a period exceeding two years and for that reason I want to oppose this motion.

Mr. President : The question is—

That after sub-clause (2) of clause (1) the following words be added :—

‘ It shall remain in force for two years.

“ This Act shall remain in force for five years from 1st December, 1935.”

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : I object to this motion for want of sufficient notice.

Mr. President : Under Article 91 of the Constitutional Manual—

“ If notice of a proposed amendment has not been given two clear days before the day on which the consideration of the clause to which the amendment is proposed is commenced, any member may object to the moving of the amendment, and such objection shall prevail unless the President, in the exercise of his powers to suspend this article, allows the amendment to be moved.”

As the amendment has been objected to for want of 2 clear day's notice, I will gather the sense of the House informally and allow or reject the amendment according to the wishes of the majority.

(The President gathered the sense of the House and declared). An overwhelming majority of the House is in favour of the amendment being allowed. Therefore, I suspend Article 91 and allow the amendment to be moved. The question is :—

That the following may be added as a new sub-clause to clause 1 :—

“ This Act shall remain in force for five years from 1st December 1935.”

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SPECIAL CONSPIRACY CASE.

*4647. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state—

- (a) the expenses incurred by Government on the Special Conspiracy Case in which Inderpal was an approver ;
- (b) the time taken by this trial in the court of the Special Tribunal ;
- (c) the expenses incurred by Government and the time taken by the trial of Inderpal in the court of the Special Sessions Judge ;
- (d) the number of witnesses examined for the (i) prosecution and (ii) defence in the two courts ;
- (e) whether the expenses referred to in (a) include the cost of (i) the pay of the judges of the Tribunal, (ii) pay of the special prosecuting agency, (iii) the pay of the special police, and (iv) the pay of the ministerial and menial staff ; if not, what are the expenses including these items of expenditure ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) Detailed information on these subjects was given in the reply to a question asked by another honourable member in June last year (question No. 873<sup>1</sup>). A reference is invited in particular to the reply given to part (d) and part (a) of that question.

(c) The trial of Inderpal lasted from the 1st January, 1935, till the 12th April, 1935. Expenses amounting to Rs. 12,892-10-0 were incurred by Government in connection with it.

(d) The Tribunal which tried the Conspiracy Case examined 419 prosecution witnesses, 11 court witnesses and 202 defence witnesses. In the case against Inderpal 189 prosecution witnesses and 60 defence witnesses were called in the Sessions Court.

(e) The figures given in reply to part (d) of the earlier question included particulars as to the pay of the Commissioners, the cost of the subordinate establishment and fees to counsel. The cost of the police employed in connection with the trial was not included. This amounted to Rs. 86,899.

DISTRICT INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS, ROHTAK AND RURAL UPLIFT.

*4658. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state whether the staff of the Education Department has rendered any special help to the work of rural uplift since the present District Inspector of Schools was posted to Rohtak ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : Yes. The honourable member will be interested to know that the district inspecting staff in almost every district is taking great interest in rural reconstruction.

NOTIFIED AREA COMMITTEE AND BUILDING TAX.

*4659. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) whether a Notified Area Committee has been established at Khaur by Gazette notification No. 18896, dated the 10th June, 1930 :

- (b) whether the area co-terminates with the limits of the Attock Oil Company, Limited ;
- (c) whether the employees of the company were assessed to a tax before the establishment of the said committee by the Attock District Board, out of which Rs. 4,000 were actually realized ;
- (d) whether the Notified Area Committee has been established to save the employees of the company from the District Board tax ;
- (e) the total income of the said committee since its establishment and a brief statement of the work done by the committee ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the committee has only existed in name without transacting any business ;
- (g) whether the inhabitants of Khaur presented in writing their grievances on the matter to the Honourable Minister on the occasion of his visit to the place ;
- (h) whether the inhabitants of Khaur have made representations to the President of the Notified Area Committee itself, the Sub-Divisional Officer, Pindigheb, the Deputy Commissioner, Attock, the Commissioner of the division and finally to the Honourable Minister himself to the effect that they should also be allowed representation on the committee ;
- (i) if so, with what result ;
- (j) whether so far, the only members are the representatives of the Oil Company and one contractor of the company ;
- (k) whether the committee has imposed a building tax at the rate of 9 pies per square yard ;
- (l) whether any other committee in the province has imposed a similar tax on buildings ;
- (m) if not, whether Government proposes to take steps to abolish the tax ;
- (n) whether the Government is prepared to take any action in the matter otherwise to remove the just grievances of the people ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes.

- (b) Yes.
- (c) The employees of the Company were assessed to a tax by the District Board before the establishment of the Notified Area. The amount of tax realised was Rs. 2,669.
- (d) No.
- (e) The Notified Area Committee has so far realised no income and done no work.
- (f) Yes.
- (g) Probably but none has been traced.
- (h) Certain representations were received by the Deputy Commissioner, Attock, who is also the President of the Committee, but there is no record of any representations made to the Commissioner.
- (i) One more non-official was appointed a member of the Committee.
- (j) No. The Sub-Divisional Officer, Pindigheb, and Malik Ghulam Mohammad Khan, Zaildar of Khaur, who is not a contractor of the Company, are also members of the Committee.

[ Hon. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang. ]

(k) Yes. The Committee has imposed a tax, at the rate of 9 pies per square yard of the area under the buildings.

(l) No.

(m) No.

(n) The Deputy Commissioner is being asked to inquire from the inhabitants if they have a grievance and then to report to Government.

RESTRICTIONS ON THE SALE OF THE PUNJAB POLICE RULES, VOLUME II.

*4660. Khwaja Muhammad Eusoof : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Inspector-General of Police, Punjab, has stopped the sale of the Punjab Police Rules, Volume II, revised edition (1934), except with his previous sanction ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that no such restriction has been placed on the sale of Volume I of these Rules ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that never in the past has any such restriction been placed on the sale of any volume of the Punjab Police Rules ;
- (d) the grounds on which this restriction on the sale of Volume II of the Punjab Police Rules, 1934, has been deemed to be necessary and expedient ;
- (e) the conditions on which sanction for purchase of Volume II of these Rules can be obtained from the Inspector-General of Police, Punjab ;
- (f) whether the Government is prepared to consider the desirability of removing this restriction ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a), (b) and (d) Only 2,000 copies of the new addition were printed. Demands for copies from other provinces and Indian States were unexpectedly high. Government desire if possible to avoid the expense of reprinting and have restricted sales accordingly. This applies to all the volumes, not Volume II alone.

(e) Yes.

(f) There are no special conditions. The sale of Volume II, as of the other volumes, will be authorised so far as the limited edition admits.

(f) As stated above, Government are anxious to postpone the expense of reprinting for as long as possible, and are not prepared to remove reasonable restrictions designed to serve that end.

JUNIOR VERNACULAR AND SENIOR VERNACULAR CLASSES AND STATUTORY AGRICULTURISTS AMONG THEM.

*4661. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of candidates admitted to the Junior Vernacular class at Jullundur in 1934 and 1935 from the Ambala division ;
- (b) the number of Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs among the persons referred to in (a) and the number of statutory agriculturists in each of the three groups ;

(c) the particulars referred to in (a) and (b) with regard to the candidates admitted to the Senior Vernacular class at Gakhar?

It may be added for the honourable member's information that at present in the Ambala division there are more trained Junior Vernacular and Senior Vernacular teachers than can find employment.

STATUTORY AGRICULTURISTS IN THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

*4662. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the proportion of Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs in the cadre of the assistant sub-inspectors, head constables and constables is (i) 64·5, 20·9, 14·6, (ii) 68·3, 23·3, 8·3, and (iii) 74·7, 17·5 and 7·7, respectively ;

[ R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram. ]

- (b) what steps the Government proposes to take to set the disproportion right ;
 (c) the number of assistant sub-inspectors and constables recruited during the years 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 ;
 (d) the number of Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs among the persons referred to in (c) and the number of statutory agriculturists under each of the three principal groups ;
 (e) the reasons why the present disproportion has remained unnoticed during the last few years, and if it has come to notice the steps which have been taken to redress the disproportion from year to year ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) Attempts to introduce a larger non-Muslim element, and particularly a larger element of agriculturist Hindus and Sikhs, into the lower ranks of the Police have hitherto had somewhat disappointing results, the number and qualifications of Hindu agriculturists presenting themselves not being such as to enable them to compete successfully with candidates of other classes. The proportion of non-Muslims has risen in recent years but the number of vacancies occurring in any one year is not sufficient for fresh enrolments to have a marked effect on percentages in a force of some 28,000 men.

(e) So far as the Sikhs are concerned they have no cause for complaint in regard to recruitment in recent years; 22.4 per cent. of the appointments in the rank of assistant sub-inspector and 16.6 per cent. in that of foot constable having gone to them, as against their percentage of 14.3 in the total population of the province. In the case of Hindus the figures for the same period were 17.9 per cent. of the appointments in the rank of assistant sub-inspector and 19.3 per cent. in the rank of foot constable, as against their population percentage of 30.22. The reasons for the comparatively low percentage in the case of the Hindus has been explained in the reply to part (b) of the question. I should like to add that everything possible is being done to encourage the enrolment of Hindu candidates of the required type.

AGRICULTURAL LAND UNDER MORTGAGE.

*4663. #### CHANGES IN THE HEAD PORTION OF THE ROORKI MINOR.

*4667. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state whether Mr. Rose, Executive Engineer of the Delhi division proposed any changes in the head portion of the Roorki minor, and if so, whether those changes have been carried out, and if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No change in the head portion of the Roorki minor was proposed by Mr. Rose.

Other parts of the question do not arise.

LAND SOLD AND MORTGAGED BY PRIVATE OWNERS.

*4668. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly lay on the table of the House a statement showing for the province as a whole the amount of land (a) sold and (b) mortgaged by private owners during the triennia of 1918 to 1920, 1925 to 1927 and 1932 to 1934 ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : A statement showing total area sold and mortgaged is placed on the table.

Separate figures for private owners are not available.

BHAKRA DAM PROJECT AND THE PUNJAB STATES.

*4669. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state the progress, if any, which has been made in the negotiations with the Punjab States concerned in relation to the Bhakra Dam Project ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : An informal discussion with the Agent to the Governor-General, Punjab States, took place in April 1935 but so far no real progress has been made.

REVISED SCALES OF PAY OF THE PROVINCIAL SERVICES.

*4670. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state—

- when the question of revising the scales of pay of the various provincial services first began to be considered ;
- whether the consideration is yet complete ;
- if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, when the new scales will be announced ;
- whether any non-official opinion was consulted in the matter of fixing the new scales of pay ;
- if the answer to (d) is in the affirmative, what are the non-official agencies consulted, and if the answer is in the negative, what are the reasons for not consulting non-official opinion ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) In 1932.

(b) Yes.

(c) Shortly.

(d) and (e). The recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee were taken into consideration.

PUNITIVE POLICE POSTS.

*4671. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state—

- (a) the number of punitive police posts established in the province during the last twelve months ;
- (b) the period for which these posts were sanctioned ;
- (c) the amount of punitive charges which will be levied from the people ;
- (d) whether any non-official opinion was consulted in respect of any of these posts with regard to the advisability or strength or period of these posts ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a), (b) and (c). A statement is laid on the table.

(d) The honourable member will remember the debate on a resolution moved by him in this Council last October. As I explained to the House then the people concerned do have ample opportunities of stating their case against proposals for the employment of additional police. In the second of the two cases included in the list which I have just laid on the table, the Rohtak case, Government received a lengthy representation from the honourable member himself ; and the most careful attention was given to that representation before any orders were passed.

Statement showing additional police posts newly established in the Punjab under section 15 of the Police Act, 1861, during the twelve months ending on the 25th June, 1935.

FORECAST OF THE PRODUCE OF WHEAT AND COTTON.

*4672. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Department of Agriculture issues forecasts of the produce of wheat and cotton at various intervals of the kharif and rabi harvests ;
- (b) whether there are any formal and recognised arrangements under which non-official opinion can be consulted in this matter ;
- (c) if the answer to (b) is in the negative, whether the Government proposes to make such arrangements ;
- (d) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, which associations or individuals were consulted before the last forecast of the yield of wheat was issued ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Does not arise.

(d) In accordance with the standing orders, tahsildars are required to check their estimates of these crops by enquiry from leading agriculturists and others. Government do not consider that the labour involved in enquiring from all tahsildars, which persons or associations they consulted before the last wheat forecast was issued, would in the circumstances be justified.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Is not Government aware that there has been a general complaint about overestimating of the yield of the last rabi crop ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : I have heard it stated that the crop was overestimated but when the estimates were made it could not be foreseen that any damage would be done to the crop before it ripened.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Have the Government tried to check their figures from the stocks held in various markets ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : No.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan : Have the Government taken into consideration the fact that because there has been damage to the rabi crops therefore remission should be greater ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : It does not concern me.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I gave a full statement to that effect only a few days ago and in that statement the amount of remission on account of damage to wheat was given.

DEMONSTRATION FARMS.

*4673. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly lay on the table of the Council a statement in respect of the most successful demonstration farm of the department showing—

- (a) the area of the farm ;
- (b) whether the whole area of the farm constitutes one compact block ;
- (c) whether there are any irrigation facilities available to this farm ;
- (d) whether this farm is cultivated directly or through tenants ;
- (e) the gross income from this farm during each of the last three years ;
- (f) the cost of production including the salaries of the staff engaged on supervision, the depreciation of buildings attached to the farm and the upkeep of the bullocks, if the farm is one under direct cultivation ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : There are no demonstration farms under the management of the Department of Agriculture. One of the most important seed farms is that at Risalewala near Lyallpur. The honourable member will find complete information regarding economic conditions on this farm in the annual publications of the Board of Economic Enquiry entitled " Farm Accounts in the Punjab " which are in the Council Library.

CO-OPERATIVE SELLING OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE BY FARMERS.

*4674. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state whether he has introduced any scheme under which co-operative selling of agricultural produce by farmers is possible ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : The existing agencies for co-operative sale of agricultural produce are the co-operative commission shops, for details of whose working the honourable member is referred to the annual reports of the Co-operative Department. The development of co-operative organizations for the sale of sugarcane is being taken in hand, with the help of the grant-in-aid from the Government of India. The Government are awaiting the result of enquiries which are being conducted by the marketing staff under the control of the Director of Agriculture before undertaking any further scheme of co-operative marketing.

CHARGES BY ARHTIS IN MANDIS.

*4675. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) the number and nature of charges made by arhtis in the various mandis of the province from farmers when they purchase the articles of their need from shopkeepers or sell their produce through arhtis ;
- (b) what happens to the proceeds of these charges ;
- (c) whether the Government has made any rules or enacted any legislation whereby these charges can be regulated or the proceeds thereof can be devoted to the purposes for which they are ostensibly made ;

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

(d) if the answer to (c) be in the negative, whether the Government intends to enact any law for regulating the levy of these charges and for controlling the expenditure of their proceeds ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) and (b) The attention of the honourable member is invited to publication No. 39 of the Board of Economic Enquiry—Market Practices in the Punjab, 1934.

(c) No.

(d) Not at present.

RELIEF TO AGRICULTURISTS.

*4676. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state what steps he proposes to take in order to give relief to agricultural classes in their share of the burden of taxation in view of the alarming fall in the prices of agricultural produce and in order to raise fresh revenue to make good the loss caused by the relief to be afforded in land taxes ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : In his reference to the share of the burden of taxation borne by the agricultural classes, I presume that the honourable member is referring mainly to land revenue and cesses, water rates and local rate, although land revenue and water rates cannot correctly be called taxation. Since kharif 1930 special remissions of land revenue to the extent of Rs. 1,76,00,000 have been granted in view of the fall in prices. Similarly large sums of water rates have been remitted. A sliding scale of assessment has been introduced in the Lower Bari Doab Colony and will be applied in the Lyallpur Settlement. Re-settlements automatically adjust the burden of land revenue when any continuous fall in prices has occurred.

With regard to the raising of fresh revenues, the honourable member is aware that the provisions of sections 54, 107 and 123 of the Transfer of Property Act have been applied to all municipalities and notified areas in the Punjab with effect from the 6th May, 1935, making compulsory the registration of deeds of sales, leases and gifts in respect of immovable property in these areas. The measure is expected to increase the provincial revenues by about Rs. 3 lakhs annually.

The Punjab Tobacco Vend Fees Act, 1934, came into force during the current financial year, and a revenue of Rs. 80,000 is expected from this source during the current financial year.

The Government have introduced a Bill for the imposition of a tax upon entertainments.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : What is the estimate that the Government has formed of the proceeds from the proposed entertainments tax ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The estimate is an extremely rough one. I very much doubt whether it is accurate. It is Rs. 2 lakhs but in view of the experience of Bombay and Bengal we hope it will bring in a bit more.

ELECTIONS IN THE DISTRICT BOARD CONSTITUENCIES.

*4677. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly lay on the table of the Council a statement showing for the districts of Rohtak and Hissar—

- the names of the candidates who contested elections in the various constituencies of the district board ;
- the total number of votes in each constituency ;
- the number of the votes actually polled in each constituency ;
- the number of votes obtained by each candidate ;
- the names of the candidates who had been put forward officially by the Congress and who did not repudiate the Congress ticket ;
- the names of the candidates returned unopposed ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Two statements giving the available information in respect of the last elections are laid on the table. The information asked for in part (e) of the question is not available in the case of Hissar.

TOWN IMPROVEMENT TRUST ACT.

*4678. Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) when the Town Improvement Trust Act was applied to Lahore ;
- (b) what steps have been taken towards the formation of a trust since the Act was applied ;
- (c) if not, why no steps have so far been taken ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) 1923.

(b) Two Committees were appointed, one under Mr. Langley and the other under Mr. Latifi in the years 1927 and 1933 to report on the practicability of the Act being enforced, and their report was that it was impracticable on the ground of expense.

(c) Recently however the question has been reconsidered by Government, and it is probable that steps will shortly be taken to constitute a Trust.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THEIR MAJESTIES' SILVER JUBILEE FUND.

*4679. Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) the total amount contributed by the Punjab towards Their Majesties' Silver Jubilee Fund ;
- (b) the amount contributed by each community ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : (a) The cumulative totals of Their Majesties' Silver Jubilee Fund (Punjab Branch) are published in the press every week and the attention of the honourable member is drawn to the press reports. Roughly the total is Rs. 15,18,000.

(b) Government has no information and as the Silver Jubilee Fund is not a Government Fund, they do not propose to collect it.

BOOKS USED IN GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, AMBALA CITY.

FISHERIES RESEARCH OFFICER.

*4681. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- whether it is a fact that the post of the Fisheries Research Officer was sanctioned in 1920 in the grade of Rs. 200—10—400 to carry on research on the breeding of fish for the purpose of stocking rivers and streams ;
- whether it is a fact that the incumbent of this post was given a higher personal grade of Rs. 250—25—750 in the year 1929 ;
- whether any results of any practical value have been shown in Fisheries Research and whether any rivers have been stocked with fish during the last 14 years ;
- whether Government proposes to abolish this post ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) No, he was given a personal grade of Rs. 200—<sup>50</sup>/<sub>7</sub>—250—25—550/25—750.

(c) As stated in the review of the Annual Report on the Department of Fisheries, Punjab, for the year ending 31st May, 1933, much useful information has been collected on the research side and now that the Fisheries Research Officer is stationed at Lyallpur since August, 1932, under the supervision of superior officers experienced in research and where well equipped laboratories are available, it is hoped that definite progress will be achieved. The Fisheries Research Officer is at present undertaking further study at Cambridge and on his return it is proposed to put fisheries research on a sounder footing.

Research was undertaken at Chhenawan in the breeding of Carp. The difficulties experienced and the success obtained were explained in answer to part (d) of question No. *4098<sup>1</sup> replied to on the 28th February, 1935.

Considerable success has been achieved in connection with trout in Kulu,—vide reply given to part (a) of question No. *4484<sup>2</sup> answered on the 28th March, 1935.

[Hon. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang.]

Copy of resolution No. 1026, passed by the Municipal Committee, Ludhiana, in their ordinary meeting held on the 23rd of February, 1935.

1026. In continuation of resolution No. 880, dated 17th December, 1934, read estimate of Rs. 9,500 prepared by the Overseer for constructing a poor house on land near Tank in Lakkar Bazar with recommendation of the Sub-Committee Works for sanction.

Resolved that it is sanctioned. Executive Officer to invite tenders.

Copy of the order of the Deputy Commissioner, Ludhiana, dated the 9th March, 1935.

The Municipal Committee, Ludhiana,—vide their resolution No. 1026, dated the 23rd of February, 1935,—have sanctioned an estimate amounting to Rs. 9,500 for constructing a poor house near the tank in Lakkar Bazar, Ludhiana, and have also authorized the Executive Officer to invite tenders for the above.

The committee are competent under section 52 (2) (c) of the Punjab Municipal Act, 1911, to start a poor house, but there appears to be no immediate necessity for the establishment and maintenance of a poor house at Ludhiana. This resolution of the committee indicates an unprecedented liberal minded and generous disposition on the part of the committee, but I am afraid the funds of the committee do not allow measures like this to be adopted. They have two expensive schemes before them, i.e., construction of 2 tube-wells, etc., and the conservancy scheme.

As the execution of the Ludhiana Municipal Committee's resolution No. 1026, dated the 23rd of February, 1935, is likely to cause waste of the municipal funds, I suspend it under section 232 of the Act and ask the committee to furnish any explanation which they may desire to give within a fortnight from the date of receipt of this order in the municipal office, failing which it will be assumed that the committee have no explanation to offer and the Commissioner will be informed accordingly.

DISTRICT BOARD SCHOOLS, JULLUNDUR.

1133. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the District Board of Jullundur is keeping up a number of schools, which the Commissioner, Jullundur, has called upon the Board to close, if so, with what result ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The Divisional Inspector of Schools, Jullundur (not the Commissioner), recommended that 18 lower middle schools should be reduced to primary standard, 26 primary schools converted into branch schools, 10 primary schools to be closed, and the English classes of two vernacular middle schools to be closed. The District Board did not accept these proposals in their entirety. The Board decided to close primary schools with less than 20 boys on the rolls and lower middle schools with less than 10, and in accordance with this policy, the Board discontinued only one primary school, at the same time converting 9 lower middle schools into primary schools. The rest of the advice of the Inspector was not followed.

CENSUS OF BICYCLES.

1199. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a census of bicycles has been taken, if so, with what object ;
- (b) the number of bicycles in—
  - (i) urban areas,
  - (ii) rural areas ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Deputy commissioners were recently asked to make a rough estimate of the number of bicycles in use in their districts. This was in connection with the proposal made by the Punjab Sources of Revenue Committee (1931) for the imposition of a tax on bicycles.

(b) The total number of bicycles in the Punjab is estimated at 2,10,000. Separate figures for urban and rural areas are not available.

SANATORIUM FOR TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS.

1200. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a sanatorium for tubercular patients has been opened at Murree, if so, by whom ;
- (b) if it is a private institution, whether it is aided by Government, if so, to what extent ;
- (c) whether any beds will be set apart for poor patients, if so, how many ;
- (d) the total accommodation in the sanatorium ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) A sanatorium for tubercular patients has been opened at Samli near Murree by the Indian Red Cross Society, Rawalpindi District Branch. Thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. King.

- (b) It is a private institution and is not aided by Government.
- (c) Yes, but at present only for those who belong to the Rawalpindi district. The number of beds for such patients has, however, not been fixed.
- (d) Total accommodation is 46 beds and 18 private huts and rooms.

CENTRAL CO-OPERATIVE BANK, LIMITED, FEROZEPORE.

1201. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Ferozepore Central Co-operative Bank, Limited, Ferozepore city, has given out large sums by way of loans ;
- (b) if so, to what extent ;
- (c) what amount of this is regarded as irrecoverable ;
- (d) what amount of this is likely to be recovered during the next five years ;
- (e) as regards the amount which is now regarded as irrecoverable, how much was loaned without security or insufficient security ;
- (f) if any amount was loaned without security or insufficient security to whose negligence it was due ;
- (g) if so, whether it is one person or more than one ;
- (h) whether any action has been taken against persons at fault, if so, what, if not, why not ?
- (i) if no action has been taken, whether Government is now prepared to take action ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : For statistics of the operations of this and other co-operative banks the honourable member is referred to the statements attached to the Annual Report on the Working of Co-operative Societies. These banks are autonomous institutions and Government is not, therefore, in a position to answer questions about their internal working.

SECRETARY, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DALHOUSIE.

1202. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Lala Ghanaiya Lal, late Secretary, Municipal Committee, Dalhousie, had appealed to Government about the action taken against him by the Municipal Committee ;
- (b) if so, what orders were passed by Government ;
- (c) whether he will lay a copy of these orders on the table ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Lala Ghanaiya Lal did not appeal, but made a representation to Government against his not being allowed to return from leave and against being made to retire.

(b) Government did not see any reason to interfere with the decision of the Committee ;

(c) Copies of Punjab Government Memoranda No. 4281-S., dated the 26th July, 1935, and No. 7481-S., dated the 26th September, 1935, are laid on the table.

[Hon. Dr. Sir Gokal Chand Narang.]

Copy of a memo. No. 4281-S. (L. S.-G.—Comts.), dated the 26th July, 1935, from the Secretary to Government, Punjab, Transferred Departments, to the Commissioner, Lahore.

SUBJECT:—Representation of Lala Ghanaiya Lal, Secretary of the Municipal Committee of Dalhousie on leave.

Reference the correspondence resting with your letter No. A/VI/13/II/626, dated the 17th June, 1935.

2. The Punjab Government (Ministry of Local Self-Government) agree with you that the Committee has power to settle the matter under Fundamental Rule 72 (which, it is believed, the Municipal Committee of Dalhousie has adopted). I am, at the same time directed to request that it may be intimated, for the information of Government, whether Lala Ghanaiya Lal will complete the age of 55 years on the 16th September, 1935; and that, if it is not so, the reasons for his being retired prematurely may be ascertained from the Committee and communicated to Government at an early date.

Copy of a Memorandum No. 7431-S. (L. S.-G.—Comts.), dated the 26th September, 1935, from the Secretary to Government, Punjab, Transferred Departments, to the Commissioner, Lahore.

SUBJECT:—Representation of Lala Ghanaiya Lal, Secretary of the Municipal Committee of Dalhousie against his retirement.

Reference the correspondence ending with your endorsement No. A/VI/13/II/1036, dated the 12th September, 1935, on the subject noted above.

2. Lala Ghanaiya Lal may be informed that the Punjab Government (Ministry of Local Self-Government) see no reason to interfere.

INDIAN CHRISTIAN CANDIDATES FOR THE POST OF TAHSILDAR.

1203. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that lists of candidates for posts of naib-tahsildars are kept in the offices of the Commissioners of the respective divisions of the province ;
- (b) if so, whether he will lay a statement on the table showing the number of candidates by communities on each list kept in the offices of the Commissioners ;
- (c) whether there are any Indian Christians on any of these lists, if so, on which list or lists and what is their number ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

INDIAN CHRISTIAN CANDIDATES FOR THE POST OF NAIB-TAHSILDAR.

1204. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether employees in Government service are eligible for appointment as candidates for naib-tahsildarship ;
- (b) if so, whether any Indian Christians in Government service have applied for appointment as candidates for the post of naib-tahsildar ;
- (c) if so, what is their number and by whom their applications will be disposed of ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The required information is not readily available. The recruitment of naib-tahsildar candidates is stopped for some time.

(c) The applications, if any, will be disposed of by the Commissioners of divisions when the recruitment re-opens.

THE PUNJAB CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) BILL.

CLAUSE 2.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (Punjab Landholders, General) : I move—

That the words "general or" in sub-clause (1) of clause 2 be omitted.

I do not think it is necessary for me to make any speech. All the arguments which were advanced yesterday hold good on the amendment and I move it.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That the words "general or" in sub-clause (1) of clause 2 be omitted.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Government are prepared to accept the amendment.

Mr. President : Question is—

That the words "general or" in sub-clause (1) of clause 2 be omitted.

The motion was carried.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri (Punjab Industries) : I beg to move—

That the following be added to sub-clause (2) of clause 2—

The powers under this section will only be used with respect to persons suspected of terrorist and communist crimes.

The powers of arbitrary arrest which this section confers, as I pointed out yesterday, should be confined to certain particular crimes, and should not be extended to breaches or apprehended breaches of ordinary criminal law. My object in moving this amendment is to make it clear that this power is to be confined to the needs of the situation. The Council should therefore insist upon this amendment being passed. I have already given my reasons in detail in speaking on the motion for consideration.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That the following be added to sub-clause (2) of clause 2—

The powers under this section will only be used with respect to persons suspected of terrorist and communist crimes.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : If the honourable member would accept a slight amendment in the wording of his amendment I think we can accept it. If he says that the powers shall only be used against terrorists and communists, it would be acceptable. For it might unduly narrow the meaning if the powers were to be used against persons suspected of terrorist and communist crimes. If, on the other hand, the amendment says, against terrorists and communists, it will then amount to the assurance which Sir Henry Craik gave here when the present Act was introduced and I am ready to accept that.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : That is a mere verbal alteration and I have no objection to agree to it.

Mr. President : The question is that the amendment be amended as follows :—

The powers under this section shall be used only against terrorists and communists.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : Question is—

That the following be added to sub-clause (2) of clause 2—

The powers under this section shall be used only against terrorists and communists.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : I may point out that the omission of the words "general or" in sub-clause (1) of clause 2 would necessitate amendment, if not omission of the proviso to sub-clause (1) of the clause under consideration. Therefore, when I put to the House the motion that clause 2 stand part of the Bill, that motion should be taken subject to such consequential modifications of the clause as the drafting committee may deem necessary to make.

The question is—

That clause 2 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

CLAUSE 3.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri (Punjab Industries) : I beg to move—

That the words 'unless the local Government by special order otherwise directs' occurring in lines 2 and 3 of sub-clause (2) of clause 3 be omitted.

While speaking on the motion for consideration of the Bill yesterday I pointed out that clause 3 of the Bill was the worst feature of the Bill in as much as it gave a power to the executive to confine a person or to circumscribe the movements of any person whom the executive thought to be dangerous or undesirable, for the rest of his normal life. That interpretation arises from the existence of the words 'unless the local Government by special order otherwise directs' in sub-clause (2) of clause (3). It will be noticed that clause 3, sub-clause (1) lays down the various orders which the Government may pass with respect to any person, as to where he is to remain, how he has to conduct himself, what he is to do and what he is to abstain from doing. Sub-clause (2) of clause 3 prescribes the period for which this order can continue. The words in sub-clause (2) are—

‘An order made under sub-section (1) shall not, unless the local Government by special order otherwise directs, remain in force for more than one month from the making thereof.’

The original scheme of the Act contemplated that those were emergency powers and the local Government should be able to take effective action, deterrent action, preventive action, and should be able to take it at as short a notice as possible, but it was not intended to give them penal powers. The Act being necessarily preventive, as the Honourable Finance Member put it yesterday, the powers of prevention are sufficiently safeguarded. If you have secured to the executive the power of putting a man in jail under section 2 up to a period of one month or confining his movements to a particular locality for a period of one month, you have given them ample powers. That was the original intention and that appears from this fact also that the power of arrest under section 2 is followed by the power of imprisonment and that power of imprisonment is only for fifteen days in the first instance and of one month (An honourable member—Two months) in the second instance. Similarly the third clause gave the same power to local Government of two months. In section 2 the power of imprisonment given to the executive is two months; in section 3 the power of restriction is ordinarily only one month. I am drawing attention to sub-clause (2) of clause 3—

“An order made under sub-section (1) shall not, unless the Local Government by special order otherwise directs, remain in force for more than one month from the making thereof.”

It was contemplated that this power of restriction will necessarily be required in cases of persons who are less dangerous than those against whom the order under section 2 is not contemplated but order under section 3 is contemplated. As the period of one month which Government chose to give to these persons may in some extreme cases appear to be too short, the local Government reserved to itself the right of increasing this period by the insertion of these words “unless the local Government otherwise specially directs,” so that if in some cases it is necessary to confine the movement of an internee for more than a month, the local Government might be able to extend it say for five weeks or even two months in extraordinary cases. The local Government did not want the powers for more than a month. So, if you accept my amendment the effect will be that the local Government will only have the power to intern a person for one month in the first instance.

I think every section of the House is agreed on this point that the period for which a person can be restricted should be limited. I think I may take it that that is the sense of the House, although that was not the original proposal. Every section of the House, judging from what I have learnt from the speeches yesterday and from what I find from the amendments of which notice has been given, is agreed that this power should be restricted. I have sent in an alternative amendment for a period of six months and I find another amendment standing in the name of my friend Chaudhri Riasat Ali for restricting the period to one year. Therefore what the Council has to decide now is, whether this power of restricting the movement of a particular person should be given to Government for one month, for six months or for a year. I take it that most members of the House are agreed on restricting the period. I move this amendment and the result of this amendment will be to restrict the power of Government to intern a person for one month which originally was contemplated by Government to be the ordinary period for which detention would be necessary.

The words ' unless the local Government by special order otherwise directs ' occurring in lines 2 and 3 of sub-clause (2) of clause 3 be omitted.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The Government cannot possibly accept this amendment. The one month period is in a great many cases hopelessly inadequate. The Government are prepared to accept a period of one year. Every six months—at any rate periodically—the cases of persons interned under this section are placed before Government and where it is possible to cancel the orders of internment the orders are cancelled. At the last periodical revision I should think that at least three-fourths of the orders were cancelled. We are very careful indeed in our administration of this section. I would much prefer not to have our hands tied. Actually I can mention one case in which the report that came to us said that five or six terrorists had come to a more reasonable frame of mind and could be trusted for the time being to act peacefully. The internment orders against them were cancelled. There was one case I remember in which an internee was reported to be still obdurate and was still devoted to the terrorist creed and was proclaiming it openly. Obviously the order of restrictions could not be cancelled in such a case. I would much prefer that the power was left with the Government without any period being prescribed but owing to the strong desire expressed by many speakers we are prepared to accept a period of one year, though I really think that it is too short.

Mr. President : The question is—

The words ' unless the local Government by special order otherwise directs ' occurring in lines 2 and 3 of sub-clause (2) of clause 3 be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath (Punjab Landholders, General) : I beg to move—

The following words be added at the end of sub-clause (2) of clause 3—

' Provided that in no case shall such order remain in force for more than a year.'

It seems to me, that one year is the most reasonable period to impose. Of course it is rather hard on the person arrested that he does not know the time limit at all and I hope that Government will be prepared to accept this amendment.

Mr. President : The question is—

The following words be added at the end of sub-clause (2) of clause 3—

' Provided that in no case shall such order remain in force for more than a year.'

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 3 as amended stand part of the Bill.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar city, Muhammadan, Urban): The House has just now accepted an amendment restricting the period to one year, but I have great doubts about that amendment. May I question whether the total period will be one year or whether it will be one year at a time.

Mr. President : The whole clause, as amended, is under consideration and not the amendment which has been just passed. The honourable member can speak to the whole clause, as amended, and not to the amendment only.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I am opposing the whole clause. I am only giving my reasons by putting a question. I am going to show that one year means nothing. It really means punishment for full five years. Only recently Maulana Zafar Ali was arrested for two months. After the expiry of that period he was given four hours' leave and was re-arrested for another four months. When the amendment was passed, some members smiled. But I want to tell them that it means nothing. A man is let out for two hours and is re-arrested for one year. It should be made perfectly clear that the man is not to be re-arrested for a further period.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I do not understand what the honourable member has said at all about Maulvi Zafar Ali. I know nothing of any such facts as he has alleged.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I was saying that Maulana Zafar Ali was arrested and interned for two months and he was let off after two months. But within four hours after his being let off he was re-arrested.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I may say that the honourable member's facts are absolutely wrong.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I am prepared to accept the Honourable Member's correction. But my contention remains all the same. A man is arrested for one year and after the lapse of one year he is let off and within a short time after his release he is again arrested. I strongly object to this and that is why I say that these amendments are useless. This whole section is so extraordinary that it should not be allowed to remain on the statute book, for the simple reason that it does not contemplate one year as some people seem so fondly to think, but for five years. Take this case of the Shahid Ganj affair. The Government arrested 27 persons. Yesterday the Finance Member made a statement which does not say that they will be let off if they agree to behave properly. The condition of their release, the Honourable Finance Member said, was that this agitation should stop, as if the persons inside the prison bars had any influence with the outside public as to persuade them to stop the agitation. In other words it comes to this that Maulana Zafar Ali, Mr. Habib and others are kept as hostages which is against all law.

Mr. President : Will the honourable member please speak to the clause under consideration?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I am speaking to the clause. These people are not to be let out on the merits of their case but only if the general atmosphere outside is calm.

Mr. President : I again request the honourable member to speak to the clause.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : What does the clause say ? It says—

Such person (a) shall not enter or remain in any area specified in the order ;

(b) shall reside or remain in any area specified in the order ;

(c) shall remove himself from, and shall not return to, any area specified in the order ;

(d) shall conduct himself in such manner, abstain from such acts, or take such order with any property in his possession or under his control, as may be specified in the order.

This is exactly the power which might have been claimed by the Czar of Russia and by Nero of Rome, of olden days. But that the present Government with the Honourable Finance Member at its head should ask for such powers is beyond my comprehension. I know that the position in England is different from that of this country. The situation in both the countries is not the same. You do not find communalism there which you find here. But that is no justification for asking for these extraordinary powers. If my honourable friend had given the assurance that out of these five years the maximum punishment will be only for one year, and that after release of the person after one year's imprisonment he would not be re-arrested within a few hours, I would have supported the clause. On the other hand it is clear that the Government acting merely on executive authority can intern or extern a person and restrain him from using his property. If a person can be deprived of his property, how is he to support himself and his family ? Government does not give an assurance that it will support him and his family. If the bread winner is in jail 200 or 400 miles away from his home, how is his family to support itself ? It would have been fair if the Government had given an assurance that it will give allowances to him and his family. While the big Government officials draw big allowances of various sorts, no allowance is proposed to be given to these poor unfortunate victims of the Criminal Investigation Department reports, or their families. It is not fair to remove the wage earner from his home and deny any compensation for him and his family. Again when it is decided to give some compensation some principle must be followed. The amount of compensation must not be left to the sweet will of the executive. I therefore oppose the amendment, not because it is not necessary for Government to act swiftly—I concede that in some cases Government has to act swiftly—but because it is not provided in specific terms that Government should in duty bound provide financial aid to those who are interned and their dependents. This principle has been accepted in all civilised countries. I hope that some assurance will be forthcoming from the Government that no person imprisoned for one year will be re-arrested immediately after his release until his case has been put before some judicial officers and they have found him guilty. I agree that it is not sometimes desirable to have an open enquiry in their cases ; it is possible that some witnesses may not be forthcoming to give evidence in a public court ; but such evidence as is available must be placed before judicial officers as is done in Bengal and they will examine the case and only on the result of their examination of the case should such persons be re-arrested or imprisoned. I hope that the Honourable Finance Member will give the assurance that I have asked for. It does not mean that we have no confidence in the Government. Still we should like to hear what he has got to say and if he is not prepared to give the assurances, I will have to oppose the clause.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The honourable member appears to me to propose at least two amendments in his speech of which he has given no notice. I am, therefore, not prepared to consider them at all.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural) : I rise to oppose the whole clause. It is so ridiculous that it must not be accepted by any member of the Council. If the clause had been confined only to persons who acted or are acting, etc., there may not be much to oppose it; but it talks of persons 'about to act.' It is not possible at all to know how a person is going to act. The police is reputed for making mistakes in guessing how a person is going to act, and it is on such police report that Government has got to take action. I may perhaps here give an illustration of how the police make mistakes in apprehending the true criminals. There was a case of dacoity in Saroa village of the Hoshiarpur district. The police arrested some persons and by torturing a few of them forced them to make confessions which would suit the police case and after making them approvers got the other persons convicted. Later there was another dacoity in the Ambala district. The dacoits were caught and when investigation into this dacoity was made and trial held in the court, it was found that the same dacoits had committed the dacoity in the Hoshiarpur district and that those who were originally convicted were really innocent. But the courts were not in a position to release them and so the Governor had to intervene and to release them after they had undergone imprisonment for one year, by the use of his prerogative of mercy. I brought this matter out by means of a question in this Council and if any honourable member disagrees, I will ask him to see that question. When there is such a case in which the police made a successful case against innocent people, can there be any doubt about any man in the world when there are the words 'about to act' in the clause? In this way there will be no justice at all if this clause is allowed to remain. So unless the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill agrees to delete these words, not I alone but all the other elected members should oppose the clause. As there is no indication of a change I will oppose it. Again the punishments that are given are very severe. The man is to be confined to an area of which he is not an inhabitant. He may be confined in any area. This is too much. If you want to restrict the activities of a man, you can ask him to remain in an area but if you want to take him away from that area, as I submitted the other day, then he will carry on the agitation in that area and thereby you are spreading the agitation, the germs of disaffection throughout the Punjab. The other thing about this clause is, it says that the order will be served on the man and he will be asked to carry it out. The police officer goes to the man in the night at 2 o'clock and takes him away without giving him any time to prepare. Even during the Turkish revolution the insurgents gave a long time to the Sultan to get prepared. But here they give no time. The rules are very drastic. Is there any sort of French Revolution going on in the Punjab for us to make such drastic rules? They have made such a reckless use of this section in the past. Every time a misuse has been made. In the case of these four people, Maulana Zafar Ali, Sayad Habib, Lal Khan, and Khwaja Nazir Ahmad, an order was served and they were at once taken away. They send a warrant with the police and ask them to take away the men as if they were chattels. Generally these orders are served on big men. Ordinary men are sent to jail under ordinary law. I have never seen an ordinary man being served with a notice under this Act. This is intended for big men, I suppose. So we should think of their own safety and the safety of their relations. Otherwise what will a civilised Government think of the members of this Council? Do you think that if you send a report of these proceedings to other countries they will consider that we can have independent views? I oppose the whole clause.

Pir Akbar Ali (Ferozepore, Muhammadan, Rural): I rise to oppose the motion that the clause do stand part of the Bill. The clause as it stands now is so hard, is so much against the freedom and liberty of the people, that it will not bring a good name upon this Council if we pass it. Its past application shows that it has not been used at any time against the terrorists as so many times it has been used against peaceful and loyal subjects of the Government. Therefore, the past experience about the application of this Bill is sufficient to show that it will in future also be not used against terrorists. It will be used against peaceful and loyal subjects. Now that the new Councils are coming, the party in power may say, arrest that man and restrict him to certain areas. There are so many difficulties in the application of this clause that I warn the Council that they should not be a party to its passage. It does not require a lengthy speech when freedom and liberty of the people are in danger and therefore I oppose this motion.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan (Sialkot, Muhammadan, Rural): I stand up to oppose this clause being kept in the Bill on the following ground. The country wherefrom come the rulers of our country has a proverb "even the devil knoweth not the thoughts of man." But the Government want to give a power to the police, even to an ordinary constable, whereby they presume that he or anybody—even if he is not a head constable—would have the capacity to judge as to what thoughts are passing in the mind of a particular man.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: The powers rests with the local Government and not with anybody else.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan: I am sorry. Then the local Government presumes that it has the capacity to judge what the devil himself cannot judge, according to their own language. We do not presume to know the thoughts of man but according to this measure they presume to possess a power which I certainly do not admit they do possess. How can the Government know what a person is going to do and therefore in order to stop him from doing that, can they claim this power under this clause? I say that no human agency has any power to know what another human being is thinking of doing or what he is about to do. Under this clause again the Government want a power whereby they can restrict a man even from his lawful pursuits. Sub-clause (d) of this clause says, "shall conduct himself in such a manner, abstain from such acts, or take such order with any property in his possession or under his control, as may be specified in the order." So that, the local Government can even order a man not to eat. I know the Honourable the Finance Member will say, do you think that the local Government is going to do such a thing? It is not the question whether it is going to do such acts. The question is, can they under this provision, if they have those powers, do it or not? And I say that as the clause stands, they would possess such powers if it is passed and so long as no assurance is given to us by the Government that they will in a reasonable manner exercise the powers given to them under this clause, we should not as representatives of the people sitting here let this clause go by and be put on the statute book. I, therefore, oppose this clause.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural): It was only yesterday that I supported the general principles of the Bill, but I find that this clause gives very wide, vague and arbitrary powers to the executive government. In the beginning I wanted to ask a question as to whether the phrase 'or is about to do' will be omitted or not from the clause. Now I find that this has given me an occasion to say something on this clause. As I have said it gives very wide powers to the Government. Government should also be very reasonable in its attitude. As has been said by my predecessor, how is it possible for the Government or the executive to know what is passing in one's mind? According to the Muslim religion it is only God who can know it.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: There are preventive sections which you know of in other Acts.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan: If the words "or is about to act," are omitted, I am prepared to support the clause. I must congratulate the Government in possessing its officers who have such psychological knowledge of the human mind that they can read what is passing in people's minds. But it is difficult, if not impossible, to do that. As was said by Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq, if people are to be deported or interned, there should be some sort of provision for the maintenance of their families and there should be some sort of procedure by which the information supplied to the executive government is sifted by independent and impartial judges, may be a sessions judge or a judge of the High Court. If the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill is prepared to omit or delete the words 'or about to act', then I am prepared to support the Bill.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq (Hoshiarpur-cum-Ludhiana, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I feel the necessity of inviting the attention of the House to an important point. I think the Government is under the impression that the working of the 1932 Act has revealed no case calling for the proposed action, and I feel that many of the honourable members of this House are also inclined to share the Government's views. I have stood up to lay before the House the case of an unfortunate person who was a victim of the repression of this Act. One Bishan Singh was ordered by the Delhi Government to leave the town of Delhi. He proceeded to Lahore but authorities here ordered him to reside in Rawalpindi. Then the authorities in Rawalpindi had a notice served on him ordering him not to go beyond the Rawalpindi municipal limits without permission. The poor fellow had no means of subsistence in Rawalpindi; therefore he sought permission to go to his native place and be interned there. He wrote that if that request could not be acceded to he should be given some allowance at least. After full three months of patient waiting he received the reply of the Government that neither could he be interned in his native place nor could he get an allowance. Then the unfortunate person tried to find some work to make a living but he could not find any within the municipal limits of Rawalpindi. After that he sought permission for going to the cantonment which is at a mile's distance from the city. Most probably, he hoped to find work there. But the Government did not even accede to this ordinary request. When the unfortunate wretch found himself face to face with starvation, he hit upon the desperate plan of courting imprisonment and have the satisfaction of jail food. He left Rawalpindi and went over to the cantonment. He was tried for breaking the internment order and sentenced to one year's imprisonment. When he came out of jail after serving this full term of imprisonment he received an order of the authorities that he should not leave the municipal limits of Rawalpindi without permission. Now, is it fair on the part of any Government to treat in this way people who incur their displeasure? The poor fellow was neither interned in his home district nor was he given any allowance. He was forbidden from earning his livelihood at a place at a distance of barely one mile from the place of his internment. One cannot imagine a more tyrannical attitude on the part of the Government. Although I have no interest in this Bill whatsoever, yet I wish that some change should be made in the proposed Act making certain arrangements for the subsistence of the people interned. I would not permit a statement that such things have never taken place, go unchallenged. I want to impress upon the Honourable Member to dispel this illusion from his mind that the Government has never used its power in an objectionable way. I have given notice of certain questions on this point and I may get some answer one of these days but on the basis of the information which is at present at my disposal I see no reason why Government should be given such vast powers and for all time to come. I want to urge that the behaviour of the Government in not allowing any subsistence for a person and then sending him to prison and serving a new notice on him soon after his release has been most objectionable. They ought to have allowed the person to proceed home and if he had behaved in a suspicious and objectionable manner he may have been arrested after, say, four or five days. But the Government gave him no opportunity to show that he would be law-abiding in future and arrested him and interned him without any rhyme or reason. The Government ought to have made sure that the activities of the released person were likely to be detrimental to the public peace and tranquillity before passing new orders for his internment. I know we are too weak to deny the Government these drastic powers which are demanded by it but I want to make this clear that the Government has certainly been very harsh upon some people in the past and it is useless trying to blink the facts.

Mr. J. D. Anderson (Legal Remembrancer): May I beg to say a few words with respect to the point made by the honourable member from Sialkot. He said that this Bill placed a very grave responsibility on the Government of the day in as much as the Government was given powers to take action before any specific act was committed by the person against whom action was taken. I admit that the responsibility of necessity is great and such action is not lightly to be taken. But in the course of this debate I have at times seen a tendency to judge this Bill as if it were a thing by itself. Its very title shows that it is nothing of the kind. It is a measure to amend the criminal law of the country and it is far better to judge this Bill as a part of that criminal law and in the light of the rest of the criminal law. If one considers all the powers Government already has to exercise in the whole corpus of the criminal law of the province, I think one gets a far more just opinion of this measure than if one treats it by itself. I ask the House to consider such a provision of law as section 151 of the Criminal Procedure Code. This is an old provision of law and it runs as follows :—

“ A police officer knowing of a design to commit any cognizable offence may arrest without orders from a magistrate and without a warrant the person so designing, if it appears to such officer that the commission of the offence cannot be otherwise prevented.”

Pir Akbar Ali : But the very next paragraph shows that he has to proceed within 24 hours to produce him before a magistrate.

Mr. J. D. Anderson : That is quite true but that is not my point. My point is that the law contemplates and must contemplate the power of arrest even by a police constable and if a police constable can come to the conclusion of that kind how much more then either this Government or the future Government which is to bear sway in this province. Then I will ask you also to consider section 144. There too the magistrate has in the exercise of his judgment to consider taking action before the people against whom he acts have taken action.

Pir Akbar Ali : Then there is no necessity for this section when there is already a provision for that purpose.

Mr. J. D. Anderson : I am not talking about the necessity of the section at all. I am talking about the principle. My honourable friend talked of the principle. It is to that I am trying to reply. I do venture to say that if one were to observe the sense of proportion about this Bill, it is necessary to take in the whole text (hear, hear).

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu) : I have been trying for the last three days to speak on this Bill but somehow or other I have not been able to obtain your permission to address the House. Two things have struck me as very novel. First, the Government is trying hard to make repressive laws to end the present agitation, but it has not given a moment's thought as to why this agitation was set in motion. Secondly, the Government is well known for its tendencies to anglicize everything in this country. The use of English made articles of daily use is encouraged ; cloth manufactured in English factories is popularized and even the cut of the clothes is preferred to be English. But the laws which the Government proposes for this unfortunate country have not the least resemblance to those promulgated by the Government at Home. The laws selected by the Government for promulgation in this country are typically desi. (Laughter). My honourable friend Khan Bahadur Mian Mushtaq Ahmad Gurmani has lent his support to this Bill. I know he is very fond of English fashions. He has put on an English suit. He likes everything liked by white men. I ask why a white law should not be preferred for this country and why a black Bill should be moved in this Council. (Laughter). I am really very sorry to note that nobody has tried to go to the root of this agitation, but repressive laws are being proposed to bring it to an end.

Mr. President : The honourable member is irrelevant.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : I want to urge, that if the root cause of the present agitation is found out and a remedy suggested thereto, the necessity for incorporating a clause like clause 3 will disappear as a matter of course. The restrictions proposed in this clause are not even imposed by man on animals. The cultivator takes work from his bulls only for 12 hours and then lets them rest. Nay, even the plague rats are not subjected to the torture contemplated for men in this clause. They are put to death soon after they are caught and are not left to starve. But the victims of clause 3 of the proposed Bill will starve and nobody will come to their help. (Laughter). I venture to propose a remedy which will eliminate the necessity for incorporating clause 3 in this Bill. The root cause of the agitation is not that the people in any way are dissatisfied with the present Government. On the other hand they think that it is due to the presence of the English people that comparative peace is maintained in this country. If the English people had left this country we would have fought amongst ourselves and perished. Then what is our grievance against the Government? It is this. Last time the Bill was passed mainly by Muslim votes. Now when the Muslim support is lacking the Government has joined hands with the Sikhs.

Mr. President : The honourable member is again irrelevant. Will he please speak to the motion under consideration?

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Now the Government is desirous of seeing the end of the present agitation and that with the help of the Sikhs.

Mr. President : The honourable member is again irrelevant.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : This law is meant to deal with the political offences. The Government should take steps to find out the root cause of political unrest. For instance, compare the daily earnings of an Indian labourer with those of an English labourer.

Mr. President : The honourable member is again irrelevant.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : It is the fundamental principle of law that an innocent person should not be allowed to be punished, although it may involve hundreds of guilty persons escaping punishment. But this law will not give any opportunity to people of establishing their innocence. To crown all, the Government will be in a position to give or deny the means of subsistence to the victims of this law. I want to ask Government if they are now legislating for human beings.

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : I do not propose to waste the time of the House for long. Some honourable members have raised the question of the payment of allowances to persons who under section 8 are either externed from a particular place or interned in a particular place. Government can give no assurance that whatever the circumstances, whatever the conditions of any particular case, an allowance will be paid to a person who has been externed from or interned in a particular place. Some of these persons are in receipt of allowances and some are not. The House may be interested to know that all those who have been dealt with under section 3 in connection with the Shahidganj agitation, all except one, and he is interned in his own home, are in receipt of allowances. If they are not receiving this allowance or complain of the amount, as I sometimes read in the papers, they know to whom to apply, and that is to the deputy commissioner of the district where they are confined who will, and has instructions to, forward the case for the consideration of Government.

Mr. President : Question is—

That clause 3 as amended stand part of the Bill.

Clauses 4 and 5.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clauses 4 and 5 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 6.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural) : I beg to move—

That in clause 6, sub-clause (2), lines 2 and 3 the words ' notwithstanding that it is held in a private place and ' be omitted.

If this expression is allowed to stand it will mean that no person will be at liberty to hold any private, domestic, religious ceremonies in his own house, nor will he be able to invite his relations and friends for any ceremonial occasions. I therefore think that these words should be omitted from this clause.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That in clause 6, sub-clause (2), lines 2 and 3, the words ' notwithstanding that it is held in a private place and ' be omitted.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member) : I only wish to point out that the honourable member has obviously omitted reference to sub-clause (1) of this clause. It says ; " public meeting " means a meeting which is open to the public or to any class or portion of the public. There is no question of a private marriage party or a party of any kind ; it must be open to the public or to any class such as the Arya Samaj or an Anjuman. It does not apply to a family at all.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan : Then I beg for leave to withdraw the amendment.

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 6 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 7.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural) : I beg to move—

In clause 7, last line, the words ' constables or men ' be substituted for the word ' officers ' after the word ' police. '

This is only a sort of verbal substitution of the words ' constables or men ' for the word ' officers. ' To say that a head constable may be accompanied by a police officer would be rather anomalous.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

In clause 7, last line, the words 'constables or men' be substituted for the word 'officers' after the word 'police.'

Mr. J. D. Anderson (Legal Remembrancer) : May I point out to the honourable member that the expression 'police officers' includes constables and men. I invite his attention to section 4, sub-section 1 (p) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. In that the words occur ; "A police officer present at the station house who is next in rank to such officer and is above the rank of constable——"

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan : I know that. It does not read well if you put down the word 'officer' after the words 'sub-inspector' or 'inspector.'

Mr. J. D. Anderson : It is the usual language. I assure the honourable member that there is no need for an amendment.

Mr. President : The question is—

In clause 7, last line the words 'constables or men' be substituted for the word 'officers' after the word 'police'.

The motion was lost.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 7 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 8.

Mr. J. D. Anderson (Legal Remembrancer) : I beg to move—

That in clause 8, line 8, the words 'neglects to comply with, or' be omitted.

I trust that no member of the House will oppose this amendment which seems to me necessary to remove a most tyrannical provision of the present Act. If you read clause 8 with clause 7, you will see that a district magistrate is authorised to appoint by order in writing any person to attend a public meeting to take down a report. According to clause 8 if such a person neglects to comply with that order, the district magistrate may take such action as he thinks necessary to give effect to this order. I venture to suggest that this provision of law is both drastic in the extreme and altogether unnecessary in practice. I move my amendment.

Mr. President : The question is—

That in clause 8, line 8, the words 'neglects to comply with, or' be omitted.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 8 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 9.

Mr. J. D. Anderson (Legal Remembrancer) : I beg to move—

That in clause 9, sub-clause (b), line 1, the words 'neglects to comply with, or' be omitted.

The Bill as it stands drafted in the terms of the Act already in force is exceedingly drastic. If a district magistrate calls any member of the public to report the proceedings of a meeting and that member fails to comply with the order he can be sent to jail for six months. The provision is too drastic to be of any practical use. I move the amendment.

Mr. President : The question is—

That in clause 9, sub-clause (b), line 1, the words 'neglects to comply with, or' be omitted.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 9 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 10.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan (Sheikhupura, Muhammadan, Rural) : I beg to move—

That in clause 10, sub-clause (2), lines 7 and 8, the words 'or rent of agricultural land or anything recoverable as arrears of or along with such rent' be omitted.

If I understand this aright it means that this sentence or part of this clause gives power to a private landlord to have his rent recovered through the machinery of this Act. If that is so, then it takes away practically the powers of the revenue court, and I do not see any reason why the Government should help an ordinary landlord or a proprietor to recover his rent under the machinery of this Act. It is all very well if these powers are given to Government or local bodies to recover dues, but I do not see any reason why this power should be conferred upon ordinary landlords or proprietors.

That in clause 10, sub-clause (2), lines 7 and 8, the words 'or rent of agricultural land or anything recoverable as arrears of or along with such rent' be omitted.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural) : I want to oppose the amendment for this simple reason. When extraordinary powers have been given under the Act to realise a notified liability which is due to Government, why should not that condition be also applied in the case of zamindars for their rent? As I spoke yesterday in this connection, non-payment of rent is more detrimental to private landlords or land-owners than it is to Government, if their dues are not paid. The resources of Government are more comprehensive and the Government is richer than the ordinary man and can carry on if its dues are not paid, but imagine the case of the ordinary zamindar. If his rents are withheld I do not know what his position will be. He will be driven, as I have said before, to a life of starvation and unless we save the zamindar who is the backbone of the province, it will be very hard for us to maintain the condition of society which exists in the province to-day. Moreover clause 13, sub-clause (2) in a way, I think, allows the man to have recourse either to the ordinary law of the land or to the law provided under this act, and if he moves the machinery of law under sub-clause (1), it is only then that these extraordinary provisions come into force. As the necessity for realisation of liabilities due to a private land-owner is greater than in the case of liabilities due to Government I would press that these words should be retained in the section as proposed.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member) : Perhaps I might explain the meaning of the words which the mover of the amendment wishes to delete. I think the meaning has not been entirely appreciated. As I said in moving the motion for consideration, this Bill is aimed at subversive movements, such as civil disobedience, terrorism, communism and the cult of communalism when it becomes subversive. These particular words are aimed at a no-rent campaign of a general nature. They have nothing to do, at least they are not intended for the realisation of rent due to one landlord or to another landlord. The clause is meant to apply to a general no-rent campaign which has already been part, and an important part, of a very definite subversive movement. The clause would never be used by Government except against subversive movements including the no-rent campaign.

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan : I beg for leave to withdraw the amendment.

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 10 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clauses 11, 12 and 13.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clauses 11, 12 and 13 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clauses 14 to 18.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clauses 14 to 18 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Preamble.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the preamble be the preamble of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 1, sub-clause (1).

Mr. President : The question is—

That sub-clause (1) of clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Mr. J. D. Anderson : I request you to exercise your power under Standing Order 50 and appoint a drafting committee to go through the Bill to see what amendments of a formal and consequential character should be made in the Bill.

Mr. President : As this Bill was not referred to a select committee I have no power to nominate the Deputy President or one of the panel of chairmen to serve on the drafting committee.

Mr. J. D. Anderson : The committee may consist of the remaining members mentioned in the Standing Order.

Mr. President : Under article 94 of our Business Manual I direct that the Bill be examined by a committee consisting of the Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd and Mr. J. D. Anderson, the Legal Remembrancer and a report submitted by the 11th November as to what amendments of a formal or consequential character should be made in the Bill as a matter of drafting.

THE PUNJAB CONTROL OF PUBLIC UTILITY SERVICES BILL.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member) : I beg to introduce the Punjab Control of Public Utility Services Bill and to move—

That the Punjab Control of Public Utility Services Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon.

The statement of objects and reasons gives the reasons for the introduction of this legislation sufficiently. At this stage I have only one thing to say. I saw in a newspaper, the Tribune I think it was, a statement that this Bill was totally unnecessary because the Government could do with the aid of section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code what it proposed to do under the present Bill. As most of the members may be aware the difficulty that arose between the Lahore Electric Supply Co., and the municipality was overcome by the use of section 144, but we have no final ruling with regard to this solution of the problem. Until we are certain that we can use section 144 for the purpose for which it was used last time, it would be unwise to let things drift merely trusting to luck. We might possibly be confronted again—I do not think it is likely—with a similar situation and the lighting and water supply of the city might be at stake. I think it therefore proper to introduce this Bill. At the same time I should like to ascertain what the public opinion generally is about this Bill and I therefore move that it be circulated for eliciting opinion.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab Control of Public Utility Services Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon.

The motion was carried.

THE PUNJAB MUNICIPAL (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang (Minister for Local Self-Government) : I beg to introduce the Punjab Municipal (Amendment) Bill and to move—

That the Punjab Municipal (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

As the honourable members might have observed this is a very short Bill. It consists of only four clauses three of which only are effective. There is one provision of special importance to municipalities and it is this. Some time ago we received a letter from the Government of India that section 51 of the Municipal Act or a part of it was ultra vires and when the Act was amended in 1933 we had to omit a part of the section. Subsequently the matter came up for consideration and we pointed out that the letter of the Government of India went too far. We succeeded in convincing the Government of India that they had gone too far in their letter. They have agreed that the section which had been omitted in consequence of their letter might be restored. That is one part of the Bill. The other important clause relates to the amendment of section 16. Under section 14 (e) the seat of any member of a municipal committee can be vacated by Government by an executive order without giving any reasons. If this is done a disqualification is imposed on the member vacating the seat. It is not considered fair that such a disqualification should be imposed on all members. (An honourable member : What is section 14 (e) ?) Section 14 (e) reads—

“The seat of any specified member, whether elected or appointed, shall be vacated on a given date, and in such case, such seat shall be vacated accordingly, notwithstanding anything in this Act or in the rules made thereunder.”

Section 16 provides that disqualification would ensue if a member's seat is thus vacated. In certain cases it is not proper that disqualification should be imposed. Therefore section 16 is sought to be amended.

The other amendment, in clause 4, is a very minor one and it is intended to “provide for the registration, inspection and proper regulation of buildings ordinarily utilized for the residence or treatment of persons suffering from infectious diseases, and for the limiting of the number of such persons who reside in such buildings or part of such buildings”. Thus the Bill is a very simple one and I do not think it necessary to waste the time of the Council by referring it to a select committee and then bringing it up for consideration. I expect the House would proceed with the consideration of the Bill immediately.

Mr. President : Motion moved—

That the Punjab Municipal (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar city, Muhammadan, Urban) This clause 16 (2) is like the Criminal Law (Amendment) Bill which has just now been considered. Government is asking power to disqualify a person for 5 years in certain cases. I do not see why the Government should be given power to disqualify a person who has done nothing to deserve this punishment. (Interruption.) I know my friend is making the present provision less severe, but I want him to go further and not leave it to the Government at all to have that power. I appeal to him to bring in an amendment so that the Government should have no power to debar a man unless the man has committed an offence. Under section 14 (e) a man may be disqualified even if his form was wrong and Government may not remove the disqualification against his name. He will say, depend upon common sense. But sometimes common sense disappears. Only recently there was a case in Amritsar where a petition for setting aside an election was filed. The magistrate disqualified a person, and that man would have been damned for at least 5 years, but the Honourable Minister upset that decision. Of course there was no appeal; probably the minister read the whole file and that man was saved. The present amendment is much better than the clause as it stands. But I want my friend to go further and in future no Minister should be allowed to disqualify a person unless it is proved that he has committed something against election rules. You know the results of the party system. So my request to him is, examine the rules again and see that they are in conformity with the rules of the Punjab Legislative Council and the Legislative Assembly where only those people who have done corrupt acts which are specifically defined, are disqualified. I, however, whole heartedly support his amendment and other amendments which bring back to the municipality the revenue which used to come before.

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab Municipal (Amendment) Bill be taken into consideration at once.

The motion was carried.

Clause 1, sub-clause (2).

Mr. President : The Council will now proceed to consider the Bill clause by clause. The question is—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clauses 2, 3 and 4.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clauses 2, 3 and 4 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Preamble.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the preamble be the preamble of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 1, sub-clause (1).

Mr. President : The question is—

That sub-clause (1) of clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I move—

That the Punjab Municipal (Amendment) Bill be passed.

The motion was carried.

The Council then adjourned till 2 P. M. on Monday, 28th October 1935.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

LEASE OF LAND OF A STATUTORY AGRICULTURIST ON A DECREE FROM CIVIL COURTS.

*4687. Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please lay a statement on the table showing—

- (a) the total number of cases in which land of a statutory agriculturist was leased out in satisfaction of a decree from the civil courts in Jhang district from 1930 to 1934 ;
- (b) the amount of money which was suggested by the Collector in each case for the leased out land and the period in which the decreed amount was to be realised according to the Collector's recommendations ;
- (c) the actual amount and period in each case for which the civil courts subsequently leased out their lands ;
- (d) in how many cases these lands were leased out—
  - (i) to a member of the statutory agricultural tribe ;
  - (ii) to a non-agriculturist sahukar ;
  - (iii) to the decree-holder himself ;
- (e) in how many cases some portions of these lands were reserved for the maintenance of the statutory agriculturist judgment-debtor ;
- (f) in how many cases the lands were given out for the maximum period allowed for this purpose, i. e., twenty years ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) and (f) A statement is laid on the table.

(b), (c), (d) and (e) It is regretted that the information cannot be given because the labour involved in collecting it would not be commensurate with the results.

- (b) in how many cases the civil courts rejected the request of the creditors ;
- (c) in how many cases warrants of arrest were issued by the civil courts against the judgment-debtors belonging to the statutory agricultural tribes ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) 434.

(b) 264.

(c) 11.

This information is upto the 15th September, 1935.

SALE OR LEASE OF DATE TREES BELONGING TO STATUTORY AGRICULTURIST JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

*4691. Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state the number of cases from 1930 to 1934 in which the date trees of the judgment-debtors belonging to the statutory agricultural tribes of Jhang district were either sold or given on lease in satisfaction of decrees by the civil courts ?

METALLED ROADS.

*4692. Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the headquarters of Jhang district is not connected by means of metalled roads with the headquarters of the province ;
- (b) whether there was a proposal to connect it with Lyallpur and Lahore by constructing a pucca road from Jhang via Mochiwala and Thikriwala to Lyallpur ;
- (c) (1) whether the proposal has been suspended for the time being till the proposed re-classification scheme of roads is carried out by the Government ; (2) if so when the metalling of the above mentioned road will be taken in hand ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) There is a scheme under consideration for connecting up Lyallpur and Jhang via Mochiwala and Thikriwala by a metalled road.

(c) (1) No.

(2) The work is about to be started from Jhang end.

METALLED ROADS.

*4693. Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) whether the two headquarters of tahsils, namely, Chiniot and Shorkot, are not connected with the headquarters of Jhang district by metalled roads and the litigant public from the respective tahsils are put to great trouble and inconvenience in coming to the headquarters of the district ;
- (b) whether the Government is prepared to connect these tahsil headquarters with that of the district provided the District Board is also prepared to share the cost ;
- (c) whether it is also a fact that the District Board, Jhang, allotted Rs. 50,000 to start this work in connection with the Jhang-Chiniot road and they applied for grant-in-aid from the Government ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Government has postponed the consideration of a suitable grant to District Board, Jhang, on this account pending the result of the report of the proposed re-classification scheme ; if so, whether the Government is prepared to consider the claims of Jhang district in the re-classification scheme, and give Jhang a high place in that scheme ; if not why not ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) The two tahsil headquarters of Chiniot and Shorkot are not connected by a metalled road to the Jhang district headquarters. The decision of Government to metal any road is influenced to a far greater extent by the total volume of traffic that is likely to use it when it is metalled than by the convenience of litigants.

(b) The whole question of road development is being reviewed and if it is found that these two roads are economic necessities they will be included in the road development programme now being drawn up.

(c) Yes.

(d) The claims of Jhang will be considered along with other districts when the new road development programme is ready.

METALLED ROADS.

*4694. Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Government proposes to connect Jhang with Gojra by a metalled road ;

(b) (1) if so, when the actual construction of this road is to be taken in hand and (2) whether it is prepared to connect Jhang with Lyallpur by that route ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) There was a proposal to connect up Gojra and Jhang by a metalled road, which has been dropped.

(b) (1) Does not arise.

(2) Does not arise.

AUDIT NOTE REGARDING CYCLE ALLOWANCE OF SECRETARY,
MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, LUDHIANA.

*4699. Lala Bhagat Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly—

- (a) lay on the table the paragraph of audit note for 1933-34 relating to the cycle allowance of Secretary, Municipal Committee, Ludhiana ;
- (b) state whether it is a fact that the Secretary drew cycle allowance at the rate of Rs. 15 a month without the previous sanction of the Commissioner ;
- (c) state whether he did so with the knowledge of the Executive Officer, Municipal Committee, Ludhiana ;
- (d) state what action the committee has taken to recover the amount drawn by the Municipal Secretary without requisite sanction ;
- (e) state what action Government proposes to take against the official at fault ?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : (a) Copies of paragraph 16 of the Audit and Inspection Note on the accounts of the Municipal Committee of Ludhiana for the period October 1932 to September 1933 and of the relevant sub-paragraph of paragraph 1 of the Note for the period October 1933 to March 1934, are laid on the table.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) The amount is being recovered by instalments of Rs. 5 per mensem.

(e) The attention of the officer concerned has been drawn to the irregularity.

Copy of paragraph 16 of the Audit and Inspection Note, Municipal Committee Accounts, Ludhiana, for the period October 1932 to September 1933.

16. Secretary's Cycle allowance.—It has been decided by the Punjab Government that the rate of allowance for the up-keep of cycle should not exceed Rs. 5 per mensem in case of superior and Rs. 4 per mensem, in that of inferior servants,—vide Secretary to Government, Punjab, Finance Department, letter No. 18839 (Finl.—Genl.), dated 12th July, 1933. The Secretary is, however, still in receipt of a cycle allowance of Rs. 10 per mensem. The question of reducing the Secretary's cycle allowance as such should be considered by the Committee in view of Government orders quoted above.

Copy of sub-paragraph 16 of paragraph 1 of the Audit and Inspection Note, Municipal Committee Accounts, Ludhiana, for the period October 1933 to March 1934.

16. The rate of cycle allowance of the Secretary was found to have not been reduced to that fixed by the Punjab Government. Instead of doing so the Committee passed a resolution for the grant of a conveyance allowance at Rs. 15 per mensem to him, and the same was paid to the Secretary even in anticipation of the Commissioner's sanction. This was irregular. As the Commissioner has now refused to sanction the payment of conveyance allowance to the Secretary the amount paid in excess should be recovered from him.

FEES IN THE MEDICAL SCHOOL, AMRITSAR.

*4700. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the fees in the Medical School, Amritsar, have been increased ;
 (b) if so, to what extent ;
 (c) whether the fees were increased under orders of Government or by the Principal of the Medical School, Amritsar, without reference to Government ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes, so far as students admitted from 1935 are concerned.

(b) The fees have been raised and work out as follows :—

EXECUTIVE OFFICER, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, LUDHIANA.

*4703. Chaudhri Afzal Haq : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please lay on the table, in case it has been forwarded to him, the Urdu pamphlet entitled "Irregularities committed by the Executive Officer, Ludhiana Municipal Committee" by Khwaja Muhammad Azam, Municipal Commissioner, Ludhiana, and state what action he has taken or contemplates to take thereon?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments): No such pamphlet has been received.

KHAN SAHIB DR. NOOR MUHAMMAD, NOMINATED MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONER, LUDHIANA.

*4704. Chaudhri Afzal Haq : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please lay on the table a copy of the petition, dated the 25th June, 1935, addressed to the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government by Khwaja Muhammad Akram, Municipal Commissioner, Ludhiana, regarding the infringement of municipal laws by Khan Sahib Dr. Noor Muhammad, nominated Municipal Commissioner, Ludhiana, and state what action he has taken thereon?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments): A copy of the petition is laid on the table. The petition was considered, and it was decided that sufficient cause had not been shown for the removal of this member from the Committee, but the Commissioner has been asked to consider the complaints made against him if an occasion arises again for his re-appointment.

Copy of a petition, dated the 25th June, 1935, from Khwaja Muhammad Akram, Municipal Commissioner, Ludhiana, to the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government, Punjab.

I most humbly and respectfully beg to state that previously I had brought to your notice and to the notice of the local authorities the conduct of Khan Sahib Dr. Noor Muhammad, a nominated member of the Ludhiana Municipal Committee, but so far no tangible result has been communicated to me. The said Municipal Commissioner boasts of his being a nominated member of the Government and is emboldened on this account by taking steps and doing actions contrary to the spirit of Municipal bye-laws because of the fact that no serious action has been taken against the said Member in spite of the fact that the Ludhiana Municipal Committee had unanimously passed a resolution requesting the Government to take action to disqualify the said Municipal Commissioner.

As far as my information goes the Local Offices are not going to take any action against the said Member. Only recently he has commenced to build the upper storey on a stable in Mohalla

[ Mr. W. G. Bradford. ]

Iqbal Ganj without due sanction. The stable was built contrary to the sanctioned plan. This fact was brought to the notice of the Executive Officer, Municipal Committee, Ludhiana, but so far he has not taken any action against Khan Sahib Dr. Noor Muhammad. In other cases also in which transgression of the Municipal rules were made, legal notices were duly served on said Khan Sahib but afterwards up till now no further action has been taken against said Khan Sahib (due period for each notice having elapsed since last six months).

I have had to submit this application direct to you because I see no good to move the Deputy Commissioner, because no action will be taken on my request as have been the fates of my previous requests. I would demand justice at the hands of the British Government and do not wish that certain favours to the favourites of the Government may be shown disregarding the prestige of law and dignity of the Crown. I, therefore, knock at your door with the request that you will be pleased to send for all the connected files and see for yourself whether my complaints are quite justified or otherwise.

As far as I understand a dodge is being played in all these cases simply to evade taking action against the said nominated member and to allow the period, now remaining, pass unblemished.

I would in the end request you to take immediate action on my this request so that the nominated member, mentioned above, may be dealt with suitably and it may set an example for others.

DETENTION OF SUSPECTS IN THANA.

*4705. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state whether it is a fact that in the Hissar district suspects are usually kept in the thanas without any record of the fact of such detention being kept ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Two cases of this nature came to notice recently in the Hissar district, but Government have no reason to think that the abuse is common. In the two particular cases judicial and departmental proceedings have been initiated against the police officers concerned.

CORRUPTION AND BRIBERY IN THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

*4706. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that complaints to the effect that corruption and bribery are rampant in the Hissar district in the Police Department and that police station, Hansi, is notorious for the same, have been made to the Deputy Inspector-General and Inspector-General of Police, and also that the Hissar Bar represented the matter to His Lordship the Chief Justice on the occasion of his visit to Hissar ;

(b) whether Government proposes to take any steps to eradicate the evil from the Police Department of the Hissar district ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) A number of complaints of bribery and corruption on the part of the police in the Hissar district have been received by the Superintendent of Police and the Deputy Inspector-General during the last twelve months. These have all been investigated but in only four cases, none of which related to the Hansi police station, does there appear to have been any basis at all for the allegations. It is also understood that some members of the Hissar Bar made representations in the matter to the Honourable the Chief Justice when he visited Hissar.

(b) Searching enquiries are made into every allegation of corruption, and drastic disciplinary action is taken in every proved case.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST POLICE OFFICIALS.

*4707. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) how many complaints were filed against police officials in the Hissar district during the year 1934-35 ;
- (b) how many of them were sent to the Superintendent of Police for investigation ;
- (c) in how many cases the Superintendent of Police admitted the correctness of the complaints ;
- (d) in how many of these complaints conviction resulted ;
- (e) the reasons for the failure of nearly all the complaints ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) 24.

(b) 22.

(c) 1.

(d) None.

(e) It is understood that some of the cases are still pending in the courts. In the case of those complaints which have been dismissed, the reasons for dismissal are to be found in the magistrate's orders.

CORRUPTION IN POLICE DEPARTMENT.

*4708. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state the number of policemen of thanas of Hissar district who have been transferred during the last three years including 1935, from the thanas or against whom departmental cases have been started because of the allegation of corruption of the thana, dereliction of duty and want of discipline ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Since the beginning of 1933 departmental proceedings for alleged corruption, neglect of duty or want of discipline have been taken against 7 sub-inspectors, 15 head constables and 81 foot constables belonging to police stations in the Hissar district. No police officers have been transferred as the result of such charges during the period.

BHIWANI MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE.

*4709. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether any petitions from the voters of Bhiwani Municipal Committee have been received by the Government through the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar, or the Commissioner of Ambala division, for taking action under Section 16-F of the Punjab Municipal Act against any of the sitting members of the committee ;
- (b) if so, against whom and what action has been taken by the Government ?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

JARANWALA SMALL TOWN COMMITTEE.

*4710. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) the total population of Jaranwala town in the Lyallpur district community-wise ;
- (b) the proportion of Muslim voters to non-Muslim voters at present in the Small Town Committee ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the Government proposed in 1930 to change the Small Town Committee into a municipality ;
- (d) if so, the reasons for not translating that proposal into action ;
- (e) how many wards were proposed by the Government ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the Small Town Committee accepted the proposals of the Government ;
- (g) if so, why the Government have not accepted those proposals and acted according to them ;
- (h) whether he will place on the table of the Council the correspondence which passed between his office and that of Deputy Commissioner's and the committee ?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

INTERMEDIATE ARTS COLLEGES.

*4711. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) the name and date of affiliation of each Intermediate Arts College in the province managed by private societies, from 1915 to 1934 ;
- (b) the particulars of endowment fund for the purpose of meeting the recurring expenses as required by the University of the Punjab at the time of affiliation and the nature or amount of endowment handed over by the founders of different colleges to the trustees or managing committee from time to time for the said purpose concerning each such college, from 1915 to 1934 ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The names and date of affiliation of Intermediate Arts Colleges in the province managed by private societies from 1915 to 1934 are given below :—

|   |      |
|---|------|
| 1. D. A.-V. College, Rawalpindi .. ..                         | 1920 |

| 8. M. A. O. College, Amritsar .. ..                           | 1933 |

(b) Up to the year 1929 there were no definite rules for the endowment of institutions except the provision contained in (g) of clause 21 of the Indian Universities Act, 1904, printed at page 84 of the University Calendar for 1934-35. In May 1929 the Syndicate framed certain rules on this subject, copy of which is placed on the table. The only college affiliated after that is the M. A. O. College, Amritsar, which in addition to all the necessary buildings, etc., had about Rs. 38,000 in reserve. Of late the policy of the Syndicate has been to insist on a reserve fund of Rs. 50,000 in the case of non-Government intermediate colleges in addition to the buildings required. But each case is considered on its own merits and the Syndicate has to satisfy itself as regards the financial stability of the institutions including the amount and nature of endowment and other property including necessary buildings.

UNIVERSITY OF THE PUNJAB.

Rules for the Endowment of Institutions.

I. Every institution founded by individual donors should have such an endowment of properties (moveable or immovable) of which the normal annual income including fees is sufficient to meet in full its annual current expenses. It is understood that the grounds, buildings, furniture and other initial equipment of the institution would be in addition.

II. The following basic conditions for a trust deed must be observed :—

- (1) That the Founder of the Trust is the sole absolute owner of the property endowed.
- (2) That the trust is created by a regularly registered deed.
- (3) That the Founder permanently and unequivocally divests himself, his heirs and executors, of all interest in the property endowed.
- (4) That the endowed property is made to vest permanently and absolutely in the Trustees collectively for the purposes of the Trust.
- (5) That the Board of Trustees consists of at least five members of whom at least 3 are independent persons who are not in any way related to or dependent upon the Founder of the trust.
- (6) That in case of future vacancies in the Board nominations are made by the Board and not by the Founder alone, and such nominations are forthwith reported to the Syndicate.
- (7) That all buildings included in the Trust are sufficiently insured against fire.
- (8) That copies of the proceedings of the Board and a statement of the annual income and expenditure of the Trust is supplied to the Syndicate.

Rules regarding Trustees are not applicable to colleges whose management is vested in societies registered under a Government Act.

INTERMEDIATE ARTS COLLEGES.

*4712. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased—

- (a) to lay on the table a list of private Intermediate Arts Colleges managed by private societies ;
- (b) to state the number of students in the first and second year classes in the years 1932 and 1934 ;
- (c) to state the income from fee for the first and second years in 1932 and 1934 ;
- (d) to state the number of professors with their qualifications and monthly bill of pay as recurring expenses for each college approximately for both the classes for the said period ;
- (e) to state the number of students living in boarding house for both classes in 1932—1934 with the rate of boarding fee (monthly) ;
- (f) to state whether it is a fact that the above or similar statistics were collected by the Punjab University Enquiry Committee, 1932-33, if so, for which year ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) to (e) A statement giving the requisite information is laid on the table.

(f) Yes ; similar statistics were collected by the Punjab University Enquiry Committee for the year 1932-33.

[Hon. Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon.]

NOTE.—In many of the above cases the convictions were on charges under other section<sup>s</sup> of the Code, as well as under the sections here particularly mentioned.

REVISION OF PAY.

*4715. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether he has made any announcement in pursuance of his statement in the last session of the Council regarding the revision of grades of pay of new entrants to the Government service ;
- (b) if not, the cause of this delay and when he proposes to make the said announcement ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) No : the Punjab Government have considered the rates of pay for Class I and Class II Services and certain other posts and in some cases the new rates have been applied ; but no announcement can be made till the rules for the application of the new rates are determined. These rules have been referred to the Government of India.

PRISONERS.

*4716. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state the total number of prisoners in the Punjab jails in A, B and C classes, respectively, on 30th June, 1935 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd :

TEACHERS IN PHYSICS.

*4717. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that posts of teachers in Physics fell vacant at the Government Intermediate College, Pasrur, and at the Government College, Hoshiarpur, towards the end of 1934 ;
- (b) to whom the post in the Government Intermediate College, Hoshiarpur, was offered in the first instance ;
- (c) whether he accepted it or declined it ; if the latter, on what grounds ;
- (d) whether he has accepted the post elsewhere ;
- (e) to whom the post at Hoshiarpur was then offered and for what period it has been lying vacant ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) It is not in the interests of the public service to disclose names in answers of this nature.

(c) Some of the candidates declined the offer because the pay offered was not acceptable to them.

(d) Government is not aware of the fact that any of the candidates has accepted a post elsewhere.

I must confess I have failed to realize the object underlying this question.

PROVINCIAL EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4718. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) how many persons have been promoted to Provincial Educational Service, Class I permanent, since 1st March, 1931 ;
- (b) how many of them are Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs and what their qualifications are and for how long they had served the Department before promotion to Provincial Educational Service, Class I ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 11 (8 permanent and 3 officiating).

- (b) 4 Muslims.
- 2 Sikhs.
- 3 Hindus.
- 1 European.
- 1 Christian.

For their qualifications and length of service the honourable member is referred to the history of gazetted officers which is in the Council Library. It may, however, be added for the honourable member's information that promotions to the Punjab Educational Service (Class I) are made strictly by selection and on the recommendation of the Public Service Commission,—vide rule 6 of the Punjab Educational Service (Class I) Rules, a copy of which is placed in the Council Library. If the honourable member's object in asking this question was to show that Hindus had not received their due share I hope he will now realize that three Hindus against four Muslims goes to show that if in accordance with his line of thought promotions were to be decided merely on communal consideration in future a much larger number of Muslims than Hindus should receive promotions.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable Minister please name the Sikhs who have been promoted to Class I ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I require notice for this question.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

*4719. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware of the fact that in the Education Department in the Central Provinces all the teachers in Government Colleges are in grades of Rs. 144—7—200 and in the United Provinces in the grade of Rs. 150—10—300 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that a similar proposal was made by a committee of principals of the Punjab colleges in 1928 ; if so, what steps he proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The information received from the two provinces does not support the facts as stated by the honourable member. It will, however, interest the honourable member to know that the teachers employed in Government colleges in this province are on the whole better paid and have better prospects than those employed in the two provinces mentioned by the honourable member, even if the figures given by him were accepted as accurate. There are at present in colleges—

- 16 posts in the I. E. S. and P. E. S., Class I.
- 66 posts in the P. E. S., Class II.
- 48 posts in Rs. 200—10—250 grade.
- 70 posts in Rs. 140—10—190 grade, and only
- 40 in the two lower grades of the Anglo-Vernacular section of the Subordinate Educational Service (38 in Rs. 110—5—135 grade and two in Rs. 80—4—100 grade).

(b) Yes. A proposal for a similar time-scale was made in 1928, but it was not approved by my predecessor.

PROMOTION OF TEACHERS.

*4720. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) how many senior vernacular teachers have been promoted to the posts of vernacular teachers because of their passing either Munshi Fazil or Maulvi Fazil, or Maulvi Alim Examination within the last five years in the Education Department, Punjab ;
- (b) if senior vernacular teachers passing Oriental Title Examination supersede others in regard to promotion, why Shastri Oriental teachers holding corresponding titles are deprived of their legitimate promotion ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) It is not quite clear what the honourable member means. The Senior Vernacular teachers cannot obviously be promoted to the posts of vernacular teachers. If by 'vernacular teachers' the honourable member means 'classical teachers' then the answer is 'nil', for the classical and vernacular teachers are now recruited in the same initial grade.

(b) For the principles of promotion applicable to the Classical and Vernacular Section of the Subordinate Educational Service the honourable member is referred to my answer to part (a) of question No. *2825<sup>1</sup> asked by Shrimati Lekhwati Jain in the budget session of 1934. The reason why no Shastri has received special promotion is that none so far has become eligible for such promotion under the rules.

SANSKRIT TEACHERS.

*4721. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) how many Hindi teachers with Sanskrit qualifications have been promoted to the posts of Sanskrit teachers on the retirement of the latter ; if not, why not ;
- (b) how many Sanskrit teachers have been appointed directly as such ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) and (b) The period for which the information is required may kindly be specified.

It may, however, be added for the honourable member's information that for the purpose of promotions the Classical and Vernacular Section like the Anglo-Vernacular Section of the Subordinate Educational Service, is now treated as one and promotions are made according to certain well defined principles which were explained in part (a) of my answer to Council Question No. 2825<sup>1</sup>* asked by Shrimati Lekhwati Jain in the Budget Session of 1934. As regards appointments, all teachers in the Subordinate Educational Service, Classical and Vernacular Section, now start on Rs. 35—3—50 and are eligible for promotion to the highest grade of the service. It is, therefore, immaterial so far as promotions are concerned whether any one works as a classical teacher or as a vernacular teacher.

LAND REVENUE ON PRIVATE GARDENS.

*4722. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether Government has decided to charge land revenue once a year on private gardens ;
- (b) if so, whether the attention of all the Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners and Canal Officers has been drawn to this decision ;
- (c) if not, what steps Government wishes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) The case has been thoroughly considered and it has been decided by Government not to upset the existing methods of assessment, approved under varying circumstances at settlements, by issuing any orders of general application on the subject.

PAKPATTAN MUNICIPALITY.

*4723. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he has received representations from the people of Pakpattan to grant electoral system to Pakpattan municipality ;
- (b) if so, what steps Government proposes to take in the matter ?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : (a) Yes.

(b) The electoral rules of the committee have been notified in the Gazette and the Commissioner has been asked to take steps to hold the general elections of the Committee as soon as it can be done under the Rules.

ADMISSION TO GOVERNMENT COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4724. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state :—

- (a) the number of students admitted in the 1st year class of the Government College, Lahore, in the year 1933 ;
- (b) the number of students admitted who had passed their matriculation in the 1st division and 2nd division ;
- (c) the number of students who failed in the F. A. Examination out of the group mentioned in (a) ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 206 (out of which 53 discontinued studies during the year and did not appear in the University examination).

|                  |    |    |    |    |     |
|------------------|----|----|----|----|-----|
| (b) 1st division | .. | .. | .. | .. | 88  |
| 2nd division     | .. | .. | .. | .. | 113 |
| (c) 47.          |    |    |    |    |     |

FAILED STUDENTS, GOVERNMENT COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4725. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state :—

- (a) the number of students who failed in the year 1935 in the F. A. Examination from Government College, Lahore ;
- (b) the number of failed students re-admitted in the 2nd year class of Government College, Lahore ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon :

- (a) Number of students who failed in the F. Sc. and F. A. examination in 1935 .. .. . 53
- (b) Number of failed students re-admitted in 2nd year class 12

AGRICULTURAL DEBTS.

*4726. Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state :—

- (a) whether it is a fact that after the enactment of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act, propaganda has been started in rural areas of the Punjab and particularly in Ferozepore, Lyallpur, Gujrat, Gujranwala, Multan and Montgomery that by the enactment of this law all agricultural debts have been wiped off ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that in various parts of the province forcible possession of the lands which had been given out on lease in satisfaction of decrees of courts have been taken by the zamindars ;
- (c) whether these facts have been brought to the notice of the Punjab Government and the Inspector-General of Police by the Punjab Traders' Association, Lyallpur ;
- (d) if so, what action Government has taken or proposes to take in this connection ;
- (e) whether Government made any enquiries into these allegations ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) In the first weeks after the passing of the Act rumours were current in a few districts that there was no longer any need for agriculturists to pay their debts; and in the Montgomery district there was some attempt at propaganda. The officials in Montgomery took prompt steps to contradict the stories which were being put into circulation, and it is understood that rumours of this sort are now generally discredited.

(b) One incident of this nature occurred in the Lyallpur district in June last, and action under sections 151 and 107 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was taken. No other case of the kind has been reported.

(c) A representation was addressed by the Punjab Traders Association to His Excellency the Governor at the end of June last, with a copy to the Inspector-General of Police.

(d) If any specific complaints are received, enquiry will be made.

(e) Attention is invited to the answers to parts (a) and (b).

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

LICENCES UNDER THE WILD BIRDS AND ANIMALS PROTECTION ACT.

1205. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) the number of licences issued under the Wild Birds and Animals Protection Act up to 31st March, 1935 ;

(b) the amount realised in fees ;

(c) the number of prosecutions for the breach of the Act ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) 5,436.

(b) Rs. 31,295-8-0.

(c) 17.

SUPPLY OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC CURRENT TO MILITARY DAIRY FARM, FEROZEPORE.

1206. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether hydro-electric current is going to be supplied to the Military Dairy Farm at Ferozepore, if so, when ;

(b) the distance separating the Military Dairy Farm, Ferozepore, from the Canal Colony ;

(c) whether it is proposed to connect the Canal Colony, Ferozepore, by extending the connection mentioned in (a) above ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) No, as no application for supply has been received from the Military Dairy Farm.

(b) Approximately  $\frac{3}{4}$  mile.

(c) No, as no application has been received from the Canal Colony for further supply.

MOTOR LORRY ACCIDENT.

1207. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on or about the 21st of June 1935 a serious motor lorry accident occurred on the Lahore-Kasur road in the jurisdiction of police station Amar Sidhu ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that about a dozen persons received injuries as a result of that accident ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the driver of the lorry in question was drunk ;
- (d) if so, what steps the Government took to ensure that a man in a drunken state should not have been allowed to drive a motor lorry which is a public vehicle ;
- (e) if it has not been the practice to take any action in this connection in the past, whether the Government is considering the question of adopting measures to ensure it in the future ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The honourable member doubtless refers to a lorry accident which took place near Duloo Khurd on the Lahore-Ferozepore road on the afternoon of the 20th June.

(b) Eight persons travelling in the lorry were injured, two of them seriously.

(c) The driver was examined by a District Board doctor shortly after the accident and was found to be sober.

(d) Does not arise.

(e) Applicants for licences to drive public motor vehicles are already required to produce certificates of medical fitness. One of the questions which the medical practitioner is required to answer, in completing the certificate, is whether the applicant shows any signs of excessive addiction to alcohol or drugs.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING IN GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOLS.

1208. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether vocational training is compulsory in any Government High School ;
- (b) if so, the names of such schools ;
- (c) the kinds of vocational training that is being imparted in these institutions ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) and (c) Facilities for practical training in agriculture, woodwork, shorthand, typewriting and accountancy are provided in a number of Government schools and colleges, but attendance at these classes except those for woodwork is not compulsory.

(b) A list of such institutions is placed on the table.

[Hon. Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon.]

List of Government schools in which provision exists for teaching manual training.

COMPULSORY PRIMARY EDUCATION.

1209. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the committee appointed by the Council to consider the question of compulsory primary education, has met and made any report ;

(b) whether copies of the report are going to be supplied to Council members ;

(c) if so, by when ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) As soon as possible.

LOCAL BODIES AND EMERGENCY CUT IN THE SALARIES OF THEIR STAFF.

1210. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether there are any local bodies that are since 1st April, 1935, enforcing the emergency cut in the salaries of their staff ; if so, whether a statement showing their names will be laid on the table ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Yes. A statement containing the requisite information is laid on the table.

THEFT OF GIRDERS BELONGING TO IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

1211. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that recently a large number of girders belonging to the Irrigation Department were stolen from Hossainiwala in Ferozepore district ;
- (b) if so, whether only girders were stolen or whether other material was also stolen ;
- (c) the total value of the material stolen ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. Only broad gauge rails were stolen.

(c) The book value of the stolen material is Rs. 16,500.

THEFT OF GIRDERS BELONGING TO IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

1212. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the theft of girders from Hossainiwala was carried on for about a period of four years ; if not, for what period ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that none of the officers superior to the Store-keeper checked the stock during this period ; if not, why not ;
- (c) whether there is any rule which requires that stock should be verified from time to time, if so, at what interval and by what officer or officers ;
- (d) if such a rule exists, whether it was observed in this case, if not, why not ;
- (e) the officers who are to blame and on account of whose negligence this loss has been occasioned ;
- (f) whether it is proposed to take any action against them ; if so, what ;
- (g) in case there is no such rule, whether Government is considering the question of framing a rule to meet this need ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The police investigation indicates that the period of theft was  $3\frac{1}{2}$  years (approximately).

(b) No. The stores were apparently checked periodically by an officer as evidenced by recorded certificates of check. The explanations of the officers have been called for.

(c) Yes. All stores are required to be counted half-yearly by the subordinates in charge of the various sections of a sub-division and by the Sub-Divisional Officer within a maximum period of 2 years : On appointment to the sub-division the Sub-Divisional Officer is required to count all the stock within three months.

(d) Recorded certificates by the Subordinate and by the Sub-Divisional Officer appear to indicate generally that the count of stores, etc., was carried out.

(e), (f) Enquiry by Government with the object of allocating blame (or otherwise) based on the findings of the court which investigated the case, is as yet incomplete.

(g) Does not arise.

UNEMPLOYMENT AMONG EDUCATED YOUNG MEN.

1213. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue be pleased to state whether Government has taken any action to compile figures about unemployment among educated young men ; if so, what ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No.

APPOINTMENT OF A VETERINARY ASSISTANT SURGEON AS MARKETING OFFICER.

1214. Mr. E. Mayadas : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to say—

- (a) whether it is a fact that recently a Veterinary Assistant Surgeon has been appointed a Marketing Officer ;
- (b) if so, whether it was because the Government of India had asked for a Veterinary Assistant Surgeon or whether it was that the choice was left with the Punjab Government ;
- (c) if the former, whether it asked for an agriculturist or a non-agriculturist ;
- (d) if the Government of India had made no mention of agriculturist or non-agriculturist, what were the circumstances that led the Punjab Government to select a non-agriculturist for this post ;
- (e) how the salary of a Marketing Officer compares with that of a Veterinary Assistant Surgeon ;
- (f) whether among the Veterinary Assistant Surgeons there was any who possessed special experience or qualifications which would be of use to a Marketing Officer ;
- (g) in case there was no one among the Veterinary Assistant Surgeons possessing special experience or qualifications, then on what principle the selection was made ;
- (h) whether the post was advertised and applications for it invited ; if not, why not ;
- (i) if applications were invited how many were received and who considered them and which applicant was considered the best ;
- (j) if applications were not invited, then while making selection whether the principles of seniority and being connected with an agriculturist class were kept in view ; if not, why not ;
- (k) whether it is a fact that the man selected has superseded several men in the department ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh: (a) Yes—if by Marketing Officer the honourable member means Assistant Marketing Officer.

(b) The choice was left with the Punjab Government.

(c) Does not arise.

(d) Distinction between agriculturists and non-agriculturists appear to be irrelevant in the case of this appointment.

(e) The salary of the Assistant Marketing Officer is Rs. 200—20—250—25—550/25—750 (less 15 per cent. cut) in the Punjab Agricultural Service; the salary of a Veterinary Assistant Surgeon is Rs. 100—10—150/10—200/10—300.

(f) The post to be filled was Assistant Marketing Officer for livestock and probably more than one Veterinary Assistant Surgeon could have been found qualified for the post.

(g) Does not arise.

(h) The post was not advertised because Government considered that they had a number of suitable candidates already in their employ.

(i) Does not arise.

(j) No. Such considerations were irrelevant.

(k) There was no question of supersession.

THE PUNJAB SUPPRESSION OF IMMORAL TRAFFIC BILL.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural): I present the report of the select committee on the Punjab Suppression of Immoral Traffic Bill.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit: I move—

That the Punjab Suppression of Immoral Traffic Bill as reported by the select committee be taken into consideration.

At this time it is not necessary to make any lengthy speech with regard to this Bill. I wish just to point out that we had a very strong select committee to deal with the Bill. There were fifteen members on it and the provisions of the Bill were discussed from all points of view. There was indeed a very full discussion and as honourable members might have noted the Bill has in consequence undergone some change. On all the fundamental and essential points, however, the Bill does not differ from the Bill as it was introduced.

The aim of this legislation is merely to attack commercialised vice. It is not sought to enforce morality because morality cannot be enforced. But it is a particular form of vice which exists in the province that is sought to be attacked. As I had said before, this Bill is part of an international effort to put down vice of this kind where tender girls and innocent women are taken hold of by unscrupulous persons who use them for making their own livelihood and earning money. In the west efforts have been made by various countries to put down this sort of immoral traffic and it is as a result of this effort that women of immoral fame and those people who used to take advantage of innocent girls and utilise them for immoral purposes have left western countries and have started coming to the East. They are generally to be found in the ports of India. Now all other provinces in India have either already passed a legislation of this kind or such a legislation is under contemplation. Bengal, Madras and other provinces have passed a legislation of this kind. We have taken full advantage of their measures and we find now that there is a movement in Bengal to change their law in such a manner that it may conform to the Bill which we are now considering.

This Bill has aroused great interest among ladies, and especially in Lahore only recently the ladies undertook to collect money for founding a rescue home. Honourable members may be pleased to note that they have collected about Rs. 17,000 to Rs. 18,000 for this purpose. They are only waiting for the Bill to become law in this province.

I have got nothing more to add but I hope that the Council will support the principles of the Bill as reported by the select committee.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab Suppression of Immoral Traffic Bill as reported by the select committee be taken into consideration.

The motion was carried.

Clause 2.

Mr. President : The Council will now proceed to consider the Bill clause by clause. The question is —

That clause 2 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 3.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban) :
Sir, I beg to move—

That the proviso to sub-clause (a) of clause 3 be omitted.

The object of this Bill is to stop immoral traffic but if the proviso which I wish to be omitted is allowed to remain in the Bill it will mean that we are recognising prostitution which up to this time has not been done. In fact you will allow every hotel to be converted into a brothel. At present a prostitute can be removed from a locality under the Municipal Act if she is running a brothel. But now she will be allowed to convert a hotel into a brothel. Now ten women will take ten rooms in a hotel and convert the hotel into a brothel. What is the difference which this law is going to make? A brothel is a hotel in this case. I cannot understand social legislation of this kind which instead of doing good will do more harm to the public. At present as soon as prostitutes go to live in a respectable place, the police can intervene under a certain section of the Municipal Act and take action on the ground that immorality is going on in that house. But if you allow, this section in the Bill it will mean that women will be able to hire a bungalow, each woman will take one room to herself and take a man to her room, with the result that that house is excluded from the definition of "brothel." So, my request is that if the Bill is to stop this kind of immorality, then we must remove this proviso, which reads :—

" Provided that this section shall not apply where one woman takes a man or men to her own room for immoral purposes."

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

The effect of this proviso will be that nobody will be allowed to live in the same place as that woman. My request is that either stop this kind of prostitution altogether or if you do not want to stop it then do not legalise it. This is a half hearted measure. You are afraid to say that you want to stop immorality, yet you bring forward this measure in the hope that you will stop immorality. In my humble opinion, if you allow this proviso it will do a great harm, as it will convert many houses into brothels. So I propose this amendment and unless it is accepted, I shall have to oppose the whole clause.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That the proviso to sub-clause (a) of clause 3 be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : I shall just say a few words by way of reply to the honourable member's arguments. He was absent when I stated that the object of this legislation was not to enforce morality. One can never make people moral by a legislation of this sort. What is aimed at in the Bill is to attack those people who live on the earnings of prostitutes, who use women for immoral traffic for their own gain. If the amendment of my honourable friend is accepted it would nullify the whole purpose of the Bill. Further, I may point out that his amendment goes beyond the scope of this Bill. But even if the principle of his amendment as explained in his speech is to be accepted, the Bill would give powers to the police to enter private houses which would create a dreadful state of affairs. This point was thoroughly considered in the select committee and the committee was of opinion that the clause should stand as it is. You will also find in other similar legislation that this proviso stands. I may remind the House once again that the object of this Bill is only to attack commercialised prostitution.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the proviso to sub-clause (a) of clause 3 be omitted.

The Council divided : Ayes 8, Noes 33.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 4.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban) :
I beg to move—

That sub-clause (1) (b) of clause 4 be omitted.

Sub-clause (1) of clause 4 reads.—

“ Any person who—

- (a) keeps or manages or acts or assists in the management of a brothel, or
- (b) being the tenant, lessee, occupier or person in charge of any place, knowingly permits such place or any part thereof to be used as a brothel,” etc.

The word ‘ knowingly ’ is used in the clause. Now, suppose there is a man who possesses any of the descriptions given in the clause. Unless you give him power to eject the brothel keeper, how can he eject him ? Thus for instance, there is a big propertied man who has got a manager to manage his estates. He lets out his property to another person who subsequently uses it for a brothel. The manager or the landlord comes to know after some time that the house is being used as a brothel. There is no power in the hands of the manager or the owner to eject that tenant. If he goes to a court of law, the court will decide in favour of the brothel keeper who is the lessee, because the court will hold that the lessee has the right to keep possession of the house till the lease expires. So the manager cannot turn out the brothel keeper until the lease expires, but under the provision of this clause, the manager will be convicted even though he may not have the power to eject that person. He will be subjected to insult and fine by the courts simply because he is helpless to eject the woman who runs the brothel. This is indeed a terrible clause to honourable and decent people. Under the Criminal Law Amendment Bill which we have just passed we are endangering the liberty of the people and under the present measure we are endangering the honour of the people. (Laughter). This is not the time for laughter. I am very serious about this provision. I do not want either the liberty or the honour of people to be taken away so lightly. It is impossible for the manager or the landlord to know what is going on inside the house of his tenant, because brothel keepers do not put up advertisements in front of their houses. They always carry on their trade secretly and yet it is proposed to penalise a person who unfortunately happens to have let his house for a person for rent or lease. I, therefore, suggest that this sub-clause be omitted ; otherwise no landlord, no tenant and no lessee will be safe under this Bill ; for the clause says that the persons specified in clause (b)

' Shall be liable to rigorous imprisonment for any term not exceeding 12 months or to fine not exceeding Rs. 1,000 or to both.'

The effect will be that the object of the word ' knowingly ' is gone. But if you come to sub-clause (2) it means that as soon as a woman is convicted the presumption of law will be against that innocent man. (An honourable member : He can rebut it). My honourable friend says he can rebut it. He says that the burden of proof should be on the defence. The very fact that such a person is being tried for keeping a prostitute in his house is enough to ruin him, his honour goes to dust. It appears in the papers and he is damned for ever. Yet my friend has the hardihood to say that he can put in defence. How can a man give negative defence ? How are you going to disprove ? Are you going to bring people from the villages of the whole country to rebut this presumption ? I, therefore, request the Government and appeal to them that they should not lend their support to this sort of legislation. We are no doubt prepared to stop immoral traffic as far as possible, but to punish the owners or tenants or lessees is against the law of any country. You know that even in England, France and Germany they never catch hold of tenants or owners ; they catch hold of men who depend on these unfortunate women. You say that the word ' knowingly ' is there but that is removed in sub-clause (2). I am told that a new amendment has been sent in by Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit which if passed would remove the defect I point out. But I do not know the implication of that clause and I do not know whether the House would pass that clause. It does not seem to carry us anywhere. Section 10 is clear and unless the person stops the trade the owner or the tenant can be convicted. I want that this should be made absolutely clear that as soon as notice is given to the woman to quit the house such a tenant or lessee is not responsible. But so long as you put words capable of a double interpretation I will have to oppose the section altogether. Let the Government say that in such cases the person will not be liable for prosecution, and I will certainly withdraw my amendment. That is, if a person gives notice of termination, make it clear that that person is not liable for prosecution. That man should not be held responsible thereafter. I want to be fair to both sides. My object is to improve the Bill and not to defeat it. I want that honest innocent people must be protected from the clutches of dishonest people. We know what a mere prosecution means for an honest person. We have all heard of that Hyde Park case in London where a gentleman, a member of the Privy Council, was arrested by a policeman on the ground that he was talking or trying to molest a woman and what sensation it created throughout the world and it was noticed in papers by thousands of men in glaring head lines. But when the innocence of the man was published probably not even one-tenth of these people knew about it. They have only heard that a man was prosecuted for molesting a woman and that is enough for the man to be damned for ever. It does not matter whether he is convicted or acquitted. Whenever anybody sees him he will at once say, he is the man of the Hyde Park who molested such and such a woman. I only want that this Bill should be improved. I therefore want that these words should be added that in such cases the persons shall not be held guilty if they give notice of termination of the lease.

That sub-clause (1) (b) of clause 4 be omitted.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): As the Chairman of the select committee I am to a certain extent concerned to explain away any misunderstandings and to explain why the select committee left the Bill in its present form. With regard to this particular amendment the first thing I will say is that the sub-clause in question already exists in the same form in the Acts of four other provinces, Bombay, Bengal, Madras and Burma, so that it is extremely unlikely that the sub-clause is absolutely foolish. Other provinces which have had Acts of this kind in operation for a considerable time would have discovered long ago if the clause was unjust or a foolish one or unworkable. I think we may take it that it can be worked without serious injustice. Now if a man who is in possession and in control of a house knowingly permits it to be used as a brothel—and we are trying to condemn making money out of vice—I think it will be justifiable to prosecute him for taking rent for a place which he knows is being used as a brothel and I very much doubt whether it is necessary to add any clause, though I personally will not object to it if it is going to satisfy members, to the effect that if he gives notice to the person actually using the premises for immoral purposes then he is absolved from liability; if he gave notice and there is evidence that he gave such notice and his conduct was consistent with the notice then I do not believe that any court in the world would convict him. If Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq is an owner of a house and he suddenly finds that his tenant is an undesirable person who is using the house for immoral purposes and Mr. Sadiq sends a notice to his tenant saying “you quit from using the house as a brothel at once or I will have you turned out” and if he has been able to prove that he has done so, I cannot conceive that any District Magistrate in this world will consent to his prosecution. (Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq: “First there will be prosecution and then the question of proof comes in). Mr. Sadiq would have noticed that a prosecution cannot be instituted under this Bill without the express consent of the district magistrate and I do not think district magistrates are likely to treat reports regarding prosecutions under this Act as a matter of routine. I think they will certainly pay real attention to the matter and if they find that there is a real case after enquiry they will give their consent for prosecution; otherwise they will not give their consent. (Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq: Will the district magistrate call upon the person and give him a chance?) I do not think the mover of the Bill will object to any reasonable amendment to safeguard the owners and tenants of houses and certainly the Government benches will not object. I recognise that Mr. Sadiq is out to co-operate with us and we are also out to co-operate with him. The broad principle of the Bill, to penalise making money out of vice, everybody will agree with. Government certainly will agree with that broad principle. But I recognise it is not an easy Bill to administer and if any amendments are proposed at any stage which the Honourable the President admits we on these benches will consider them very carefully and will be ready to give them our support if they are going to safeguard the public generally.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

There are these two points. To begin with the wording of the clause to my mind is very defective. I admit that sub-clause (2) puts the burden of proof upon the owner or tenant as it may be. If Mr. Sadiq tries to get that sub-clause omitted we will support him. So the burden of proof shall not lie upon the owner or tenant and when that burden of proof is removed and when it is coupled with the fact that the district magistrate is to sanction a prosecution his objections will be met.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : May I know if the Government will accept my amendment if I were to move that before sanctioning a prosecution, the district magistrate will call upon the owner or the tenant to explain his conduct?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I think that will be safe, but I should like to consider it.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : If you give this undertaking I will withdraw my amendment. My idea is to put a check on the chughalkhors and by agreeing to my suggestion, if a man is carrying on such trade, he can still be stopped under this Act.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadian, Rural) : There is a certain amount of misapprehension in the mind of my learned friend. First of all you will notice that in that clause the words "owner or landlord" do not occur. That is a very important omission, because the chief argument of my learned friend is based on the fact that there are owners of houses who own more than one house and do not know the people who live in them. Therefore, they purposely were left out. It is really the occupier, the person who has taken the house on lease and who is the tenant, that has been brought within the scope of this Bill. Now these words, "not only permits" as the Honourable Finance Member pointed, are a strong safeguard for such people. In the first instance it cannot possibly be insisted that a person who keeps a house or takes a house on rent or is a tenant will be so neglectful that he should not know what is going on in the house. He keeps the house, it may be one room or two or three rooms of a building and to further safeguard these, the words "not only permits" are very important and they should not be lost sight of. I am very thankful to my learned friend for the suggestion he gave me when he and I had a discussion. As a result of that discussion I realized or understood what he meant and therefore you will see that I am moving in clause 10 a new sub-clause which will meet his wishes. The amendment says—

"When the district magistrate has passed an order under sub-section (2) of this section the person who has given the lease, tenancy or occupation shall be entitled forthwith to determine such lease, tenancy or occupation."

This is the new amendment suggested to me by my honourable friend when we had a long discussion with regard to this matter. His chief fear was that if any sort of evil doing was carried on in a person's house without his knowledge and subsequently he comes to know of it he should be permitted to end the lease. Clause 10 provides this :—

"If the district magistrate receives information that any place is being used as a brothel he may cause a notice to be served on the owner, lessor, manager, lessee, tenant, or occupier of the place or all or any of them to appear before him either in person or by agent...."

Thus an innocent occupier or tenant can always approach the district magistrate and proceedings under section 10 can be taken. Termination of the tenancy does not mean that a person should go to a court of law and get a decree for ejectment. That is entirely misapprehending the law on the subject. Termination of the lease means that a person may send a notice or make it known to the person who has taken the lease by any of the recognized methods that his lease is terminated. It is not necessary to go to a court of law for this purpose. Therefore my submission is that we have fully safeguarded those people who might innocently come within the purview of the clause. And, as I started by saying, this section does not apply to owners of houses.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Occupiers of houses also.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : Occupiers must know what is going on in the house. Even then the burden of proof is laid on the prosecution who is to prove that the man owns and permits the doing of such a thing. We have thus ample safeguard for this matter.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : If you allow the amendment that the district magistrate shall call upon the person offending then I shall withdraw my amendment.

Mr. President : Question is—

That clause (1) (b) of clause 4 be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I beg to move—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 4 be omitted.

I have told you that this clause destroys the object of clause (b) of part (4). I have already made this point in my previous speech by quoting clause (2) that if a woman is convicted there is no reason why the man, an innocent man be supposed to know of her doing. It will destroy the object of sub-clause (b) of sub-clause (1) of clause 4. As the Government has agreed to accept my proposal about this motion I move it and I do not want to make any speech.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved is—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 4 be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I accept the amendment.

Mr. President : Question is—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 4 be omitted.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : Question is—

That clause 4 as amended stand part of the Bill.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala Division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural) : I oppose this whole clause. In the first place the English of this clause is hopelessly wrong and I am surprised that the honourable the Legal Remembrancer allowed it to go as it is in the Bill. The wording of the clause as amended makes it look non-sense. It is absolutely wrong and has produced a wrong impression on the minds of the honourable members. This reminds me of what the poet says—

خط جو لکھا دوست کو وہ ہو گا سارا غلط      خود غلط معنی غلط ایسا غلط انشا غلط

[Ch. Allah Dad Khan.]

Anyhow I will now take the clause on its merits. The punishment proposed here is too severe and the honourable mover of this Bill says the object of this Bill is to prevent traffic in women and he also says that no law can enforce morality on people. If there is no such law to prevent such things, in the beginning at least the punishment should be lenient. But the punishment is out of all proportion to the offence. If convicted for the first time he is liable to a punishment of imprisonment up to 12 months and a fine of Rs. 1,000. That is too severe a punishment for an offence like this. These people who are accustomed to this sort of profession will only leave it gradually and not at once however good and sound the moral principles may be. You cannot expect by a stroke of pen to moralize people. However good and laudable the object may be it will require some time to mould public opinion, to bring the mind of the public in accord with the requirements of this legislation and they will not leave off organised habits at once. A poet, in this connection says—

کشاخ ہائے ہستی سے کرے کیا سعی آزادی
ہوئی زنجیر موج اب کو نہمت روانی کی

That is to say, the power of flowing is a chain from which the river cannot get away. Those people who have got into the habit of earning their livelihood by this ignoble means cannot be weaned from it all on a sudden by a severe punishment. If punishment is necessary it should be a lenient one, and I would suggest three months in the first instance and six months for a second conviction. It is a burra kam, I admit. But we should remember the efforts that Aurangzeb made in stopping prostitution altogether. For a year he exerted his power against this sort of vice but after a year he saw that deviations from morality had taken other courses which he had not contemplated and found that even women in families could not be saved from this vice. They too were exposed to this danger and so he let it go saying, it is a wretched vice but it is a necessary evil and perforce must be kept up. My honourable friend, Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit, is trying in the twentieth century what Aurangzeb had attempted before. In proceeding with this necessary reform he must go cautiously and with lenient punishments in the first instance. If the object is to prevent the vice, it is leniency that will secure this end. If there is a severe punishment, people will naturally devise some other means of evading the law and the situation would be worse than the one which it is our intention to prevent. In a way such a severe punishment will bring in an era of worse immorality in the society than now. Already it is an open secret how in big towns morality has been going down and I do not think there is more immorality in the houses of ill-fame, than in many rich peoples' houses in big towns. If we should have some consideration shown for the poor unfortunate women who cannot make both ends meet, then we should not be so harsh to this public form of vice which is apparently indulged into a large extent. It is a well-known dictum of jurisprudence that harsh measures never stop the evil. The best policy is to impose lenient punishments at least in the beginning. It is a novel experiment which we are trying and we should have lenient punishments. For these reasons I appeal to the honourable member in charge of the Bill to reconsider his position and have three months in place of six months for the first, and six months instead of three years for a subsequent conviction and do away with bonds for good behaviour and so forth. That will work much better than the present provision.

I then turn to the question of occupier. The honourable member proposes that the occupier should be punished severely. In some cases an occupier is virtually like an owner, for instance where he takes a particular house for, say, twelve years and within that period he cannot be ejected. It would be stigmatising an owner in such a case because of the mere fact that he is an owner to all intents and purposes for however short a time it may be. Such severe punishments on tenants and occupiers are out of all proportion to the offence. There may have been some excuse for such a punishment being inflicted on the owner. But for a tenant who perhaps lives for a month in a particular house to be treated like a man who lives for twelve months in that house is really harsh. It very often happens that a person lives in Lahore in a house for which he pays a rent of Rs. 3 a month. Suppose one of his near relations comes to the house and brings a woman of ill-fame and being out of pocket he invites other people for immoral purposes. It will be unjust on the poor man who pays Rs. 3 a month that he should be sent to jail for twelve months. I am surprised why the select committee did not take this fact into consideration. It should not have allowed such severe punishments to be imposed on tenants, lessees and occupiers. If these people are committing the vice it is because there has been a habit in society and we cannot say at once to the people 'behave in a better manner.' Possibly improvement will be effected and they will get better in the course of a few years. But even at the beginning to be harsh on them is beyond all reasonableness. With these words I oppose the clause.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural): My honourable friend is labouring under a very serious confusion of thought. He seems to think that the Bill will punish those innocent girls who will be in the clutches of the blackguards living on the earnings of the girls. The punishment would be for those people who would be keeping these girls and living on their earnings. My honourable friend seems to think that because this sort of thing has persisted in certain sections or among certain people who are addicted to these things, those persons should be leniently dealt with. That is no reason for showing them any leniency. If he were to turn to the punishment originally provided in the Bill, he will find that the select committee after a full discussion reduced the period from two years to twelve months. That is a considerable reduction on the first conviction and then again on the second or subsequent conviction, the imprisonment provided originally was up to five years. This is now reduced to three years. My honourable friend seems to think that if these sentences are provided the maximum punishment will be given by the court in every case. It is only the maximum that is provided here. The court is bound to take into consideration the enormity of the offence, and if the offence is of a serious nature there is no reason why a person should not be harshly dealt with. If it is not, on the other hand, of a serious nature, then the sentence may be merely a fine. My honourable friend forgets all these things which are provided for in the Bill. If he was very keen on the point he could have brought in certain amendments and they would have been considered. I fail to see how he can stand up and oppose the clause as a whole. With these words I trust that the House will pass the clause.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : May I point out that the amount of the fine that could be imposed is not given in the clause? It says: "any term not exceeding three years or to fine, or to both." There is no limit to the fine that could be imposed on second conviction. And I submit that that gives the court a very wide jurisdiction and unless some definite sum is proposed in the clause I would be reluctantly opposing the whole clause.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 4 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 5.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban) :
I move—

That sub-clause (1) of clause 5 be omitted.

It is my unfortunate task that I have to send so many amendments to the Bill, but I was not in the select committee. Had I been there, I would have pointed out the difficulties to the members of the committee, and would have got their help in framing the clauses of the Bill which I consider important.

In the first part of this clause it is laid down :—

"Any person over the age of eighteen years who knowingly lives, wholly or in part, on the earnings of the prostitution of another person, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years."

I have got my fullest sympathy with the object of the Bill but some sections of it are really harsh. For instance, this one is so framed that it can rope in innocent persons. There are in this country singing girls who are prostitutes by profession. I think in this province there are about ten thousand mirasis, tabalchis, sarangiwalas, etc., who live on the earnings of prostitutes because both prostitution and singing are carried on by the same women. Surely my friend does not intend that people who are living on music should be punished. For instance, a prostitute is carrying on prostitution and also the other profession of music. We know the famous Gohar Jan who was of that category; there are now many screen stars. And I want to make it clear that it is only the go-betweens or the persons who live on the income of prostitution who should be punished, and that people who are living on the traditional singing profession should not be punished. These ten or twelve thousand people who are not badmashes who do not touch a penny of the immoral earnings of the women, but earn their living by working as singers and musicians, a profession to which a lot of other people also belong, should not be punished. In fact they would feel insulted if you include them in the class of pimps. Secondly, the clause says: 'Any person over the age of eighteen.' There is, let us say, a woman who is carrying on the singing profession who has a daughter twenty years of age. Surely you do not want to punish the daughter or let it be the son whose fault it is not that he or she is the son or daughter of a prostitute. It would be really harsh to punish them and in all cases as we all know there will be no father in the case and there is probably no grandfather either and the youngsters would be quite helpless, unless supported by their mothers. Surely you have to exclude these unfortunate children. Let us say that the daughter is unmarried. How is she to live except on the earnings of her prostitute mother? This clause proposes to make her a victim to the severity of law. By refusing my last amendment you have let alone the woman and allowed her to carry on her trade but in this clause you are going to punish the children who have to live on the earnings of the mother.

I wish once again to impress on honourable members that it is not my object to oppose the Bill but to improve its provisions where they are unduly severe. Even if the Bill is passed with the defects which I have brought to the notice of the House, I am sure Government will be obliged sooner or later to bring in an amending Bill. Otherwise, it might create a lot of hardship and innocent women and children would be victimised. I request the honourable mover to show me how the two classes of people I have mentioned, the professional singers and the children of a prostitute, how they will be protected from the mischief of this clause. If he can assure me that they will not be exposed to the severity of the law, I shall certainly be glad to support the clause. The clause no doubt hits against the right person and so far as it does that, it has my fullest sympathy but my only object is that the children and the other persons who have nothing to do with the prostitution should be saved. The honourable mover has now brought in after discussion with me a new amendment which reads—

“ Provided further that any person who by reason of age..... ”

I can understand the reasons of mental infirmity, but I cannot understand the reasons of age. If you fix the age at 21, there would be some sense, but eighteen is too young an age. Further in this section it is mentioned that a minor will not abet, etc. So it will be difficult to understand what will be the age at which the court shall say, you shall not live on the earning of your mother. With all due respect I beg to say that the object of this social legislation is to stop evil and not to create more evil. Its object is to inflict punishment, but not unnecessary punishment on those whom God has thrown under our protection. Our oath is to protect every innocent person so far as we can. So, if we can bring in amendment or if Government can bring in any amendment which will save a certain class of persons, it should be accepted. I have no objection to the Bill hitting against the right person, but I have every objection to its harming the other two classes I have mentioned.

Mr. President: Clause under discussion, amendment moved—

That sub-clause (1) of clause 5 be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural): I myself regret that somehow Mr. Sadiq's name escaped and he was not placed on the select committee. I can assure the House that the point of view that he has expressed before the House was put forward by two members in the select committee—I can give their names, but that is not necessary—and the arguments were fully considered there, as to how it would affect the musicians and the singers. Had Mr. Sadiq carefully read the section he would have found that his apprehensions were groundless because it is stated there—

“ Any person over the age of eighteen years who knowingly lives, wholly or in part, on the earnings of the prostitution of another person, shall be punished..... ”

So, he must realise that the burden of proof is on the prosecution that this man, i.e., the accused was living on the earnings of this prostitute. It is not the people he has got in view who will be brought in here. The prosecution will have to prove that this man was living a life of such a nature that he requires to be punished. Therefore, I submit, his apprehension is entirely wrong and I can tell him this that there will be hundreds of people who after this law is passed will really take to music and the cultivation of this fine art. Now, instead of doing that they really add to the immorality of the province; but after this Act is enforced with Mr. Sadiq's co-operation and help this evil will become less and real musicians and lovers of music will find time to do something really useful which will be for the good of the province. As I have submitted the burden of the proof is on the prosecution and if the prosecution proves the fact, there is no reason why that man should escape punishment. There is nothing wrong about the clause and it was fully considered by the select committee.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala division, North-East Muhammadan, Rural): I rise to support the honourable member from Amritsar. Here it is stated—

"Any person over the age of eighteen years who knowingly lives, wholly or in part, on the earnings of the prostitution of another person, shall be punished...."

Now it is a well-known fact that the mothers of these prostitutes live on the income of their daughters who are carrying on prostitution. To punish these women under this section will be very hard indeed.

Mr. President: The question is—
That sub-clause (1) of clause 5 be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban):
I beg to move—

That in clause 5, sub-clause (2), lines 3—7, the words 'or to have exercised control, direction, or influence over the movements of a prostitute, in such manner as to show that he is aiding, abetting or compelling her prostitution' be omitted.

I am at one with the object of this section where a person is proved to be living with, or being habitually in the company of a prostitute. But the retention of the words which I wish to be deleted would make the section just like section 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code, and it is the witnesses that would make it dangerous. A man may not be living with a woman, he may not be in the company of a prostitute, yet four persons living at a distance of ten miles may give evidence that that man is really controlling the woman. I think even section 110 has proved to be very dangerous in such cases, but to have another section of this type under which people can involve a man living at a distance of ten miles is very serious indeed. It is for that reason that I am opposing this section. When a man is found to be living with or in the company of a woman, he can be presumed to be living on the earnings of that woman, but I cannot understand how a man, just on the evidence adduced by a third interested party to the effect that he is exercising control or is influencing the movements of a prostitute thereby showing that he is aiding, abetting or compelling her prostitution, should be presumed to be living on the earnings of that prostitute, knowing well how easy it is to get concocted evidence. It is for that reason that I move this amendment in the hope that the honourable mover of the Bill will accept it.

Mr. President: Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That in clause 5, sub-clause (2), lines 3—7, the words 'or to have exercised control, direction, or influence over the movements of a prostitute, in such manner as to show that he is aiding, abetting or compelling her prostitution' be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : I regret, that I cannot possibly accept the amendment. As a matter of fact the select committee was very strong on this point, because though a person may not be known to be living habitually in the company of a prostitute yet he might be inducing a woman or a prostitute to act in a manner which is repugnant to this Act. This point was considered very carefully and Mr. Sadiq has had the satisfaction of his other amendment being accepted by me. But to accept this amendment would be really to go against one of the most important sections of the community which are at the back of these prostitutes and therefore I regret I cannot accept this amendment.

That in clause 5, sub-clause (2), lines 3—7, the words 'or to have exercised control, direction, or influence over the movements of a prostitute, in such manner as to show that he is aiding, abetting or compelling her prostitution' be omitted.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Will you please permit me to move the amendment standing in the name of Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan namely that the proviso to sub-clause (2) of clause 5 be omitted? I will simply move it without making any speech, because I understand that the honourable member in charge of the Bill is agreeable to accept the amendment.

Mr. President : But the honourable member from Amritsar has not given notice of that amendment. He has given notice of a different amendment.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : May I point out that the whole of this proviso will have to go out, because I am afraid there is a mistake in drafting?

Mr. President : Then I will put the sub-clause and the proviso separately to the House. The question is—

That sub-clause (2) with the exception of the proviso stand part of the clause.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the proviso to clause 5, sub-clause (2) stand part of the clause.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I move—

That in clause 5, sub-clause (2) the following proviso be added :—

‘ Provided that no person who by reasons of age or physical or mental infirmity is incapable of supporting himself shall be liable to punishment under this section for living on the earnings of a prostitute.’

The object of this amendment is that an old person or an infirm person or a person who is unable to understand the nature of the offence should be protected.

The motion was carried.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 5 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 6.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 6 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 7.

Mr. President : The question is—

That clause 7 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 8.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I move—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 8 be omitted.

The previous clause relates to a person who keeps a brothel, or a tenant or a lessee. But the present provision is against a person who withholds.

the jewellery of a woman. Thus it seems nobody is safe from the clutches of a badmash woman in this province. It is a common knowledge that in this country people do keep mistresses. There is no denying the fact. If a person happens to get into the clutches of a bad woman she has only to lodge a complaint that that person has got her jewellery and does not want to return it; immediately that person will be arrested whatever may be his rank and position in life and it will surely lead to blackmailing. It means you are encouraging women of bad repute bringing in false cases about any person with whom she has a quarrel. She has simply to say that such and such a gentleman has kept her ring and that means he will be convicted. I cannot understand this. If a woman is going to do prostitution for the sake of a ring it is much better to allow her to go her own way rather than that the person should be prosecuted. If she is going in for immorality for the purpose of a few clothes it is much better that she is allowed to go on her own way. The object is to protect the woman from immoral ways. But here there are certain sections which allow the woman to ruin any man. How is the district magistrate to interfere? He will send it to the sub-inspector and that means any responsible person, even if he is an official can be attacked by a woman of this type. I appeal to the Government that they should not rush in in a matter like this, in social matters. Let these official members live in villages as human beings, as Indians, and then they will realise the difficulties of the people of this country. Hitherto they have been living like rulers in cities and towns. As a lawyer of some experience—I have already put in about 20 years of practice at the bar—I know it is easy for anybody to procure evidence. A woman has to go to any magistrate and say that her ring or jewel has been taken. Are you going to take in the word of the police for everything? You want the police to be the police of Russia. You want to put everything in the hands of the police. You are overburdening them. They will have to investigate not only the criminal law but investigate also the morality of the people. This is undesirable. Punish those go-betweens who live on the income of women. But do not punish the innocent man. If a man falls out with another he has simply to ask a prostitute to approach the district magistrate and bring in a false case against that man. It means that the honour of a man is not safe in this country. You know the highest and the lowest will tremble before a woman of immoral character. It means that an immoral woman is given power to spoil or mar any man. India has existed all these years with these women and India still exists and will continue to exist if this section is not removed. I opposed the Criminal Law Amendment Bill and I oppose this section sincerely and honestly and with greater force. I am opposing them because they are against my conscience and I feel in this matter honestly and sincerely. I can assure Mr. Boyd that if this section becomes law and if he lives in India like an Indian his house will soon be at stake even though he was the Honourable Finance Member.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 8 be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadian, Rural) : I do not doubt the sincerity and honesty of my honourable friend at all, as proclaimed by him. But unfortunately he has not understood what is at the bottom of this clause. It is the person who detains the woman who is to be punished. It is the person who carries on these illegal and immoral traffic that is punished. (An honourable member: No.) Why do you say 'no.' You have not read the section. This refers to the woman or girl who is in a brothel or in any place for the purpose referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) and so on. Now one method that is adopted by these people is to withhold from these girls their jewels or part of their earnings. It must also be understood that the burden of proof that the jewel belongs to the girl is on the prosecution. There is no presumption in favour of the prosecution under that clause. But if you once prove that the jewellery or the other property belongs to the girl and is being detained, then the other presumption naturally arises. I fail to see why my friend should be very partial to these people. This is one of the methods of detaining these women and you must attack that method and as I have stated it is only the girls living in brothels and people of that type that come within the scope of this section. I may submit for the information of the House that a similar clause exists in the Acts of other provinces and also in the English law. In England also which is the home of freedom according to Mr. Sadiq and according to all of us, where there are the most liberty enjoying people, they have got a similar clause. If this clause is not there there is no other method of punishing these people who thus coerce these women to stay in the houses of ill-fame.

Sardar Arjan Singh (Hoshiarpur and Kangra, Sikh, Rural): I rise to support my friend from Amritsar. The reply made by Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit is not satisfactory. He has conveniently omitted to mention part (b) of sub-clause (1). It is stated there—

"In any place with intent that she may have sexual intercourse with any man other than her lawful husband."

Similar words also occur in paragraph 2—

"A woman or girl, who is in a brothel or in any place for the purpose referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1)."

My submission is that we can easily understand the word 'detain.' That word 'detention' is also defined in the Indian Penal Code. We can very well understand these sections 339, 340, 341 and 342 of the Indian Penal Code and in the word 'detention' there is always the same idea of physical detention. But herein we are introducing a new idea of the word 'detention' and that word 'detention' is intended to include the two sub-clauses (a) and (b). My submission is that in 50 per cent. of cases they will admit that those women who are there in a brothel, are there for the purpose of prostitution and in 30 per cent. they are willing parties. We are dealing with women and girls of suspicious character and therefore it will not be fair to victimise people to whom they have gone for purpose of money and then there will be all sorts of vague complaints. It will be very easy for these people to make a complaint that her cloth worth 4 annas was not handed over to her, or they might say that a jewellery which of course belongs to that person by whom the prostitute was engaged and which was handed over by him to her as a gift was the property of the prostitute and if the man detains her for the property where is the guarantee that that person would be saved and where is the guarantee that such a woman will not make any false allegations. Therefore, under the circumstances it is a clause going too far and we should not be a party to it. With these words I support the amendment moved by Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala Division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural): I rise to support the honourable member from Amritsar. In addition to the argument which has been put forward there is another. It is a fact that for the purposes of dancing a very rich costume is provided. These women will say that these clothes belonged to them and in a way they do belong to them. Thus when she goes away, she will claim those clothes also and when the man stops it, he will be understood to have detained here. Besides there is no end to this. If a woman wants to establish a claim to jewellery or clothing, there is the civil court open. Why should additional power be given to such woman? It is, therefore, necessary that this provision be omitted. With these words I support the amendment.

Mr. President: Question is—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 8 be omitted.

(When Mr. President gathered the sense of the House by voices, Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq asked for division.)

Mr. President: The honourable member is entitled, no doubt, to claim division as a matter of right; but the Chair has the inherent power to see that no member abuses his right.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: Would you mind if the Legal Remembrancer considers this question in the light of the rules?

Mr. President: Certainly. Under the rules it is the right of every member to claim division; but the question is whether the Chair has the inherent power to see that that right is exercised reasonably.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: In that matter I fully support the Chair.

Mr. President: Question is—

That sub-clause (2) of clause 8 be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Mr. President: Question is—

That clause 8 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 9.

Mr. President: The question is—

That clause 9 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 10.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban): If a district magistrate received information that any place is being used as a brothel, he may cause notice to be served on the manager lessee, etc., etc., or all or any of them to appear before him. There are some things which beat a person, but there are other things which beat a person hollow. Where is the wisdom of calling all the persons? You can call one person who in you think guilty, but what is the fun of calling all of them. You do not want to fill the court with all these people. I want these words "all or any of them" to be omitted so that he should call the person or persons really guilty or whom he thinks to be guilty after full investigation. Surely he will not call these people without making investigation through the Police or some other agency. He should fix the guilt on some persons whom he wants to call. Why call all of them? That is absolutely harassing. Why should a man living in Jullundur or Bombay or Calcutta be called. In fact only one person would be guilty and he would be either the manager or the occupier or the lessee or tenant and not all of them. Have all these people entered into a conspiracy? It should be left to the district magistrate to call only one of them. He should make his choice and call only the person or persons on whom his suspicion falls after proper investigation. Let him suffer the consequences; let not all of them be harassed. These words are printed in the Bill in italics, as if they were added by the select committee and modified to some extent. These four words are unnecessary. The district magistrate should cause the notice to be served only on the occupier or the manager or the lessee. He should select only one person. If this is the object, I have no objection. With these words I move—

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

That the words "or all or any of them" occurring in lines 6 and 7 of clause 10, sub-clause (1) be omitted.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved is—

That the words "or all or any of them" occurring in lines 6 and 7 of clause 10, sub-clause (1) be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : The arguments advanced are without force and I think at the end of his speech the honourable member realized that his arguments were groundless. As a matter of fact the words he complained of mean that people who are unconnected with the crime should not be called. The district magistrate is given the power to call all of them if he thinks that there is some case against them or some inquiry has to be made. I do not think that any district magistrate would be so foolish as to call people living in England. The honourable member has further forgotten that the power is given to the person called to appear by an agent. Kindly see the words "any person or agent." I therefore do not find that there is any force in the argument. As a matter of fact he will find that in the previous clause the words were "all of them." The sub-committee added "or any of them." The modification really was in favour of the view taken by Mr. Sadiq. He has forgotten that appearance by an agent which is open to everyone is provided. In these circumstances I do not think that there is any force in the amendment.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : May I ask a question? When it comes to the Drafting Committee stage, will it be possible and permissible to alter certain words? I think the words "or of them" are tautological.

Mr. President : A drafting committee can make amendments only of a formal or consequential character.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The Legal Remembrancer may be asked to consider these words at this stage. It seems to me that the words are tautological. I really very much doubt whether we are adding to the sense at all.

Mr. President : The drafting committee is not be entitled to make amendments which are not of a formal or consequential character.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : If it is formal it will be all right, but if it is consequential then I am afraid it will be ruled out.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the words "or all or any of them" occurring in lines 6 and 7 of clause 10, sub-clause (1) be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I move—

That in clause 10, sub-clause (3), line 3, the words "or allows it to be used" be omitted.

Again we are faced with the same difficulty. Let us take it that an owner has been ordered not to allow it to be used. He does not want himself to allow it, but how is he to prevent it? How is he to stop the place being used in contravention of the order? He tells the woman that he is not going to allow her but in spite of that if the woman uses the place as a brothel, the man is still made liable. Besides there is no right of appeal from the order of the district magistrate. Are district magistrates so infallible? I appeal to the Honourable Mr. Boyd and ask him whether he is sure that as a district magistrate he had never committed a mistake. Can the honourable member as a sessions judge for the matter of that or even as the Finance Member say that he had never committed a mistake. District magistrates are prone to commit mistakes like all men. The owner might have let the house for seven years, but on receipt of the order he asks the woman to obey the order, but if the woman does not, the owner is made liable by an order of the magistrate even though he has done no act for which he might be held liable. Are we going to have the law of the Medes and Persians in this province? Are we going to revive the times of Chengiz Khan and copy his laws? Are we going to punish people for offences committed by others? I feel that the honourable mover has the blind support of Government and that this clause has not been properly understood. Whenever I raise such points, the honourable mover gets up and accuses me that I have not understood the law. It is the time-old trick of the lawyer to claim all the wisdom of the world for himself and to call others fools and block-heads. I say that he has not himself understood the meaning of this provision. He has himself admitted on a previous occasion that this Bill has been thrust into his hands and that he has only been a vehicle for carrying it out into law through this House. I therefore maintain that he has not himself understood how by this clause he is making innocent persons who have nothing to do with the offence as victims. I challenge the Government, let Government say how when a district magistrate passes an order, there being no appeal, an innocent person can have his remedy. An owner, he may be the Aga Khan sitting in London, is called upon to make the woman discontinue the trade; nevertheless she goes on. The Aga Khan may no doubt have race-horses but there is no horse swift enough to bring him to Lahore to make the woman comply with the order. And it is nothing.

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

unusual for a woman who is bent upon bringing her landlord to shame, to disobey the order. It may be the honourable Pandit's house itself where a woman tenant of his will say, "I am going to get all my lovers here," and despite the Pandit's efforts, try to have him hauled up before a court of justice for having acted in contravention of the order of the magistrate. It is therefore absolutely necessary that a right of appeal should be given, if we are not going to allow people to be insulted by being dragged to court. A man will be dishonoured simply because a district magistrate has willed it and an unscrupulous prostitute is bent upon bringing him to shame. Is the district magistrate to be always relied upon? Is he an angel or an archangel not to commit a mistake? No Vakil, no dahil. If once the magistrate errs, the owner is made to pay a fine of so many rupees per day. That fine itself is nothing compared with the dishonour inflicted upon the man by conviction for the offence of having allowed a woman to go on prostituting after a district magistrate had passed his order. I say that none of these gentlemen, I mean honourable members sitting in this House, can escape the axe, and one day or other a district magistrate may call upon an honourable member to pay a fine in respect of a house of which such member happens to know nothing. I therefore oppose the extensive power given by these words. I have said that I am not against the principle of the Bill at all but I am eager that in our desire to prevent the traffic in women we shall not save even innocent people who may be ignorant of what is going on in a particular house. It is not the case of a prostitute who sits in the open verandah so that all people may know it. But where a woman carries on the trade stealthily, an innocent owner, occupier, lessor or any manager should not be victimised in this way. If the honourable mover does not want to give a right of appeal, at least give the owner some power of ejection over the woman. As soon as an owner has asked the woman to go out, he should be free from all liability. There is not a single clause in the Bill which protects a man who has done his duty though the woman could not be stopped from the crime. I therefore move the amendment, and expect that the House will accept it.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : May I make a suggestion to my honourable friend? If it is provided that an order passed by a district magistrate under this section shall be subject to appeal only to the sessions judge, for which the period of limitation will be fifteen days from the date of the order passed by the district magistrate, will that suit my honourable friend? I may be permitted to move an amendment to that effect.

Mr. President : But the amendment moved by the honourable member for Amritsar has to be disposed of first.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I oppose the amendment of the honourable member, Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq.

Mr. President : The question is—

That in clause 10, sub-clause (3), line 3, the words "or allows it to be used" be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I beg to move—

That in clause 10, the following be added as a new sub-clause after sub-clause (2), and the existing sub-clauses (3), (4), (5), (6) and (7) be renumbered as (4), (5), (6), (7) and (8) :—

5 P.M.

“(3) When the District Magistrate has passed an order under sub-section (2) of this section the person who has given the lease, tenancy or occupation shall be entitled forthwith to determine such lease, tenancy, or occupation.”

I have already given my reasons in support of this amendment and I need not repeat them.

The motion was carried.

Mr. E. Mayadas : Sir, I would like to ask one question. Under sub-clause (2) of clause 10 the number of days allowed is fifteen. I would like to know whether the possibility of decreasing this number has been considered.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : Yes, the matter was fully discussed in the select committee, but it was not considered possible to reduce the number of days.

That clause 10 as amended stand part of the Bill.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural) : I rise to oppose this clause. It is so drastic that it goes against even the provisions contained in clause 4 of this Bill. Clause 4 is quite sufficient to meet all such cases and the mover himself admits that he had had a reckless clause added to the provision already existing. First, sub-clause (2) was passed : “An order passed by a district magistrate under this sub-section shall not be subject to appeal,” but that seemed to be pricking his conscience and when I raised an objection he said that that had already been passed and that he could not bring in an amendment which would nullify it. That shows that he himself sees that this clause is drastic and unnecessary. If you take it on its merits it will be found that everything has been met by clause 4. Where then is the need for the present clause? Only you are making confusion worse confounded for the district magistrate. As my friend from Amritsar said the district magistrate is likely to make a mistake here more than in any other case for in this case he will have to depend upon the report of the police or of other men who go to salaam him once or twice a week. Once he has got information there is no source to test whether the information supplied to him is right or wrong. For this reason I do not think this clause should remain part of this Bill. With these few words I oppose clause 10.

That clause 10 as amended stand part of the Bill.

The motion was carried.

Clause 11.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural) : I beg to move—

That in clause 11, lines 3-4, the word ‘Assistant’ occurring before the word ‘Sub-Inspector’ be omitted.

[ K. S. Ch. Riasat Ali. ]

This is a very simple amendment. If we refer to the language of the old section 13 which is printed opposite to this section 11, the words were "any gazetted police officer on complaint and any police officer specially authorised in writing in this behalf by the Superintendent of Police." Now the words are "any police officer not below the rank of Assistant Sub-Inspector." So it is clear that the select committee itself realised the necessity of this amendment and they in a way limited the scope of the clause by narrowing the choice of the class of people who should be empowered to work under this section. Before the Bill came to the select committee for consideration it was simply "any police officer" and now it is "police officer not below the rank of Assistant Sub-Inspector." The principle which I am pressing in a way has practically been admitted by the select committee itself. Now the question remains of what rank that particular officer should be, whether he should be an assistant sub-inspector or whether he should be a sub-inspector. My amendment suggests the deletion of the word "assistant" which means that no officer below the rank of a sub-inspector of police should be authorised to work under this section. My object is that we should limit as far as possible the number of people in whose hands we can place the working of this Act. Of course there is no doubt that there are not many sub-inspectors in a district but as everybody here knows this Act is mainly intended for the people who live in big cities this blessing or vice, whatever I may call it, does not exist in the rural area. So in the district there will be only one or two towns at the most where we have to work this Act. So the argument that we have not got a sufficient number of sub-inspectors to deal with this Act or to work this section will not hold water. I would submit that on an average there are 15 or 16, sub-inspectors in a district and in some even more than that. Thus there will be no dearth of men if we place this power in more responsible hands than the assistant sub-inspectors. I do not attack them as a class but as everybody here knows they are raw youths and practically speaking comparatively inexperienced officers as compared with the sub-inspectors who are more experienced. There will be no harm if the honourable member in charge of the Bill agrees to this amendment of mine.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That in clause 11, lines 3-4, the word "Assistant" occurring before the word "Sub-Inspector" be omitted.

There is another amendment in the name of Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq. He can move it also now so that the House may discuss both the amendments together. Later on they will be put to the House for vote separately.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar City, Muhammadan, Urban): I beg to move—

In clause 11, lines 2-6, the words 'and any police officer not below the rank of Assistant Sub-Inspector specially authorised in writing in this behalf by the Superintendent of Police' be omitted.

This is a very drastic measure and we cannot allow ordinary police officers to deal with women. We want more responsible police officers to do so. A brothel is only a brothel if it has been used for such purpose for a considerable number of years. It does not mean that because a woman has started taking some men to her house it has become a brothel. A brothel is a place where it has been proved to the satisfaction of the district magistrate that prostitution has been going on for some time. I want only the gazetted officers of police to have the power of arrest. I want the power to remain with experienced old gentlemen who cannot be suspected of immorality for their own purpose. Under this clause you are giving very drastic powers to the sub-inspector of police. He may arrest without warrant any person committing an offence under sections 5, 6, 7, 8 or 9. Section 5 refers to any person over and above the age of 18 living on the prostitution of another person, section 6 refers to any person who procures a girl for the purpose of prostitution, and sections 7, 8 and 9 refer to any person who, a woman says, is withholding her for immoral purposes. Just think how serious a thing it is. A woman says to a sub-inspector that there is a person who is withholding her jewellery worth Rs. 20. That man or woman may be a very honourable person, but that sub-inspector will have the right to arrest that person there and then. This enormous power should not be given to the sub-inspector of police. Does the honourable mover of the Bill really want that if a woman simply says that such and such a man is withholding jewellery from her, the sub-inspector should have the power to arrest that man, not only that man but any woman who is reported to be withholding the jewellery? In this case any respectable woman can be implicated. A prostitute will say that this lady of rank is withholding her jewellery, and the police sub-inspector will arrest her then and there. I submit that this is a power which we cannot entrust even to an inspector. In the Criminal Law Amendment Bill which was considered by the House only recently the Government agreed to limit its application only to terrorists and communists. But what the Government have taken by one hand they have given by the other, and in a worse form. With this power in the hands of the subordinate police nobody is safe. A bad woman has only to lodge a complaint and any decent person will be arrested by the police. If it is the desire of the Government that this power should be given to the police, it must be given only to gazetted police officers and to no one else. If this tremendous power is in the hands of the subordinate police, the whole police department will lose any popularity that it now commands and it will also slacken the discipline of the police by giving temptation. If an assistant inspector or even an inspector sees a young pretty girl and takes a fancy to her and she is unwilling to yield to his overtures he can exercise his powers under this provision and arrest her even though she may be quite innocent. That unfortunate girl will be entirely in the clutches of that police officer. Thus the discipline of the police will be shaken. Why should such a temptation be placed before these subordinate police officers? The Government may say that I am overdrawing the picture. But one has to do so in such cases as this. One has to imagine the worst that may arise out of such a provision as this. Only by imagining the worst we can bring about a law, a code of legislation which is absolutely safe for the country. If this provision is allowed to stand as it is, the law will become a scandal of the worst type.

Mr. President : How often is the honourable member going to repeat the same argument?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq I am sorry I have to repeat it so often, but it is only by such repetition that immobile persons can be moved. The honourable members opposite are sitting with faces of steel and absolutely immobile. How can I help repeating my arguments in order to convince them of the correctness of my arguments?

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That in clause 11, lines 2-6, the words "and any police officer not below the rank of Assistant Sub-Inspector specially authorised in writing in this behalf by the Superintendent of Police," be omitted.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : There is another amendment on the notice paper in the name of Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali. I would prefer to accept that amendment. I therefore oppose the present one.

Mr. President : The question is—

That in clause 11 lines 2-6, the words "and any police officer not below the rank of Assistant Sub-Inspector specially authorised in writing in this behalf by the Superintendent of Police" be omitted.

The motion was lost.

Mr. President : The question is—

That in clause 11, lines 3-4 the word "Assistant" occurring before the word "Sub-Inspector" be omitted.

The motion was carried.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural): I beg to move—

That in clause 11 the following be added at the end of the proviso :—

"or if the person arrested furnishes sufficient security to appear before a court."

I need not make any lengthy speech in support of this amendment. I only need refer to the same point to which I referred in connection with my previous amendment. It was considered by the select committee that some sort of check ought to be put on the absolutely free powers of the persons working this Act. This proviso was added for the reasons that a person may not unnecessarily be harassed or troubled. The only object of arresting a person is to ensure that he is brought before a court of law. If there is sufficient security to ensure the attendance in court of such a person, there is no need to arrest him. My amendment is therefore sought to enable a person who is accused of an offence under this Act to get away on giving sufficient security for his attendance in court. This will avoid his being put up in the lock-up if he furnishes sufficient security to the satisfaction of the officer who arrests him.

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That in clause 11, the following be added at the end of the proviso :—

"or if the person arrested furnishes sufficient security to appear before a court."

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I do not think this amendment need be accepted. In the first instance the word "sufficient" has not been explained; sufficient to the satisfaction of whom? What is the use of a person furnishing a security if he refuses to disclose his identity. For these reasons and for the reason that there is sufficient protection in the Bill itself for the person whom Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali seeks to protect, I consider that there is no necessity for this addition.

Mr. President : The question is—

That in clause 11, the following be added at the end of the proviso :—

“or if the person arrested furnishes sufficient security to appear before a court.”

Mr. President : Clause under consideration, amendment moved—

That the following be added at the end of clause 13 :—

“ and the District Magistrate shall not give any such order for a prosecution under section 4 (1) (b) without having given an opportunity for a hearing to the tenant, lessee, occupier or person against whom information is laid ”.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) :
This amendment is obviously absurd because it means really two trials. For example if the district magistrate finds that he should not prosecute the man, he expresses his opinion and the real object of the trial will thus be frustrated. Therefore this amendment cannot be accepted.

Mr. President : The question is—

That the following be added at the end of clause 13 :—

The report to be submitted by the 12th November 1935.

THE PUNJAB DEBTORS' PROTECTION BILL.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram (South-East Rohtak, Non-Muhammadan, Rural): I beg to move—

That the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill be referred to a select committee consisting of—

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh;
 Thakur Pancham Chand;
 Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan;
 Sardar Bishan Singh;
 Sardar Sampuran Singh;
 Khan Bahadur Nawab Muhammad Hayat Qureshi;
 Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali;
 Pir Akar Ali;
 Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan;
 The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd;
 Mr. J. D. Anderson;
 A nominee of the Honourable President, and
 The Mover.

It will be observed that I have substituted the names of Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh and Thakur Pancham Chand in the place of Diwan Bahadur Raja Narendra Nath and Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri as I was given to understand that they were not prepared to serve on the select committee. This I have now definitely ascertained from them and I have no alternative but to suggest two other names in the place of those gentlemen.

I do not propose to make a long speech on the present occasion. I will just draw the attention of the House to a few facts which emerge from a perusal of the opinions which have been received after the Bill was circulated for the purpose of eliciting public opinion thereon. Originally the idea was that a brief special session should be called in January 1935 when the Bill should be circulated for the purpose of ascertaining public opinion and then brought up for final consideration during the last budget session. But various circumstances prevented that being done and the Bill had to be postponed for introduction to the budget session and then had to be circulated for the purpose of ascertaining public opinion. While I am very sorry that the final consideration of this Bill has been delayed for about six months, I am very glad to find that the opinions that have been expressed on this Bill lend me much greater support than I could possibly have expected on the basis of past experience. It is a pleasure to me to observe that the sleeping, silent, voiceless section of the population to safeguard whose interests this Bill was introduced is waking up. Quite a number of public bodies or public gatherings have expressed their opinion in regard to this Bill on the side of the indebted classes. Several individuals also have expressed their opinion in favour of the provisions of this Bill. What gives me unusual pleasure is the fact that the Honourable Judges of the High Court have been able to lend an amount of support to the provisions of this Bill which I could not have guessed at the time when the Bill was introduced in this Council.

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

I will now proceed to give a few details about the amount and character of the support which this Bill has been able to receive from the Honourable Judges of the High Court. The Honourable Mr. Justice Abdur Rashid, the Honourable Mr. Justice Blacker and the Honourable Mr. Justice Din Muhammad support the Bill practically in its entirety. The Honourable Mr. Justice Beckett agrees with these three gentlemen except that he gives only qualified support to clause 4. The Honourable Mr. Justice Bhide seems to concede the principle of the Bill though he thinks that the provisions go too far. The Honourable Mr. Justice Skemp approves of clauses 3 and 4. The Honourable Mr. Justice Munroe favours licensing of money-lenders and clauses 3 and 4. The Honourable Mr. Justice Dalip Singh objects only to clauses 6 and 7 and in a lesser degree to 3 and 4. Exemption from attachment of standing crops, amendment of the Regulation of Accounts Act and licensing of money lenders seem to have proved acceptable to him. The Honourable Mr. Justice Jai Lal and the Honourable Mr. Justice Tek Chand agree with the Honourable Mr. Justice Rangil Lal that so far as the actual tillers of the soil are concerned, they are prepared to do all that is possible and desirable to afford them protection, but they think that the provisions of the Bill are too wide. The Honourable Mr. Justice Addison and the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Coldstream object only to the curtailment of the period of limitation. On the whole, therefore, I may claim that nearly 75 per cent. of the High Court seem to bless the principles of this Bill and afford a very substantial measure of support to the specific provisions contained in it. Then again, 24 deputy commissioners have expressed their opinion on this Bill. Out of these as many as 13 support the Bill. Three are wavering, they have not been able to make up their mind, while 8 only oppose the Bill. That again is a much more substantial measure of support than I anticipated in the beginning. Out of the Commissioners only one supports the Bill, the other two are opposed. So far as district boards are concerned 20 of them have expressed their opinions and all of them have expressed themselves to be in favour of the Bill. In regard to municipal committees I am very pleasantly surprised to find that 14 have supported the Bill out of 31. Two out of 31 are neutral while 15 out of 31 are definitely opposed to this Bill. Out of small town committees 7 have supported the Bill and ten have opposed it. Two notified areas have expressed their opinion, and both of them have supported this Bill. Three cantonment authorities have expressed their opinion and all three are in support of this Bill. Out of other public bodies, public meetings etc. 25 out of 56 support the Bill. Among individuals I find that 22 have expressed their opinions: 13 of these opinions are in support of the Bill. Thus the measure of support which this Bill has been able to receive is very encouraging, indeed, both in volume and in quality. It surpasses my original expectations to a very large extent.

Again, I may draw the attention of the House to the feelings to which this Bill has given rise among agriculturists. The Rajput Prantiya Sabha has supported the provisions of this Bill in their entirety. The Muslim Rajput Conference which was held at Amritsar only yesterday passed a resolution giving its blessings to the Bill in its entirety. A very large conference of zamindars was held at Toba Tek Singh, I think, in July. There a unanimous resolution was passed favouring the provisions of this Bill and urging the Government to place it as quickly as possible on the statute book. Further, towards the end of September a very largely attended conference of zamindars drawn from every part of the province was held at Lyallpur. There again the provisions of this Bill were approved by the conference and a unanimous resolution supporting the Bill, both as regards its underlying principle and its specific provisions was passed. Under the circumstances, I can legitimately and justly claim that this Bill has received a measure of support which will, let me hope, come as a pleasant surprise to the Government itself. The section of the people which has been so long accustomed to remain quiet and silent has suddenly become active and vigilant, has found its tongue and given expression to the feelings which surge up in its breast. That is a distinct sign of awakening in classes which have slept far too long in our province. Therefore, I can very reasonably ask both the official and non-official members of this House to give their blessings to this Bill here in the Council and also during the committee stage. I will not take any more time but will conclude these brief observations with the remark that the treatment which this Bill receives at the hands of the various sections of the House will be the acid test of the sympathy which they have so often professed for the indebted class (cheers).

Mr. President : Motion moved—

That the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill be referred to a select committee consisting of the following :—

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh ;
 Thakur Pancham Chand ;
 Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan ;
 Sardar Bishan Singh ;
 Sardar Sampuran Singh ;
 Khan Bahadur Nawab Muhammad Hayat Qureshi ;
 Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali ;
 Pir Akbar Ali ;
 Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan ;
 The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd ;
 Mr. J. D. Anderson ;
 A nominee of the Honourable President ; and
 The Mover.

Lala Bhagat Ram (Jullundur-cum-Ludhiana, non-Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu) : The previous Act which was passed by the Government in this connection was more than sufficient to crush the sahukars. In its presence there was no necessity to bring forward a new measure to effect the same purpose. In the previous Act there are some two or three provisions which are sufficient to harass the money-lenders. I need not explain them. The present measure will be the cause of their further worry. It provides that the collector should exempt from temporary alienation such portion of agricultural land belonging to an agriculturist judgment-debtor as is sufficient for the maintenance of the judgment-debtor and his family. We all know that in these days when the prices of agricultural produce are so low no one can depend for his maintenance on the income from the agricultural land. Whether a man owns two acres or twenty or two hundred, the income from it is not sufficient for his maintenance. I also own land and I know that the income from it is not sufficient for my maintenance.

[L. Bhagat Ram.]

As such it is quite possible that the collector will forbid the temporary alienation of any portion of the land of the judgment-debtor. The next point I want to put before the House is that it is provided in this Bill that if any money-lender's name is removed from the register of licensed money-lenders or if any money-lender happens to advance a loan after the commencement of this Act but fails to get his name entered in the register of licensed money-lenders he will not be able to recover his debt. This is too harsh a provision. There are many women who carry on the profession of money-lending by advancing loans against the security of ornaments deposited with them. These women who derive their subsistence in this way will lose their claim to all debts advanced by them. By the application of these provisions the money-lending classes will suffer too heavily. (An honourable member : Those provisions have been introduced in the Bill to make the sahuksars more honest.) The same can be said against those with whom will rest the application of these provisions. If they happened to be prejudiced against the sahuksars they would misuse those provisions. I do not want to make a personal attack but it is observed that a new convert is always the deadliest enemy of the followers of his previous faith. If a Hindu embraces islam he turns all his energies against the Hindus and Hinduism. Pathans and Mughals are not so biased against the Hindus as a proselyte. Pathans and Sayads treat us Hindus more politely than the converts from Hinduism to Islam. The old families of pathans and Sayads help Hindus and also show them many favours but the new converts to Islam gird up their loins to extirpate the Hindus. Similarly if a Sanatani Hindu becomes a samaji Hindu he becomes too much bigoted against his old faith. I remember in an office there was a head-clerk who had become a samaji and had become so much prejudiced against the sanatani Hindus that whenever a Hindu belonging to the latter faith joined service in that office under him as a clerk, he used to treat him most harshly and tried to get him dismissed. In the same way if a chamar becomes a muslim he tries to harm the Hindus as much as he can. Dharm Veer is an example to illustrate my point.

Mr. President : Will the honourable member please discuss only the principles of the Bill ?

Lala Bhagat Ram : According to the law in force a decree can be executed within a period of twelve years. And in case the execution of a decree is pending, it remains alive even beyond the twelfth year. But, in accordance with the proposed legislation, the attachment proceedings would be stopped at the end of the sixth year, at whatever stage the proceedings might be. This new proposal of six years will seriously affect the sahuksars and will prove highly prejudicial to their interests.

A big zamindar advances twenty rupees to a small zamindar and gets the agricultural land of the latter mortgaged in his favour. The village sahuksar has no money left with him. He is unable to advance anything to the zamindars to enable him to recover his land. Whatever he had he has already paid to the zamindar. The result of this will be that the big landlords will swallow the small holders.

The poor villagers are absolutely illiterate and ignorant. They do not understand the significance of these legislative bodies and councils. They cannot realize the workings of these assemblies, much less can they start any agitation against them, if their activities are not directed towards their welfare. The representatives of the zamindars have their own axes to grind. They never bother about the zamindars, nor do they really try to do anything which may help them. They bring forward only such measures as will promote their own interests, but will not relieve the zamindars of their embarrassment and indebtedness.

The creditors are already crying against the law that was passed last year. The proper thing would have been that the creditors should have been paid at least four annas in the rupee, so that they might have felt some consolation. But, unfortunately, nothing of that kind has been done. In this Bill it is provided that the collector shall exempt from temporary alienation such portion of the agricultural land belonging to an agriculturist judgment-debtor as is sufficient in his opinion for the maintenance of the judgment-debtor and his family. I fail to understand why in one legislation two different kinds of treatments are proposed for the agriculturists and the non-agriculturists. The law is meant for all and it should be fair and square to everybody. If a favour is shown to the agriculturists, it should also be shown to the non-agriculturists.

This Bill purports to create class distinctions. There is hardly any good point in it. Even the previous Bill was sufficient for creating class distinctions and for ruining the sahu-kars. The proposed Bill will severely damage the good relations between the zamindars and the non-zamindars. They will lose all confidence in each other. There will be a lot of disturbance in the country. The Government will have to interfere and settle the disputes. The Government, too, will suffer a loss. Look at the previous legislation; it has been condemned by all and sundry. There is no hurry about making a new legislation. What is the harm in bringing forward this measure at the time of the new Council. In the new Council the Unionist Party will be in a large majority, and it will be extremely powerful. At that time this Bill can be introduced. With these words, I oppose this Bill.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Tuesday, 29th October, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber at 2 P.M. of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

WRONG AGE OF A CERTAIN ADDITIONAL DISTRICT MAGISTRATE.

*4727. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether a registered letter was sent to Chief Secretary in March 1935 by one Sardar Santokh Singh of Qila Sheikhpura regarding the wrong age of a certain additional district magistrate of the Punjab Civil Service ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that a certified copy of a birth entry from the municipal register of his place of birth was enclosed giving the birth date as 24th June, 1881 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that a discrepancy of nearly five years exists between this age and the officially recorded age of the said official as given in the History Sheet (4th April, 1886) ;
- (d) what action has been taken in the matter and what explanation the officer has for this serious discrepancy ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : (a) Yes.

(b) No. A document purporting to be an extract from the register of births maintained in the office of the Municipal Committee, Hoshiarpur, accompanied the petition, but there is no indication in that document that it relates to the date of birth of the officer referred to.

(c) and (d) Do not arise.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS WORKERS' UNION.

*4728. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on the 24th of August, 1934, the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union, Lahore, requested for the permission of the Superintendent, Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, to wait upon him in a deputation as regards certain grievances of theirs ;
- (b) if so, whether the required permission was granted to the Union ;
- (c) if answer to (b) be in the negative, reasons for not granting the permission ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Because the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union had not been recognised by Government as an association of Government employees. It was, however, made clear that the Superintendent, Government Printing, would at all times be prepared to hear and consider grievances put forward by any of his subordinates whether individually or in deputation provided the members of the deputation were all Government servants and were actually working in the Press.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Member please state whether it is a fact that the late Superintendent of the Press allowed the Union to lead deputations to him ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I do not know. I will find out.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will he please state whether it is a fact that there is no hard and fast rule that unions must be recognised in order to allow them to lead a deputation ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : There is no hard and fast rule.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : If not, why was the rule made so stringent in this case ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : It is within the discretion of the Superintendent. I do not think you can bind him.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS WORKERS' UNION.

*4729. Mr. M. A. Ghani : With reference to the answer to my question No. *801 put on the 27th of February, 1931, will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union, Lahore, has now been recognised ;

(b) if not, reasons for not recognising the Union upto now ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Failure of the Union to abide by the rules for the recognition of associations of Government employees which require that members and office bearers shall be confined to Government servants or honourably retired officers belonging to the same class of Government employees.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that the Union is registered under the Trade Unions Act ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : May be.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is the Honourable Member aware that the Unions of Government servants registered under the Indian Trade Unions Act can have five or more than five outsiders to form the executive thereof ? If that is so, then why was this Union not recognised ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : These are Government rules and we consider them desirable in the interests of Government servants themselves.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is this an idea to oust the outsiders from the Trade Union Movement ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : It is really in the interests of Government servants themselves.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it not a fact that an outsider is better able to advocate their cause ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I would keep the outsiders out in any case.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is the Honourable Member aware that there is a definite recommendation of the Royal Labour Commission that the outsiders should not be ousted from the Labour Unions of Government servants ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I do not claim to remember the whole of the Labour Commission Report, but if you draw my attention to it I will look into it.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS WORKERS' UNION.

*4730. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union, Lahore, made any representation to His Excellency the Governor in Council, Punjab, on the 30th of November, 1934, praying for the recognition of the Union ;

(b) whether the Union mentioned in (a) has been accorded recognition ;

(c) if answer to (b) be in the negative, reasons for not recognising the Union ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) The honourable member is referred to my answer to part (b) of his question No. *4729 (above).

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS WORKERS' UNION.

*4731. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union, Lahore, sent a representation to the Registrar, Trade Unions, Punjab, Lahore, on the 10th of June, 1935, on the subject of certain rights of trade unions ;

(b) if so, will he be pleased to lay on the table a copy of the representation ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) A copy of the representation is placed on the table—

An appeal, dated the 10th June, 1935, from the General Secretary, the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union, Lahore, to the Registrar, Trade Unions, Punjab.

THE Government of India passed the Indian Trade Unions Act (No. XVI of 1926) for the welfare and amelioration of the condition of workers. The Government of India probably aimed that all labour in India should be organised in the form of unions and societies, and may derive the benefit and the privileges which are conferred upon such unions and organisations by the Act in question, provided such unions, etc., are registered thereunder.

2. The employees of the Punjab Government Press being impressed by the sympathetic trend of Government, attempted to derive the advantages of the Indian Trade Unions Act and with a view to remove their difficulties by taking protection under the Act under reference, organised a union under the name of "The Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union". The union was registered in the year 1929 with the assistance of Mr. M. A. Ghani, M. L. C., Bar-at-Law, Lahore.

3. The union in the hope that the concessions permitted by Government in the Act for the labour class are based on reality, represented their grievances in the form of a memorial, submitted to the Punjab Government through the Superintendent, Government Printing, Punjab, Lahore. The first demand made therein was that the union should be recognised. Government have not given any reply in spite of one or two reminders. Finally on 27th February, 1931, the Honourable Sir Sikander Hyat-Khan, Revenue Member, replied to the Council question raised by Mr. M. A. Ghani saying that the Government of India was considering the question of recognition of unions of Government employees and that the question of recognition of this union would be considered soon after the rules were received from the Government of India.

4. The officers of the Punjab Government Press, on seeing the press employees being organised into a union, began to molest the officers of the union in particular and the other employees (union members) in general by the issue of illegal and intolerable orders, so that the combination of the union may terminate. The union raised a storm of protest against the aforesaid orders, and asked for permission to wait in a deputation; but the Superintendent, Government Printing, Punjab, refused to meet the deputation on the ground that "the union is not recognised by Government."

5. Now that the Government of India have framed and issued in the Government of India Gazette rules and regulations for the recognition of the association of Government employees, we once again applied on 30th November, 1934, to the (Punjab) Government through the Superintendent, Government Printing, Punjab, for the recognition of our Union. But after waiting for full two months we came to know through the Superintendent, Government Printing, Punjab, that Government have taken no heed of our application and have refused recognition of our Union. When we asked for a copy of the Government's order of refusal the Superintendent replied that the orders of Government were confidential, a copy of which could not be supplied under any circumstances.

6. We are wonderstruck (to find) that on one side Government enacts laws for the betterment and welfare of the labourers with a view to give them a little push and even appoints a Commission to secure further facilities for them, while on the other the same Government is refusing to recognise a Union registered under an Act framed by itself. It means that Government is framing laws to enable the labourers to combine together and to impress upon them the advantages of such combinations, and if after being influenced by its sympathetic trend, they form a Union, it is refused recognition. Can we conclude from this doublehanded policy of Government that the passage of the Indian Trade Unions Act, the appointment of the Royal Commission on Labour and all other Acts of this nature, are framed only to regularize the official procedure. In reality they are not worth the paper they are written on. If Government does not respect its own laws, how far is it justified to expect their compliance from the general public.

7. It is a matter of few days that our Union shifted its head office from Bhati Gate to Qila Gujar Singh and duly sent the information to you. But for a slight evasion that the information was not sent in time, you called for an explanation and gave a threat of prosecution to the representatives of the Union, though this evasion was not intentional but was due to ignorance of the law on the point.

8. If the annual returns of the Union are not submitted to your office by the fixed date, viz., 31st July, 1935, you start the machinery of law to exercise your powers relating to the arrest (prosecution) of the officers of the Union. Was this the only aim in organising the Union, that the labourers who are by nature of an independent mind and want to remain as such, should tie themselves with the indefinite circuits as in a chain of law and keep themselves in a mental worry all the time, lest they may be called upon to explain any step that they may take contrary of legal maxims. If the Union would claim for a privilege on a reference to this very enactment, ordinarily no reply is received and even if given, it is simply blank.

9. The connections of the Registrar, Trade Unions, Punjab, with the labour class should be of a higher degree than that with the Government or the capitalists. It is because of this that I place before you the following requests with the hope that you will give due consideration thereto and propose a correct solution to enable us to arrive at any definite conclusion :—

- (1) For which class of labour has the Indian Trade Unions Act (No. XVI of 1926) been enacted?

Are Government employees and in particular those in the Punjab Government Press covered by this Act?

- (2) Can employees of any Government factory form a union under this Act? If reply is in the negative, why did you issue a certificate of registration in favour of the Punjab Government Printing Press Workers' Union (No. 17 of 1929) on receipt of a sum of Rs. 5, and why did you not inform us on the very first day that we could not come under the purview of this Act? If reply is in affirmative, then why is the Government refusing to recognise our registered body? Will you kindly place this matter before Government?

- (3) If the truth is that Government is not prepared to accept the maxims of such laws as have been framed for the welfare of labour, then our Union demands emphatically that the Trade Unions Act, the Trade Disputes Act, the Indian Factories Act and the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Labour should be cancelled or suspended forthwith or at least the labour employed in Government concerns should be exempted from these enactments, and be left over at the mercy of their officers. We may be permitted to hold a general meeting to proclaim the termination of the Union and pass a resolution for the cancellation of our certificate of registration.

10. The financial year for which the returns are due from the Union has closed and we have received a letter from you for the free audit of the accounts. As our Union has not been able to derive any advantage from the relevant labour laws framed by Government, but has rather been tied down with the technicalities of law, we refuse to comply with this order intentionally by way of protest, so long as you fail to make adequate arrangements for the fulfilment of the just demands of the Union and send us a satisfactory reply about this before the 31st day of July 1935.

11. It is a matter of regret that besides solving the difficulties of the labour class and completing their just demands, their organised body is being refused recognition. This clearly means that labour in Government concerns is being deprived of their just and legitimate rights.

PRINTING PRESS HANDBOOK.

*4732. Mr. M. A. Ghani: Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether Government is aware that the Government of India revised their Printing Press Handbook of 1899 in 1929;
- (b) whether the Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, still uses the Handbook of 1899;
- (c) if so, reasons for not using the latest Handbook of 1929?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: (a) Yes.

(b) Partly.

(c) It is not essential for the Punjab Government to adopt those rules and rates that are framed exclusively for the use of Government of India Presses.

Mr. M. A. Ghani: Is it a fact that in the Government Printing Press the same rights prevail as obtain in the private-owned presses?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: I will find out.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS.

*4733. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that some members of the staff of the Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, used to go to Simla with the Punjab Government during summer ;
- (b) since when the staff does not go to Simla ;
- (c) reasons for not taking the staff to Simla now ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Since 1925.

(c) In the interests of economy.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Member tell me what were the printing expenses when the staff used to go to Simla and what are the printing expenses now when the staff does not go to Simla.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I require notice of that question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that the printing work of Government suffers a lot because the staff of the Government Press is not taken to Simla ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I have received no complaints whatever.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : How is the printing work done at Simla ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I think by the Government of India Press as far as I am aware. At least that used to be the practice two years ago.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Do they do the work cheaper ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I think that that arrangement is found to be cheaper on the whole.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS.

*4734. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the different workers of the Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, have to handle lead during the course of their working there ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that a number of workers mentioned in (a) are suffering from lead poisoning in various degrees ;
- (c) if so, what action has been taken by the Government to alleviate the effects of the lead poisoning in the Press ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Does not arise.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that the workers of the Punjab Government Printing Press are never examined by a doctor ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I require a notice of that question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that a doctor periodically goes to the Government of India Press and examines the workers there in order to find out whether they are having the effect of lead poisoning?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I am not aware. There is no question of lead poisoning in this case at all. So it is not a relevant question.

FACTORY INSPECTIONS.

*4735. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state the number of inspections made by the—

- (i) Chief Inspector of Factories, and
  - (ii) the Inspectors of Factories
- of the Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, during each of the years since 1930?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : There was no Chief Inspector of Factories in the Punjab before 1935. The figures of inspections made by the Inspector of Factories are given below—

|      |    |    |    |    |      |
|------|----|----|----|----|------|
| 1930 | .. | .. | .. | .. | Nil. |
| 1931 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1    |
| 1932 | .. | .. | .. | .. | Nil  |
| 1933 | .. | .. | .. | .. | Nil  |
| 1934 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1    |

In addition two visits were paid by the Inspector of Factories during 1931 and 1932 respectively to investigate the causes of certain accidents.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : What are the reasons for the Inspector of Factories not visiting the Press in the years he did not go there?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I think because he believes that the arrangements generally are very satisfactory there.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : What are the grounds of this belief of the Inspector?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I say that that must be one of the reasons.

LEAD POISONING IN GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS.

*4736. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether there has recently been a case of lead poisoning in the Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore;

(b) if so, what action has been taken by the Government as regards a recurrence or compensation to the sufferer?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Was there ever a suspected case of lead poisoning ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I will require notice of that question. There was no such case as far as I am aware.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that one worker commonly known as Bodi, a steno-typist suffered from lead poisoning ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I will make enquiries. I am not aware of such a case.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Who was the doctor who examined the case mentioned in the question ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : There is no such question. My reply is no to your question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it not a fact that a certain man was suspected of lead poisoning ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Is not my reply quite clear ?

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Your information is wrong, Sir.

INTERVAL IN GOVERNMENT PRINTING PRESS.

*4737. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that all workers of the Punjab Government Printing Press, Lahore, are turned out of the Press from 12 to 12-30 and from 2 to 2-30 on all working days to observe the "interval hour" ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that there is no shed outside the Press under which the workers could take shelter during the hours mentioned in (a) ;
- (c) reasons for not providing any shed or other protection ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. The employees prefer to sit and rest in the open air.

(c) Further reasons are not necessary.

Mr. M.A. Ghani : Is it not a fact that the Workers' Union has passed a resolution that there ought to be a shed and that they would not like to sit in the open ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I am not aware.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it not a fact that they would like to sit in a shed ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : You must have seen that it is a very shady spot.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : But the shade does not prevent the rains and the sun.

SUB-REGISTRAR, PHALIA.

*4738. Sardar Mangal Singh Man : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether Government is aware that the office of Sub-Registrar, Phalia (district Gujrat) has fallen vacant owing to the retirement of Khan Muhammad Ashraf Khan ;
- (b) whether Government has received any representations about the Sikh claims to the said office ;
- (c) if so, how many and from whom they were received ;
- (d) whether Government proposes to consider Sikh claims when appointing a Sub-Registrar particularly when the last incumbent was a Muhammadan who held this office for over twenty years ;
- (e) whether Government has received any memorial or representation from the public bodies or individuals about the Muslim candidate for the post of the Sub-Registrar ; if so, what action has been taken by Government concerning this representation ?

Mr. F. C. Bourne (Secretary, Industries Department) : (a) There was a vacancy, which has now been filled.

(b) Yes.

(c) Seven. They were received from—

- (1) The Secretary, Singh Sabha, Mandi Baha-ud-din.
- (2) The Secretary, Khalsa Diwan, Phalia tahsil, Mandi Baha-ud-Din.
- (3) The Singh Sabha, Wasu, Mandi Baha-ud-Din.
- (4) The Secretary, Singh Sabha, Mangat, Mandi Baha-ud-Din.
- (5) The Secretary, Singh Sabha, Pindi Baha-ud-Din.
- (6) Sardar Jagat Singh Vasu, President, Local Sikh Gurdwara Committee, Wasu.
- (7) The Secretary, Khalsa Darbar, Amritsar.

(d) Chaudhri Muhammad Ashraf was appointed after considering the claims of all communities.

(e) Not from any public bodies, but from various persons.

SUPPLY OF DRINKING WATER, HISSAR DISTRICT.

*4739. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Rural Sanitary Board, Punjab, has decided in its meeting held on 6th March, 1935, to allot a certain sum of money for the supply of drinking water in rural areas in the Hissar district ;
- (b) if so, whether he will lay a copy of the resolution on the table ;
- (c) what steps, if any, have been taken so far in the Hissar district to alleviate the suffering of the people of the rural areas in respect of water supply ;

[L. Jyoti Prasad.]

(d) whether the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar, got a list prepared of the villages where there is scarcity of drinking water ;

(e) if the answer to (d) be in the affirmative, whether he will lay a copy of it on the table ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) A copy of resolution No. 19, dated the 6th March, 1935, passed by the Sanitary Board, Punjab (Rural Sanitary Board having been amalgamated with the Urban Sanitary Board in 1932, the combined body is called Sanitary Board, Punjab) is placed on the table.

(c) The Public Health Department is considering ways and means to provide potable water to villages in Hissar district where scarcity of water is felt. The chief difficulty is that the sub-soil water in most places, where there is scarcity of drinking water, is brackish.

(d) Yes.

(e) A copy of the list is placed on the table.

Copy of a resolution No. 19 of the Sanitary Board, Punjab, passed at its meeting held on 6th of March, 1935.

(19) Supply of canal water in village ponds for drinking purposes in the Rural areas of Hissar District.

Read endorsement No. 2905-P. H., dated 28th January, 1935, by the Secretary to Government, Punjab, Transferred Departments, forwarding for opinion of the Board a copy of the correspondence relating to the above scheme.

Resolved that a recommendation be made to Government that sanction be accorded for a grant-in-aid of Rs. 6,000 being given for the above scheme which commends itself to the Board, more especially in view of the fact that the district is so noted for the scarcity of water.

List of villages in Hissar district not possessing sweet water wells in sufficient quantity for drinking purposes.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT.

*4740. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- the amount of money which the Punjab Government has received from the Government of India as its share from the amount of one crore distributed among the various provinces for spending on schemes for the economic development and improvement of rural areas ;
- the scheme prepared by the Punjab Government for spending the above grant ;
- the details of the scheme for each district and the amount to be spent in each ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

GUINEA-WORM DISEASE IN HISSAR DISTRICT.

*4741. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- whether it is a fact that disease of guinea-worm is now-a-days prevalent in the villages in the Hissar district ;
- if so, what steps, if any, have been taken by the local officers concerned for its prevention and cure ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes, but only in villages of "barani" areas, where pond water is used for drinking purposes.

[Hon. Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon.]

(b) Pamphlets on guinea-worm are distributed in the affected villages through the revenue officials and school teachers, and preventive measures are explained to the village people by the Public Health staff, such for example as that of unboiled drinking water being strained through muslin. During the year 1934, 391 patients were treated for guinea-worm in the dispensaries of the district.

RAILWAY STATION APPROACH ROAD AT TOHANA.

*4742. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the railway station approach road at Tohana, in the Hissar district, was metalled at Government expense in 1899 on the distinct understanding that future maintenance of the road when metalled will form a charge against incorporated local district funds of the Hissar district, —vide paragraph 2 of Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, Memorandum No. 1041, dated 8rd February, 1900, printed on page 81 of Punjab Government proceedings of May 1902 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the road was transferred to the District Board, Hissar, in 1910 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the District Board, Hissar, has taken no action for the repairs of this road during the last ten years or so ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the above mentioned road is now in a most wretched condition and the people feel great inconvenience in walking over it even in day time and driving carts on it amounts to cruelty to oxen ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that notwithstanding the protests of the Town Committee of Tohana the Government have sanctioned the transfer of this road from the charge of the District Board of Hissar to that of the Town Committee of Tohana on an annual grant of Rs. 200 only for its maintenance ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the Town Committee of Tohana has shown its inability to maintain this road until the road is handed over to it in a proper condition after effecting full repairs ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that the Town Committee of Tohana is unable to meet the expenditure of the repairs of the road from its funds and is also unable to take a loan from the Government for this purpose as it has no means to repay the loan ;
- (h) whether it is a fact that the sanctioned grant of Rs. 200 for the year 1934-35 has lapsed as the Town Committee has not drawn the amount from the Hissar treasury ;
- (i) whether it is also a fact that the cost of repairs of this road will be Rs. 6,000 approximately and the balance in hand of the Town Committee of Tohana is nearly Rs. 500 only ;
- (j) what Government intends to do in the matter ?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : (a) —(b)
Yes.

(i) The cost of repairing the road is estimated at Rs. 4,000. The balance in hand of the Town Committee of Tohana on the 1st August, 1935, was approximately Rs. 500.

(j) Government do not intend to interfere in the matter. The road vests in the Town Committee of Tohana and will be repaired when the Committee is in a position to meet the cost of repairs.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

*4743. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state the number of aided elementary schools and their pupils in rural and urban areas separately in the province with their respective grants district-wise for the years 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 ending 31st of March every year ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

SUSPENSIONS AND REMISSIONS IN HISSAR DISTRICT.

*4744. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state tahsil-wise, for kharif as well as for rabi, the suspension and remission of land revenue and remission in abiana and tagavi loans for the years 1931 to 1935, in the Hissar district ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Statements giving the required information are laid on the table—

HOUSE BUILDING ADVANCES TO EMPLOYEES OF LOCAL BODIES.

*4745. Sardar Bahadur Sardar Buta Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- whether it is a fact that the employees of local bodies in the province have been debarred from house building advances since December 1927, in spite of the fact that the provident fund money of the employees remains in the custody of the local bodies, and the same can serve the purpose of security against any loss ;
- whether it is a fact that the above privilege is still in force for the Government officials though none of their money remains in the custody of Government to serve as security ;
- if replies to (a) and (b) be in the affirmative, the reasons for this differential treatment ;
- in view of the above, whether Government is prepared to reconsider its decision ?

Mr. W. G. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : (a) Yes.

(b) It is within the discretion of Government to grant house-building advances from their pay to Government servants, but their provident fund money, if the Government servants concerned are subscribing to the fund, serves as security in addition to the house and the site which have to be mortgaged to Government.

(c) It has not been considered advisable to permit local bodies, whose financial circumstances cannot be compared with Government's, to give such advances.

(d) No.

REGISTRAR, CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES AND THE MANAGER, CENTRAL
CO-OPERATIVE BANK, JULLUNDUR.

*4746. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Jullundur Central Co-operative Bank, Limited, Jullundur, unanimously passed a resolution in their general meeting held on 3rd March 1932 to grant a gratuity of Rs. 1,000 to Mr. Fazal-ul-Rahman, Manager of the said bank ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Punjab, refused to sanction the grant of the gratuity ;

(c) if so, the reasons for not sanctioning the grant of gratuity ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) The Manager has already been most generously treated and the Bank were under no further obligation in the matter.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : In what way ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : He was given his due and that was considered to be very generous.

REGISTRAR, CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES AND THE MANAGER, CENTRAL
CO-OPERATIVE BANK, JULLUNDUR.

*4747. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Mr. M. L. Darling, I.C.S., late Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Punjab, advised the Directors of the Jullundur Central Co-operative Bank, Limited, Jullundur, to dispense with the services of Mr. Fazal-ul-Rahman, the Manager of the Bank, on account of his having attained the age of 62 years ;

(b) if so, whether it is a fact that the Directors refused to dispense with the services of Mr. Fazal-ul-Rahman on account of his exceptionally good and meritorious work and on account of there being no age limit for any employee in the bank ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the late Mr. W. R. Wilson, Registrar, Co-operative Societies, Punjab, again pressed the Directors to act on the advice of Mr. M. L. Darling in retiring Mr. Fazal-ul-Rahman as mentioned above ;

(d) the reasons for the Registrars' interference in the internal affairs of the Bank and in pressing it to dispense with the services of Mr. Fazal-ul-Rahman ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh: It is not in the public interest to disclose advice given by the Registrar or by officers of the Co-operative Department to co-operative institutions in the course of their duties.

TRADE UNIONS.

*4748. Mr. M. A. Ghani: Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state the names of the trade unions recognised by the Punjab Government as they stood on the 15th July 1935?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: Trade unions do not require to be recognised under the Trade Unions Act. Recognition by Government is only in point in connection with associations of Government servants, which are governed by rules with which the Trade Unions Act has nothing to do and which may or may not be registered under that Act.

Mr. M. A. Ghani: Are there any trade unions in this province registered under the Trade Unions Act which have been recognised by Government?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: None that I am aware of; but if the honourable member will give notice I may be able to give a more definite answer.

Mr. M. A. Ghani: Can the Honourable Member give reasons why the Government does not recognise the unions of Government servants registered under the Act?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: I should require notice of that question.

RULES UNDER THE FACTORIES ACT.

*4749. Mr. M. A. Ghani: Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether he is aware that His Excellency the Governor-General assented to the Factories Act, 1934 (XXV of 1934) on the 20th August, 1934;
- (b) whether he is aware that the Act came into force on the 1st January, 1935;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the rules under the Act have not yet been framed and promulgated by the Punjab Government;
- (d) if so, the reasons for the delay in framing and promulgating the rules;
- (e) when the rules are likely to be framed and promulgated?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: (a) and (b) Yes.

(c)—(e) The rules were published for criticism under Punjab Government Gazette notification No. 29260, dated the 4th September, 1935.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : In view of the fact that His Excellency the Governor-General gave his assent to the Factories Act on the 20th August, 1934, and the Act was brought into force on the 1st May, 1935, will the Honourable Member please state how it is that the Government did not frame the rules within this period ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : One has carefully to consider the pros and cons of all the rules.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Does the Honourable Member mean to say that it took more than a year to consider the rules ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Yes.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact or not that the other provincial Governments framed and promulgated the rules by the 1st of January, 1935 ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I do not know.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact or not that from the 1st January, 1935, when the Act came into force there were no rules under the Act in this province ?

Mr. President : It is not fair on the part of the honourable member to exercise his right of putting supplementary question for the purpose of cross-examining the Government Member.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I only want to ascertain why the Government did not frame the rules earlier.

Mr. President : The honourable member is aware, I presume, that supplementary questions can be put only for the purpose of further elucidating any matter of fact regarding which an answer has been given. To ask a question for further elucidating a matter of fact mentioned in the Government Member's answer is one thing and to cross-examine him in detail is another thing.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I shall ask only one supplementary question. Is it a fact or not that when the Act came into force there were no rules framed under the Act ?

Mr. President : Which matter mentioned in the Honourable Revenue Member's reply has the honourable questioner in view in asking the question ? I appeal to him to conform to the rules.

FACTORIES UNDER THE FACTORIES ACT, 1934.

*4750. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state the names of the premises in the Punjab together with the names of their owners which have been declared as factories under section 5 of the Factories Act, 1934 ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : A statement showing the names of premises in the Punjab, which have been registered as factories under section 5 of the Factories Act, 1934, together with the names of their "occupiers" is laid on the table. A record of the names of "owners" of factories is not maintained.

[Hon. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

JOINT DEVELOPMENT BOARD AND THE COTTAGE WEAVING INDUSTRY.

*4751. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self Government be pleased to state—

- whether it is a fact that a weaving sub-committee of the Joint Development Board, Punjab, was constituted by the Punjab Government sometime ago ;
- if so, whether it is a fact that no representative of the cottage weaving industry was nominated on the sub-committee ;
- if the answer to (b) be in the negative, the name of the person who was so nominated ;
- if answer to (b) be in the affirmative, reasons for not nominating a representative of the cottage weaving industry ?

Mr. F. C. Bourne (Secretary, Industries Department) : (a) Yes.

(b) No. A representative of the Weavers' Association, Ludhiana, has been nominated on the sub-committee.

(c) Mr. Hasam-ud-Din.

(d) Does not arise.

COTTAGE WEAVING INDUSTRY.

*4752. Mr. M. A. Ghani: Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Government of India granted to the Punjab Government Rs. 16,000 last year and Rs. 38,000 this year for the development and uplift of cottage weaving industry in this province ;
- (b) if so, whether he will lay on the table a statement showing how the two sums have been utilized for the development and uplift of the industry in question ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that no one interested in the industry and directly concerned with it was ever consulted as regards the best methods for utilizing the money ;
- (d) if so, reasons for not consulting any one ?

Mr. F. C. Bourne (Secretary, Industries Department): (a) The Government of India have granted Rs. 17,000 for 1934-35 and Rs. 38,000 for 1935-36 for the development of cotton handloom weaving industry.

(b) The expenditure noted below has been incurred—

STANDING COMMITTEE ON POLICE.

*4753. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether a meeting of the Standing Committee on Police has ever been held during the last six years ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) is in the negative, whether the failure on the part of the Department to hold any meeting is due to the fact that no matters of policy or administrative importance arise or that non-official opinion is not required in such matters ; and if the failure is due to any other reasons, what they are ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No. Notices were actually sent out for a meeting to be held in Simla on the 14th August last, but owing to the pre-occupation of Government with the communal situation in Lahore and the postponement of the Council session which it had been intended to hold in Simla the meeting was subsequently cancelled. A meeting has now been fixed for the 13th November.

(b) There were no special reasons for the failure to call the Committee during the last few years.

CONCILIATION BOARDS UNDER THE PUNJAB RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT.

*4754. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) the names of the districts which have been selected for the operation of Conciliation Boards under the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act ;
- (b) the names of tahsils in which these Boards will operate ;
- (c) whether in recommending retired officers deputy commissioners consulted in all cases any associations or private individuals in order to ascertain whether the individuals recommended by them had borne an unblemished reputation for honesty during their official careers ;
- (d) whether all deputy commissioners had taken the precaution of consulting any recognised associations or individuals of note in order to make sure that the gentlemen recommended for selection as members of Conciliation Boards were of the calibre calculated to inspire confidence ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) Up to date orders have been issued establishing Conciliation Boards with jurisdiction in the following four areas :—

- (1) Amritsar district (the whole) ;
- (2) Jhang district (the whole) ;
- (3) Garhshankar tahsil (Hoshiarpur district) ;
- (4) Panipat tahsil (Karnal district).

(c) and (d) Government do not doubt that the deputy commissioners and commissioners concerned took all reasonable steps to satisfy themselves that the gentlemen whose names they proposed to put forward were suitable for the purpose ; and they believe that the appointments finally made have met with general approval.

GRIEVANCES OF HINDU AGRICULTURAL CLASSES.

*4755. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether a deputation of the Hindu zamindar members of the Punjab Legislative Council waited upon His Excellency the Governor in March 1932 and represented to him informally the grievances of the Hindu agricultural classes of the province ;
- (b) whether this deputation left written memorandum of the grievances of Hindu zamindars ;
- (c) whether the facts referred to in (a) and (b) were brought to his notice formally or informally, within the last two years with a view to ascertaining if any action was taken in consequence of the representations made by this deputation ;
- (d) whether any action has, as a matter of fact, been taken in pursuance of the action of the Hindu zamindar members of the Council referred to in (a) and (b) or since the reminder referred to in (c) ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) It was decided that the claims of Hindu, Muslim and Sikh zamindars to be recruited as zamindars should have equal consideration.

REPRESENTATION OF STATUTORY AGRICULTURAL CLASSES IN GOVERNMENT SERVICES.

*4756. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether any officer was placed on special duty in regard to the resolution moved by the late lamented Mr. Owen Roberts on the subject of the representation of statutory agricultural classes in Government services ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether that officer was instructed to ascertain from the representatives of these classes in the House as to where their grievances lay and what means they suggested for the removal of these grievances ;
- (c) whether any leading members of the House were, in any way or to any extent, consulted on the subject by the special officer or by any of the Honourable Members and Ministers ;
- (d) whether this special officer has submitted any report on the subject to the Government ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No. In accordance with the pledge given by Sir Henry Craik on the 20th February, 1934, those departments of Government in which the percentage of zamindars was less than the proportions prescribed in the resolution of 1919 were addressed and the matter is still under consideration.

(b), (c) and (d) Do not arise.

STATUTORY HINDU AGRICULTURISTS AS SUB-JUDGES.

*4757. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that since the inception of the so-called competitive or semi-competitive test for the selection of sub-judges no statutory Hindu agriculturist has been selected for appointment ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that in order to give a reasonable measure of representation to Muslims, Sikhs and Indian Christians, Government has gone down as low as the 59th, 62nd, 70th and 91st place on the list of successful candidates ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that Indian Christians are only about three lakhs in number while among statutory Hindu agricultural tribes Jats and Rajputs alone are 1½ millions strong ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that statutory Hindu agriculturists are more backward educationally than Indian Christians, Muslims and Sikhs ;
- (e) if Government is unaware of the real situation in respect of (d), whether it will make necessary enquiries from the Honourable Minister for Education or otherwise in order to give a satisfactory answer to this part of the question ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes, so far as Indian Christians are concerned. In the case of Muslims and Sikhs it was in order to secure zamindar candidates of those communities and maintain the required proportion of zamindars and non-zamindars that Government have been from time to time compelled to depart from the order of merit in selecting candidates.

(c) and (d) The honourable member is referred to paragraphs 177, 181, 227 and 239 of the Census Report, 1931, Volume XVII (Part I), a copy of which is in the Council Library.

(e) Does not arise.

STATUTORY AGRICULTURIST SUB-JUDGES.

*4758. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state whether it is a fact that under the definition of " zamindar " adopted in the rules of the High Court relating to the recruitment of sub-judges a Jat, a Rajput, a Gujar, an Ahir, an Awan or an Arain or any member of any notified agricultural tribe residing in an urban area will be regarded as a non-zamindar ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : A candidate for the post of subordinate judge, who is a member of a notified agricultural tribe, is not normally to be regarded as a " zamindar " unless he can prove to the satisfaction of the deputy commissioner of the district from which he hails, that his father not only resides in a rural area but is a hereditary proprietor or tenure-holder of agricultural land and mainly dependant thereon for his livelihood, or is an actual cultivator of such land.

STATUTORY AGRICULTURIST CLERKS IN THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

*4759. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) the number of clerks of any grade recruited by direct appointment in the Department of Agriculture during the last three years ;
- (b) the number of Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs and of statutory agriculturists of each denomination among them ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) 27.

(b)

|         |    |    | Agriculturist. | Non-agriculturist. | Total. |
|---------|----|----|----------------|--------------------|--------|
| Hindus  | .. | .. | 2              | 12                 | 14     |

COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE RATES IN THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

*4760. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that he accepted on behalf of the Government a resolution urging the appointment of a Committee for the purpose of examining the question of rates in the Public Works Department during the last budget session ;
- (b) whether any Committee has been appointed so far ; if so, what is its personnel ; and if not, what are the reasons for delay ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) A committee has been formed consisting of the following officials and non-officials :—

- (i) The Chief Engineer, Buildings and Roads Branch.
- (ii) Khan Bahadur Nawab Mian Muhammad Hayat Qureshi, C.I.E., M.L.C.
- (iii) Khan Bahadur Nawab Chaudhri Fazl Ali, O.B.E., M.L.C.

FOREST DEPARTMENT, MULTAN.

*4761. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that till recently the six Block officials in the Multan Forest division were of various communities and now the Divisional Forest Officer, Multan Forest division and all the other officers are of the same community ;
- (b) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, why posts and contracts are being given to the people of one community only to the entire exclusion of other communities ;
- (c) what Government intends to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The Divisional Forest Officer and other officers serving in the Multan Forest division are not of one and the same community.

Out of 99 contracts in all 32 are with Muslims, one with Sikhs and 6 with Hindus.

(b) and (c) Do not arise.

FOREST DEPARTMENT, MULTAN.

*4762. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state the number of Hindu and Muslim clerks in the office of the Divisional Forest Officer, Multan, before the present Divisional Forest Officer took charge and what the present ratio of the clerks is in the above mentioned office ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : When the present Divisional Forest Officer took over charge of the Multan Forest division, his office consisted of 8 Hindu and 2 Muslim clerks. At present he has 4 Hindus and 1 Sikh. Clerks are on provincial list and their postings to divisional offices are made by the Conservator and the Chief Conservator.

SERA AT KHANEWAL.

*4764. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) whether the Notified Area Committee, Khanewal, has been converted recently into a municipal committee ;

- (b) whether any municipal office has been built there so far ;
- (c) whether the Government serai is being used partly as municipal office and partly as police post ;
- (d) whether the Government is prepared to issue orders for the vacation of the serai for the use of the public ?

Mr. W. C. Bradford (Secretary, Transferred Departments) : (a) The Notified Area, Khanewal, was converted into a municipality more than 2 years ago.

(b) No.

(c) The building which is now being used partly as municipal office and partly as a police post is not a Government building. It belongs to the committee and was formerly used as a serai but its use as such was discontinued in 1929.

(d) No. The question is one for the municipal committee to decide.

BUNGALOW SITES, KHANEWAL.

*4765. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) the number of plots reserved as bungalow sites according to the lay-out scheme in the Khanewal town ;
- (b) the number of plots allotted already ;
- (c) the number of plots still to be distributed ;
- (d) the names of persons to whom they have been allotted ;
- (e) the names of the persons whose applications are pending and since when ;
- (f) the conditions of this allotment ;
- (g) whether huge heaps of sand are lying on this site which are blown from place to place by the wind in summer ;
- (h) when the Government intends to allot these plots ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that the reply to this question is not yet ready.

PASTURE GROUND, KHANEWAL.

*4766. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether any land has been reserved as pasture ground (charagah) for the town cattle in Khanewal ;
- (b) whether such lands have been reserved in rural chaks in the colony ;
- (c) if not, how Government intends to meet this requirement ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Charagah is reserved in chaks allotted to peasant grantees.

(c) No action is proposed, as no reservation has been made for grazing ground for town cattle in any colony town.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTION AND ANSWER.

FINANCIAL ENQUIRY BY NIEMEYER COMMITTEE.

Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state if the Punjab Government propose to invite public opinion on the subject of the financial enquiry to be conducted by Sir Otto Niemeyer so far as it affects this province?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I should like, with your permission Sir, to answer this question on Thursday, the 31st October. I am sorry I have not got the answer now before me.

RELIGIOUS DEBATE BETWEEN AHMADIYYA COMMUNITIES, RAWALPINDI.

1217. Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether it has been brought to his notice that as a result of a challenge issued by members of the Anjuman Ahmadiyya Ishaat Islam of Rawalpindi to members of the Admadiyya community at that place, a religious debate between them was arranged to take place at Rawalpindi from 12th to 15th May, 1935 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner, Rawalpindi, issued orders to stop the proposed meeting ;
- (c) whether the notice under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, was served on both the parties or on one only ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner, Rawalpindi, refused to supply a copy of the order referred to in (b) above to the Ahmadiyya community which applied for a copy of the order ;
- (e) whether Government proposes to take any action in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes ; in the interest of preservation of public peace in Rawalpindi.

(c) The notice under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, prohibiting the debate between Ahmadis of Qadian and their opponents in Rawalpindi, was issued to the Ahmadis of Qadian and not their opponents because the former were the organizers of the proposed debate.

(d) No ; the Deputy Commissioner, Rawalpindi, refused to supply a copy of the confidential instructions issued by him to the Superintendent of Police, Rawalpindi, in regard to the enforcement of the notice under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code.

(e) No.

MOSQUES AND TEMPLES.

1219. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) the names and situation of those mosques which have been used as such in the past but are at present not in the possession of the Muslims ;
- (b) whether the Muslim community have ever laid claims in the past to the restoration of mosques that have passed into the possession of other communities ;

- (c) when and how such mosques passed into the hands of the present occupiers ;
- (d) whether there are any Hindu or Jain temples in the possession of Muslims ; if so, how they were taken by them and whether they are used for purposes other than Hindu worship ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : It is not in the public interest to hold a province-wide enquiry of this nature as it is not likely to achieve any result except to raise communal tension. The law of the land secures to every individual full enjoyment of his prosperity and with this every one should remain contented.

SALE OF LIQUOR IN SADHAURA.

1220. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the sale of liquor has been prohibited under section 5 of the Local Option Act, V of 1928, from 1st April, 1935, in Sadhaura, district Ambala ;
- (b) if so, whether a licence has been auctioned and a liquor shop established just adjacent to the municipal limits and within the revenue area of Sadhaura ;
- (c) how far the present liquor shop is situated from the previous liquor shop of 1934 and what its minimum distance is from the inhabited parts of Sadhaura ;
- (d) whether he has received any complaints from the residents of Sadhaura to this effect ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) The present liquor shop is situated at a distance of about 340 yards from the previous shop. It is at about 400 yards from the inhabited parts of Sadhaura.

(d) No. Not from the residents of Sadhaura.

SLAUGHTER HOUSE NEAR KRISHAN NAGAR, LAHORE.

1221. Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether Government is aware that there is a slaughter house very close to the thickly populated abadi of Krishan Nagar and Sanda Road and that the Municipal Committee of Lahore has not taken any effective steps to remove it to a suitable locality in spite of repeated representations on the subject ;
- (b) if so, what steps it proposes to take to remove this grievance of the inhabitants of Krishan Nagar and Sanda Road, Lahore ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter is under consideration.

DEPARTMENTAL REPORTS OF THE PUNJAB GOVERNMENT.

1222. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to lay on the table a comparative statement showing the names of the various annual and occasional Departmental Reports published by the Punjab Government and their prices together with the names of the analogous reports published by the Government of India and other Provincial Governments and their prices, if the information regarding the latter is available ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : A list of Departmental Reports published and stocked for sale at the Government Book Depot is appended together with prices noted against each.

Analogous reports published by the Government of India and other Provincial Governments are not available in the Book Depot.

List showing the names of departmental reports published and stocked at the Government Book Depot for sale.

LEAVE RESERVE IN DEPUTY COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE; ROHTAK.

1223. Chaudhri Ram Sarup : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- how many leave reserves are kept in the Deputy Commissioner's office, Rohtak ;
- what their functions are ;
- whether it is a fact that they are kept only for filling the vacancies of men who go on leave ;
- whether they were given any chance in 1934-35 to fill up the leave vacancies ; if so, how many of them ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Seven.

(b) The leave reserve apprentices are employed for filling leave vacancies ; when free they are employed to assist any officials who are heavily worked at the time.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes ; all.

SUBORDINATES IN DEPUTY COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE, ROHTAK.

1224. Chaudhri Ram Sarup : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- whether it is a fact that no subordinate in the office of the Deputy Commissioner, Rohtak, is allowed to see the Deputy Commissioner, without the permission of the head of the branch in which the subordinate is serving ;

(b) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, what are the reasons for this prohibition ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

THE PUNJAB DEBTORS' PROTECTION BILL.

Mr. President : The Council will resume discussion on the motion of Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram.

That the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill be referred to a Select Committee.

Lala Chetan Anand (West Punjab Towns, non-Muhammadan, Urban) : I rise to oppose the motion before the House. This legislation following just in the wake of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act 1934 which came into force in April 1935 will have a very bad effect upon the rural peasants. As is well known, the Punjab agriculturist will soon be put into a difficult position and he will have to sell his land to bigger landlords and the smaller fishes will be swallowed up by bigger ones and the peasant proprietors will soon be extinguished. I would therefore ask the House to take this view of the matter into consideration and examine the working of the Relief of Indebtedness Act for some time and then if they find that that Act does not give sufficient relief to the debtors then another Bill can be brought up. The mover of the Bill has conveniently omitted to make a reference to the opinion of the Financial Commissioner, Development, who is the man who is in constant touch with the peasant proprietors and who cannot be accused of being partial to the money lending class even. He says :

Generally speaking, this legislation is superfluous in view of the existing Acts already in force on the subject, namely—

The Usurious Loans Act, 1918,

The Punjab Regulation of Accounts Act, 1930, and

The Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act, 1934.

As a matter of principle it would appear desirable to await the result of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act.....The Bill appears to contain a series of drastic and far from impartial provisions designed apparently to fortify the indebted classes, who are already exceptionally favoured by recent enactments, in resisting the claims of their creditors.....The Financial Commissioner, Development, thinks that in view of the very indefinite nature of the present proposals, this fresh attempt at a very questionable piece of legislation should not be supported. These sections are in fact merely part and parcel of a general offensive, which the mover evidently wishes to set in motion against the rural creditor. Even if it is successful, the effect so far as can be observed will be equally damaging to the debtor class. Without credit the Punjab agriculturist will soon reach the end of his resources. The money-lender on the other hand will not be ruined by legislative measures of this kind, but divert his resources elsewhere. The result may be merely to suspend the working of the economic system in rural areas, however antiquated that system may be, and arrest the march of progress indefinitely.

The Registrar, Co-operative Societies, has also given his opinion and the Punjab Chamber of Commerce has discussed this Bill and their opinions also deserve great consideration at the hands of this Council. By section 4 of this Bill a sweeping change in the law is sought to be enforced. If this clause is enacted any person owning agricultural land would be exempt from the attachment of his land, even if he follows personal law, either the Hindu law or the Muhammadan law. (Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : We do not follow these things; we follow the customs in this province). There is no question of customary law. Clause 4 of the Bill says :

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other enactment for the time being in force, ancestral property in the hands of an heir shall not be liable to attachment in the execution of a decree relating to a debt incurred by his predecessor in interest.

There is no reservation made whether he follows the customary law or personal case law. It equally applies in the case of a person who follows the Hindu law where it is his pious duty to discharge the debts of his ancestors. Clause 5 also makes great inroads on the rights of the creditors.

Pir Akbar Ali : On a point of order. Are the various clauses of the Bill under discussion or only general discussion is going on now ? My honourable friend is discussing the clauses.

Lala Chetan Anand : I am discussing the principles of the Bill by saying that the principle underlying these clauses is unjust. Already when standing crops are attached provision is made for the requirement of the payment of revenue and also the needs of the debtor. The exemption of standing crops and trees altogether would make it very troublesome for the creditor to realise his amount.

Again in clause 7 a great sweeping change is also sought to be made. A dishonest debtor by evading execution of a decree for a number of years would not have to pay anything as the wording says that no execution would be continued after six years. This is also unwholesome. Again in clause 8 a change is sought to be made in the Regulation of Accounts Act. No data has been placed before the Council by the mover as regards the working of this Regulation of Accounts Act to show that it has not been followed or that it has not helped the debtor. Therefore I submit that all the clauses of the Bill are great inroads on the rights of people and this motion ought therefore to be rejected.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain (North-East Towns, non-Muhammadan, Urban) (Urdu) : Now that the Relief of Indebtedness Bill has been placed permanently on the statute book, I do not think that it is necessary to move this Bill at all. The honourable members of this House are aware that the passage of the Relief of Indebtedness Bill has made the realisation of the debts of the sahuikars impossible. (Pir Akbar Ali : Question) When the sahuikars go to press for the payment of their dues they are dismissed with this answer by their debtors that after the passage of the Relief of Indebtedness Bill it is not necessary for them to pay their dues. (Mr. M. A. Ghani : Question) I shall ask a simple question from Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram. Why did he not make efforts to change the Relief of Indebtedness Bill with a view to providing further protection for the debtors of this province, if any protection was at all needed, when that Bill was referred to a select committee ? But when he thought that neither the members of that committee nor the Government were prepared to accede to his demands he dropped the idea for the time being. I ask him, what hopes has he now that his Bill will meet with the approval of every section of this House ? I want to urge that this Bill does not deserve a reference to the select committee. The Government must have realised this, I hope, if they are prepared to take a lesson from the history of the Relief of Indebtedness Bill. I, for one, cannot appreciate the attitude of the Government. On the one hand it is trying to check the growth of socialism in this country by passing black laws like the Criminal Law Amendment Act and on the other it is out to help the passage of such laws which are sure to pave the way for the progress of such subversive creeds. We all know that after the enforcement of the Relief of Indebtedness Act many debtors' associations have been organised in villages which are actively preaching the gospel of socialism. The workers of these associations exhort people to refuse the payment of their dues to the sahkars. They say, "We are not prepared to pay a pie out of our debts. The distinction between the rich and the poor must vanish; all capital in the country should be equally divided." The Government should think a good deal before lending support to this measure. I have grave fears that if such bills are allowed to be passed in this Council in such quick succession such things must happen in this country which the Government is desirous of checking. The Government is not unaware of the great changes which have taken place in the province in the possession of the landed property as a logical consequence of the enforcement of the Relief of Indebtedness Act. For instance, the zamindars are reclaiming those lands which were in the possession of the sahkars by virtue of tenancy rights. They are forcibly ejecting the tenants and neither the police nor other authorities come to the help of the sahkars. I say, if the principle of "might is right" is encouraged any longer in a similar way, its consequences will be disastrous both for the Government and the people. I want to ask, has not the Government fully known the consequences of the enforcement of the Relief of Indebtedness Act so far? If it has, then it should abstain from lending its support to the Bill moved by Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram. Yesterday the learned Chaudhri Sahib said in his speech that very few opinions against his Bill had been received, and therefore it should be referred to a select committee. The Government as well as this House are aware that last time when the Relief of Indebtedness Bill was circulated for eliciting public opinion, innumerable opinions were submitted to the Council office against that Bill. But in spite of all those opinions it was passed into law. This is why the people have not cared to submit their opinions, hence the receipt of very few opinions on the present Bill. I think the intelligent section of the people thought that as the Bill was sure to be passed by the Council they need not waste so much paper and ink for submitting their opinion. Last time many learned sub-judges and district judges gave their opinions against the Indebtedness Bill, but in spite of all that the Bill was passed. Therefore the thoughtful people of the province have treated the circulation of Chaudhri Sahib's Bill with indifference. It is significant to note that many people who submitted opinions against the last Bill have submitted no opinion whatsoever on the present Bill. This is a further confirmation of my statement. Again he said that it was resolved in the Zamindars Conference that this Bill should be passed. But the learned Rao Bahadur knows in what terms the President of the Conference put this resolution before the Conference. He said that the zamindars had borrowed from the sahkars in order to loyally pay the land revenue to the Government. They were loyal to the Government, so they borrowed money from the sahkars to meet their obligations to the Government. Is it fair, I ask, on the part of the zamindars now to be disloyal to the sahukars who saved them from imprisonment and from incurring the displeasure of the benign Government, by giving them money? I appeal to their sense of honour that they should not devise means of evading the payment of those debts which they incurred to save their honour. After all, you can lay no blame at the door of the sahukar. He came to your help when both your loyalty and honour were in danger. You were about to be deprived of your fair name by being put into the prison for failing to pay your dues to the Government, and he rendered you help like a good friend. Do not be his foe now that your danger is over. This will not be honourable.

A funny argument was put forward by a member in the Lyallpur Zamindara Conference. He said, the zamindars had borrowed money from the sahukars in order to purchase lands. Now the lands are not so dear as they were at the time when they borrowed money; it is therefore very difficult for the zamindars to pay up the debts of the sahukars. But he should not overlook the fact that the price of land has not decreased on account of any fault of the sahukar; therefore he should not be made to suffer for a decrease in the price of landed property. Moreover, the zamindar either purchased land from the Government or from his fellow-zamindars. The sahukar did not gain anything from this transaction. He advanced you money and money he claims back. You cannot reasonably refuse repayment. As I have said these lands were not purchased from the sahukars. They were either purchased from the Government or from the zamindars themselves and if the prices of these lands have now gone down, there is no reason why the sahukars should be made to suffer for that. Is this the reward that you propose to offer to the sahukars who, by advancing loans to the zamindars, enabled the zamindars to have a permanent means of livelihood? It is a pity that those very people who at one time were considered to be the benefactors of the zamindars and who were flattered and cajoled into advancing loans, should now be denied all facilities to recover the loans that they liberally advanced to their fellow-beings to enable them to stand on their legs. This Bill and other similar legislations that have already been passed are clearly meant to make it impossible for the sahukars to get back their money. It is, to say the least, injustice, pure and simple. I am aware that many of the members of this Council are not in sympathy with this Bill that is now under discussion. I should say that 90 per cent. of these members desire that the Debtors' Protection Bill should not be placed on the statute book. But the difficulty is that the elections for the future Punjab Assembly are drawing very near and none of these members dare oppose this Bill for fear of incurring the displeasure of their voters, although in their heart of hearts they do not like to support it. I know that many of them want to wait and see the effects that the Relief of Indebtedness Act will produce in the province. They would very much like to see whether that Act will be conducive to the peace of the province or whether it will create dissatisfaction and discontent among the public at large. But, as I have said, they dare not wait till that time. They dare not oppose this Bill because they know that when seeking elections for the future Assembly, they will find it very hard to persuade their voters to vote for them in case they opposed this Bill now.

3 P.M.

Chaudhri Ram Sarup : If that is the case, it will not then be wrong to say that the lady member is also opposing this Bill as an election propaganda.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : But I would appeal to the members of the Council that they should not be guided by that feeling. The right attitude is that they should do what is just and right. They should all unite to throw out this Bill if not for any other reason, at least for maintaining peace and order in the province.

I should now like to say a few words with regard to some of the clauses of the Bill and the principles embodied therein. In one of the clauses of the Bill it has been laid down that the collector shall decide the period of alienation of a land ordered by the civil court to be attached and alienated temporarily in execution of a decree. It means that it is proposed to give the powers at present vested in the civil courts to the collectors. Not only that. The collector, according to another clause, shall be required to make enquiries in order to find out the income that that piece of land yields and if, in his opinion, the income from that land will be sufficient only to maintain the debtor and his family, he will have to exempt that land from temporary alienation. Now it is clear as daylight that in order to get his lands exempted from temporary alienation, every debtor will be able to find any number of excuses and if need be he will produce any number of witnesses to prove his statements. Even if a debtor is the master of many squares of land, he will try to see that his lands are not alienated to satisfy the decree passed against him. He will say that he is the father of about a dozen children some of whom always remain ill and that he has to pay a heavy bill every month to the doctor. He will further say that his wife, on account of some physical infirmity, cannot attend to her domestic duties and for that reason he has to engage one or two servants to attend to those duties. In short he will be able to show to the collector concerned that all the income that he gets from so many squares of land hardly suffices to cover his own expenses and on that ground he will say that no part of his lands should be alienated temporarily in execution of a decree passed against him. In the circumstances I shall not be wrong if I say that no land will be given on temporary lease in future and the sahkars will be deprived of the only means of recovering their loans. I really fail to understand why this power of deciding whether a land should be alienated or not in execution of a decree, should be sought to be transferred to the collectors. I am inclined to think that the honourable Leader of the Unionist Party is not favourably disposed towards the civil courts. Otherwise there is no reason why the civil courts should be deprived of this power which is vested in them at present. I am not a lawyer myself, but I learn from my husband who is a lawyer that there is not much work in the civil courts in these days. And if this power is also taken away from them and transferred to the collectors as it is proposed in the Bill, the civil courts will have very little work to do. I would request the honourable Chaudhri Sahib to propose at the same time that the posts of some of the sub-judges should be abolished so that some saving may be effected in an item of expenditure of the Government.

[Sh. Lekhwati Jain.]

In another clause of this Bill it has been laid down that the ancestral property in the hands of an heir shall not be liable to attachment in the execution of a decree relating to a debt incurred by his predecessor in interest. To say the least it is too harsh a provision. I would like to ask the honourable Chaudhri Sahib how he can reconcile this provision with the remarks that he made while opposing the Anti-Beggary Bill that I wanted to introduce in the Council. He will remember that he said on that occasion that begging is allowed in the Hindu religion. It appears from what he said at that time that he strictly follows all the religious injunctions. If that is so, I would like to ask another question from the honourable member whether it is also not one of the injunctions of Hindu religion that the debts incurred by the father must be liquidated by his sons. He perhaps knows that we Hindus want to be blessed with sons for this reason also, that is, that they should be able to pay off any debts that may have been incurred by their fathers. It is the last thing that a Hindu wants to be said about him even after his death that he died without clearing off his debts. It is the moral side of the question. Even justice and equity demand that a son must pay off the debts incurred by his father at least to the extent of the value of the property inherited by him. I need not say that if this Bill is passed with this clause in it, it will be impossible for the sahu-kars to recover the loans advanced to the zamindars particularly when in the presence of other laws already passed a debtor is neither to be arrested, nor his lands are to be attached and sold in execution of a decree. I am inclined to think that bit by bit every facility is being denied to the sahu-kars to get back their money. It is like cutting an animal by inches. If you want to annihilate the sahu-kars and if you are tired of their existence, kill them outright and also kill the profession that they follow. To achieve that end it would have been better if the honourable Chaudhri Sahib and his party had supported the amendments that I gave notice of in connection with the Relief of Indebtedness Bill when it was being considered by the Council. The House will remember that I proposed by means of those amendments that taking and also giving of loans should be made punishable. If the Unionist Party had supported those amendments, much of the time of the Council would have been saved and also the honourable Chaudhri Sahib would not have had to worry about these Bills. But it appears that the honourable Chaudhri Sahib and his party take delight in killing a man by inches. To reduce the time limit from 12 years to six years as has been proposed in another clause of this Bill is like creating another difficulty in the way of realisation of debts due from the zamindars. But the climax is reached when we find in this very Bill that it has been laid down that it will be compulsory for the money-lenders to apply for licences to follow this profession of money-lending. It means that no sahu-kar will be able to do money-lending without having a licence from the authorities who will have the power to refuse it or cancel it any time after it has been granted. The honourable Chaudhri Sahib is very fond of imposing all kinds of restrictions so far as sahu-kars are concerned. Why is it that it has never occurred to him to impose certain restrictions on his own class of people, that is, the debtors? Why should he not ask the Government to make it compulsory for the debtors to apply for loans through the deputy commissioners who should be empowered to refuse such applications on finding that the loan asked for is not being taken for any legitimate purpose? If such a provision is inserted in the Bill, it will help the debtors and also save much of the botheration to the courts. There are one or two other absurd provisions in the Bill to which I would like to make a passing reference. It is against all canons of justice to ask a creditor who has in his possession a written document written and signed by debtor, to prove that the consideration entered in that document actually passed. I shall be content by saying about this that it is absurd on the face of it. Then the trees and standing crops are being exempted from attachment in execution of a decree. I wonder what is being left for the sahkars in order to recover the debts. All these provisions in this Bill are obviously intended to do harm to the sahkars who equally deserve our protection along with any other class of His Majesty's subjects. I, therefore have no other alternative but to oppose this motion for reference of the Bill to a select committee. I am sure that the Government will also oppose this Bill, the Government which must have realised by now that the socialists are making use of another Bill of the same nature already passed for their propaganda.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram (Multan division, non-Muhammadan, Rural): Honourable Members who have read the opinions on the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill will come to the conclusion that the Bill is not a fit one to be committed to the select committee. I will only quote a few important opinions although I think that most of the opinions are either entirely against the Bill or have criticised its provisions in such a manner that such opinions should be considered as against the Bill. After reading the opinions received, I would submit to Government members that it will be an absolute waste of time for the Bill to be committed to a select committee.

I begin with the opinion of the Assistant Legal Remembrancer (Conveyancing). This is what he says:

The Bill is too drastic and requires revision of most clauses.

The Assistant Legal Remembrancer (Legislation) says:

I am afraid the author of the Bill has overstepped the limits. Poor and ignorant debtors should be saved from the clutches of fraudulent creditors, but this does not mean that all creditors should be put absolutely beyond the pale.

I am leaving out unimportant opinions and quoting only the important ones. The Commissioner, Rawalpindi division, says:

With regard to this matter I am of the opinion that the existing law affords sufficient protection to members of agricultural classes and I would not advocate any extension of this principle. A considerable additional burden will be imposed on the revenue staff and litigants would be involved unnecessarily in a great deal of trouble since the Collectors and Commissioners are often on tour, whereas the civil courts are stationary.

I am not going into the clauses of the Bill at this moment. The Deputy Commissioner, Attock, says:

In so far as the question of the present Bill, it appears to me largely to be an attempt to re-introduce the original clauses which were omitted when the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act was finally passed.

The Deputy Commissioner, Mianwali, says:

The Bar Association consider that the Bill is a retrograde and iniquitous piece of legislation and the Public Prosecutor agrees with the Bar Association.

[R. B. L. Sewak Ram.]

The Commissioner, Jullundur division, says :

I doubt the advisability of a system whereby there will be two independent bodies, the civil court and the collector, exercising jurisdiction in the same matter.

This is what the Commissioner, Multan division, says :

It follows that I would support reasonably drafted and just legislation which would secure these ends. I greatly regret that I can find no trace of justice or of sound sense in any of the provisions of the Bill now presented.

The Deputy Commissioner, Montgomery, says :

The Civil Procedure Code and the Land Alienation Act already provide sufficient safeguards in this respect and I think it is undesirable to provide any further safeguards.

The Deputy Commissioner, Lyallpur, says :

Looking at the Act as a whole, it appears that its author's intention is to prevent any moneylending in the province. If that is his intention, then I consider that the Act will undoubtedly fulfil the purpose. Section 4 interferes with the customs thousands of years old that a son is morally responsible for his father's lawful debts and I can only surmise that the effect of this provision will be to stop all lending whatsoever. In a normal village relations between zamindars and money-lenders are usually good. That might not be the case in the part of the Punjab to which the member sponsoring the Bill belongs, but that is no reason why he should attempt to stir up trouble between the two classes whose relations in other parts of the province, as far as I know, have been quite good.

The Deputy Commissioner, Multan, says :

Any attempt to give more work to the Collector, should, in my view, be resisted on principle.

Then, the Deputy Commissioner, Amritsar, says :

I consider it inexpedient that the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill should pass into law in the near future.

The Deputy Commissioner, Gurdaspur, says :

The proposed legislation will not meet the ends for which it is proposed.

The opinion of the Deputy Commissioner, Gujranwala, reads :

While I have very considerably sympathy with the agriculturists, especially at the present time of depression, I think on the whole I am not in favour of this Bill.

In this way I could go on adding to the quotations. Most of the people who have given their opinions have expressed themselves against the Bill. Under these circumstances, I ask, what will be the use of committing it to a select committee? And a select committee consisting of thirteen members out of whom with the exception of the Honourable Mr. Boyd and the Honourable the Legal Remembrancer, all are agriculturists, the Honourable Member Sardar Ujjal Singh being in my opinion a semi-agriculturist. What justice can we expect from the members of the select committee, what reason is there to hope that they would make any alteration in the Bill on the side of justice? Can I expect any justice from the Honourable Member Pir Akbar Ali, or can I expect any justice from the Honourable Member Thakur Pancham Chand? I cannot go on mentioning each individual member of the committee lest I should be charged with imputing motives to any. But I only name a couple of members on the committee who are in season and out of season expressing themselves against the non-agriculturist tribes. What is the good of putting such members on the select committee and then saying that the Bill has passed through a select committee? It will emerge out of the committee just as it goes to it. It would be better to move even now that the Bill be passed into law. Probably it will be passed into law, considering the state of the House to-day, even if the Government were to remain neutral. The honourable member from Rohtak can have the Bill passed into law. He can similarly get it through the select committee as it is constituted. A select committee if it should serve its purpose should consist of representatives of all shades of opinion. I hear honourable members saying that some members who were proposed have refused to serve on the committee. But I say that even if they had agreed they would only be two among eleven others. You should have a majority of those who are non-agriculturists on the select committee, for it is then that the Bill could be thrashed out in all its details. As it is, there are only two stalwarts from whom I am glad to say justice can be expected, I mean the Honourable the Leader of the House and the Legal Remembrancer with his knowledge of law. They may, in all good conscience, see that such a stupid measure is not enacted. I call it stupid because the moment you see the different sections of the Bill you will yourself come to that conclusion, if you bring to bear on its consideration any sense of justice, equity and good conscience. If it is the honourable member's intention that with a thumping majority at his back consisting as it does mostly of agriculturists he can pass any legislation through the House, then he may have it so. There are already several pieces of legislation and this will add one more to that list. Even the last legislation passed by this Council—the Relief of Indebtedness Act—is quite enough because after all there will be no money-lending business left at all. But I do not feel sorry to see that money-lending business is being killed. The debtors must not be dishonest, they must discharge their debts honestly. They can say: we cannot afford to pay so much; we can only pay two annas in the rupee; please forego the rest. You can do anything of that sort. Or else if the Government so choose, it can pass a legislation to the effect: "We hereby enact in this Council that all the debts are hereby wiped off." Why should you make the people undergo such a lot of litigation? The money-lenders have to go to civil courts as well as revenue courts. (An honourable member: That is the existing practice: we want to curtail it). This is not curtailment. These things are useless. Every day a new legislation comes before this House which goes to embitter the feelings of the two communities. Looking at the census you will find that the agriculturists in the Punjab and the non-agriculturists are nearly half and half (An honourable member: No.) It is a different matter that by some method of election the majority of members of the House are agriculturists and the fate of the province has been put in their hands. I do hope that they will not be so selfish as to enact such laws from time to time and to embitter the feelings outside because if feelings are embittered outside it will not be good for the province. I will not go into each clause but one clause says that the father's heirs will not be responsible for the debt of the father. In the case of this section there is a complete dishonesty on the part of the agriculturists to pay off their debts. As regards the other sections I have no doubt that modifications will be made and I will go into them later, but I submit that this Bill as it is should not be committed to the select committee. If the honourable member wipes off such clauses that are not at all fit for committal, he can bring again after three months in the next session such a Bill which could be submitted to a select committee.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdu'l Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I had no intention to speak on the Bill at this stage because we will have ample time to consider it after it emerges out of the select committee. At present I have stood up to speak because I have been constrained to do so by the speeches of Lala Bhagat Ram and Shrimati Lekhwati Jain. The lady member on the one hand expressed sympathy with the zamindars and on the other she tried to support those who try to suck the blood of the zamindars. It has been repeatedly urged by these honourable members that the Bill aims at complete extirpation of sahukars. Nowhere in the Bill is it stated that the loans advanced by the sahukars should not be paid back. The Bill aims at bringing under control those sahukars who are dishonest and keep no accounts. The Bill is a sort of an attempt at controlling and regulating the conduct of those sahukars who deceive the zamindars. There are sahukars who charge interest according to a year which consists of more than 12 months. If a debtor borrows on the 1st of a month then he is charged interest for the whole of that month. Again if he returns that loan on the first of a month he is charged interest for the remaining 29 or 30 days as the case may be. In addition to these two extra months sahukars have three more months of their own invention.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain had to oppose the Bill because she has to get votes from her constituents who are mainly sahukars. But I think it is degrading one's self to beg votes from such voters as money-lenders. Islam is not in favour of non-payment of debts. It rather condemns those who do not pay their debts. But at the same time it condemns in strong terms those who charge interest on loans. Usury is prohibited in Islam. Usury is the cause of many evils that flourish in the world. In order to make all men equal it is necessary that usury should be stopped once for all. It is against the principle of equality amongst all men. Such creeds as socialism have come into existence on account of usury and the inequality between man and man created by it. There is no such law in the world which exists to protect one individual at the cost of many. All laws exist to protect many from a few. But usury is protected in the interest of a few people and to the utter disadvantage of many. The punishment for borrowing is more terrible than all punishments that are awarded for murder, dacoity and such other crimes. The punishment which a borrower has to suffer is a permanent one. The borrower dies but it leaves that punishment as a legacy to his sons and grandsons. It descends down to his descendants, for generations. The zamindars do not hate those sahukars who are honest in their dealings. There are cases in which zamindars have even sacrificed their own interests for the sake of sahukars. I remember of a case in which a zamindar had confessed that he was responsible for a certain murder while the real criminal was another man who happened to be an honest sahukar. This Bill will have effect only against dishonest sahukars. Honest sahukars need not entertain any fears on its account.

Then, it has been opposed on the ground that it provides for the licensing of sahukars. I do not think if the provision in this connection is in any way objectionable. We have to get licences for keeping arms. These licences are necessary so that undesirable people like robbers and dacoits may not keep arms. It is very easy for a good citizen to get a licence for keeping a gun or a pistol. Similarly the Bill provides that only those persons be given a licence for money-lending who are honest and well behaved. It is simply to stop such people from carrying on the profession of money-lending who are dishonest in their dealings.

All trades and professions depend upon agriculture. The zamindars work hard and grow crops. They enlist in the army and fight to protect the country. They labour while others enjoy the fruit of their labour. All their earnings go into the coffers of the sahukars. Zamindars are most important for the existence of sahukars. As such sahukars should try to help the zamindars so that they may continue their existence in the interest of the former. If the zamindars cease to have families and children there would be no people left to labour in the fields in order to fill the coffers of the sahukars and other classes of people who depend on them. By advancing a few hundred rupees you reserve for yourself and your coming generations for all times the services of a class of earners to earn money for you and for your children. Chaudhri Chhotu Ram found that zamindars were treated most cruelly. His heart was moved and he brought forward this measure. This measure on the one hand protects the zamindars and on the other safeguards the interests of sahukars in as much as it aims at stopping the latter from killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. The measure is both in the interest of the zamindars and the sahukars.

As this Bill is to be referred to a select committee I need not make a lengthy speech. There are the representatives of the sahukars as well as the representatives of the zamindars on the select committee. They will improve upon the present Bill. I will throw more light on this Bill after it emerges from the select committee. With these few words, I support the motion now before the House.

Sardar Sampuran Singh (Lyallpur, Sikh, Rural): We have heard several speeches criticising and supporting this wholesome measure. I shall mainly divide this Bill into two parts. One part deals with the provisions of law which already exist. It only clears them and removes some of the ambiguities under the existing law. (Hear, hear). I am astonished why there should have been an attack on the provision that the ancestral property should not be attached. It is already provided in the customary law of the Punjab, and this law has been in existence in this province not only since the advent of the British but even before that. This wholesome principle of law was lately attacked by some of the judicial officers, though it had been upheld by the High Court, namely that the ancestral property cannot be alienated for the debts of the deceased proprietor. It is evidently due to a misinterpretation of this principle of law that certain judicial officers acted otherwise and I think that by making that law clear and removing all ambiguities we will be doing good both to the zamindars and the sahukars by saving them from a prolonged litigation. Again, I am unable to understand why giving of land on lease by the collector should have been objected to by anybody. The collector will sit as a judicial officer to decide these matters. At present the procedure is like this. When a person wants to attach the land of an agriculturist he goes to the civil court and the civil court sends the papers to the collector for report as to how much of the land can be given on lease and for how long a period. If the parties object to the collector's report, the land is let out in auction and it goes to the highest bidder for a certain number of years. This is really a double process. First it goes to the civil court, then to the collector and then back to the civil court which goes over the same ground once again, and if the report is acceptable to the parties then it is decided on the basis of that report. When thus the whole process is done by the collector, or by auction under the present law, I do not see what objection there can be for the provision in the present measure which only seeks to codify the existing practice. Besides it must also be kept in mind that both the judicial officer and the collector recognise that some land should be left for the debtor for the maintenance of the debtor and his family. When that is the case I do not see what objection there can be for this measure. No addition or alteration of the existing law has been made in this respect. The present law only codifies the existing customary law and makes it simpler than the present process. Instead of going to the judge and then to the collector and again to the judge, the matter is now left entirely to the collector thus saving so much botheration to the litigants. I think this is a very wholesome provision and I do not see why anybody should object to it.

Again, objection has been taken to the clause which provides that the burden of proof of consideration of payment should lie on the sahuakar. This is the first principle of jurisprudence and this holds good all over the world that one who goes to court has first to prove his case, i.e., that the defendant owes him so much money. Certain invasions were made on this principle on account of the partiality of certain judges, if I may be allowed to use that expression. It is to do away with any ambiguities in respect to this matter that it is proposed in this legislation that the burden of proof of payment of consideration shall lie on the person who alleges that he has paid it.

Mr. President : The honourable member has used the expression "partiality of certain judges." I request him to withdraw that expression.

Sardar Sampuran Singh : I withdraw that expression. Now, clauses 9 and 10 provide for the registration and licensing of the sahuakars. Perhaps honourable members are aware that this law exists in most of the European countries. It is necessary not only to save the debtor, but also to elevate the status of the sahuakars and to weed out those cheats who creep in every profession, so that only respectable people should run this profession, so that they may acquire a status and be saved from such attacks which we hear to-day in connection with this class of people.

In the end I have got to say only one thing. Most of the villification and attacks on this Bill seem to be very unreasonable. I have more or less tried to deal with every provision which has been made in this Bill and I do not see that there is anything inimical or prejudicial to the money-lending class in it. This Bill only seeks to remove malpractices in this profession.

and to save the ignorant people from some crafty people who always try to over-reach the ignorant and poor people. The words "dishonest" and "stupid" and other harsh words have been used in the course of this debate. After hearing several speeches I once again looked into the Bill to see whether such harsh words were really justifiable, but I do not find anything in it which is really objectionable or prejudicial to any class of people in the province. I find that all these epithets are out of place.

Rai Bahadur Mr. P. Mukerji (Punjab Chamber of Commerce and Trades Association, Commerce): I am sorry I did not have the advantage of hearing what has always been a very interesting speech of the sponsor of the Bill which in this case must have been very much more interesting as in order to support the provisions of this Bill he had to make the worse appear the better reason. The subject of the Bill has had a very careful consideration of my constituency and their view appears in the supplemental list of opinions. We have at the outset made it clear that the underlying principle of the Bill, that is, to afford relief to indigent debtors has our greatest sympathy. But the way in which this Bill or the provisions of this Bill seek to achieve that object, is repugnant and we very strongly oppose the provisions of the Bill. I should, however, like the honourable the sponsor of the Bill to make it clear that the term "money-lender" in the Bill which has the same definition as "creditor" in the Punjab Regulation of Accounts Act does not apply to (a) loans advanced by a bank, a co-operative society or a company whose accounts are subject to audit by a certified auditor under the Indian Companies Act; (b) the loans advanced by a trader; (c) advances made on the basis of negotiable instruments and (d) transactions which are in substance a mortgage or sale of immovable property. I think this point has not been made clear in the Bill itself. I have, therefore, to make a request to the honourable mover of the Bill to remove in the select committee any doubt that may exist at present. As regards the other clauses of the Bill, although I am a lay man, it is not difficult to understand that most of them go counter to commonsense on which all legislation should be based. With these words I oppose the Bill being referred to select committee.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I have got very little to say on this Bill. The Government will not oppose the motion for its reference to a select committee. At the same time I wish to make it clear that in refraining from opposing this motion Government are not committed to any particular provision in the Bill.

Chaudhri Ram Sarup (North-West Rohtak, non-Muhammadian, Rural) (Urdu): I am at a loss to understand why Shrimati Ji is so afraid of Chaudhri Chhotu Ram. Just as a baby is terrified at the mention of a bugbear, similarly Shrimati Ji is thrown into a state of panic as soon as she hears the name of my honourable friend Chaudhri Chhotu Ram. He has brought forward a very wholesome measure for the benefit of the zamindars, who are dolefully groaning under the heavy burden of indebtedness. But the proposed legislation will help both the zamindars and the non-zamindars. When the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Bill was under discussion, she was pleased to remark that the sahukars do not want to advance money to the zamindars, but the zamindars go and pester them for a loan. She said that if the sahukars could be prevented from advancing money to the zamindars, she would feel extremely happy. But now when a scheme is devised to meet her wishes, she protests against it. In future the collector in each district shall maintain a register of licensed money-lenders in his district. Under those circumstances, it will not be possible for a zamindar to go to any Tom, Dick, or Harry, to borrow money. He will have to go only to a limited number of people for a loan. This aspect of the proposed Bill, therefore, should give very great satisfaction to Shrimati Ji instead of calling forth her wrath.

This Bill further provides that the collector shall exempt from temporary alienation such portion of the agricultural land belonging to an agriculturist judgment-debtor as is sufficient in his opinion for the maintenance of the judgment-debtor and his family. An honourable member argued that even if the whole of the agricultural land be at the disposal of the zamindar he will not be able to keep the wolf from the door. If that land is worthless, and will not be fit for the maintenance of the zamindars, why are the zamindars perturbed about it. However, the law does impose some restrictions and exempts from temporary alienation such portion of the agricultural land belonging to an agriculturist judgment-debtor as is sufficient for the maintenance of the judgment-debtor and his family.

Again, Shrimati Ji has said that a lot of propaganda is going on in the villages against this Bill. In this connection I would submit that the poor villagers are absolutely illiterate and ignorant. They cannot consider the merits and the demerits of such measures, much less can they agitate and protest against them. Shrimati Ji goes from place to place. She hears certain things in the cities and spreads them among ignorant villagers. She herself does this sort of propaganda in the villages. In the course of her speech she observed that people who bring forward such measures are doing only propaganda for the sake of elections. I would ask Shrimati Ji whether she knows that if Chaudhri Chhotu Ram is not returned to the Council, at the next election, it will not mean tuppence to him. There will be plenty of scope for him elsewhere. He is an LL.B.; he can start his practice. But what will Shrimati Ji do, if she is not returned to the Council?

Mr. President : May I request the honourable member not to be personal?

Chaudhri Ram Sarop : I am only replying to the arguments advanced by Shrimati Ji. I will now give only one example appropriate to this case and will resume my seat. A poor old father gives a first class education to his son; he sends him to England for the Bar and even helps him to get a second hand English wife. The old man incurs a lot of debt for the sake of his son. At last the poor old man falls seriously ill and the doctor comes to treat the sick man. The son and his English wife refuse point blank and tell the doctor not to bother about the patient. This is how the zamindars are being dealt with in respect of the proposed legislation by their creditors. Their attitude is an outrage on all canons of fairness and equity. With these words, I support the motion before the House.

Thakur Pancham Chand (Kangra, non-Muhammadian, Rural) : I had no intention to speak on the motion but as my name has been mentioned by my honourable friend Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram, I think I should clear my position. The present Bill that is before the House is the most important Bill that I have ever seen in my council life because it tends to protect the poor debtor irrespective of any caste and creed (hear, hear) who is groaning under the heavy debt and it saves the poor debtor from the clutches of the clever and the unscrupulous creditors. It is very difficult for the poor agriculturist to get rid of the heavy debt. As you know he is ill-fed and ill-clad. I need not dwell upon this point because this fact has been admitted by the Government itself and by the honourable members of this House in their speeches delivered on the floor of this House from time to time. But what I want to submit is this that I am pained to find that the Government has shirked its responsibility. It was the duty of the Government to have brought this Bill before the House and not of a private member. Evidently the Government is afraid of agitation being started by the sahuikars. As you know various conferences have been held by these sahuikars at different places and they have given threats to the Government to boycott British goods if such a Bill is passed into law and not to lend money to the poor zamindars. In that connection I submit that I welcome these decisions of the money-lenders not to advance any money to the zamindars and to refuse to buy British goods, and to start their own swadeshi goods. Rao Bahadur Chhotu Ram has done a great service to the zamindars in presenting this Bill before the House. The other day my honourable friend from Jullundur while making his speech gave me the impression that he was not speaking in the Council but delivering his speech on the platform of a religious society. What I gathered from his speech, if I am right, was that he wanted to say some thing against the personality of the Rao Bahadur. I may inform him that he is the leader not only of the Nationalist Unionist Party but of the whole of the Hindu zamindars (hear, hear). The zamindars are grateful to him for the pains he has taken and is taking to better their position. Enough has been stated as to the principles of this Bill, but I would like to say only two or three words. Under the present law when the land of an agriculturist is attached the file is sent to the collector for making an enquiry. After the collector has made the enquiry, the file is sent again to the civil court, but the civil court is not bound to abide by the opinion of the collector. And as you have seen in many cases the civil court, before passing the Alienation of Land Amendment Act I of 1931, used to lease the landed property for more than 40 or 50 years and in some case allowed the sale of the land also. So far as the sale of the land is concerned that matter was set at rest by the Full Bench ruling of the High Court. Even then the Council had to pass a law that in no case shall the land belonging to an agricultural tribe be leased for more than 20 years. So the principle is there. In fact the collector and the commissioner know much more than the civil courts know about the zamindars. In the interests of justice and equity, therefore, that power is given to the collector to decide such questions. So far as trees are concerned I pointed out that trees are regarded as immovable property but in S. Lahore 285 a ruling was given that trees were not immovable property and unless that ruling is set aside or legislation is passed nothing can be done. There is nothing new in the present Bill. Up to 1925 rulings were in favour of trees being immovable property. So far as the execution of the decrees is concerned, I think that is also nothing new. It will curtail the business of the courts. Moreover this part was accepted in the select committee when the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Bill was sent to the committee but it was dropped because in that case it would lead to the necessity of circulating the Bill again to elicit public opinion. Otherwise the principle of limiting the period for the execution of decrees was accepted in the select committee appointed for the last Bill. My submission is therefore this, that there is nothing new in this Bill and I support the motion that the Bill may be sent to the select committee.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram (South-East Rohtak, non-Muhammadan, Rural): I will not take very long in giving a reply to the criticism that has been made. There seems to be a general misunderstanding on one point. Even officials who ought to have known better have gone wrong on that point. Some people here as well as outside the Council have said that certain clauses were omitted from the Relief of Indebtedness Bill when it was passed in this Council in the Budget Session and should not have been brought forward again. They forgot the reason why those clauses were omitted. Those clauses were omitted because the sanction of the Government of India had not been received in respect of those particular clauses. Whether Government would or would not be able to support those clauses when they come up before this House for actual consideration is an entirely different question. These clauses were omitted simply because the previous sanction of the Governor-General had not been received in respect of them and because the High Court had not been consulted with regard to the feasibility or propriety of making certain changes in the law which were sought to be made by these clauses. Therefore the omission of these clauses at that time does not mean and should not be understood to mean that they were regarded either by the Government or by any section of this House as being unworthy of being incorporated in a measure of this sort. They were not rejected or omitted on merits. The Government, as already explained by the Leader of the House, is not committed either to opposing or supporting any particular provision of this Bill. This was made perfectly clear when the aforesaid omission was made on the last occasion and that position has been made clear now. So, there need be no misunderstanding either with regard to the reason of omission or the attitude of Government.

Another point which I may make is that some of the provisions have been unnecessarily and ignorantly described to be radical or to be going too far. As has been explained by the honourable Sikh member who represents Lyallpur, Sardar Sampuran Singh, with the exception of licensing of money-lenders and change in the law of limitation there is absolutely nothing in this Bill which is new. The only thing which is aimed at by this Bill is to give statutory form to what had already existed in the province and what had been acted upon for a very long time by the judiciary. It is only during the last few years, that there have been certain interpretations of custom and law which threaten to either weaken what was considered to be good law and valid custom before, or to put an entirely different complexion upon custom and law which had determined and secured the rights of judgment-debtors in our courts for more than half a century. If members had gone carefully through this book of opinions, they would have found that many judicial officers including the Honourable Judges of the High Court have recognized that such and such provisions were only an echo of what was held to be good law for a long number of years.

There is one clause to which I would like to make a particular reference, namely, clause 5 which relates to the exemption of standing crops and standing trees. This clause has been entirely misunderstood, and motives have been imputed which could not possibly have been imputed if members had taken the trouble of considering the meaning of this clause carefully. So far as the question of exempting standing trees from attachment or sale is concerned, it has been made necessary to legislate on this point because of a recent ruling which has gone against previous rulings in respect of fruit trees. There are certain tracts of the province where land apart from the trees standing on it has no value whatsoever. If these trees are attached and sold the land by itself is valueless and of no meaning to the judgment-debtor. What is intended by means of this clause is to make it clear that the law which had been followed all these years was still good law. So far as the exemption of standing crops is concerned, the matter stands on a slightly different footing. The intention here is not to deprive the decree-holder of his right to attach and have sold agricultural produce. What is intended is the prevention of attachment of standing crops. The agricultural produce, as such, will still be available to decree-holders. This is an entirely different proposition from what many people have understood by the clause. The pity is that people have not carefully read the clause or tried to understand what it means. When standing crops are attached they are made over to sipurdars. The judgment-debtor cannot cut his crops when they are mature. He has no right left to do it, similarly the decree-holder more frequently fails to take any steps to have the crops reaped and harvested. I have known cases in which sugarcane was attached and allowed to lose all its value because the whole crushing season was allowed to pass without putting it through the sugarcane press. I have known cases in which wheat crop was attached and allowed to lose all its value because it was not gathered in time. It is with the object of putting an end to these anomalies that I have sought to incorporate clause 5 in this Bill. I would request the honourable members of this House not to be led away by prejudice, not to be led away by sentiment, not to be led away by ignorant criticisms in the press or from the platform. Let them apply their mind to the various clauses of this Bill and they will find that there is nothing radical, nothing revolutionary in the clauses of this Bill. As I have already stated, I have only tried to give statutory form to what was already considered to be good law and in respect of which doubts have arisen during the last few years in consequence of interpreting law and custom on certain points differently from the manner in which they were interpreted formerly. ॥

I should also like to draw the attention of members to a welcome aspect of the opinion expressed by the Punjab Chamber of Commerce because a reference has been made by one honourable member to the Chamber as a hostile critic. I am absolutely sure that if the suggestion made by the Punjab Chamber of Commerce is acceptable to the gentlemen who represent money-lending interests in this House, the members who represent the interests of debtor classes will be perfectly satisfied with the action on the lines of that suggestion. Here is the passage to which I desire to draw the attention of the honourable members :—

“ The Committee feel that the principle underlying the Bill of affording some protection to indigent debtors is, in particular circumstances, unexceptionable. They recognize that so far as the industrial population is concerned, the wages earned by labourers are exempt from attachment in satisfaction of debts, and as regards Government servants, railway employees and servants of local authorities, there is at the moment legislation pending to increase the limit up to which salaries are entirely exempt from attachment from Rs. 40 to Rs. 100. There can apparently in such circumstances, be no justification to withhold relief to the rural and agricultural population which perhaps is more deserving of help in view of the fact that prices of agricultural produce have, in contrast to fixed salaries and wages in money, deteriorated enormously.”

Then again, the Punjab Chamber of Commerce suggest that :—

“ In their view that object would best be attained by making provision that property belonging to an agriculturist debtor shall be exempt from attachment in satisfaction of a debt provided that such agriculturist is a man of moderate or average means. An agriculturist assessed to a land revenue which is less than, say Rs. 200 a year may be regarded as a person of moderate means and may be exempted.”

If the honourable members who represent money-lending interests in this House are prepared to accept this recommendation, I promise that I will do my level best to persuade all the members who represent debtor classes to agree to the same principle, and I am positive that they will agree to it. The Chamber make another suggestion. They say that :—

“ The Committee thinks that if the clause prescribes a minimum value up to which the trees are not liable to attachment, there may be some justification for the provision.”

Therefore, I may well content that even the Punjab Chamber of Commerce which represents commercial interests is in favour of the principle of the Bill and makes a recommendation which if acceptable to the representatives of money-lending interests will also be acceptable to the representatives of debtor classes.

Objection was also taken to the collector being authorised to execute decrees and acting judicially in doing so. I really fail to understand why there should be any objection to this principle. This principle has already been recognized by sections 68 to 71 of the Civil Procedure Code. I will just draw the attention of the honourable members to those sections :—

“ The Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, declare by notification in the local official gazette that in any local area the execution of decrees in cases in which a court has ordered any immovable property to be sold, or the execution of any particular kind of such decrees, or the execution of decrees ordering the sale of any particular kind of, or interest in, immovable property, shall be transferred to the Collector.”

Then section 71 lays down :—

“ In executing a decree transferred to the Collector under section 68 the Collector and his subordinates shall be deemed to be acting judicially.”

So there is nothing objectionable in the proposal contained in the Bill which I am sponsoring. Here is the law contained in an enactment passed by the central legislature which gives to the collector exactly the powers which I seek to give him under this Bill. No objection has ever been taken by anybody to sections 68—71 of the Civil Procedure Code ; why should any objection crop up now? Then with respect to appeals, the provision in the Civil Procedure Code is the same as proposed by me here. If any appeal is to be made against the orders passed by the collector it should lie to the revenue officer whom he is subordinate to. I have done nothing new.

Therefore I have not been able to understand the mentality of members who have stood up to oppose even a reference to the select committee.

So far as limitation is concerned, there are many officers of experience who have agreed that the period should be reduced either from 12 to 9 years or from 12 to 6 years. So far as the licensing of money-lenders is concerned, I am glad to say that more than half the individuals and associations who have expressed their opinion have supported this particular proposal. Therefore I see absolutely nothing in the Bill which need cause any fright to the representatives of money-lenders. As a last remark I may be allowed to observe that even if the interests of money-lenders are adversely affected by the provisions of this Bill, let the honourable members of this House remember that the total number of money-lenders in this province is not more than 40,000. After all this also must be remembered that 90 per cent. of the population of the Punjab is in debt. They must give preference to the interests of 90 per cent. of the Punjab population—which means over two crores—rather than to the interests of a handful of money-lenders numbering not more than 40,000 in the whole province (cheers).

Mr. President : The question is—

That the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill be referred to a select committee, consisting of the following—

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh,
Thakur Pancham Chand,
Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan,
Sardar Bishen Singh,
Sardar Sampuran Singh,
Khan Bahadur Nawab Muhammad Hayat Qureshi,
Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali,
Pir Akbar Ali,
Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan,
The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd,
Mr. J. D. Anderson,
A nominee of the Honourable President, and
The Mover.

The motion was carried.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : I propose that the quorum of the select committee should be 7.

The proposal was agreed to.

THE PUNJAB CATTLE LIFTING PREVENTION BILL.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh (Jullundur, Sikh, Rural) :
I move—

That leave be granted to introduce the Punjab Cattle Lifting Prevention Bill
At this stage I do not think there is any need to make any speech. I would only refer honourable members to the statement of objects and reasons attached to the Bill.

Mr. President : The question is—

That leave be granted to introduce the Punjab Cattle Lifting Prevention Bill.

The motion was carried.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : I introduce the Punjab Cattle Lifting Prevention Bill.

THE PUNJAB FREE PRIMARY COMPULSORY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS BILL.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain (North-East Towns, non-Muhammadan, Urban) : I beg to move—

That leave be granted to introduce the Punjab Free Primary Compulsory Education for Girls Bill.

I need not make a long speech in introducing this Bill before the House because everybody knows that education for girls is as necessary as for boys. I am glad to say that there has been much progress during the last ten years in this direction but it is all due to the laudable efforts of the Honourable Minister for Education. The Honourable Sir Firoz Khan Noon has always taken a great interest in the cause and I shall be failing in my duty if I do not express the feeling of thankfulness and gratitude to him on behalf of the women of the Punjab. But still more remains to be done. The number of school going girls is hopelessly small. I have introduced this Bill not for the benefit of my sisters who live in the big cities but for those who live in the villages of the Punjab. I hope, therefore, the honourable member from Rohtak will support this Bill. The All-India Women's Conference has also passed a resolution that there should be free primary education for girls. Honourable members know very well that under the new constitution women have got greater franchise and that literacy is one of the qualifications for the vote. Women cannot be expected to use their vote intelligently without education. We must therefore educate our future electoral masters, if I may say so. Women in India are called by the name of grihanis. The word means a girl who does her work properly in the house. Without education they cannot do the house work properly and cannot produce sons like Ram and Bhim. So we must educate our girls to make them good wives and good mothers. Many honourable members in this House are not in favour of high education for girls, and rightly so. I myself am not. The object of this Bill is only to educate them in the three R's, reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. I hope, therefore, that honourable members will support this Bill unanimously.

Mr. President : The question is—

That leave be granted to introduce the Punjab Free Primary Compulsory Education for Girls Bill.

The motion was carried.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : I introduce the Punjab Free Primary Compulsory Education for Girls Bill.

THE PUNJAB CATTLE LIFTING PREVENTION BILL.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : I beg to move—

That the Punjab Cattle Lifting Prevention Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon.

The motion was carried.

THE PUNJAB FREE PRIMARY COMPULSORY EDUCATION FOR GIRLS BILL.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : I beg to move—

That the Punjab Free Primary Compulsory Education for Girls Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon.

The motion was carried.

The Council then adjourned till 2-30 P.M. on Friday, 1st November, 1935.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Friday, 1st November, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber at 2-30 P.M. of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

OATH OF OFFICE.

The following members were sworn in :—

Khan Bahadur Dr. K. A. Rahman (Director of Public Health);
Mr. J. E. Parkinson (Director of Public Instruction).

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SECRETARY, KHANEWAL MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE.

*4767. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali: Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) the date of appointment of the present Secretary, Municipal Committee, Khanewal;
- (b) whether there were any complaints made to Government against him for undue interference in the recent election;
- (c) whether these complaints have been enquired into?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang: (a) November 1st, 1927.

- (b) No complaint is reported to have been received.
- (c) Does not arise.

ALLOTMENT OF LANDS IN KHANEWAL.

*4768. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali: Will the Honourable Member for Revenue please state—

- (a) whether the Government allotted some land on the condition of plantation of trees in the town of Khanewal;
- (b) whether the grantees have fulfilled this condition;
- (c) whether some land was allotted for the building of soda water, soap and trunk factories;
- (d) whether these factories have been built;
- (e) whether the land allotted for the purpose has been used for building residential quarters;
- (f) whether the Government is prepared to take any action in the matter?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) There were three grantees. One has fulfilled the conditions.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) The factory buildings were partly let out for residential purposes in the past but are not now.

(f) Action is being taken against one of the tree-planting grantees for the non-fulfilment of conditions.

ROAD BETWEEN CHAK NO. 168/10-R AND KHANEWAL.

*4769. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

(a) the distance of Chak No. 168/10-R from the Khanewal city ;

(b) whether the road connecting this chak with the town is a sort of gateway for the whole colony ;

(c) whether the road is full of pits dangerous to traffic ;

(d) whether there are no culverts so far built by the Canal Department ;

(e) whether Government, in view of (b) above, intends to repair this road ; if so, when ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a)  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles.

(b) No. The road is an ordinary village road leading to Chak No. 168/10-R and a few other chaks.

(c) No.

(d) There are two culverts, one near Chak No. 168/10-R and the other near the town, which have been constructed by the Irrigation Department.

(e) Does not arise.

---

LAND IN CHAK NO. 168/10-R.

*4770. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

(a) the total area of land of Chak No. 168/10-R ;

(b) the area fit for cultivation ;

(c) the area allotted ;

(d) whether the land of the chak is rather poor and full of heaps of sand ;

(e) whether the land between this chak and the town has not yet been allotted in spite of the fact that it is a commanded area ;

(f) whether Government is aware that the heaps of sand in the intervening space bury the standing crops when the wind blows ;

(g) whether under the circumstances, the Government is prepared to allot this land to the people of this chak or sell it to them on concession rates ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) 2,377 acres.

(b) 1,752 acres.

(c) 1,358 acres.

(d) The land towards the west of the abadi is rather poor and contains small heaps of sand, but the remaining area is better than average.

(e) The area in question has not been allotted because it is mostly uncommanded.

(f) When a strong wind blows, some sand is, of course, carried to the fields, but it does not cause much damage to crops.

(g) Sale of uncommanded lands in the Lower Bari Doab Canal Colony has been disallowed. The area being close to the town of Khanewal can be utilised for its extension.

WATER SUPPLY IN CHAK No. 168/10-R.

*4771. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

(a) whether the water supply is insufficient in Chak No. 168/10-R ;

(b) whether the zamindars submitted many applications to the Executive Engineer on the subject ;

(c) whether in spite of his recommendation and the waiting of a deputation on the Superintending Engineer under the leadership of Sardar Budh Singh, retired Revenue Assistant, no action has been taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Yes.

(c) Separate outlets have since been sanctioned which will settle the dispute.

OUTLET IN CHAK No. 168/10-R.

*4772. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

(a) whether there is an outlet with a bifurcation in Chak No. 168/10-R ;

(b) whether repeated quarrels and disputes have arisen between the zamindars on this moga ;

(c) whether the zamindars have submitted many applications for the division of this outlet into two separate mogas in order to avoid further trouble ;

(d) whether the Government is prepared to take any action in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a), (b) and (c) Yes.

(d) The honourable member is referred to the reply given to part (e) of question No. *4771 (above).

DRINKING WATER SUPPLY AT DAJAL.

*4773. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) what arrangements he has made to improve the drinking water supply at Dajal (district Dera Ghazi Khan) ;
- (b) whether the village reorganisation scheme is going to take up this matter in hand ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The water supply for Dajal has been a puzzle to Government so far in spite of the many efforts of the Sanitary Board to provide good drinking water to this town. Dajal is a small town of 7,000 souls and depends for its water supply on the open ponds roundabout the town. The sub-soil water in Dajal and under the area surrounding the town is brackish. Therefore, tube-wells cannot be sunk for this purpose. A skeleton scheme was drawn up in 1930 for supplying Dajal with water from sweet water wells to be sunk 8 miles east of Dajal. This scheme was estimated to cost Rs. 2,02,827 non-recurring and Rs. 7,060 per annum recurring. Even if the Government were to find this capital cost, it would be impossible for Dajal town to supply the recurring cost. Another scheme is now under consideration. There is a fall of 800 feet from Kalapani, 20 miles west of Dajal, where it debouches from the Suleman Range into the plains to Dajal. A 4 inches pipeline would cost Rs. 20,00,000 non-recurring and Rs. 3,000 a year recurring, but certain zamindars have rights in this water supply and the local authorities are now carefully examining the possibility of supplying Dajal potable water from Kalapani. Here again the capital cost will be heavy and the recurring cost will also be considerable. The honourable member can rest assured that the Sanitary Board are doing all that can be done to remove the difficulty about drinking water at Dajal.

- (b) I regret the reference in this part of the question is not understood.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : The Rural Reconstruction Department have a lot of money. Will they not be able to give a grant to the Dajal Municipality to pay recurring expenses of the scheme ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I am afraid I cannot say.

DUTIES OF ZILLADAR.

*4774. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is one of the important duties of a zilladar to watch the state of demand for water and indent for supplies required for channels in his charge ;
- (b) whether it is the duty of a zilladar to make recommendations for gauges to maintain and to promptly report any change in demand ;
- (c) whether it is the duty of a zilladar to keep a constant eye on the state of crops and bring to notice of Sub-Divisional Officer cases where failure of crops through want of water appears imminent ;

- (d) whether,—vide paragraph 6.3 of Revenue Manual,—a Sub-Divisional Officer has been placed in charge of revenue work for the main reason that he should be in direct touch with the state of crops, etc.;
- (e) whether in practice zilladars are asked to give indents of channels in their sections;
- (f) whether such recommendations are ever cared for and carried out in practice;
- (g) if not, whether Government is prepared to issue instructions to local officers drawing their attention to paragraphs 2.1, sub-paragraph (v) and 2.19 of the Revenue Manual; if not, why not?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes. The main object of making the Revenue staff directly responsible to the Sub-Divisional Officer is that the latter should be kept in touch with the state of the crops, etc.

(e) Yes.

(f) Yes, depending on how far the Zilladar's recommendations are to be relied upon.

(g) Does not arise. The local officers are fully conversant with the paragraphs of the Revenue Manual mentioned by the honourable member in his question.

REGULATION OF WATER CHANNELS.

*4775. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to enquire and state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the indent of supplies required for channels is not asked for from the zilladars concerned;
- (b) whether in cases of short supplies at tails the recommendations of zilladars for raising head gauges are never accepted;
- (c) whether zilladars are never informed about closures of channels in their sections;
- (d) whether the Sub-Divisional Officers always inform overseers regarding lowering and increasing of head gauges by wire, copy of which is not given to zilladars;
- (e) whether it is on the recommendation of overseers that gauges are maintained for every channel;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the regulation of minors and small distributaries is done by overseers;
- (g) whether overseers have any touch with revenue work;
- (h) whether overseers can ever know the state of demand of water,

[Mian Nurullah.]

- (i) whether zilladars sometimes, when questioned or asked by zamindars about closures (short ones), their channels and the reasons and length of such closures, plead complete ignorance on the point saying that they are not supplied with such intimation ;
- (j) whether the Government is aware that it is in the interest of zamindars that zilladars should know about all changes of indents and about all closures in their sections ;
- (k) whether the Government is prepared to issue orders to all local officers requiring them to strictly follow instructions laid down for zilladars regarding indenting of supplies ;
- (l) whether the Government is prepared to discourage overseers from interfering into regulation matters as their interest always lies in keeping low supplies in channels for fear of breaches, etc. ;
- (m) whether the Government is prepared to issue orders impressing that zilladars should be given a direct hand in regulation of channels, and their recommendations regarding indent of supplies should always be accepted except under very special circumstances ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) No.

(e) No.

(f) No.

(g) Yes, they are in touch with revenue work to some extent.

(h) Yes.

(i) Government have no such information. If the honourable member can quote any specific instance of the kind referred to, Government will enquire into the circumstances and take any action which seems proper.

(j) Yes.

(k) No. The Government has no reason to believe that the instructions laid down in the Revenue Manual are not being followed.

(l) Regulation is entirely controlled by officers, hence the question does not arise.

(m) No. The responsibility for regulation must rest on the zilladar's superior officers.

REGULATION OF WATER CHANNELS.

*4776. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on all the canals of the province the general practice of Sub-Divisional Officers is not to inform zilladars about closures of channels and changes of indents of supplies ;

- (b) whether overseers are kept in direct touch with such matters ;
- (c) whether Sub-Divisional Canal Officers have any powers under the Canal Act to increase and decrease supplies of water in channels on their own authority ;
- (d) whether Sub-Divisional Canal Officers can close minors and distributaries for a day or more without written permission of the Divisional Canal Officer ;
- (e) whether generally the regulation of channels is done by Sub-Divisional Canal Officers ;
- (f) whether zilladars are consulted in matter of regulations ;
- (g) whether Government can quote any law under which a Sub-Divisional Canal Officer can close minors and distributaries from heads without written sanction of the Divisional Canal Officer ;
- (h) whether Government is prepared to stop the practice of regulation of channels by Sub-Divisional Officers ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

- (b) Yes.
- (c) Regulation of supplies in channels is an administrative matter and is not dealt with in the Canal Act.
- (d) Yes, for purposes of regulation or in emergencies.
- (e) Yes.
- (f) Yes.
- (g) See reply to (c) above.
- (h) No. One of the most important duties of a Sub-Divisional Officer is regulation of supplies within his sub-division. Attention is invited to paragraph 6.2 (2) of the Revenue Manual, 3rd Edition.

ZAMINDARA LABOUR.

*4777. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that zilladars are required to collect zamindara labour for emergent repairs and closures of canal breaches, etc. ;
- (b) whether paragraph 6.7 of the Revenue Manual lays the duty of collection of zamindara labour on the zilladars for the reason that they have intimate knowledge of the cultivators ;
- (c) whether Government knows that zilladars are punished when they fail to collect such labour ;
- (d) whether the Government is prepared to issue definite orders that no zilladar should be punished for failure to collect zamindara labour ;
- (e) whether the Government wants zilladars to use force or any other means to take such labour, when required ; if not, why action is taken against zilladars who fail to collect such labour ;
- (f) whether Government is prepared to stop the practice of taking zamindara labour through zilladars ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The honourable member is referred to the reply given to part (b) of his question No. *2416<sup>1</sup> of 1933.

(b) The honourable member is referred to the reply given to part (b) of his question No. *2672<sup>2</sup> of 1934.

(c) The honourable member is referred to the reply given to part (a) of his question No. *2672<sup>2</sup> of 1934.

(d) No.

(e) No.

(f) No : for the reasons given in the paragraph of the Revenue Manual quoted by the honourable member in part (b) of his question.

CANAL CASES.

*4778. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) with reference to my council questions Nos. *3333<sup>3</sup> and *3334<sup>3</sup> asked during the last session whether canal overseers have any hand in the canal administration ;

(b) whether canal overseers are not purely technical men and have nothing to do with investigations of cases of damage to canal works, water and plantations ;

(c) whether any canal overseer has ever been engaged on any of the investigations mentioned in part (b) above ;

(d) whether they have ever recorded the statements of offenders in such cases ;

(e) if the reply to the above be in the affirmative, whether Government will lay on the table any section or rule of the Canal Act or any paragraph of the Revenue Manual or the Public Works Department Code or the Irrigation Manual of Orders or any letter issued by the Chief Engineers which empowers them (i) to make the above investigation, (ii) to record the statements of the offenders in such cases ;

(f) if there are no such instructions or orders so far, why they are employed upon such work of investigations ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) Government has nothing further to add to the information given in reply to part (a) of the honourable member's question No. *3333<sup>3</sup>.

(f) Does not arise in view of reply to (e) above.

CANAL CASES.

*4779. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether canal overseers' duties are laid down in any Manual or any Code of the Irrigation Department ;
- (b) whether canal overseers are entitled under any law or departmental instructions to record statements ;
- (c) whether any law or instructions empower a canal overseer to investigate cases of damage to canal works and plantations and cases of causing obstruction to the flow of water in any channel ;
- (d) if so, whether Government will lay a copy of these instructions on the table ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b), (c) and (d) Honourable member's attention is invited to the reply to part (e) of his question No. *4778 (prepage).

TAWAN CASES.

*4780. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether a demi-official letter from Mr. F. L. Brayne, then Commissioner, Multan, was addressed to Mr. W. P. Thompson, Superintending Engineer, Lower Chenab East Circle, on 6th February, 1933, regarding the investigation of tawan cases by the zilladars and overseers ;
- (b) whether Mr. Colyer who succeeded Mr. Thompson as Superintending Engineer passed orders on that demi-official letter that in future all tawan cases should be investigated personally by the Sub-Divisional Officer or the Executive Engineer ;
- (c) whether above instructions are being carried out strictly and tawan cases are not sent either to the zilladars or overseers for investigation ;
- (d) whether overseers have any authority to investigate such cases ;
- (e) whether zilladars can legally investigate such cases and record statements ;
- (f) if the answer to part (c) be in the negative, whether Government is prepared to issue instructions to the local officers not to send any tawan cases to the zilladars for investigation ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. Mr. Colyer issued the orders on his own authority.

(c) No. Rules on the subject are laid down in paragraphs 1.9, 2.22, 3.8 and 13.9 of Revenue Manual.

(d) and (e) Honourable member's attention is invited to replies to (a) and (b) in his question No. *3333<sup>1</sup> of 1934.

(f) No. The Government does not see any reasons to alter the existing orders on the subject.

APPOINTMENTS AND DISMISSALS OF LAMBARDARS AND ZAILDARS.

*4781. Mian Nurullah: Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Irrigation Department pays to a lambardar three per cent. of the total water rates collected by him ;
- (b) whether the Civil Department consults only the Police Department and not the Irrigation Department when appointing or dismissing a lambardar ;
- (c) whether lambardars have certain duties to perform towards the Irrigation Department ; if so, why the Irrigation officers are not consulted like the Police officers on the appointments and dismissals of lambardars and zaildars and whether Government is prepared to revise its rules now ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: (a) The water rate assessed by the Irrigation Department is collected by the district revenue staff through the agency of the lambardars, who are paid 3 per cent. on the collections.

(b) Yes.

(c) It is a fact that lambardars and zaildars are required to assist all officers of the Government, including officers of the Irrigation Department, in the execution of their public duties. Government consider it sufficient in the interest of the administration that the Collector should consult only the Police Department at the appointment and dismissal of lambardars and zaildars.

FREE QUARTERS FOR ZILLADARS.

*4782. Mian Nurullah: Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) how many zilladars there are on the Lower Chenab Canal ;
- (b) how many of them are provided with quarters built by the Government ;
- (c) how many of them reside in the villages ;
- (d) whether Government gives free quarters to zilladars like naib-tahsildars and sub-inspectors of police ;
- (e) if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: (a) 51.

(b) 32.

(c) 19.

(d) No.

(e) Conditions are different in various departments and Government cannot provide free quarters for all services.

In the case of naib-tahsildars and sub-inspectors of police value of free quarters was taken into consideration when revised rates of pay were fixed.

VEGETABLES IN CANAL REST-HOUSES.

*4783. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether Sub-Divisional officers use vegetables grown in the Canal rest houses ;
- (b) whether canal overseers are in charge of the vegetable garden maintained in the Canal rest houses ;
- (c) whether the malis kept in such gardens are under the canal overseers ;
- (d) whether canal overseers use or take vegetables for their daily use from these gardens ;
- (e) whether they pay anything to the department for such use of vegetables ;
- (f) whether zilladars are also allowed to take vegetables for their daily use from the Canal rest house gardens free of charge ;
- (g) if not, whether the Government is aware that overseers always make a free use of vegetables, but the zilladars are not allowed to use them ;
- (h) why the department makes such an invidious distinction ;
- (i) whether Government is prepared to allow both zilladars and overseers to take vegetables from the canal rest house gardens for their daily use on payment at places where they live in canal rest houses ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Government has no information. Subordinates stationed at rest-houses are allowed a small plot of land, where available, on which to grow their own vegetables.

(e) No.

(f) No. Zilladars requiring vegetables while on tour are required to pay Re. 0-8-0 a month to Government.

(g) See replies to (d) and (f).

(h) Does not arise.

(i) No : because the existing rules meet the reasonable requirements of both zilladars and overseers.

VEGETABLES IN CANAL REST-HOUSES.

*4784. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether touring officers putting up in Canal rest-houses can take vegetables from the Canal rest-house gardens ;
- (b) whether zilladars while on tour and staying in subordinate rest-houses of the Canal Department can take vegetables for their use from the vegetable garden maintained in a Canal rest-house ;

[Mian Nurullah.]

- (c) the amount of subscription paid for the use of vegetables from the Canal rest-house gardens each month by (i) Chief Engineer, (ii) Superintending Engineer, (iii) Executive Engineer, (iv) Sub-Divisional Officer, (v) Deputy Collector;
- (d) whether the subscription paid by officers mentioned in (c) above is for full month;
- (e) whether these officers can use such vegetables while they are out on tour or at their headquarters also;
- (f) whether Government is aware that Sub-Divisional officers are always using these vegetables throughout the 30 days of a month;
- (g) whether Executive Engineers and Superintending Engineers also get vegetables from outside Canal rest-houses at their headquarters through the Canal dāk;
- (h) whether Deputy Collectors can have this privilege of sending for vegetables to their headquarters through Canal dāk;
- (i) whether Deputy Collectors are required to stay mostly in villages; if so, why they are required to pay any subscriptions for vegetables;
- (j) whether Government is prepared to restrict the use of such vegetables for touring officers only; if not, why not?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. The zilladars can get vegetables from Canal vegetable gardens by paying a monthly subscription of Re. 0-8-0 while on tour under the same conditions as apply to Deputy Collectors.

(c) The rates of subscription are as below—

|                              |    |    | Rs.                 |
|------------------------------|----|----|---------------------|
| (1) Chief Engineers          | .. | .. | 15 Per annum |
| (2) Superintending Engineers | .. | .. | 15 Per annum |

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) No.

(g) Government has no such information.

(h) Does not arise.

(i) The honourable member is referred to the reply given to question No. *3105<sup>1</sup> (f) in the March 1934 session of the Punjab Legislative Council.

(j) The supply of vegetables from the Canal rest-house gardens is, of course, meant only for officers who tour.

QUARTERS FOR ZILLADARS.

*4785. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether most of the zilladars live in villages ;
- (b) whether they are in many cases not supplied with Government quarters ;
- (c) whether the Government knows that it is a burden on a villager to allow any officer to stay in his village ;
- (d) whether Government also loses in this respect as Government servants have to show favour to villagers in which they reside ;
- (e) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, whether Government is prepared to build quarters for all zilladars at suitable places ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Some Irrigation Branch zilladars—more particularly on the immature Sutlej Valley Project Canals—live in villages and not in Government quarters.

(b) Yes.

(c) Government has no information to prove whether any officer living in a village actually constitutes a burden on the villagers.

(d) The probability is that Government revenues do not suffer to any greater extent than otherwise by reason of the residence of zilladars in any particular village.

(e) Government sees no justification to depart from its present policy, which is to construct quarters for zilladars gradually, having regard (a) to the stage of development of the Canal concerned and the degree of permanence which can be attributed to a particular zilladar's sectional boundary, and (b) to the existing state of the Provincial funds available for such quarters.

QUARTERS OF CANAL OVERSEERS.

*4786. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the present design of the quarters of the canal overseers is very defective ;
- (b) whether there is no regular ventilation provided in them ;
- (c) whether no bath room is provided in such quarters ;
- (d) whether the Government is prepared to make suitable changes in the design of the quarters meant for overseers, zilladars and munshis ;
- (e) whether the Government is prepared to construct a regular bath room in all the quarters of the subordinates of the Canal Department ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Regular ventilation is provided.

[Hon. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

(c) A bathing place is provided.

(d) Government considers that the present sanctioned types of quarters for subordinates of the Irrigation Branch, Public Works Department, are generally suitable, and is not in a position to embark on expensive remodeling.

(e) No. Government considers the bathing place already provided adequate.

PUNKHA COOLIES TO ZILLADARS AND CANAL OVERSEERS.

*4787. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether naib-tahsildars are given punkha coolies by the Government during office time in the summer season ;
- (b) whether ahalmads in the Irrigation Department are also supplied with punkha coolies ;
- (c) whether sub-divisional clerks are given punkha coolies during office time in the summer days ;
- (d) whether zilladars and canal overseers are not given any punkha coolies ;
- (e) whether the Government is prepared to allow punkha coolies to zilladars and canal overseers during summer days for their office use ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a), (b) and (c) Yes.

(d) No.

(e) No. The work of these officials keeps them out of doors during the greater part of the day.

GROWING OF VEGETABLES IN ZILLADARS' AND OVERSEERS' QUARTERS.

*4788. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether there is any land attached to zilladars and overseers' quarters built by the Government for growing vegetables, etc. ;
- (b) whether with the bungalows of Executive Engineers and Sub-Divisional Officers there is always a good deal of land attached ;
- (c) whether they can grow vegetables, etc., for their private use in that land ;
- (d) whether the Government is prepared to allow some land with every quarter of a zilladar and an overseer for growing vegetables, etc. ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) No. On account of the heavy expense which such a concession would involve and the claims for similar concessions which would result from subordinates of other departments.

SUPPLY OF FUEL WOOD TO ZILLADARS AND MUNSHIS.

*4789. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether office clerks and sub-divisional munshis and ahalmads are supplied with fuel wood for fire places in the office during winter ;
- (b) whether zilladars and canal overseers are not supplied with fuel wood for office during winter months ;
- (c) whether Government is prepared to allow fuel wood to zilladars and their munshis for office fire places for winter months ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) The duties of zilladars, their munshis and overseers lie mainly out of doors and the amount of indoor office work they have to do does not warrant an issue of fuel wood for their office.

OFFICE FURNITURE TO OVERSEERS AND ZILLADARS.

*4790 Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Government does not supply overseers and zilladars with any office furniture ;
- (b) whether zilladars and overseers are supposed to procure furniture for their office at their own cost ;
- (c) whether Government expects zilladars and overseers to sit on the floor and work ;
- (d) whether even the tables and chairs are not provided to these officers by the Government ;
- (e) whether Government is aware that sometimes respectable zamindars also have to visit the above officials on business ;
- (f) whether sometimes title-holders and kursi-nashins and other respectable people include the list of such visitors ;
- (g) whether the fact that no office furniture is supplied to zilladars and overseers has ever been brought to the notice of the Government ;
- (h) if so, what action Government has taken on it ; and whether Government is prepared to supply these officers with office furniture now ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) No.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) Yes.

(g) Yes. It has been brought to the notice of Government.

(h) Government—when finances may permit—intends to supply the minimum essential.

OFFICE ACCOMMODATION TO ZILLADARS.

*4791. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that zilladars have to pay rents for their offices at places where no offices are built for them ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that Government does not allow any rebate of rent to zilladars for the office room provided in their quarters ;
- (c) if the reply to the above be in the affirmative, whether Government is prepared to allow office rent or rebate of rent in this respect to zilladars ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) No. Government has considered this question and has decided that the existing financial position precludes the grant of the rent or rebates specified.

GARNISHEE SUITS.

*4792. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) the year in which the High Court framed a rule allowing garnishee suits ;
- (b) the number of garnishee suits during 1933, 1934 and 1935 in the districts of Rohtak, Karnal, Hoshiarpur, Muzaffargarh and Jhelum ;
- (c) the number and value of debts attached in the execution of garnishee decrees in the court of Senior Sub-Judge of Rohtak in 1933, 1934, and the first quarter of 1935 ;
- (d) how the value of the debts attached compared with the value of the garnishee decrees referred to in (c) ;
- (e) how many of the decrees referred to in (c) were obtained as a result of private arbitration ;
- (f) how many of the decrees referred to in (c) were obtained by mahajans against mahajans ;
- (g) how many of the decrees referred to in (c) were instalment decrees and how many of them contained a stipulation that on default of any one instalment the whole decretal amount would become payable at once ;
- (h) what was the longest and what was the shortest period the expiry of which made the penal clause operative in respect of the decrees referred to in (g) ;
- (i) the nett loss of stamp duty in respect of the decrees referred to in (e) ;
- (j) the nett loss of stamp duty in consequence of attachment of debts referred to in (c), that is, the loss occasioned by the rule permitting the attachment of debts without any regular suits having been presented or a decree having been obtained in respect of them ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) 1932.

(b)–(j) A statement is laid on the table.

STATEMENT.

ADMISSIONS ALLOWED TO AMBALA DIVISION AT NORMAL SCHOOL, JULLUNDUR.

*4796. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of admissions which were to be allowed to the Ambala division at the Normal School of Jullundur ;
- (b) the admissions which actually went to the candidates belonging to the Ambala division ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that some of the vacancies which, under the orders of the Director of Public Instruction, were meant to go to the Ambala division went in fact to candidates belonging to the Jullundur division ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) is in the affirmative, who is responsible for this departure from the orders of the Director of Public Instruction ;
- (e) if the answer to (c) is in the affirmative, whether (i) the previous sanction of the Director of Public Instruction was obtained, or (ii) the departure with the reasons for the same has been intimated to the Director of Public Instruction ; and, if so, when ; if not why not ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 40.

(b) 42.

(c) No.

(d) and (e) Do not arise.

“ GHAIK MUMKIN ” LAND.

*4797. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the land comprised in the bed of a water-course was previously shown as “ ghaik mumkin ” and was not assessed to water-rates ;
- (b) whether the old practice has now been directed to be changed with the result that water-rates will be charged in respect of such land ;
- (c) the approximate area in the province of the class of land referred to in (a) ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Land under common main and branch water-courses, which are not assessable to land revenue, has always been exempt from assessment of abiana and that procedure is still in force.

But in the case of subsidiary water-courses constructed on private land and altered at the discretion of the cultivator the land where assessed to land revenue is also charged abiana.

(b) No. The only orders recently issued are on the subject of land revenue and aim at uniformity of procedure in the treatment of land under subsidiary water-courses.

(c) The collection of the desired information would involve an immense amount of labour quite incommensurate with its value, and in view of the above reply to (a) it is presumably no longer desired by the honourable member.

"GHAIR MUMKIN" LAND.

*4798. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state whether the question of the land comprised in the beds of water-courses being made assessable to water-rate was ever placed before a meeting of the Standing Committee on Canals or the representatives of the various groups in the Council were, formally or informally, consulted about it?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No. The honourable member is referred to the reply to his question No. *4797 (prepag-).

PRESSURE ON JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

*4799. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state whether his attention has been drawn to the pressure which is brought to bear on judgment-debtors by false reports of resistance made by the executing agency of civil courts in collusion with decree-holders?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Government have no reason to believe that the civil process serving establishment has been colluding with decree-holders in the manner suggested in this question.

RESISTANCE BY JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

*4800. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) the number of reports of resistance alleged to have been offered to the executing agency of civil courts by judgment-debtors in 1926, 1930 and 1934 respectively in the Rohtak district;
- (b) the number of instances referred to in (a) in which criminal prosecutions were started and the results of those prosecutions classified as (i) compromise, (ii) withdrawal, (iii) acquittal, and (iv) conviction?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : A statement is laid on the table.

Statement.

APPLICATIONS FOR ARREST OF JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

*4801. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state in respect of the district of Rohtak ?

- (a) the number of instances in which notices to show cause why they should not be arrested have been issued to judgment-debtors after the 19th April, 1935 ;
- (b) the number of witnesses examined and documents produced to prove contumacy in each case before those notices were issued ;
- (c) the number of cases in which the application for the issue of a warrant of arrest or the issue of a notice was rejected and the proportion which rejections of such applications bore to the total number of these applications ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) 207.

(b) No witnesses were examined or documents produced in any of these cases before the notices to show cause were issued.

(c) Government have not yet been able to obtain complete information. An endeavour will be made to furnish it to the honourable member subsequently.

COMMUNAL REPRESENTATION AMONG SUBORDINATES IN THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

*4802. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) the total number of agricultural assistants, clerks and mukaddams recruited during the last 5 years ;
- (b) the number of Muslims, Sikhs and Hindus among the persons referred to in (a) and the number of statutory agriculturists under each of the three main groups ;
- (c) the number of Muslim, Sikh and Hindu agricultural assistants, clerks and mukaddams, classed as statutory agriculturists and others, who were discharged in pursuance of the policy of retrenchment during the last five years ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) The total number of Agricultural Assistants, Clerks and Mukaddams recruited during the last five years ending 31st July, 1935, is 71, 31 and 43, respectively, or 145 in all.

(b) The number of Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs among the persons referred to in (a) and the number of statutory agriculturists under each is as follows :—

|                         | Total number. |          |        | Statutory Agriculturists. |          |        |

AGRICULTURAL ASSISTANTS.

*4803. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- the number of candidates who passed a two years' course from the Lyallpur College during the last three years ;
- the number of persons referred to in (a) who have been employed as Agricultural Assistants of B—Class during the last three years ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) The number of students, who passed the Leaving Certificate Course in each of the last three years, is—

|      |    |    |    |    |   |
|------|----|----|----|----|---|
| 1932 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 6 |
| 1933 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 8 |
| 1934 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 7 |

(b) None of these men has been appointed " B " Class Agricultural Assistant permanently. One man of the 1934 class officiated in this grade in a leave vacancy of two months.

It may be added for the information of the honourable member that there is at present a large number of unemployed men, who possess the Degree of B.Sc. (Agri.) and who are more than willing to accept appointments as " B " Class Agricultural Assistants. In view of their much higher educational qualifications, they are being appointed to these posts when vacancies occur in preference to the much less highly trained Leaving Certificate men.

INSPECTORS OF CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES.

*4804. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- the total number of inspectors of co-operative societies in the Punjab ;

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

- (b) the total number of co-operative societies in the Punjab ;
- (c) the distribution of co-operative societies over the five revenue divisions ;
- (d) the number of inspectors drawn from each of the five revenue divisions ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) 139.

(b) 21,440.

EDUCATIONAL SERVICES.

*4805. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the total number of men serving in the Provincial Educational Service ;
- (b) the total number of men serving in the Subordinate Educational Service (A.-V. section) ;
- (c) the number of men serving in the two sections referred to in (a) and (b) drawn from each of the five revenue divisions respectively ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to the Punjab Half Yearly Civil List and the History of Services of gazetted officers of the Education Department corrected up to 1st July, 1935, and also to the departmental list of the Subordinate Educational Service (Men's Branch) copies of which are in the Council library.

ADMISSION TO CENTRAL TRAINING COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4806. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of candidates admitted to the Central Training College of Lahore in each of the last five years ;
 (b) the number of candidates drawn from each of the five revenue divisions in each of the last five years ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a)—

|         |    |    |    |    |     |
|---------|----|----|----|----|-----|
| 1930-31 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 135 |
| 1931-32 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 152 |
| 1932-33 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 138 |
| 1933-34 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 152 |
| 1934-35 | .. | .. | .. | .. | 131 |

- (b) A statement giving the required information is laid on the table.

It may be added for the honourable member's information that the relatively small number of admissions from the Ambala division is due to—

- (i) Paucity of applications from Mussalmans and Sikhs.
 (ii) Paucity of Hindu applicants with good qualifications.

The percentage of Hindus admitted from Hindu applicants of the Ambala division in each of the last five years exceeds the percentage of Hindus admitted from all Hindu applicants from all over the Province.

Statements.

ADMISSION TO CENTRAL TRAINING COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4807. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of third division graduates admitted to the Central Training College this year ;
 (b) how many of the graduates referred to in (a) were Muslims, Sikhs and Hindus and how many in each of the three groups were statutory agriculturists ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 54 (53 to the S. A.-V. class and one to the B. T. class).

(b)—

|    |            |    | B.T. | S. A.-V. | Agr. |
|----|------------|----|------|----------|------|
| 1. | Muslims    | .. | ..   | 31       | 25   |
| 2. | Hindus     | .. | ..   | 14       | 3    |
| 3. | Sikhs      | .. | 1    | 8        | 5    |
| 4. | Christians | .. | ..   | ..       | ..   |

Most of these students are already J. A.-V. trained. Among the Hindus one student belongs to the depressed classes.

HINDU AGRICULTURISTS IN EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

*4803. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the attention of the Education Department has been drawn repeatedly to the meagre representation of statutory Hindu agriculturists in the branches of service under its control ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the position of Hindu agriculturists in 1935 is either actually worse or no better than it was in 1927 both in the P. E. S. and S. E. S. (A.-V. Section) ;
- (c) if the answer to (a) and (b) or either of them is in the affirmative, the steps which the Department has so far taken to improve the position ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) In the Punjab Educational Service the position has improved while in the Subordinate Educational Service (A.-V. Section) it has slightly worsened.

(c) Action is already being taken to recruit Hindu agriculturists in adequate number in case duly qualified persons are available for service.

HINDU AGRICULTURISTS IN DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION'S OFFICE.

*4809. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of clerks recruited to the Director of Public Instruction's office during the last ten years ;
- (b) how many of the appointments referred to in (a) have gone to statutory Hindu agriculturists ;
- (c) how many of the clerks in the office of the Inspector of Schools of Ambala are Hindus and how many of them are statutory agriculturists ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member is referred to the gradation lists of the clerical establishment of the office of Director of Public Instruction, Punjab, and the establishments of offices subordinate thereto, corrected up to 1st April, 1935, which contain the required information and copies of which are in the Council library.

CLERKS IN THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

*4810. Chaudhri Ram Sarup : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) the number of non-matriculate clerks in the Education Department working in junior grades promoted to the next higher grade of Rs. 40—2—90 during the period 1928 to 1934 ;
- (b) the number of such clerks ;
  - (i) who were appointed in temporary or officiating vacancies, and
  - (ii) who were appointed permanently, including those appointed on probation ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 2.

(b) (i) 1.

(ii) 1.

It will interest the honourable member to know that the one at (b) (i) above officiated from the 5th September, 1929, to the 11th November, 1929, only, and has since passed the Matriculation Examination in English only, while the other at (b) (ii) was originally promoted on one year's probation, but was subsequently reverted.

LAND ALIENATIONS.

*4811. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly place on the table of the House a statement showing by districts in respect of the years 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934 :—

- (a) the amount of land which deputy commissioners sanctioned to be transferred under the Punjab Alienation of Land Act to persons not belonging to notified agricultural tribes ;
- (b) the amount of total considerations for which these alienations were sanctioned ;
- (c) the number of cases in which the sole or chief ground or one of the grounds was stated by the petitioner to be the repayment of debt ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : It is regretted that the information is not available ; and its collection would entail expenditure that would not be in the public interest.

SALE OF AGRICULTURAL LAND IN ROHTAK DISTRICT.

*4812. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner of Rohtak accorded sanction on three different occasions for sale of agricultural land belonging to Pirthi, son of Amrit, Jat of Roorki, Tekka, son of Amrit, Jat of Roorki, and Kapura and others, sons of Tirkha, Jats of Roorki, respectively, in favour of Kanhiya Lal, son of Mukh Ram, Mahajan, of the same village ;

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

- (b) whether it is a fact that the sole or chief reason for sale was stated by the petitioner to be repayment of debt ;
- (c) the area of land comprised in the three sales ;
- (d) the amount of money for which the sales were sanctioned ;
- (e) whether Government is prepared to move the Financial Commissioner on the revision side in these cases ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Except with regard to Teka who did not sell any land to Kanhiya Lal, the reply is in the affirmative.

(b) Yes, the reason stated by the alienors being the liquidation of their secure and insecure debts. As regards the sale by the sons of Tirkha, an additional reason was that they being residents of Bahuakbarpur wanted to dispose of their land in village Roorki.

(c) and (d) Pirthi sold 11 bighas and 8 biswas for Rs. 5,603.

Bhaunra, Nanhu and Phulu, sons of Tirkha, sold 16 bighas and 10 biswas for Rs. 6,000.

(e) The sales took place in 1930-31. Government after the lapse of so long a time sees no reason, as at present advised, to interfere in a matter in which the parties primarily interested have acquiesced.

MUNICIPAL EXECUTIVE OFFICERS.

*4813. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) the number and names of municipalities where Executive Officers have been appointed ;
- (b) whether these Executive Officers have been appointed by the Government or elected by municipalities ;
- (c) in how many cases Executive Officers have been appointed ;
- (d) in how many cases friction has arisen between the Chairman and Vice-Chairman and the Executive Officer ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) There are 12 municipal committees which have Executive Officers, viz., Bhiwani, Ambala, Rupar, Ludhiana, Lahore, Kasur, Khem Karan, Amritsar, Jandiala, Multan, Jhang and Sialkot.

(b) and (c) All the Executive Officers, except those at Bhiwani, Rupar and Jandiala, were appointed by Government.

(d) There was occasional friction between the Executive Officer and the President in the municipalities of Bhiwani, Ludhiana, Lahore, Kasur, Multan and Sialkot.

INSPECTION FEES OF JUDICIAL RECORDS.

*4814. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that for the inspection of a judicial record in the lower courts of this province a fee of rupees two is charged for the first hour and an additional fee of rupee one for every subsequent hour of inspection ;

- (b) whether it is a fact that in the lower appellate courts of this province, the same fees are charged and in the same manner as mentioned in (a) for the inspection of the judicial records of both the lower court and the lower appellate court ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that in the High Court of Judicature at Lahore only rupee one is charged as fee for the inspection of judicial records of the lower court, lower appellate court and the High Court irrespective of the number of hours of inspection ;
- (d) if answer to (c) be in the affirmative, reasons for charging rupees two for the first hour and rupee one for every subsequent hour for the inspection of judicial records mentioned in (a) and (b) ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The rate is one rupee per hour or part of an hour for ordinary inspections and two rupees per hour or part of an hour for urgent inspections, in addition to a search fee of one rupee in each case.

(b) Yes.

(c) One rupee per day for ordinary inspections and five rupees per day for urgent inspections.

(d) Proposals for the adoption of a uniform scale are under consideration.

BAR ROOMS.

*4815. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to lay on the table a list of the headquarters of those districts and tahsils in the Punjab where there are no bar rooms for the legal practitioners attached to the courts there together with the reasons thereof ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Bar rooms already exist at the headquarters of every district in the province. A list is laid on the table showing those tahsil headquarters, other than headquarters of a district, where no rooms have been hitherto provided for the bar. At most of these places there are only two or three practising lawyers, if so many, and the construction of special rooms would scarcely be justified.

STRIKE IN MUSLIM PRINTING PRESS, LAHORE.

*4816. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the workers of the Muslim Printing Press, Lahore, went on strike on the 25th June, 1935 ;
- (b) if so, reasons for their going on strike ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that some of the workers resorted to picket the press in question on that night ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the picketeers were arrested by the sub-inspector, Gwalmandi Police Station, Lahore ; if so, their names and addresses ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that the arrested persons were unconditionally released there and then without having been prosecuted in a court of law ;
- (f) if so, reasons for (i) their arrest and (ii) their release ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that the City Magistrate, Lahore, interfered with the strike ;
- (h) if so, reasons for his interference ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Because the workers were not being paid by the keeper of the press regularly and their wages were in arrears.

(c) Yes.

(d) No.

(e) and (f) Do not arise.

(g) The City Magistrate went to the press to settle the dispute.

(h) A breach of the peace was considered possible.

PRICE OF THE REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE MUNICIPALITIES IN THE PUNJAB.

*4817. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the price of " the report on the working of the municipalities in the Punjab during the year 1932-33 " is Rs. 17 per copy ;
- (b) whether he is aware that the price of " the resolution reviewing the reports on municipal taxation and expenditure in the Bombay Presidency (including Sind) for the year 1931-32 " is only annas 15 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the size and quality of the paper and printing of both the analogous publications mentioned in (a) and (b) are the same or almost the same ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that pages of the Punjab report are 108 ; while those of the Bombay report are 135 ;

[Mr. M. A. Ghani.]

- (e) if he answers to (c) and (d) or any of them be in the affirmative, reasons for putting the price of the Punjab report as much as 18 times the price of the Bombay report ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the high price of the Punjab report deters many people from buying it and studying it and thus acquiring some knowledge about the working of the municipalities in the Punjab ;
- (g) what steps have been taken to bring the price of the Punjab report to the level of that of the Bombay report ;
- (h) if answer to (g) be in the negative, the reasons for not taking steps mentioned in (g) ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Report of this province for 1932-33 contains 113 pages and that of the Bombay Government for 1933-34 contains 158 pages.

(e) The price of the report published by the Bombay Government has been fixed after excluding the cost of composition and " make ready," while that of the report of this province is inclusive of such charges, hence the difference in price.

(f) Not known.

(g) and (h) This suggestion will be considered by Government.

PRICE OF THE PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1911.

*4818. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the price of the Punjab Municipal Act, 1911, as modified up to the 30th April, 1934, and printed by the Superintendent, Government Printing, Punjab, in 1934, is Re. 1-4-0 ;
- (b) whether he is aware that the price of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, 1925, as modified up to the 15th May, 1932, and printed at the Government Central Press, Bombay, in 1932, is only annas 7 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the size and quality of the paper and printing and the number of pages of both the analogous publications are the same or about the same ;
- (d) reasons for putting the price of the Act mentioned in (a) as much as three times the one mentioned in (b) ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) The size and style of printing are practically the same in both cases, but the quality of paper used for the Punjab Act is superior to that used by the Bombay Government.

(d) The price of the Act published by the Bombay Government has been fixed after excluding the cost of composition and "make ready," while that of the Act issued by this province is inclusive of such charges; hence the difference in price.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : I understand that the quality of paper used in the case of the Punjab Act is superior to that used in the case of the Bombay Act. Is the Government prepared to lower the quality of the paper used for the Punjab Act and thus bring down the price of the Punjab Act to the level of the Bombay Act?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I do not think that the quality of paper used makes much difference. The real reason for the difference in price is that the Bombay Government is selling its publications at a loss, whereas we are not.

PRICES OF THE PUNJAB GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS.

*4819. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) who fixes the prices of the various publications published by the Punjab Government;

(b) on what basis the prices are fixed?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The Book Depot under the control of the Superintendent, Government Printing, Punjab, as is provided in paragraph 9·5 of Printing and Stationery Manual.

(b) The cost is worked out on the basis of the costing system in force in this press and in all Government presses in India.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Do the salaries paid to the officers of the press form the basis for the fixing of the prices of the reports and other publications of the Government?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I think not.

JUDICIAL FORMS.

*4820. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the litigants in the Punjab have to buy the various judicial forms prescribed by law and required by them for their respective purposes;

(b) whether he is aware that in the railway, post office, telegraph, income-tax, revenue departments, etc., various prescribed forms pertaining to them are supplied free of cost;

(c) if so, the reasons for charging the cost of the judicial forms?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

JUDICIAL FORMS.

*4821. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the various judicial forms prescribed by law together with their authorised prices and the basis on which they are fixed ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : This has been answered in my reply to question No. *4820 (prepage).

FINANCIAL ADVISER TO THE CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT.

*4822. Mr. M. A. Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- (a) since when the post of the Financial Adviser to the Co-operative Department has been created ;
- (b) who was appointed for this post and the nature of his qualifications ;
- (c) whether any public advertisement was issued and applications invited ; if not, why not ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Financial Adviser has gone on long leave several times and no one has ever been appointed to officiate for him during his absence on leave ;
- (e) if so, whether the work of the Co-operative Department has suffered in any manner during the absence on leave of the Financial Adviser ;
- (f) if not, the reasons for keeping him ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Since October 16, 1928.

(b) Mr. P. D. Macpherson. His qualifications for the post were a thorough knowledge and 25 years' practical experience of banking in India.

(c) Yes.

(d) Mr. Macpherson went on leave from 2nd May, 1931 (afternoon) to 2nd November, 1931, and has again been granted leave for six months from 2nd May, 1935 (afternoon). His work has, as a temporary expedient, been distributed between other officers of the department.

(e) It has been possible to carry on the work for these periods without serious detriment, but it has involved extra work to already hard-worked officers, a temporary relaxation of the standard of supervision over the audit of central banks and the postponement of certain questions till the Financial Adviser's return. It would not be possible to carry on these arrangements for a longer period than six months.

(f) Because his experience and advice are of the utmost value in directing the financial operations of co-operating banks and in safeguarding the very large amount of Government and public money involved in these operations.

EXCISE ASSISTANT TO FINANCIAL COMMISSIONER.

*4823. Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) the date since Lala Narsingh Das is holding the post of Excise Assistant to the Financial Commissioner ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the present incumbent has been occupying the position of Excise Assistant for more than six years past ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that time and again there have been Council questions on the subject but for one reason or another Government have not taken any action so far ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that there are others with better claims who are also equally competent and whose eligibility for the post can only be considered on the transfer of the present incumbent ;
- (e) whether in view of what is stated in (b) , (c) and (d) above, Government propose to take any action in the matter ; if so, what ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) 10th June, 1929.

(b) Yes.

(c) Only two questions have been asked. The answering of a question does not imply that any action will be taken.

(d) I cannot answer the question as qualifications and claims of other officers have not been considered.

(e) Does not arise.

BRIDGE OVER RAILWAY PREMISES, SIALKOT.

*4824. Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the North-Western Railway authorities have recently constructed a wall about 9 feet high along the Sialkot Railway Station which covers a distance of one mile in length ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that there is a newly populated mohalla and almost all the graveyards within the municipal area are on the other side of the wall in question ;
- (c) whether he is aware that the railway authorities by not providing any bridge have put the people of the city under great inconvenience who must travel a whole mile to get in touch with the new mohalla, which is isolated from the rest of the town ;
- (d) whether he is aware that the Municipal Committee, Sialkot, passed the following resolution :—

“ No. 297, dated 10th May, 1935.”

“ The inhabitants of the newly populated mohalla to the north of the railway premises between the Artillery and the Commissioner roads are absolutely separate from the rest of the town and experience great inconvenience in getting their supplies and especially medical aid at the time of need. It is therefore proposed that the railway authorities be requested to provide one or two bridges over the railway premises to facilitate passage as early as possible."

[ Mr. Muhammad Din Malak. ]

(e) whether he is aware that the railway authorities have informed the committee that they would only construct a bridge if the committee undertook to foot the bill ;

(f) what action the Government propose to take in the matter in order to meet the urgent need of the inhabitants of Sialkot ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The present wall which is 7 feet in height and is 1,324 feet and 1,925 feet in length on the northern and southern boundaries of the yard, respectively is merely a replacement of the old 5 feet high wall that had existed since the construction of the yard.

(b) Yes.

(c) The mere substitution of a high wall for a low wall to prevent the people from jumping over it or breaking through it, does not render the railway, under the Railway Act, liable to provide a foot overbridge.

There was and is no authorised pathway through the yard except through the two level crossings (one at either end of the yard) situated 3,200 feet apart, which give access to the new abadi by making a detour of about half a mile.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) The railway is prepared to consider the feasibility of the provision of a foot overbridge, provided the municipality undertakes to bear its entire cost and subsequent maintenance charges.

EXECUTION OF MONEY DECREES IN ROHTAK.

*4825. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state the number of cases in which the houses belonging to agriculturist judgment-debtors have been (a) attached or (b) sold in the execution of ordinary money decrees on the strength of substituted service in the civil courts of the Rohtak district in 1933, 1934 and 1935 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

OBJECTIONS AGAINST ATTACHMENT OR SALE IN EXECUTION OF DECREES IN ROHTAK.

*4826. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state in how many cases in the Rohtak district objections against attachment or sale effected in the absence of personal service on the judgment-debtor were accepted and in how many cases they were rejected in 1933, 1934 and 1935 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

OBJECTIONS UNDER ORDER 21, RULE 58 OF THE CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE.

*4827. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in objections under order 21, rule 58, of the Civil Procedure Code, the burden of proof is on the objector ;
- (b) the proportion to the total number of objections referred to in (a) of the cases in which these objections were accepted by the civil courts of the Rohtak district in 1933, 1934 and 1935 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

|            |    |    |    |    |       |
|------------|----|----|----|----|-------|
| (b) 1933.. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 34.1% |
| 1934..     | .. | .. | .. | .. | 27.8% |
| 1935..     | .. | .. | .. | .. | 31.3% |

TEMPORARY ALIENATION.

*4828. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state the number of cases in which the recommendation of the collector for temporary alienation has not been accepted by the civil courts of the Rohtak district in 1933 and 1934 and how the cases of acceptance and rejection compare with each other ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The statistics on this subject are kept by the agricultural year. The figures for the Rohtak district are :—

|                              | Collector's advicefollowed. | Collector's advicenot followed. |
|------------------------------|---|---|
| Agricultural year 1932-33 .. | 68                                      | 21  |
| Agricultural year 1933-34 .. | 26                                      | 9   |

The figures given here relate exclusively to cases in which the land attached was protected from sale by section 16 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900. Cases referred to the collector with a view to his intervention under section 72 of the Code of Civil Procedure are not included.

CANDIDATES WITH PROFICIENCY IN URDU OR HINDI AND B. A. EXAMINATION.

*4829. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that the Punjab University has ruled that no candidate who has passed Proficiency or High Proficiency examination in Urdu or Hindi, can sit in the examination in English only, for the degree of B.A., to be held in 1936 ;

[Ch. Allah Dad Khan.]

(b) whether he is aware that this rule will cause great hardship to those candidates in (a) who were allowed the concession to appear in the B.A. (English only) examination of 1935 but failed to pass it ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, whether he intends to take any steps to remove the hardship ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes. A copy of the regulations relating to qualifying in English only after passing an examination in an oriental classical language or an Indian vernacular is placed on the table. These regulations were sanctioned by the Punjab Government in January, 1933, but as will be seen from the foot-note, are to be operative in certain cases with effect from 1936.

(b) No. The candidates were given three years' notice.

(c) Does not arise.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Suppose a man appears for the last time and fails ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I am afraid I cannot answer that question without notice.

Regulations relating to qualifying in English only after passing an examination in an Oriental Classical Language or an Indian Vernacular.

1. A candidate who has passed a Proficiency examination in an Oriental Classical Language or a Proficiency Examination in an Indian Vernacular may be permitted to qualify in English only of the M. S. L. C. standard by taking the English papers only of the M. S. L. C. Examination and, if successful, shall receive a certificate to that effect.

2. A candidate who has passed a High Proficiency Examination in an Oriental Classical Language or High Proficiency Examination in an Indian Vernacular may be permitted to qualify in English only up to the Intermediate standard by taking in different years the English papers only of the M. S. L. C. Examination and of the Intermediate Arts Examination and, if successful, shall receive certificate to that effect. Provided that if such candidate has either passed the M. S. L. C. Examination or has qualified in English only of the M. S. L. C. standard by taking the English papers only of the M. S. L. C. Examination, he may take the Intermediate English papers after passing the necessary examination in an Oriental Classical or Vernacular Language.

3. A candidate who has passed an Honours Examination in an Oriental Classical Language or in an Indian Vernacular may be permitted to qualify in English only up to the standard of the Bachelor of Arts Examination. For this purpose he may take the English papers only of the M. S. L. C., Intermediate and B. A. Examinations successively in different years and, if successful, shall receive certificates to that effect. Provided that if a candidate has already passed the M. S. L. C. Examination or the Intermediate Examination he shall not be required to qualify again in English only in these examinations.

4. A candidate who has passed an Honours Examination in an Oriental Language and has qualified in English of the B.A. standard under regulation 3 above shall be eligible for admission to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.

A candidate who has passed the Intermediate Examination in English only after passing an examination in an Indian Vernacular, shall be admitted to the B.A. Degree if he subsequently first passes an Honours Examination in an Oriental Classical Language and then passes the B.A. test in English.

A candidate who appears and passes in the B.A. Examination in English only after taking Honours in an Indian Vernacular shall not be given the degree, if he passes the Honours Examination in a Classical Language afterwards.

NOTE.—The above rules would not apply for three years to those candidates who have passed the various Vernacular Languages or Oriental Titles Examinations in 1932 or before. Such cases would be governed by the Old Regulations—vide paras. 12, 7-A and 11-A on pages 162-163, 167-168 and 189-90, respectively of the Calendar (1931-32 edition).

MR. IMAM BUX, DISTRICT INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS, DERA GHAZI KHAN.

*4830. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) the total length of service of Mr. Imam Bux, District Inspector of Schools, Dera Ghazi Khan ;

(b) whether he is aware that he is a native of Dera Ghazi Khan ;

(c) for how many years he has served in Dera Ghazi Khan district alone ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The honourable member is referred to the gradation list of the Subordinate Educational Service corrected up to 1st April, 1935, copies of which are placed in the Council Library.

(b) Yes.

(c) About nineteen years. It may, however, be added for the honourable member's information that Dera Ghazi Khan is educationally a backward district and that its peculiar conditions require that it should have as far as possible educational officers who are natives of the district. An outsider, besides being unwilling to go there, must be unfamiliar with the local dialect and cannot, therefore, be expected to do much in the way of popularising education among the people, especially in the rural areas.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Is it not a rule that generally officers are not posted to their home districts ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : There is no rule on the subject.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : There may be a convention that they are not so appointed. I know that sub-judges in the P. C. S. are not appointed.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : There is a lot of difference between sub-judges and education officers who are humble servants of their people and exercise no authority like judges and magistrates.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Is it not a rule that they are transferred after three years from one place ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : There is no rule ; it rests at the discretion of the head of the department.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Why should I always be referred to gradation lists ; they are not always available. The question is simple and it could be answered. What is his office doing ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The honourable member would have saved himself and the department the trouble of answering this question if he had looked at those lists.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : The department is meant for this purpose.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : It is not meant for the purpose of saving you labour and time ; it is meant to serve the public.

EDUCATION DISQUALIFICATION AGAINST GIANI KARTAR SINGH.

*4831. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that Giani Kartar Singh, son of Bhai Bhagat Singh, was a member of the District Board, Lyallpur, in the year 1930, and that subsequently he was removed from its membership ;
- (b) the date and reason for his removal from such membership ;
- (c) whether that removal has the effect of disqualifying him from contesting a seat to the District Board in any future election ;
- (d) whether the Gandhi-Irwin pact under which he was released from the jail before the expiry of his sentence provided expressly or by implication that disqualification against contesting a seat on any elected body under the Government will be removed if an application is made by a disqualified prospective candidate ;
- (e) whether the said Giani Kartar Singh has applied to the Government for the removal of his disqualification ;
- (f) the action which Government proposes to take on his application ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes.

(b) He was removed on the 10th October, 1930, under section 14 (a) of the Punjab District Boards Act, 1883, on account of his having been convicted of an offence under section 124-A, Indian Penal Code.

(c) Yes, so long as the disqualification is not removed.

(d) No.

(e) Yes.

(f) Government have for the present rejected the application.

SADR KANUNGO, GURDASPUR.

*4832. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that since the constitution of the district of Gurdaspur as such, no Muslim has ever been appointed as sadr kanungo there ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Commissioner of Gurdaspur in 1933 promised to appoint a Muslim as a sadr kanungo on the occurrence of a vacancy there ;
- (c) whether he is aware that a vacancy occurred sometime ago in the district of Gurdaspur in the office of the sadr kanungo and that a non-Muslim was appointed to it temporarily ;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, the reasons for it ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Appointment is made by selection of the most suitable candidate available and not on communal considerations.

FOREST RANGERS.

*4833. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

(a) whether any recruitment, either by promotion or by direct appointment, to the cadre of forest rangers has taken place during the last three years ;

(b) whether any candidates, either from the department or from outside, have been selected for training with a view to their appointment as forest rangers during the last three years ;

(c) if the answer to (a) or (b) be in the affirmative, whether the vacancies which were expected to occur were advertised in any of the papers ; if so, in which ;

(d) if the answer to (a) or (b) be in the affirmative, the names and tribe (not religion) of the candidates selected, whether any of these candidates were statutory agriculturists and whether they were outsiders or came from the department ;

(e) if the candidates referred to in (d) came from the department, whether they were related to anybody already serving in the department ;

(f) the educational qualifications of the candidates selected ;

(g) the dates of the last two selections ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes, 4 forest rangers have been recruited direct and 2 have been promoted from deputy rangers.

(b) Yes, 2 deputy rangers have been sent for training in the Rangers' Course.

(c) The 4 directly recruited forest rangers were selected for training in the Rangers' Course in 1930 from a large number of candidates who applied in response to advertisements in the following newspapers :—

1. Civil and Military Gazette.
2. Tribune.
3. Muslim Outlook.
4. Paissa Akhbar.
5. Khalsa Samachar.
6. Islah Sarhad.
7. Inqilab.
8. Khalsa.
9. Punjab Government Gazette.
10. North-West Frontier Province Gazette.

[ Hon. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

(d) The names and tribes, etc., are given below :—

Directly appointed.

1. Lala Chaman Lal, Kashatrya, Non-agriculturist.
2. Chaudhri Hardwari Lal, Jat, Agriculturist.
3. Khan Fazl Gul, Pathan, Agriculturist.
4. Chaudhri Muhammad Shafiq, Arain, Agriculturist.

Promoted.

5. Chaudhri Khan Muhammad Arain, Agriculturist.
6. Lala Man Sukh, Kanait, Agriculturist.

Deputy Rangers sent for training vide (b) above.

7. Khan Muhammad Aslam Khan, Pathan, Agriculturist.
8. M. Nur-ul-Hassan, Sayyad, Agriculturist.

They are statutory agriculturists.

(e) Candidates Nos. 7 and 8 mentioned in (d) above are related to officials already serving in the department.

(f) The educational qualifications of all the candidates are given below :—

CHARGES FOR COPYING AND INSPECTION OF FILES.

*4834. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

(a) the charges made for the inspection of files in the High Court and in the subordinate courts, and if the charges are different, the justification for this difference ;

(b) the copying charges in the Punjab and how they compare with the rates prevalent in the United Provinces, if the information is available ?

PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING COPIES.

*4835. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- whether the procedure for obtaining copies is the same throughout the Punjab ;
- whether complaints against the present procedure have come to the notice of the inspecting judges of the High Court and other responsible officers of Government, if so, the steps which have been taken by Government to remove these complaints ;
- whether it is a fact that a person desirous of obtaining copies has, under the present procedure, first to apply for them, then to come after a few days to ascertain the estimate of cost prepared by the copying department, then to deposit the amount indicated in the estimate and finally to come in person to get delivery of those copies ;
- whether it is a fact that the only time deducted, in the case of appeals, for computing limitation is the time from the date of deposit to the date of the preparation of the copies applied for, and that the present procedure prescribed for obtaining copies coupled with the law of limitation as interpreted by the highest court in the province places it within the power of the copying department to render an appeal time-barred ;

- (e) whether it is a fact that a mofussil applicant may have to spend a good deal of time and money in paying visits to the headquarters even though the copying charges may amount only to six or twelve annas ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that a man belonging to the furthest corner of the Rohtak district has to go to Karnal for obtaining the copies of any part of the record of a case pending in or decided by the District and Sessions Judge of Karnal ;
- (g) the third class railway fare from Kosli in the Rohtak district to Karnal and back ;
- (h) whether in view of the serious hardships which result from the present procedure of obtaining copies, and from the abolition of the copying agency Government is prepared to revise the whole system ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

FARM ACCOUNTS.

*4836. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly place on the table of the Council a statement showing—

- (a) the yearly gross income per acre of all the farms for which farm accounts have been prepared under the direction of Government or the Board of Economic Enquiry in the Punjab during the last few years ;
- (b) the net income or loss per acre in respect of the farms referred to in (a) ;
- (c) the wages allowed for the labour spent by the family of the farmer himself in calculating net income ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) and (b) The honourable member will find complete information regarding farm accounts in the annual publications of the Board of Economic Enquiry entitled Farm Accounts which are in the Council Library.

- (c) The requisite information is not available.

DAILY INCOME OF A FARM LABOURER.

*4837. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state for the various years for which accounts are available, the income per head per day of the year in respect of the farms for which accounts have been prepared under the direction of Government or the Board of Economic Enquiry ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No accounts on the lines of those prepared under the direction of the Board of Economic Inquiry,

[ Hon. Nawab Muzaffar Khan. ]

Punjab, have been compiled at the instance of Government. For the accounts collected by the Board, the honourable member is referred to the following publications relating to the Farm Accounts Series :—

- (1) Some Aspects of Batai Cultivation in the Lyallpur district of the Punjab (Publication No. 12).
- (2) Accounts of different systems of Farming in the Punjab (Publication No. 15).
- (3) Farm Accounts in the Punjab 1926-27 (Publication No. 19).
- (4) Farm Accounts in the Punjab 1927-28 (Publication No. 20).
- (5) Farm Accounts in the Punjab 1928-29 (Publication No. 21).
- (6) Farm Accounts in the Punjab 1929-30 (Publication No. 24).
- (7) Farm Accounts in the Punjab 1930-31 (Publication No. 26).
- (8) Farm Accounts in the Punjab 1931-32 (Publication No. 32).

PRESIDENT, REWARI MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE.

*4838. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) the date on which the election of the president of the Rewari Municipal Committee was held ;
- (b) whether it has been notified in the Gazette, if not, why not ;
- (c) the date on which the report of this election was received in the office of the Deputy Commissioner, Gurgaon, and the date on which he forwarded the same to the Commissioner, Ambala division ;
- (d) the period the Commissioner takes ordinarily to notify the election of the president after the receipt of the report in his office ;
- (e) what abnormal circumstances have happened in the present case to delay the matter ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the residents of Bhiwani have been greatly perturbed over this delay in notification and several meetings have been held in the town to protest against the action of the authorities concerned in not notifying the election for so long ;
- (g) whether the Government has received any copy of these resolutions, if so, whether he will place a copy on the table ;
- (h) what the Government intends to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) 6th June 1935.

(b) Yes, it has ben notified.

(c) The report was received in the office of the Deputy Commissioner on the 10th June 1935, and was forwarded to the Commissioner on the 17th June 1935.

(d) If the election does not involve the consideration of any special matters, it ordinarily takes less than a fortnight to notify the election of a president.

(e) In the present case, the Commissioner referred the case to Government and it had to consider certain matters before disposing of the case.

(f) Government is not aware of any perturbation among the residents of Bhiwani over this case of Rewari.

(g) No.

(h) Does not arise.

LEVYING OF MALBA.

*4839. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) the rules regarding the levying of malba in the Punjab villages ;
- (b) the final authority for sanctioning expenditure out of this fund ;
- (c) whether any account is kept of the receipt and expenditure of malba ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that there is a general complaint regarding the misuse of the malba money in the province ;
- (e) whether Government intends to frame rules for controlling its expenditure if there are no such rules extant ;
- (f) in case there are such rules, what steps Government propose to take to enforce them ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a), (b) and (c) The attention of the honourable member is invited to paragraph 93 of the Punjab Settlement Manual.

(d) Government have no information.

(e) No.

(f) Does not arise.

BENARES HINDU UNIVERSITY STUDENTS AND MEDICAL COLLEGE,
LAHORE.

*4840. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the F.Sc. passed students of the Aligarh and Delhi Universities are allowed to join the Medical College, Lahore, and that such students of the Benares Hindu University are not allowed to join the same ;
- (b) if so, the reasons for this invidious distinction ;
- (c) what steps Government propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) The Benares University has never addressed the Punjab Government in this matter.

(c) The request, if received from the Benares University, will be considered.

CLASSIFICATION OF 2ND LAHORE CONSPIRACY CASE ACCUSED.

*4841. Shrimati Lekh wati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Government is aware that Jahangiri Lal, Bhim Sen, Gurbux Singh, Sardar Singh, accused in the 2nd Lahore conspiracy case, were given B Class by the Special Tribunal trying that case ;
- (b) whether during the course of the trial also they were treated as better class prisoners ;
- (c) whether even after their conviction they enjoyed the privileges of the B class for a year-and-a-half ;
- (d) whether in July 1935 they have been reduced to C class prisoners ;
- (e) whether the Government is aware that by virtue of their social position and usual mode of life the above mentioned persons are entitled to B class ;
- (f) whether the Government is aware that Jahangiri Lal who has been transported for life is a cripple and Sardar Singh is suffering from tuberculosis ;
- (g) whether taking into consideration all these circumstances Government is prepared to reconsider the question of their classification ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a), (b), (c) and (d) Yes.

(e) No.

(f) It is correct that prisoner Jahangiri Lal is a cripple, but not that Sardar Singh is suffering from tuberculosis. (Jahangiri Lal was sentenced to transportation for life but has not actually been transported overseas).

(g) No.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF HISSAR.

*4842. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of seats on the municipalities of Karnal, Hoshiarpur and Hissar towns with their present populations respectively ;
- (b) the date on which wards were last revised in each of the municipalities mentioned above ;
- (c) the total number of members on the Municipal Committee of Hissar and the population of the town when there was no election and members used to be nominated ;
- (d) the date on which the system of election was introduced in the Hissar Municipal Committee ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that other towns in the province of the same or nearly the same population as of Hissar have municipal committees with larger number of members than the number of members of the Hissar Municipal Committee ;

(f) How the Government intends to proceed in respect of the Hissar Municipal Committee?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a)

| Municipality.          | Population. | Number of members of the Municipal Committee. |
|------------------------|-------------|---|
| (1) Karnal .. .. .     | 25,371      | 16  |
| (2) Hoshiarpur .. .. . | 25,925      | 14  |
| (3) Hissar .. .. .     | 25,179      | 12  |

(b) The wards were last revised with Punjab Government notifications mentioned below against each municipality :—

(1) Karnal .. .. . No. 35140, dated 7th November 1932.

(2) Hoshiarpur .. .. . No. 19104, dated 16th July 1923.

(3) Hissar .. .. . No. 17586, dated 15th July 1924.

(c) The total membership of the Committee was 12 all nominated, in 1915 before the elective system was last introduced in the municipality which then had a population of 17,151 persons.

(d) 22nd February 1915.

(e) The total number of members in municipalities having about the same population is shown below :—

| Municipality.               | Population. | Number of members of the Municipal Committee. |
|-----------------------------|-------------|---|
| (1) Rewari .. .. .          | 26,269      | 13  |
| (2) Jagraon .. .. .         | 24,034      | 12  |

(f) The matter will be considered.

DELHI-MULTAN ROAD.

*4843. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that on the Hissar-Sirsa section of the Delhi-Multan road four miles were soled some years back and have never been metalled since then ;

[L. Jyoti Prasad.]

- (b) whether it is a fact that with the exception of these four miles the above mentioned section is metalled and is quite fit for motor and lorry traffic ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that on account of these four miles being not metalled great inconvenience is felt by motors and lorries ;
- (d) the steps, if any, which Government proposes to take in order that the whole section may become motorable ;
- (e) in case Government is prepared to take some steps for metalling the aforesaid miles, by what time they are expected to be ready ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Presumably the honourable member refers to miles 127 to 132 and 134 to 140 on the Delhi-Multan Road in which a soling coat of bricks was laid but owing to paucity of funds and very light traffic using the road, the provision of wearing surface was postponed. The position now is that the wearing surface has recently been laid in miles 127 to 132 and it is expected to lay the same in miles 134 to 136 in the remaining period of the current financial year. Four miles, viz., 137 to 140 will thus still remain without the wearing surface.

(b) and (c) Yes.

(d) and (e) Government proposes to provide the wearing surface in these four miles as soon as the requisite funds are forthcoming and it is expected that the work will take six months to complete after funds become available.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF HANSI.

*4844. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) since when the Municipal Committee of Hansi in the Hissar district has been under suspension and for how long it is likely to be so ;
- (b) the condition of its finances when superseded and now ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) The Municipal Committee of Hansi was superseded in 1932. Steps are being taken to reconstitute it shortly.

(b) A statement giving the required information is laid on the table.

Statement.

GOVERNMENT GIRLS HIGH SCHOOL, HISSAR.

*4845. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the new building of the Government Girls' High School, Hissar, is located outside the town at a distance of about one mile from the town proper ;
- (b) the means of conveyance provided by the school authorities for taking the students of the town to the school and for bringing them back ;
- (c) the number of such students using conveyances mentioned in (b) ;
- (d) whether any facilities regarding conveyance of the students of the above-mentioned school are being considered by the department ; if so, when these will be provided ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The honourable member's attention is invited to the answer given to part (b) of question No. *3685 asked by him during the winter session of the Council last year.

(b) and (c) No conveyance is provided by Government but fourteen girls are reported to be using tongas. A school mai accompanies each tonga and the arrangement is under the supervision of the head mistress.

3 P. M.

(d) No.

Lala Jyoti Prasad : Is the honourable member aware that the girls' high school is now located in a new building far from the town ? It is not the same building as was referred to last time ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : How far is it ?

Lala Jyoti Prasad : About a mile from the town.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : What do you suggest ?

Lala Jyoti Prasad : Some conveyance arrangement.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : It is for the parents to apply to the headmistress because it is the parents that pay and I have no doubt that if they apply to the headmistress, she will make the necessary arrangements or they can send a representation to the Director of Public Instruction.

FIRST CLASS MAGISTRATES IN HISSAR.

*4846. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of first class magistrates, except the District Magistrate, in the Hissar district ;
- (b) the number of cases decided by each one of them from 1st January to 15th August 1935 ;
- (c) the number of appeals and revision petitions preferred from the orders of each one of them during the period mentioned in (b) ;

[L. Jyoti Prasad.]

(d) the number of appeals and revision petitions accepted from the orders of the magistrates mentioned above during the period given in (b) ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Eleven first class magistrates worked in the district during the period specified. This figure includes an Assistant Commissioner under judicial training and the Revenue Assistant of the district, neither of whom has been doing any magisterial work ; and also two honorary magistrates.

(b), (c) and (d). A statement is laid on the table.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTION AND ANSWER.

FINANCIAL ENQUIRY BY NIEMEYER COMMITTEE.

Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to state whether the Punjab Government propose to invite public opinion on the subject of the financial enquiry to be conducted by Sir Otto Niemeyer so far as it affects this province?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that at the last sitting of the Council, I was not prepared to answer a short notice question. With your permission I would like to make an announcement on the subject of that question today.

The Punjab Government will be glad to consider any representations that may be made to them by any member of the public and, if it appears suitable to forward them, the Government will submit them to Sir Otto Niemeyer.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

WATER SUPPLY SCHEME FOR MATORE.

1225. Khan Sahib Risaldar Bahadur Nur Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the grant of Rs. 5,098 sanctioned by the Rural Sanitary and Improvement Board, Punjab, in 1980, for trial boring at Matore, district Rawalpindi, has been totally spent;
- (b) if so, what further steps the Government intends to take to complete the project and when;
- (c) whether any fresh water supply scheme for Matore is under consideration of the Government;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, the nature of that scheme and when it is likely to be completed and in view of the failure of the previous project what are the safeguards that the fresh scheme would prove a success;
- (e) whether the Government has satisfied itself after obtaining expert technical opinion that the amount already paid to the contractors has been rightly paid in face of the work done and that there has been no wastage?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) No. After an expenditure of Rs. 3,200 the work was abandoned as it was found after penetrating the soil to a depth of 80 feet in boulder strata that it was impossible to proceed further without special rock boring equipment and the indications were that water would not be found.

(b) The Superintending Engineer, Public Health Circle, Punjab, is exploring the possibility of obtaining potable water from other sources.

(c) No. The result of the investigations of Superintending Engineer, Public Health Circle, Punjab, is awaited.

HOSHIARPUR-GAGRIT-DHARAMSALA MOTOR BUS SERVICE.

1239. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the licence holder of Hoshiarpur-Gagrit-Dharamsala Motor Bus service is charging one anna per mile from each passenger on that road ;
- (b) how long this licence holder has been charging these rates ;
- (c) the usual rates on other roads, charged by the lorry drivers ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that many applications have been addressed by a very large number of people to the Deputy Commissioner and other officers of the Government to discontinue this particular licence ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that great agitation is going on against the licensee of this road and Kiraya Ghatau Committees have been formed ;
- (f) the reasons for continuing this licence ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that various men are ready to carry passengers on this road at the rate of 6 pies per mile ;
- (h) what Government intends to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Since 1930.

[Hon. Nawab Muzaffar Khan.]

(c) On plain roads rates as low as 4 or 6 pies a mile are often charged, but on hill roads such as this Hoshiarpur-Gagrit-Dharmasala road the rates are always higher.

(d) A number of applications, relating mainly to the rates of fare, have been received by the district officers and by Government.

(e) Government have seen certain leaflets on the subject published over the signature of the Secretary, Karaya Ghatau Committee, Daulatpur Chauk, Hoshiarpur.

(f) and (h) The road in question is a hilly and narrow one, unmetalled; and it is essential in the interests of the public safety to maintain restrictions on the motor traffic using it. The present monopolist has run an efficient service and there appears no need or justification for any change in the existing arrangements.

(g) Government have no information.

SADAR BAZAR MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, AMBALA CANTONMENT.

1240. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) the probable dates by which the election to the Sadar Bazar Municipal Committee, Ambala Cantonment, is likely to be held, and when the necessary notification is likely to be published in the Government Gazette;

(b) if it has not been decided as yet to hold these elections at an early date, whether he is prepared to take steps to expedite the matter so that the elections may take place as early as possible?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) The elections of the Committee will probably be held in April, 1936, and the necessary notification will be published in the Gazette as soon as possible.

(b) Does not arise, as every effort is already being made to hold the elections as soon as possible.

GIANI KARTAR SINGH.

1241. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) whether any ban is placed on Giani Kartar Singh, ex-member, District Board of Lyallpur, to stand as a member of the District Board;

(b) if so, what are the reasons for continuing this ban;

(c) if it be his conviction for sedition in 1930, whether it has not been condoned by the Gandhi-Irwin pact of 1931;

(d) what Government intends to do in the matter of lifting this ban?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The attention of the honourable member is invited to the answer given to question No. *4881 asked by Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon on the same subject.

SHAHID GANJ.

1242. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state the total amount of expenses incurred by the Punjab Government in connection with Shahid Ganj Gurdwara dispute in June and July, 1935 ?

SMALL TOWN OF SAYADWALA.

1244. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the small town of Sayadwala in the Sheikhpura district has been in danger of being washed away by the river Ravi ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the inhabitants of this town have been constantly making representations to the Government and its officers ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the inhabitants of this town waited in a deputation on His Excellency the Governor and requested him to take immediate steps to protect the town from imminent destruction ;

(d) whether it is a fact that so far the Government has taken no action ;

(e) whether it is a fact that as anticipated much of the town has been washed away by the heavy floods this year ;

[Sh. Lekhwati Jain.]

- (f) if so, whether Government has made any estimate of the destroyed property ; if so, what is its value ;
- (g) the names and designations of the officers of the Government responsible for this negligence in not taking suitable steps to protect the town ;
- (h) the steps Government proposes to take to compensate those inhabitants of Sayadwala who have suffered in this monsoon from the river Ravi ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) I am not aware of any such deputation waiting on His Excellency the Governor.

(d) All local officers from the Naib Tahsildar to the Deputy Commissioner visited the place and offered assistance in evacuation. No other action was possible. There are villages in much the same state, all down the course of the Punjab rivers where very little can be done except at a prohibitive cost.

(e) 51 houses have been washed away of which 21 were pacca.

(f) The value of the property washed away is about Rs. 50,000.

(g) Does not arise.

(h) Does not arise.

NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Secretary : Voting papers for the election of three representatives of the Council to serve on the Railway Advisory Committee are available in the ante-room behind the President's throne. Members can receive their voting papers up to 6 o'clock this evening. After marking, the voting papers may be deposited in a ballot box provided for the purpose. The result of the election will be announced on Monday, the 4th of November, 1935.

RESOLUTIONS.

NON-OFFICIAL CHAIRMEN FOR DISTRICT BOARDS.

Mr. President : The Council will now resume discussion on the following resolution moved by Mr. Muhammad Din Malak :—

This Council recommends to the Government to so change the rules of election of chairmen of district boards as to allow the district boards to elect non-official chairmen in cases where a resolution is passed by a bare majority of non-official members to that effect and without obtaining Government's approval; and also to allow the voting for deciding the question about official or non-official chairmen to take place by ballot.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu) : I was explaining when the Council was adjourned in the last session, why there should be no official chairmen for district boards, and also how the Sardar of Mukandpur suffered on account of incurring the displeasure of the deputy commissioner of the district. He had some difference of opinion with the deputy commissioner, when the latter was acting in the capacity of the chairman of the district board, on the question of engaging two cooks or chaprasis for a hospital. This small incident resulted in the deputy commissioner's becoming angry with him for ever and thereafter the Sardar Sahib has had no peace in his district. He was an honorary magistrate and soon after the aforementioned incident his name was removed from the list of honorary magistrates. Then he was so maltreated in the district board hall that he had to resign his membership. The honourable members of this House will perhaps be interested to know how the Sardar Sahib was maltreated even as a magistrate. His predecessors had been holding courts in Mukandpur and he too for the last 22 years or so, but the Sardar was ordered to hold his court in Banga and police challans were withheld from his court. These are not mere false allegations. I can substantiate them from records. In 1929, the deputy commissioner was transferred to some other place and it was a sign of good luck both for the district and the Sardar Sahib. The deputy commissioner, who succeeded the outgoing deputy commissioner, recommended to the Government that the Sardar Sahib should be once again made an honorary magistrate.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Is it relevant to the motion before the House ?

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Sardar Sahib who just interrupted me has been only recently made a sub-registrar by his undue favour; naturally he is much pleased with the deputy commissioner. I have already explained how the quarrel between the Sardar of Mukandpur on the one side and the deputy commissioner of Jullundur on the other originated. It arose over the employment of two cooks or chaprasis. The deputy commissioner wanted to employ two chaprasis and the Sardar Sahib took exception to it. Though it was pointed out to the deputy commissioner that that was not a personal affair of anybody and that therefore the criticism should be taken in the spirit in which it was offered, he would not listen to it. Thereafter the Sardar Sahib was made the target of many a humiliation and even his relatives were not spared. However, the deputy commissioner who succeeded Lala Arjan Dass recommended that the Sardar Sahib should be made an honorary magistrate. About a fortnight after the appointment of the Sardar the Lala was again transferred to this district. He again wrote to the commissioner that the Sardar's services as a magistrate should be dispensed with. The Sardar represented to the commissioner that he failed to understand how when the Government had thought it fit to appoint him a magistrate he became an unfit person to hold that post after 10 days. His plea was considered reasonable by the commissioner and he was allowed to continue in his office. The Sardar Sahib is not the only person who has been victimized by the deputy commissioner. Another notable gentleman, Tika Jagjit Singh, incurred the wrath of the deputy commissioner in the same way. He is the vice-chairman of the district board. He belongs to the royal family of Kapurthala and has royal blood running in his veins. He is not a man to be terrorised by anybody. He has been straightforward and upright in his official capacity; so he has incurred the displeasure of the deputy commissioner who wants to be the monarch of all he surveys in the district board. The deputy commissioner through his influence created a faction against the Tika Sahib; so now he has been removed from the vice-chairmanship by the inspired votes of the party set up against him. Another unfortunate person who has incurred the displeasure of the deputy commissioner through his integrity is Chaudhri Asadullah Khan, honorary magistrate and zaildar. I am afraid that one of these days he will either lose his zaildarship or his honorary magistrateship or both, because the deputy commissioner is active against him. Only two weeks ago a case has been decided against Sardar Kuldip Singh of Mukandpur which was started, I believe, at the instigation of the deputy commissioner and he was sentenced to a fine of Rs. 60.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Is that quite a fair remark? It seems to me to be an insinuation that a gentleman was fined because of his actions on the district board so far as I can get the meaning of the speaker.

Mr. President : Will the honourable member please explain himself?

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Even if I am called to explain my remark in a court of law I am prepared to do it. But I want to end this state of affairs once for all. I want to impress upon the Government here that an officer under it has avenged himself on his supposed enemies, in a manner that they have been totally crushed; even their relatives have been totally ruined.

● This is not all. The deputy commissioner is not fair even in the matter of control of services under him. When the establishment was proposed to be reduced as a measure of economy he let the axe fall on the heads of Mussalmans. All the saving of about a lakh which he showed was made at the cost of Muslim employees under him. Then, in matters of promotion the deputy commissioner is more inclined towards the Hindus. A head clerk in the office under him retired and in his vacancy a Hindu was appointed while the right person who deserved promotion was a Muhammadan. But the deputy commissioner favoured the Hindu clerk by giving him promotion over the man who was senior to him by eight places.

Mr. President : What has all this to do with the resolution? What is the honourable member's point?

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : My point is that a deputy commissioner should not be the chairman of a district board because he being in charge of the district can abuse his powers. I can give more instances in which the deputy commissioner has done a good deal of injustice to the Muslim employees of the district board. The deputy commissioner wrote a book "Hidayat-i-Patwari" and by his influence he got it prescribed for the students in the district board schools and for patwaris in the mofussil and for libraries in the schools and made the district board buy these books.

Mr. President : The honourable member will please speak to the motion. The fact that there is a Hindu deputy commissioner, that he had written a book, which was being sold or circulated, is beyond the terms of the motion.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : The point I want to illustrate is that in the presence of a deputy commissioner as chairman of a district board the members of the district board cannot discharge their duties with freedom. Members are mostly zamindars and they have their various ambitions for the realization of which they depend upon the good will and pleasure of the deputy commissioners. As such they cannot afford to go against the will of the deputy commissioners. We find in this House that the honourable members who include amongst themselves very big landlords fawn on Government members. The local zaildars and sufedposhes are small holders. How can you expect from them not to do as they are bid by the deputy commissioner in his capacity as a president of the district board? The Government members have often compared the district boards and municipalities to schools where people get education and training in the art of self-government. But these deputy commissioners are a hindrance in the way of the people's learning the art of self-government. In order to give more freedom to the local bodies it is necessary that in place of deputy commissioners there should be non-official chairmen. As I have already said, the deputy commissioner of our district misuses his powers. All the gardeners of the district board instead of attending to their own duties work in the bungalow of the deputy commissioner. A Sardar of Bhangian is desirous of becoming an honorary magistrate and in order to please the deputy commissioner, he supplies him with all articles of food, e.g., flour, pulses, etc. If commissioners like Mr. Ferguson supervise the activities of deputy commissioners, then there can be no such injustice, because they are impartial and do their work honestly. But the deputy commissioners of the type of our deputy commissioner being selfish always hamper the progress of local self-government.

In the end, I request that this resolution may be passed and non-official chairmen be appointed for the district boards. As regards resolutions which would be passed by the district boards and which would be objectionable in the opinion of the Government the commissioners should be given powers to reject them. As I do not want to take more time of the House I resume my seat with the request that this resolution may be accepted for it is beneficial for the people at large.

Mr. E. Mayadas (Non-official, nominated): The resolution before us suggests that mere bare majority should be sufficient for the appointment of a non-official chairman. At present all that is necessary is to get the approval of the Government because in case a board has made choice of a person who is in the opinion of Government not suitable for the post of a chairman then Government may be able to intervene. If an outsider were to come into this Chamber and hear this discussion for the first time, he would probably be carried away with the impression that Government is raising unnecessary difficulties in the way of district board members electing a non-official as a chairman, because he would take it for granted that all members are generally well fitted for this post. But that is not what we find. I would first of all state that it is possible occasionally to find members who are eminently fitted to be non-official chairmen and I would make special mention of a member of this House who is non-official chairman and who has been carrying on his work most efficiently.

What is the object for which district boards exist? I understand that the object is that they have to secure the greatest happiness of the greatest number and I presume that this resolution seeks to secure the greater happiness of greatest number than at present. Those who go as members of district boards, one would expect, should possess certain qualifications; for instance, they understand good budgetting, principles of equitable taxation and proper methods of expenditure. In addition to these, it is necessary for the chairmen to know English because Government letters and a lot of correspondence, most of the important correspondence is carried on in English. And then they should be acquainted with office procedure and most of all they should have plenty of spare time. At present what test is applied before persons are allowed to become members of district boards? Are they asked if they know anything about good budgetting, about principles of taxation and office procedure? No. The only qualification required of them is that they should possess a small area of land, or they might be paying a small local tax and sometimes not even that. It seems to me that this is not right from one point of view. If we engage even a grass-cutter we want to know if he has had any experience and if he will be able to do his work. And here we are employing men to take up such important duties and we do not enquire as to what their qualifications are. But from another point of view this procedure is justified because these people are given an opportunity of learning something about local self-government under the guidance of persons who are fitted for doing this work. It is a fact, whether we like to admit it or not, that by far a large proportion of district board members are not able to appreciate the responsibility which they undertake. Hardly 5 per cent. of members are fit to become chairmen of district boards. It is unfortunate, but it is true all the same, that very often the choice of members in selecting their vice-president falls on a person who is the least fitted for it, not always but very often. And the same would happen if they were allowed to select their chairmen. And why is it so? It is because of the influence that that gentleman exercises in other spheres that he is able to secure the majority of votes. What can we then expect in such an atmosphere where the chairman hardly knows English and where he knows almost nothing about budgetting and where he understands very little about office procedure? What force is it that retains such chairmen in their position? It is a position which is derived from the votes of member friends and when he receives support he is bound to make a return and this return will take the form of favouritism. Anyway that is what one would expect and that is what we find to be the case; and the Government reports and the audit reports confirm that view. I could quote instances but I will pass that over.

I would make special mention of one matter, which I learnt from the lips of His Excellency the late Governor, how he was distressed about the affairs of a certain district board, which had a non-official chairman, but the affairs of that board were so rotten that he was on the point of superseding it but because their term was about to expire and a new election was going to take place, therefore, he did not take that step. This district board about which I have made reference was under a non-official chairman and if details are required they will be found in the annual report of the working of the district boards about three or four years back. I do not mean to say that official chairmen do not make mistakes. They may make mistakes, but on the whole the affairs of the district boards are far safer in their hands than in the hands of non-official chairmen. The official chairman has also an automatic check on him because he knows that if he abuses his powers there is the Government that can punish him. Until the time comes when literacy in our province has increased, when a highly educated leisured class has come into existence that are public-spirited and are willing to give their time for the management of district board affairs and whom people of all communities can trust, till then the present arrangement is a very healthy one. I, therefore, think that Government should have a say in the matter whether the chairman is fit or not and that if he is not it is the duty of Government to step in and thus protect the interests of the tax-payers. With these words I oppose the resolution.

Sardar Arjan Singh (Hoshiarpur and Kangra, Sikh, Rural): If we carefully read the resolution there perhaps may seem to be some confusion, but after all there is some difference as to the rules regarding the election of non-official chairmen of municipal committees and the rules that are obtaining regarding election of chairmen in district boards. It has been ruled in the municipal committees that they must have non-official chairmen, but that is not the case with the district boards. At the same time there seems to be no statutory bar to the district boards electing their own presidents.

All that is to be found in the rules is that there is some difference with respect to the procedure that is to be adopted before the district boards can have their own non-official presidents, and perhaps it is that bar that is sought to be removed by this resolution. It seems to me that the rules require that a district board must convene a special meeting for the special purpose of deciding whether they want a non-official president or an official president, and if by a majority of votes—previously the rule was perhaps that there should be so much majority but that is not the law now—if by a majority of votes they have decided to have a non-official president they have to pass that resolution on to the Government before they actually elect their non-official chairman.

In the first place those who have brought forward this resolution and those who have supported the resolution should have tried to make out a prima facie case to the effect that Government have offered some difficulties in the way of district boards electing their own chairmen, or that the Government are abusing their powers in the interval before the actual consent of Government is obtained. It is clear that some time certainly lapses before the consent of the Government is received on the question. But, sometimes we are apt to forget that things as we find them are perhaps the only way in which the ideal of local self-government can be obtained. That is a very vast question and requires study and thought. Perhaps some members of this House will be surprised to find that local self-government as it obtains in different countries varies from country to country and from place to place. It may perhaps also be a surprise to learn that we have nothing like what is called local self-government in Italy. There we are told that there is the central government which appoints its own officials. There is no question of election there and the local self-government there is a body which has been appointed by the central government. That, again, is more or less the case in France, but with this much difference that whereas in Italy all the officials are appointed by Government, in France the members of the county are elected but the head of that county, that is the president of the county is a Government official. But the case is different in England, for instance in the county of London there are 120 councillors and these 120 councillors again elect 20 aldermen who must necessarily be out of those councillors and there they again in their own turn elect their own president and that president has no more power than an ordinary member of the council, except that he presides at the meetings of the county council. But the deliberative functions are vested in the same body which is the administrative body. But that is only, as I have pointed out, in England. In Japan the mayor or manager as he is called is appointed by the Crown as is done in Italy and France. Here in this country the policy has been laid down that Government would not much object to the non-official president; here the ideal seems to be to obtain a non-official president. So far as the ideal is concerned it is very good. But we have to see that after all the attainment of that ideal is not in itself the chief thing or the chief object. We have to go beyond that.

Mr. M. A. Ghani: On a point of order. I have a hazy idea that the honourable member is making a second speech and I have a similar idea that Chaudhri Abdul Rahman Khan has made a second speech on this very resolution.

Mr. President : Chaudhri Abdul Rahman Khan was in possession of the House when this resolution was discussed last and has finished his speech to-day. The present speaker had not spoken before.

Sardar Arjan Singh : I was saying, that so far as we have to attain that object we must also try to find out how best to get an efficient and honest administration in the district boards. There is no gainsaying the fact that deputy commissioners have got experience and we must not try lightly to get rid of them and to lose the advantage of their long experience.

There is another point and that is this that the deputy commissioners are above party politics. An elected non-official president may have a party and he must also have some party strifes ; he may also be affected more or less by communalism in the district or in his own party, but the deputy commissioner certainly is above these party politics, and therefore he is more likely to have a more efficient administration than the non-official president. Our object is to get efficient administration and, so far as the present conditions in this province are concerned, it is only by retaining the official president that we can have efficient administration. With these words I oppose this resolution.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang (Minister for Local Self-Government) : I think it is necessary to say a few words about this resolution. I fully appreciate the desire of the mover of this resolution and of those who supported it to democratise the district boards as far as possible. Democracy is in the air and the desire is simply natural, but I think sometimes in our desire to democratise our systems we are liable to go farther than it is quite safe for us at the present moment, and it is for that reason that I want to draw the attention of the honourable members of this House to the one great difficulty which would arise if this resolution is accepted.

Honourable members are probably already aware that Government has gone as far as it was really safe to go. At first the policy of the Government was embodied in resolution No. 4774, dated 20th February, 1925. Under this resolution every district board which had 75 per cent. of its members elected had a right to pass a resolution after every general election to decide whether it wanted or did not want to have a non-official chairman. That resolution under the then existing rules had to be passed by a 60 per cent. majority. Afterwards this resolution of the Government was amended and the privilege was extended to all district boards irrespective of the proportion of elected members that they had. The privilege was further extended and the 60 per cent. majority was not considered necessary, and a resolution passed by a bare majority was considered to be as effective as formerly a resolution passed by the 60 per cent. majority. However, in one important aspect the resolution No. 4774 stands. I would like to draw the attention of this House to paragraph 8 of that resolution. I need not read the whole paragraph, but I shall read only the relevant portions—

Government have decided that if any board . . . . . resolves at a meeting specially called for the purpose and presided over by a non-official . . . . . to request Government to be allowed to elect a non-official chairman, the request will be duly considered and, unless there are any circumstances rendering this course undesirable, the Deputy Commissioner will be withdrawn from the board and on an order will be issued under section 18 of the Act determining that the chairman shall be elected.

These words are very important "unless there are any circumstances rendering this course undesirable." The object of the present resolution is to have these words removed from that Government order. My submission is that so far as the practical aspect of the question is concerned no difficulty has arisen. Up to this time only four district boards have exercised their right to elect their own chairman. One of them has always elected an official as its chairman. I mean the Sialkot District Board. The three others, namely, Gujranwala, Gujrat and Multan have elected non-official chairmen and Government has approved the resolutions passed by these district boards. Out of 29 district board, or rather out of 28 district boards—leaving out Simla—25 district boards are content with having official chairmen. Everywhere the deputy commissioner is the president and they are content to enjoy the benefits of the deputy commissioner's experience of administration. They have never yet passed a resolution asking the Government to remove the deputy commissioner and to allow them to have non-official chairmen. Thus, so far as the actual state of affairs is concerned there is no obstacle in the way of any district board if it wants to elect a non-official chairman of its own. But my submission is that there may be cases in which this reservation may have to be exercised by the Government. There may be cases in which it may be undesirable from various points of view, in the interests of the district itself not to approve of the election of a non-official chairman. My friends are probably aware that even in the case of municipalities where people who are returned to the committees are presumed to be more educated and more enlightened than the people living in the countryside and where the presidents elected by such elected representatives of the people are supposed to be very well-educated and cultured men, even in the case of such municipalities the approval of Government is required before a president can take over charge, even if he is elected unanimously by the members of the committee. I do not see any reason why district boards should claim a privilege which is not yet enjoyed by the municipalities themselves. No one can say that the district boards are more democratic, that they are politically more advanced, that they are educationally more advanced, that they have greater experience of administration, that they understand public finance, and other questions relating to education, sanitation and such things better than the city folks do; and yet my friend and his supporters of this resolution want that the district boards should be placed in this respect on a higher level and in a better position than even the biggest municipalities in the province. I think the unreasonableness of this demand must be apparent to all.

Then there is another point which has not been noticed by any of the speakers on this resolution so far as I can recollect, and that is this. The Government contributes more than half the total income of the district boards. From the latest report of district boards which I have got before me it would appear that while the total income of district boards from other sources was 97.9 lakhs, the contribution of Government was 99.5

[Hon. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang.]

lakhs, so that a crore of rupees is more or less being contributed by Government towards the finances of district boards. Now, is it really contended that while Government should contribute a crore of rupees to the coffers of district boards it should have absolutely no control over the administration of those boards? If the district boards and the Government are treated as partners in the sense that each contributes, say more or less a crore of rupees towards the working of the boards, should one of the partners not have any control over the business? Is it even in accordance with the ordinary notions of partnership? If the district boards elect non-official chairmen Government has no vote in that respect, but it reserves to itself the right of vetoing the elections only in special circumstances.

Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Where is the objection to holding these elections by ballot?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : That is the second part of the resolution and I may straightaway say that there is none. That part of the resolution may be deemed to have been accepted. But I feel that I must oppose the other part of the resolution, namely the removal of this little control by the Government over the appointment of non-official chairmen of district boards. When my honourable friend, the mover of this resolution, himself could not take charge of the biggest municipality of the province without the Government's previous approval of his election, does he really expect that the presidents of district boards in far less advanced areas of the province should be allowed to take charge automatically as soon as they are elected by a bare majority by the district boards? I do not mean to say that these elections will not as a rule be conducted with circumspection and with care and with a due sense of their public duty by the members of the district boards. But there may be say one case out of twenty where the members of district boards, for one reason or another may elect as chairman one who is really not suited, who does not possess the ability to carry on the administration of the district or it may be that they may for some political reasons be returned on grounds the same as those on which the Congress people have been returning some members to the assemblies and the councils in the various provinces. If such a thing happens, is it contended that Government should have no power to veto the election of such a person? I am sure every reasonable member in this House would realise that that power should be in reserve with the Government to be used in cases of necessity.

Then there is another point. Honourable members who have supported this resolution have overlooked one important fact and it is this, that we are now on the threshold of a new system of Government. The Act has already been passed. The bureaucratic character of the Government would entirely disappear. The few white faces that we see here now will not be seen hereafter unless they retire and as private citizens of this province they are returned to the Council by our votes. The bureaucratic character of the Government will disappear and we will have at the helm of affairs men who will be absolutely our own, who will be responsible to us for everything relating to either finance, law and order, education, local self-government and so on. There would no longer be any reserved departments of Government. We cannot expect that the ministers who will then be in charge of Government will ever have the courage to veto the election of a president elected by the members of the district boards except in cases of absolute necessity and where it is absolutely clear that the election should not be approved of. You should not tie the hands of the Government that is coming. In any case if you do want that Government should lose all control over the elections of presidents, then better wait and consult your own ministers, not the present ministers who are only to a limited extent your own ministers. It is only in theory that the present ministers are your own. But the time is coming when no one will be able to sit on these benches unless he is absolutely amenable to the discipline of the honourable members of this House. At that time, I have not the slightest doubt, they will always accede to your wishes. If I were in the position of the honourable member in charge of the resolution I would certainly withdraw it and wait till that time even though I may be convinced that the resolution is in every respect sound.

One other argument was advanced that it is undemocratic that Government should have any control over local bodies. That is a matter which has been discussed very often on the floor of this House. On a very important occasion to which I need not refer specifically when a reference was being made to the new constitution I had the temerity to say that we were going to get a constitution in this country, which does not prevail in many important countries in Europe at the present moment. It was really sending out a suit of clothes to India which has grown out of fashion in Europe. I do not mean to say that democracy should be despised or kicked out. It is a very good system, but only within certain limits. We should certainly hasten, but hasten slowly and not rush things to the detriment of the efficiency of administration of any of our institutions. You are probably aware that in Europe local bodies are far more under official control than local bodies in this country are. If honourable members had read Mr. Marsden's speech or heard it when he delivered it in this House, they would probably remember that he pointed out that in France which according to many people has been the champion of liberty, equality and fraternity and which has been foremost in creating revolutions and where democracy has had full play and is still having full play the official control over local bodies is far more stringent than it has ever been in this country. Therefore official control particularly when it is going to be exercised by Ministers of your own choice is not inconsistent with democracy at all. I would, therefore, ask the honourable mover to withdraw his resolution. (Cheers).

Mr. President : The question is—

This Council recommends to the Government to so change the rules of election of chairmen of district boards as to allow the district boards to elect non-official chairmen in cases where a resolution is passed by a bare majority of non-official members to that effect and without obtaining Government's approval; and also to allow the voting for deciding the question about official or non-official chairmen to take place by ballot.

MORAL INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh (Jullundur, Sikh, Rara) :
I beg to move—

That this Council recommends to the Government that a committee consisting of a majority of non-official members of this Council be appointed to consider the question of the introduction of regular moral instruction in primary and secondary schools and to suggest other adequate measures to improve moral discipline in the schools.

The purely secular education given in our schools has unbalanced the minds of our young boys and they lack in moral strength. Only a couple of months ago Sir P. C. Ray writing under the heading of "vagaries of students" created quite a sensation and the article was reproduced in all good papers. I think his remarks must be quite fresh in the minds of most of us. The Punjab University in one of its reports issued before the introduction of proctorial system in the local colleges deplored it in the following words :—

"We have received much evidence that earnest studiousness is declining, that students are becoming alarmingly frivolous and extravagant, that habits of intemperance and gambling are increasingly prevalent and that sexual immorality is not rare."

Demoralisation does not end here. In the case of some of the young men who enter the Education Department as teachers it assumes an extremely heinous and ruinous form of seduction of the very boys put under their charge to be trained as good and useful citizens. In order to show what havoc some of these so-called teachers are playing with the morals of our school boys I would quote verbatim the opinion of those who can speak with authority on the subject.

This is what Khan Bahadur Khurshid Ahmad, retired Inspector of Schools, writes in his letter to the Eastern Times, dated 22nd October, 1932 :—

"To think of the remedy I think we should look to the causes. Here in this province very young boys generally unmarried on passing out of Normal schools get jobs in village schools, with little or no supervision. They sometimes form such vicious connections which generally go undetected. The site of the school generally isolated from the main village furnishes a very safe asylum for the purpose. This accounts for the spread of the vice in village schools. The case of secondary schools situated in towns is worse. Amongst other factors private tuition of any form with no proper supervision, excursions, etc., all furnish very convenient opportunities for forming such illicit connections which when once formed continue indefinitely. A certain amount of indulgence allowed, the offer of help at house examination and the prospect of any easy pass at the annual promotion test, these and other so-called favours shown to a boy are sure to win him over to a connection that works like a double edged sword, it spoils the boy's character and ruins his career. It is only very rigid supervision and a firm hand that can stem the tide, but this is not forthcoming everywhere. The detection of the crime is a very difficult task. The connection in most cases takes the form of a love affair and neither of the parties concerned would like to disclose the secret and the parents are lulled into sleep by the outward regard the culprit has for their son. Even in cases where compulsion has been used and the outraged son has taken his woeful tale to his parents, no action is taken, as it is feared it will tell on the reputation of the boy and of the family. The headmaster, too, if complaint comes to him, would try to hush up to keep the fair name of the school from being soiled. In these days of racial difference again, the culprit finds a ready asylum to take refuge. The charge brought against him becomes a racial question; defence evidence becomes easily available and the case is lost."

Similarly Mr. P. N. Moulick, Principal, Sanatan Dharam College, writes in his statement published in the Tribune of 4th June, 1935—

"As a teacher of fairly long experience and as a member of the management of some schools, some primary and secondary, I may be permitted to observe with some authority that the vice is quite widespread among students and in most schools there are some teachers who are corrupters of the young. I have frequently found that many of such teachers are otherwise very useful, and sometimes really efficient workers. Their efficiency and usefulness become a successful cloak for the vice. Once the teacher has corrupted a group of pupils it is not infrequently the case that there is a scramble among the helpless victims for the teacher's favours. Gymnastic masters, drill masters and drawing masters form the majority of such unnatural offenders. I have known cases where the offenders were very venerable and pious teachers of religion in schools. The age or formal piety of teacher need not make guardians, headmasters and managers of schools quite unsuspicious of him.

The proper remedy for this vice is drastic regulations of the Education Department providing for the dismissal or voluntary resignation of perverse teachers even on strong grounds of suspicious conduct where definite proof is not available.

For students frank and healthy sexual education with the inculcation of matter of fact morality is a potent remedy."

Mr. M. A. Ghani : On a point of order. Is the honourable member in order in reading long statements of other people? He can only refer to them and cannot read them.

Mr. Deputy President : The honourable member can quote extracts.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : It is only an extract from the Tribune. These instances can be multiplied, but I think this would suffice and they can be substantiated with actual cases of seduction recently decided or subjudice. I quote a few cases that I have come across casually in the papers—

The Mailai (Multan) Teacher's case,

The Ambala Drill Master's case,

The Lahore District Board School Teacher's case,

The Pindi Headmaster's case,

The Sangla teacher's case, and

The Banga teacher's case.

This much about the seduction of boys by teachers. Next comes the case of goondas, the hawkers, the vendors and even some of the book-sellers and I read extract from a letter contributed to the columns of the Tribune by Mr. K. L. Rallia Ram, Headmaster of the Local Mission High School, Rang Mahal, Lahore—

"There is not the least doubt that in the very city glaring instances of it are found—there exists a secret organization of goondas who seduced young boys through various agencies and means. Their agents are sometimes found raving round schools and inducing boys by offering them many temptations in form of sweets, etc., and leading them to those hidden places where their future character is altogether spoiled."

But what is the Department doing to cope with this evil? Here I will quote the words of no less an authority than Mr. Sanderson our Director of Public Instruction who retired only yesterday. In his demi-official letter, dated the 19th September, 1934, to the Inspector of Schools and others he observed—

"There is generally delay in the institution of legal proceedings or the conduct of the enquiry with the result that the offender often goes without adequate punishment or any punishment at all and not a few departmental officers have shown an utter lack of a sense of proportion in dealing with such cases."

Such is the verdict of one whom none can accuse of exaggerating facts. But there is a silver lining in this dark cloud and it is gratifying to note that the Honourable Minister for Education has lately taken up the matter and instructions to deal with such cases promptly and efficiently have been issued to the authorities concerned. But it is only a step in the right direction and much more will have to be done to fight this evil successfully. We must go to the very root of this evil. The introduction of moral instruction in all primary and secondary schools is of the first necessity. Such instruction was a regular feature of education in this province some two decades back and it was given under the special instructions from the then Secretary of State for India himself. I would draw your thoughtful attention to the lines from the preface to "Man and his duties," then used as a text book for the purpose.

"The want of moral culture in our Indian schools has been long felt. It is not believed that, with the advance of education, a higher tone is not being gradually developed; but the intellectual side of the scholars has been chiefly addressed, with this result, that the heart power, or power of character, has not grown with the growth of brain power. This is, of course, a calamity. It is the putting last of that which should be first for a well-moulded character—in its temper, habits, and sentiments—if of far more value than even the highest intellectual attainments. To remedy this evil, various proposals have been made from time to time. The Education Commission recommended certain measures of discipline and supervision, which, where not already in operation were at once adopted in the Punjab. In December 1887, the Government of India, endorsing an order of the Secretary of State on the subject, discussed the whole matter of mental training in Indian Schools."

Next, instruction in sex hygiene and the value of purity should also be given. But all these and similar measures will prove entirely abortive unless and until we first turn to the negative aspect of the task, viz., the prevention of seduction of boys by some of the very teachers intended to train them into good and useful citizens. To this end I would like to suggest following points:—

- (1) Appointing no unmarried person as a hostel superintendent or as a teacher in primary schools;
- (2) providing for the instruction in sex hygiene of the student teachers in our training colleges and schools;
- (3) forbidding teachers to call students to their houses or detaining them before and after school hours under any pretext whatever;
- (4) devising means to reduce to a minimum the usual fatal delay in instituting legal proceedings or conducting departmental enquiry;
- (5) preventing the hushing up of cases by the headmasters and others through the institution of special measures on the receipt of a complaint;
- (6) suspending teachers charged with immoral conduct before starting departmental enquiry;
- (7) requiring all inspectors to make regular private enquiry on the occasion of their visits as to the moral conditions of schools and to enter the result thereof in a separate column to be provided in the Log Book for the purpose;
- (8) keeping a permanent register for all complaints in regard to the misconduct of teachers and submitting a return of the same annually to the Department;
- (9) seeking the co-operation of the police with a view to immediate action on their part when a case of molestation of school children by goondas, hawkers, booksellers, etc., is reported to them,
- (10) enforcing strictly in schools the Juvenile Smoking Act of 1915;

[S. S. S. Gurbachan Singh.]

- (11) introducing some such check as the University has already introduced in colleges in the form of proctorial system, etc.;
- (12) arranging measures for the prevention of hushing up or nominal punishment of such offenders in recognized non-Government schools managed by local committees of management; and
- (13) enforcing the recruitment of drawing masters and drill masters who form the majority of such offenders from amongst higher classes of persons, with superior cultural equipment.

In the end the importance of proper bringing up of school children cannot be over-rated and Lord Minto 20 years ago saw that a godless education will prove disastrous when he said—

“In the old days education and religion went hand in hand; but a complete change has come with our administration that is in education we supply no moral control over Indian youths, and we run the risk of creating a class peculiarly devoid of that strength of moral character which should constitute a foundation upon which nation should rely.”

Similarly Mr. T. Roosevelt said—

“No nation is safe unless in the average family there are healthy and happy children. If these children are not brought up well, they are not merely a curse to themselves and their parents, but they mean the ruin of the State in the future.”

With these words I commend the resolution to the House.

Mr. Deputy President : The resolution moved is—

That this Council recommends to the Government that a committee consisting of a majority of non-official members of this Council be appointed to consider the question of the introduction of regular moral instruction in primary and secondary schools and to suggest other adequate measures to improve moral discipline in the schools.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh (Sikh, Urban) : My honourable friend from Jullundur deserves to be congratulated for moving this resolution. It deals with a very important matter. Our educational system has a gap which requires to be filled. In olden times boys were given religious education first before they were admitted to any school. But now-a-days even that education is not given and young boys of very tender age are sent to schools and placed under the charge of raw, inexperienced youths out from a normal school, with the result that very grave abuses crop up. No education is worth having if it does not impart moral instruction. I think in any scheme of education character-building should occupy the foremost place, but it is a matter for very great regret that for the last many years no attention has been paid to this very useful and important side of education. Education should fit a man morally, intellectually and physically to face the struggle for existence. We have been hearing of many suggestions for improving the secular side of education. Attention of the Government and the public has been drawn from time to time with regard to deficiencies on the secular side. But unfortunately the attention of the public and the Government has not been sufficiently focussed on moral teaching. Not only is there no moral instruction in the schools but there is in existence grave immorality and instances have been quoted by my honourable friend from the experience of those who have been charged with the instruction of young boys. This is a very lamentable state of affairs, and should be put to an end. I do not mean to convey that immorality exists in every school or that every teacher is immoral. But even the instances quoted by my friend are sufficient to justify an immediate action by the department. I would suggest that a certain time should be fixed for moral instruction in schools and that teachers who are unmarried should not be appointed as superintendents of hostels, e.g., when youngmen who are inexperienced, who have no self-control, who are not disciplined and have had no moral training are apt to abuse their powers. Unless some arrangement is made by which sufficient check is placed on those young teachers, and when those teachers are caught exemplary punishment is given to them, that abuse is not likely to be stopped.

For moral instruction there appears to be some difficulty as it may be said that on account of a large number of religions, I should call a multitude of religions, it becomes rather difficult to impart any kind of moral instruction. But I would submit that moral instruction on general lines can be taught with great advantage. No religion permits that abuse which now exists in our schools. Every religion lays emphasis on truth, honesty, straightforwardness, spirit of self-sacrifice and upon character-building. And if some method is devised, as has been suggested with resolution and a committee is appointed, that committee might go into the whole question and might meet the objections which might be put forward from any quarter. Some sort of code of moral instruction can be evolved, and if that is done I am sure it will prove very useful, it will be a step towards character-building which as I have already said should occupy a leading place in any scheme of education. It is not possible on the floor of this House to lay down any general lines but it will be the business of the committee which my honourable friend suggests to formulate a scheme and the method by which moral instruction might be imparted. I might also suggest that at the time of medical inspection boys should be warned by medical inspectors of the ruinous results of sexual abuses. With these few words I very strongly support the resolution.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : I had no intention to speak to-day but seeing that this debate on this resolution calls for some suggestions, I venture to place before the Director of Public Instruction and the Honourable Minister for Education a few points that occur to me. I have full sympathy with the object of the resolution though I do not agree with the very dark picture the honourable mover has painted with regard to our boys studying in our schools and colleges. Our boys whether they are students in schools or in colleges are as good or as bad as students reading in other provinces or in other countries. The lack of religious spirit is not common merely to the students in India but common to the students in the West also. There is a general complaint that religion as understood in the past does not claim the same kind of study as it claimed years ago from our forefathers and ancestors. We do not know whom to blame, the religion itself or the advance in education and so on of the modern times. But the subject is of such vital importance that it cannot possibly be ignored. For example it has been suggested that sex education should be given to the students. This question is a very delicate and difficult one. If the teachers are going to give education in sex matters there is a very grave danger that they might not themselves prove sources of contamination. That has been greatly feared and it would be a very bad thing if teachers ill-equipped mentally and morally for the purpose should be made teachers of such delicate and difficult subjects as sex matters. This is a point of view which I wish to place before the committee which might be formed and before the heads of the Education Department. It is a very difficult and delicate matter and it is not possible to make every teacher in a school or even a good percentage of teachers in schools teachers in sex matters. Instead of doing good thereby you might be doing harm. That is one aspect of the question which I would very forcibly place before the Honourable Minister for Education and the Director of Public Instruction. It does not mean that I do not support the resolution but to those who are going to deliberate on this point I want to place this point for their careful consideration.

There is another point which requires to be considered. Religious education and moral education to my mind are two different things. Some sort of confusion exists in the minds of certain honourable members that in order to give what is called moral education it is essential to give religious education, and that as there are a number of religions in India perhaps it would be a very delicate and difficult task to give religious education and through religious, the much needed moral education. But as I understand it, moral virtues such as the speaking of truth, being patriotic, self-sacrificing, and matters of that kind, can be taught without going into the religious tenets and doctrines of particular religion and that aspect of the question must be emphasised by the committee. It is undoubtedly true that the textbooks do not deal with the moral virtues to the same extent as they used to do when I was a student at school. For example, more emphasis was laid on textbooks which dealt with moral subjects, but now we find that greater emphasis is laid on stories and such other things and the same importance is not given in the textbooks to moral instruction as was done in the past. I have noted this deterioration from my point of view and from the point of view of the honourable member who has moved this resolution. If the Education Department or the Punjab University take up this question of the improvement of textbooks from this point of view it would go a great way in emphasising the necessity of moral education from the very childhood. Such a thing should be done.

Another thing that strikes me is that great emphasis should be laid on games. Games are not given the same importance as they should be given in the school curriculum. We know that a healthy body contains healthy mind. It is very difficult to corrupt a boy who takes part in games and who is healthy in every way. That is a matter which I would like to be given due importance to in schools and colleges.

As a matter of fact, as I said before, the real question is one of finding suitable teachers. Suitable teachers in order to impart moral education in the younger days of the child are the ladies and females of the family. Unfortunately we have not got that agency of lady teachers. But public opinion must be educated and moral education should be imparted through the influence which a child gets in his home. Home influences must be emphasised with regard to this matter.

These are some of the thoughts which have suggested themselves to me while I was listening to the speech of the honourable mover on this point. With these words I support the resolution.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq (Hoshiarpur-cum-Ludhiana, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): When I read this resolution on the basis of my experience of schools I found that the thing at which it aims cannot be achieved in the manner suggested in it by the honourable mover. Many times various headmasters of schools brought to me complaints about the same matter and proposed that something should be done in this connection in the Legislative Council. What these headmasters stated was that it was not the students who were corrupt but it was the teachers who were corrupt. The headmasters requested me to draw the attention of the Department to this fact by bringing a motion with the object of discussing it. The honourable mover of the present resolution has suggested in his speech that some religious instruction should be given to boys in the schools. This means that he wants to improve the moral tone of the boys but not of the teachers who seduce them. The other two honourable members also stressed the point that measures should be adopted to introduce regular moral instruction in schools. If this were to be done it would require that the attention of the students should be invited to immorality. I am entirely opposed to the idea that the attention of students should be invited to this evil for I think it will be a sort of inducement to evil and it will do more harm than good to students. If the fault lies principally with the teachers we should try to reform them and refrain from lecturing upon the evil before students. This evil is rampant mainly in big towns and cities like Lahore and Amritsar. In my opinion the best thing would be for the headmasters of local schools every now and then to hold meetings in order to devise means to combat the evil. With regard to the internal administration of schools I would submit that teachers suspected of misconduct should be severely dealt with. Besides every care should be taken to appoint teachers of high moral character, who may be able to improve the morale of students. I do agree to the appointment of a committee of the members of this House who should suggest suitable means to root out this evil. But this alone would not solve our difficulty. There are gangs of goondas and loafers always found near educational institutions. The authorities should always be prepared to take prompt action against these people. I think the committee, if appointed, should give serious attention to this matter. If you could properly deal with these goondas you would do a great service to the student community. Anyhow I have every sympathy with the spirit of the resolution now before the House.

5 P.M.

Mr. J. E. Parkinson (Director of Public Instruction): It is very gratifying indeed to me to read the resolution of the honourable member because it is an indication of the interest which he takes in the Punjabi boy and also shows his desire to safeguard the youth of this province from the many temptations which assail him. I feel sure that underlying this resolution is the hope and the wish with which all here are in entire sympathy. I have listened to his suggestions with great interest and I can assure him that for my part I have listened to and shall give the most careful consideration to all those recommendations, and I can also promise him that if any cases of indiscretions and evil on the part of the teachers come to my notice I shall do as much as I can to see that they are promptly disposed of.

I feel perhaps that the resolution has not been worded as the honourable mover might have meant it. He has left out two very important words. He talks about moral instruction and moral education. The two are not the same thing. Moral instruction is more direct but perhaps not so important on the development and on the strengthening of character as moral education. Moral instruction is a matter of teaching and text books; moral education includes all those factors of which each individual one may have very slight impression but the cumulative effect is, I think, very very great. Instruction is more concerned with knowledge; education is concerned not merely with knowledge but with the provision of facilities for giving opportunities to develop all those excellent habits and moral qualities which we desire to see, I think that by moral instruction the honourable mover means moral instruction and moral education.

He and the honourable gentleman who spoke next, gave us a rather pessimistic outlook of the Punjabi boy. I am in agreement with my friend Pandit Nanak Chand when he points out that the Punjabi boy is no worse, possibly also no better, than the boy of any other State. I have had a considerable experience of the Punjabi boy and I am filled with admiration for him. We older people perhaps forget that our children probably are very much the same as we were at their age. We think that the old age was the better and the old generation was better, but I very much doubt it and I feel that there is no serious deterioration in character at all. Times differ, circumstances alter and the march of progress brings along with it many distractions and many allurements but in spite of these I think that the Punjabi boy stands up to them very well indeed (applause).

This very, very important matter has received consideration both by the Government of India and by other local Governments and administrations, not once but many times. In 1887—I am speaking now from memory; my dates may not be accurate, but I think they will be approximately accurate—in 1887 the Government of India seriously perturbed at the tendencies towards irreverence and subversive of discipline issued a somewhat lengthy Resolution on this question. In this Resolution many suggestions were made. Local Governments considered these. In 1888 there was a conference in the Punjab. Again, in 1911 the Government of India issued a Resolution developing to some length its previous remarks, its previous views and making more recommendations. In this Resolution it invited the opinions of local Governments and administrations. As a result of these, conferences were held in Allahabad, Bombay, Calcutta and the matter was considered by many local Governments. In 1915, the Punjab Government adopted many of those resolutions and put them into practice in their schools. Again, in 1920 the Government of India gave this matter its serious consideration and made additional suggestions. So we have before us a considerable mass of opinion on this very, very important matter, and I very much doubt whether any additional data or additional suggestions made by the proposed committee will be commensurate with the time involved, the labour taken and the expenditure spent.

Before going on to speak of the work which the Punjab schools are doing towards the strengthening and development of character, I should like to point out in support of what my honourable friend says that much depends upon the teacher. Many of these suggestions have been adopted, but it must be remembered that the formation of character is a slow process.

Again no moral education can be soundly built up unless we have contented and qualified teachers, men of high attainments who will do their best for the youth. I quite agree with the honourable proposer of the resolution that we must emphasise the training of our teachers. In addition to this there are other essentials. We also want a wise inspectorate; we also want sympathetic managing bodies that will give their teachers security of tenure; we also want disciplined homes. Until all these exist I think any effort on the part of the schools will be greatly hampered.

I now propose for a short time, if I may, to outline the work that is being done in the Punjab schools in regard to moral education. I will deal with moral instruction later. One of the most valuable influences in the formation of character is the boy scout movement. This affords very many opportunities for the practice of those qualities which we all desire to see in our children—co-operation, cleanliness, unity, self-sacrifice, etc. Those who are sceptical of the value of this movement ought to attend a boy scout camp, not for one afternoon, but preferably for two or three days. Then they will be convinced that behind this movement there is an ideal, a high endeavour and also very many opportunities for developing those qualities that we want to see. This movement has spread rapidly and is still growing. Another movement which is increasing very rapidly indeed and which deserves and gets all encouragement from the Education Department is the Junior Red Cross Society. Very many schools, speaking from memory, I should say perhaps 2,000 schools in the province, have formed Junior Red Cross Societies. Membership of this society calls for such qualities as self-sacrifice and kindness. We have also thrift societies which discourage extravagance and encourage simplicity of life. Again, in regard to organisation of schools, many schools now have adopted the prefect system, a system which plays so large a part in our English Public Schools. Even the severest critic of those schools will admit, I think, that this system gives very many opportunities for developing qualities of leadership and responsibility, of self-reliance qualities which we want to find in our Punjabi boy, qualities which our schools must provide opportunities for. Again some schools are now handing over the control of the institution to the boys themselves through what I may call discipline boards. The boys themselves are responsible to a large extent for the running of the institution. The value of this is obvious. It opens out the possibilities of training our youth.

I do not want to spend much more time talking about games, the provision of playing fields, medical inspection and all those many activities which give those opportunities. All these are either financed by, supported by, encouraged by or sympathised with by the Education Department. So much for moral education.

The Education Department is also alive to its responsibilities in regard to direct moral training. It has been mentioned by the previous speakers that our present text books do not contain enough of that kind of moral literature which he considers is desirable. Our reading books do contain moral lessons.

In regard to religious instruction the policy of the Government has been very clearly enunciated. The difficulties are obvious and I need not dwell on them. But here again the Punjab Education Department fully appreciates what was mentioned by one of the previous speakers about the great value of the religious sanctions which form the basis of all moral instruction. Even in the matter of religious instruction the Punjab Government permits lessons in religious instruction to be given in Government schools out of school hours.

Now with regard to the teacher, I said already that he was the keystone. Without a self-respecting body of teachers, without teachers of high talents all these would be of little worth. At Ghakhar and Lala Musa, normal schools for the training of primary teachers have been organised. The aim in these schools is simplicity of life. The boys in these schools are trained to go out not only to influence the character of boys but also to enlighten the whole village community. The hope is that the teachers from these institutions shall be centres of enlightenment in the village community. Many of those listening to me will be able to speak far better than myself on the work that the village teacher is doing towards the regeneration of the countryside. In the Central Training College, an institution for the training of teachers of high schools, an attempt is made to give opportunities for leadership and for the bearing of responsibility. Extravagance is discouraged, the simple mode of life is emphasised. The men are told that they have got to see when they return to schools that they find by one way or another an opportunity by which the boys in the schools can be helpfully occupied in developing and strengthening their character. Perhaps I may say that on the day of the Quetta earthquake every man of that college without exception and at a moment's notice volunteered for any work he could do at any time and in any place. (Hear, hear). That I am proud of. I may also recall to your mind the most excellent work done by hundreds and hundreds of school boys who willingly offered their services at that particular time. Now there is not very much wrong with a body of students like that. Otherwise they would not have offered themselves. I could go on speaking about other matters. I could tell about the vernacular schools, of their farms and their gardens and the opportunities through manual labour for the development of qualities of co-operation and so on. I could speak of the manual training in the high schools and the colleges. But I think I have said enough. I have spoken at some length because I hope to convince the honourable mover of this resolution that we are all in sympathy with him. But personally I do not think that the formation or constitution of a committee is necessary at this time. I hope I have convinced him. We are prepared to listen to any suggestions and to take any action that we may think suitable. The Punjab Education Department is alive to its responsibility and I cannot see that the constitution of this committee would give us results commensurate with the time and expenditure and labour involved. (Cheers).

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I rise to support the resolution which is now before the House. If we pay sufficient attention to the education of our children, their morals will improve and most of the indecent and unpleasant incidents that take place every day will come to an end. The reason why these disagreeable things happen is that there is no provision for moral education in our schools and institutions. The present system of education does not help at all to improve the morals of our boys. Its object is only to prepare them for clerical work. But in these days they are unable to get even petty clerkships. That is why there is so much unrest in the country. India is full of various classes and communities. Our children do not get any ethical and religious education. We hear nearly every day that a Muslim has been murdered by a Sikh and a Sikh has been murdered by a Muslim. But the truth is that no religion permits any such heinous crime. Therefore, in order to put an end to such occurrences, we must give the right sort of education to our children. Religion certainly does not permit or encourage any kind of persecution. If religious and ethical education is given to our children, there will be no unhappy occurrences; there will be peace in the country; and the social and economic condition of our country will improve considerably. Thus they will also come to realize that it is a sin to accept a bribe. They will refrain from evils, and will not commit dacoities and murders. If we find so much corruption in various departments, it is because our children do not get proper training.

Incidents which happen in our schools and colleges every day are so disgraceful and scandalous that I feel ashamed of mentioning them to you. It will be quite indecent to throw any light on them in this honourable House. We know that immorality among our children will spoil the whole nation and will ruin our country. It is high time that we do something to improve this state of affairs and save our country from complete ruin.

The modern system of education is out and out European. There is a world of difference between the civilization of our country and that of Europe. There is a great deal of modesty and chastity among our women. In this respect we are head and shoulders above any other nation in the world. The western education has greatly spoiled our morals. My ancestors were Hindus, and I belong to a respectable Rajput family. Even in the olden days we used the veil, but when we accepted Islam, it became incumbent. I am against the co-education system. It is totally against all our good traditions. It is entirely undesirable that members of the opposite sexes should have free social intercourse at the time of adolescence. This familiarity leads to every kind of vice. If we introduce ethical education into the syllabus of our schools, the moral condition of our students will become much better. But we should pay greater attention to the education of our girls. They are the hope of our nation. One day they have to become mothers. If there are good mothers, we shall make a great nation one day. The building up of a nation depends on women and on their education. Therefore, I would strongly appeal that the proposed committee should be formed forthwith and its suggestions followed. All defects should be removed from the system of education so that the coming generations may be good and our country may advance by leaps and bounds. With these words, I strongly support this resolution.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon (Minister for Education): First of all I should like to congratulate the honourable mover of this Resolution for his drawing the attention of this House and the public to a very important subject. I feel that the progress of a nation depends on the character of its youth and no educational system in any country in the world can ignore the moral education and instruction of its children. Secondly I should like to congratulate my new colleague, the Director of Public Instruction, on his excellent speech on the subject (cheers) which he, as an expert, dealt with in a masterly manner and I am glad to say that he has left very little for me to reply to in this debate. I should also like to congratulate some of the members who have spoken on this resolution with a cool head and careful consideration. Some of their remarks have really been greatly appreciated by me because they have looked at this problem as any parent of any child in any country would. I do not wish to take the time of the House by taking up each point of every speaker, but I should like to say a few words on the definite proposals made by the honourable member from Jullundur, the mover of this resolution.

His first definite suggestion was that no unmarried person should be engaged as a teacher in a primary school or as a superintendent of a hostel. As a matter of fact the Education Department have already anticipated his wishes in this matter and it was some time ago that some honourable members asked certain questions on the subject and Government accepting the principle underlying those questions have already issued instructions to all the inspectors that so far as primary schools are concerned preference should be given to a lady teacher wherever she is available. The honourable member will realise that we have gone a step further in this direction. For little children of the kindergarten classes it is the woman teacher who is really the most suitable. She is even better than a married teacher and the honourable member can rest assured that if married teachers are available they would certainly be given the consideration they deserve. But the difficulty is that marriage does not take place unless the man is economically on his own legs and he does not stand on his own legs till he gets a job. Therefore it happens that when they enter the department they are usually unmarried and as they get a job they get married because people are willing to give their daughters in marriage to persons who have a living. It will therefore be hard to lay down any hard and fast rule in matters like this. If we lay down the rule that in primary schools unmarried teachers should not be employed, then I am afraid that a large number of primary schools will have to be closed. But the spirit underlying the suggestion will be put into effect as much as possible.

(At this stage Mr. President resumed the chair.)

The second suggestion was that sex hygiene should be taught in training colleges and schools. In training colleges I agree; but in schools I hope the honourable mover took to heart the criticism levelled against the suggestion by my friend from Hoshiarpur. Several years ago I remember reading in the newspapers that in America little boys of ten or twelve—six or seven of them collected together and committed the murder of a girl. They dressed themselves up like Red Indians with bows and arrows and feathers on their heads and with knives and lay in waiting for some girl to pass their way. When asked "why did you commit the murder" they said, we went to a cinema and we saw that some Red Indians murdered a woman like this and therefore we thought it would be a great thing for us to do likewise. I am just telling you the dangers of putting certain ideas into untrained minds of young people. A teacher may with all good intentions lecture to students about sex matters which the boys did not know at all. Merely to test whether the teacher is telling the truth or not they might go and practice what is preached against. Therefore you will in a way be teaching immorality rather than morality in the school. I think this matter has been debated very widely in countries more educated than our own and there has been strong opinion on either side. But I think the general consensus of opinion is on the side of caution, that these sex matters should not be discussed in the presence of the young. Some of us may have had the chance to read some books or literature on the subject particularly sex matters. They can realise the effect which can be produced on the mind of the youth by the reading of such literature or by the giving of lectures on this subject. It is a very dangerous and delicate matter and I hope that the honourable member will agree with me that it is advisable for Government to proceed cautiously in this direction as has been also pointed out by my honourable friend from Hoshiarpur.

The third suggestion that the honourable member made was that the calling of students to private houses should be stopped as also the detaining of students after school hours. I think that is a very sensible suggestion and I am sure the Director of Public Instruction will consult the divisional inspectors and try to give such effect to it as is possible. I think that a great deal of mischief could be stopped if the boys are not allowed to go to private houses of teachers. I can say definitely that at least two cases have come to my notice where allegations were made against school teachers of immorality committed at their own houses where under one pretext or another the boys were asked to come. I can assure the honourable member that in those two cases the teachers were very severely dealt with. The policy, as far as the teachers are concerned, is that even if there is no legal proof of guilt against a particular teacher, if the department and the officers are morally satisfied that there is overwhelming evidence to show that the man is guilty, even then we try to get rid of that man and in that spirit we have dealt with several cases. But on the other hand I would like to draw his attention to a particular case which came to my notice only recently where one teacher in order to put another teacher into trouble, made false allegations of immorality against his colleague. We issued instructions to district and divisional officers that cases of immorality on the part of teachers should be dealt with severely and this teacher coming to know of these instructions and taking advantage of them tried to put one of his colleagues into trouble. He therefore made false allegations of immorality against another teacher and after investigation it was found and proved clearly that these allegations were false. We immediately dismissed that teacher who had made the false allegations, in order to keep up the feeling of confidence in the minds of Government and district board servants. Government are ready to punish the real culprits but they are also equally ready to protect them against wrong and mischievous attacks. Therefore when laying down any laws and rules on the subject we have not only to have all the possibly guilty ones in our mind and the possibility of their getting off free but we have also to think of the innocent ones being involved by their enemies under one pretext or another. The fourth point suggested by him was that we ought to reduce the delay which takes place in lodging criminal proceedings. There I agree with him and the department will see that in all these cases where there is any proof which can be placed before a court no time is lost in bringing the guilty one to account. Similarly regarding his fifth point I agree with him in spirit that the department should do all that is in its power to prevent the hushing up of true cases. Of course he must realize that in many cases it is the parents themselves who are unwilling to come forward to give evidence against the guilty teachers because it certainly involves a certain amount of shame and disgrace as far as the boy and the family are concerned. In spite of this difficulty and the handicap, the department does its best to bring to book the guilty ones and I know in several cases, the parents and guardians of children have been patriotic enough to come forward and give evidence against the guilty teachers who have been very severely dealt with. His sixth point suggested that the department ought to suspend the teacher before an enquiry is started against him. I think that will be rather rash, because often, as I have suggested, wrong allegations are made and if you suspend an officer on wrong allegations, then even if you re-instate him, you have done a great deal of harm. The principle underlying suspension is that there ought to be a reasonable suspicion of the man having committed the offence, but suspension should not take place on allegations and I hope the honourable member will agree with me in that. Seventhly, he suggested that inspectors should record in log books the fact that in their opinion such and such a teacher is immoral. I think that this will be rather unwise, because a large number of accusations are often made that certain inspectors are on bad terms with certain teachers and vice versa. To note such a matter in an open book will be tantamount to defamation and will be very detrimental to discipline in schools. But I agree with him that if there are any impressions carried away by divisional inspectors and district inspectors about the staff, they should be certainly brought to the notice of higher authorities, so that next time if similar allegations are made against him we should know that such allegations were also made against him a little earlier. Next he suggested that we ought to seek the help of the police quickly. Of course this is always done. I will quote to him a case from Lahore where a complaint was made that goondas were molesting school children. We immediately took the help of the police who posted plain clothes men at the spot and the mischief was stopped. Smoking Act certainly ought to be enforced. I agree with him that no child ought to be allowed to smoke if he is under 16 years. The last and the thirteenth point, it is rather an unlucky number, suggested that the drawing and drill masters were particularly immoral. I really do not know what reason he had for picking out these two classes in particular. The drawing master is a poor man who sits all the day in his chair and is little inclined to an offence like that. I do not think that immorality of a teacher depends on the subject he teaches in a school.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh: I have taken this from the reports of inspectors.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon: Inspectors sometime make mistaken estimates. They might have generalised from one instance. It will be unsafe to condemn the whole lot of teachers. There are black sheep here and there I agree, but each case ought to be dealt with on its own merits. I think the main thing to do if we want to raise the moral tone of our citizens is to educate our women-folk. The more money we spend on the education of girls, the quicker will rise the moral tone of our country. I am glad to say that in recent years there has been a certain amount of progress in girls education. Wherever I have gone in the province and have visited some of the girls schools, I have always been told that the moment a girls school is opened in any of the towns, within a week it is full to the brim and I must say that wherever I have seen girls schools, I have always found them cramped. I will just give you one or two figures to show that the province is progressing. In 1931 in the 8th class, there were 1,257 girls in the province. In 1935 there are 2,285 girls in the same class. In the 10th class there were 305 in 1931 and now they are 469. On the college side, in 1931 there were 150 girls in F.A., and F.Sc., now there are 314. In B. A. and B. Sc., there were 65 girls 5 years ago and now there are 139 girls, so that the total on the collegiate side has risen from 212 to 470. On the whole the province is pushing forward in girls education. I must confess that we are hampered by lack of funds. There is not enough money to open new schools. But I am glad to say that the Finance Department have agreed to a scheme which we have evolved by which there will be a high school in each district and we are also planning to have several more vernacular middle schools in rural areas. In order to be able to have women teachers for our rural schools, the department is now working out a scheme by which they will save a certain amount of money on the boys side which will be spent on the extension of the girls education. As I have said, the general condition of boys is no worse here than elsewhere and there is no cause for alarm. Bad boys and bad teachers exist everywhere and in all countries, they exist even in England one of the most highly educated countries, but I agree that the department should do its utmost to stop this evil and there I am entirely at one with the mover of the resolution. As far as the spirit of the resolution is concerned I agree with the honourable mover and we should try to carry out all the suggestions made, but I do not think there is need for a fresh committee of enquiry, because such a committee is not needed. We have already a standing committee on Education of this House which is a very strong body and I am willing to place this matter before them for their advice. In case they wish to make any suggestion, they will surely be considered and I hope it will not be necessary to press for a fresh committee.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : In view of the statement made by the Honourable Minister I withdraw my resolution.

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MAGISTRATES FOR LOCAL BODIES.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain (North-East Towns, non-Muhammadian, Urban) (Urdu) : I beg to move—

That this Council recommends to the Government that the electoral rules of local bodies be so changed as to make honorary magistrate ineligible to stand as a candidate for the membership of any municipal committee, district board, small town committee, or the panchayat from any constituency within his magisterial jurisdiction.

[Sh. Lekhwati Jain.]

This resolution which I have moved has been moved in consideration of the view point of the public at large. It is not I alone who am of opinion that no honorary magistrate should be allowed to seek election to the bodies enumerated in the resolution but generally the public is also agreed upon it. I hope that those honourable members who are also honorary magistrates will agree with the principle underlying it and support it. When the voters find that a certain candidate is also an honorary magistrate they are indirectly coerced to vote for him. Their considerations are that he being an honorary magistrate can do a good deal of harm to them and can decide cases against them if ever they happened to be involved in litigation. This influence which their position gives them takes away from the voters their freedom of choice and they become bound to vote for him.

Again, we find that the magistrates who are the paid servants of the Government are not allowed to seek election to any local body and the principle underlying this prohibition is that these magistrates can misuse the influence which their position gives them. Exactly in the same manner the honorary magistrates have got influence on account of their position and it is evident that they can also misuse it. As such there is no reason why they also should not be disallowed to become members of local bodies. I may also make it clear that I am not in favour of total prohibition of honorary magistrates becoming members of various bodies. What I want is simply this that they should not be allowed to stand from a constituency which is under their magisterial jurisdiction. They may be allowed to contest a seat from some such constituency which is not included in the area under their jurisdiction. I am also not saying that the Government should discard the practice of nominating them to various local bodies. I simply desire that they should not be allowed to stand from a constituency in which they are working as honorary magistrates. Another objection against the honorary magistrates becoming members of local bodies is that in the local bodies by their influence they get their friends nominated. If the Government makes it a practice to nominate honorary magistrates to local bodies and not to allow them to seek elections for their membership it would stop their chances of getting their friends nominated to those local bodies. Once an honorary magistrate becomes a member of a local body then his seat becomes his monopoly and he at every election succeeds in securing it. In this way honorary magistrates continue to remain members for as long terms as 15 or 20 years. Their magisterial powers terrify people from contesting seats against them.

At this stage the Council adjourned till 2 p. m. on Monday, 4th November, 1935.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Monday, 4th November, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber, at 2 P. M. of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

OATH OF OFFICE.

Mr. A. D. Grindal (Deputy Secretary, Finance) was sworn in.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

PHYSICAL TRAINING AND SPORTS IN GOVERNMENT GIRLS HIGH SCHOOL, HISSAR.

*4847. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state in detail the arrangements existing at present for physical training and sports for the students of the Government Girls' High School, Hissar ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : There is ample playing space attached to the school and one period daily is given to organised games and physical exercise under the supervision of the school staff.

Lala Jyoti Prasad : May I ask whether the Honourable Minister considers the space is sufficient ? We find that the arrangement for physical training is not at all satisfactory.

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I am afraid I have not seen the place myself. I am sure the Director of Public Instruction who is here will look into it.

GOVERNMENT COLLEGES.

*4848. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly give the following information regarding the Government Colleges in the province :—

- (a) (i) their number in each division with their names and the names of the towns and districts in which these are situated ;
(ii) when these colleges were started ;
(iii) the standard, whether intermediate or degree, of these colleges, and in case of the degree colleges the dates on which these were raised to that standard ;
- (b) in case the district of Hissar does not possess any college, the reasons for the same ;
- (c) whether there is any proposal before Government for opening a college at Hissar in the near future ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) A statement giving the required information is laid on the table.

(b) The opening of an intermediate college at Hissar was considered in 1929-30 but owing to paucity of funds the proposal was not accepted by Government. In this connection the honourable member is also referred to my reply to part (d) of question No. *2493<sup>1</sup> asked by him in 1933.

(c) No.

HARLAL OF VILLAGE ROHNATH.

*4849. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Member for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that a few months back one Harlal of village Rohnath in Hansi tahsil of the Hissar district was beaten by the police in the courtyard of thana Hansi ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that this Harlal was kept in the thana till he died of injuries ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the said Harlal was neither an under-trial prisoner nor a complainant in any case ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the police took him by force to police station in a lorry and beat him there as he could not find Rs. sixty demanded of him by the police as bribe ;
- (e) the action, if any, which has been taken by the authorities concerned in the matter against such highhandedness of police officials ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (d) Allegations to this effect were made in a petition presented to the Deputy Commissioner, Hissar, on the 16th May last.

(b) Harlal died on the 19th May. It is understood that he was not in the police station at the time of his death.

(c) Yes.

(e) One head constable and two constables have been sent for judicial trial. One of the constables has been charged by the magistrate under sections 304, 327 and 342, Indian Penal Code, the other constable and the head constable under sections 342 and 327/109, Indian Penal Code. Departmental proceedings have also been taken in regard to certain members of the staff of the police station, but as judicial proceedings are pending details cannot be given at present.

EXTORTION IN CROWN versus TAJU AND MURAD ALI.

*4850. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that during the pendency of case Crown vs. Taju and Murad Ali, decided on 31st July, 1935, by a section 30 Magistrate, Hissar, the accused after the charges were framed stated before the Court that the Narnaund police in the Hansi tahsil had extorted bribes from them promising their release ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the investigation of the case was finished in November 1934 and the chalan was put in court as late as May 1935 ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the accused were bailed out by the police ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the magistrate has made a note of all these facts in his judgment ;
- (e) whether the authorities concerned have made any inquiry into the matter about extortion ;
- (f) if the answer to (e) be in the affirmative, with what result ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The following passage appears in the magistrate's judgment : " It may be noted that when charges were framed against the accused they blurted forth that Narnaund police had extorted bribe from them promising them release."

(b) The case was chalaned in May 1935. Government are not sure of the date when the investigation was completed.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) and (f) The matter is under consideration by the district authorities.

CATTLE FARM, HISSAR.

*4851. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

(a) whether the report of the Enquiry Committee in connection with the Government Cattle Farm, Hissar, appointed some three or four years ago has received consideration of the Government yet ;

(b) if so, with what result ;

(c) the date on which the report of the Enquiry Committee was published and the time it has taken in receiving the consideration of the Government ;

(d) whether the report has ever been placed in the hands of the members of this Council ;

(e) whether at the time of the discussion of the annual Budget in March last a token cut was moved by Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram for discussing as to why no action was taken on the report up till now ;

(f) whether Government intends to take any action on the report or not ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a)—(f) A copy of the report and of the Government review showing action taken and to be taken thereon has been printed for every honourable member.

CATTLE FARM, HISSAR.

*4852. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

(a) the expenditure of the Government Cattle Farm, Hissar—

(i) on salaries of officers, staff and other establishment ;

(ii) on live stock including the breeding of bulls ;

(iii) on cultivation side ;

(iv) other miscellaneous expenses, for the years 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934 ;

(b) the reduction, if any, so far made in expenditure under the heads and during the years given in (a) ;

- (e) the income derived by the Farm from the sale of breeding bulls and other live stock in the years mentioned in (a);
 (d) whether the Farm is being run at a loss or profit; if at profit, since when?

(d) Allowing for book credits the audited accounts shew that the Farm has been run at a profit for the years 1933-34, 1934-35, the two financial years previous to these showed a loss. The honourable member is also referred to the reply given to question No. *1006<sup>1</sup> asked by him on the 8rd December, 1931.

INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE CANDIDATES.

*4853. Lala Jyoti Prasad : With reference to the answer to question No. *9261<sup>2</sup> asked on 26th June, 1934, will the Honourable Member for Finance kindly state as to why the number of Hindus is so small and what are the reasons for the same?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : Nominations to the Indian Civil Service are made solely with the object of redressing communal inequalities. The vacancies open to competition are usually secured by Hindu candidates, and it follows that in order to keep communal proportions correct nominations must generally be made from among those Muslims and Sikhs who are otherwise eligible under the Indian Civil Service (Nomination) Rules. This is the reason that the number of Hindus nominated to the Indian Civil Service in the Punjab is so small.

LEVEL CROSSING NEAR HISSAR RAILWAY STATION.

*4854. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that there is a level crossing just near the Hissar railway station where seven lines of all the three railways, i.e., N.-W. R., B. B. and C. I. and B. S. R. pass;
- (b) whether it is a fact that between the hours of 5 A.M. and 10 P.M. fourteen passenger trains besides goods trains pass over the aforesaid lines;
- (c) whether it is a fact that shunting of engines of all the three Railways also takes a good deal of time daily while the level crossing gates are closed, thereby restricting all traffic of the town;
- (d) whether it is a fact that vehicles and foot passengers generally have to wait long before they are allowed to cross the lines to go to the other side;
- (e) whether it is a fact that on one side of the crossing is the town proper and on the other side are situated all the civil and criminal courts, police lines and the residences and offices of all the officers of all the departments of the district;
- (f) whether it is a fact that roads leading to a large number of villages and fields are also on the other side of the crossing;
- (g) whether it is a fact that there is great inconvenience felt by the public as well as the officers without a bridge over that crossing;
- (h) what steps, if any, Government proposes to take in the matter?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not ready.

HISSAR JAIL.

*4855. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

(a) the area of—

(i) land occupied by the Hissar Jail proper ;

(ii) its two gardens ;

(iii) other pieces of land attached to the Jail ;

(b) the lowest and highest number of convicts, under-trials and civil prisoners in the Hissar Jail in the years 1932, 1933 and 1934 ;

(c) whether it is a fact that this Jail is a very old one and is too small for its needs ;

(d) whether it is also a fact that owing to its increasing population the Hissar town needs extension and this extension can only be towards the Jail side ;

(e) whether there was ever a proposal before the Government of shifting this Jail to a place far off from the abadi ;

(f) if so, what has been the result ;

(g) if the answer to (e) be in the negative, whether Government proposes to consider the question taking in view the above-mentioned facts ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) (i) 11.65 acres.

(ii) 9.68 acres.

(iii) 4.92 acres.

HAIKYAT TAX.

*4858. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state the amount of haisyat tax realised by the District Board, Hissar, during each of the last five years ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The honourable member is referred to column 17 of form II attached to the annual District Board reports for the years concerned.

ARREST FOR KEEPING KIRPAN.

*4859. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- whether it is a fact that the Punjab Government recently issued instructions to arrest Sikhs in possession of more than one kirpan ; if so, the date and purport of all those instructions ;
- whether it is a fact that the Sikhs held a largely attended Darbar at Amritsar for the expression of their resentment against this order of the Punjab Government ;
- whether it is a fact that in defiance of the abovementioned order of the Punjab Government, the Sikhs paraded the streets and bazars of Amritsar wearing more than one kirpan ;

[Pir Akbar Ali.]

- (d) whether it is a fact that the Punjab Government have now been pleased to withdraw their instructions mentioned in part (a) above and to issue counter instructions of not arresting a Sikh possessing more than one kirpan ; if so,
 (i) the date and purport of all these latter instructions ;
 (ii) the reasons for the two different occasions ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No. Government issued no orders.

(b) A Diwan attended by several thousand people was held in Guru-ka-Bagh in Amritsar on the 23rd August to protest against the arrest of certain Sikhs for carrying more than one kirpan.

(c) A procession of Sikhs, many of them carrying more than one kirpan, was taken out in Amritsar on the 25th August.

(d) Does not arise.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : May I ask whether it is a fact that the kirpans possessed and worn by the Sikhs are exempt from the operation of the Arms Act ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Yes, it is so.

INJURIES CAUSED BY KIRPANS.

*4860. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) the number of all cases of injuries caused by Sikhs with their kirpans during the last two years and the action taken with the results ;
 (b) whether he is aware of the earnest desire of Muslims for the free possession of swords
 (i) in response to the dictates of religion ;
 (ii) as a weapon of defence ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Altogether 184 cases were reported to the police during 1933 and 1934 in which kirpans were said to have been used. A total of 679 persons were sent for trial in connection with these cases, out of whom 250 were convicted.

(b) Since notice of this question was given orders have been published by the Government of India removing the restrictions on the possession and carriage of swords in the six districts of the Punjab where alone such restrictions were still in force.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue also state the number of cases in which the injury has been caused by hatchets and other weapons ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I am afraid I should ask for notice, if I am asked to make a statement regarding the general state of crime in the province.

DEPORTATION OF MUSLIM LEADERS.

*4861. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

(a) the offence committed by—

- |                          |                           |

on account of which they were deported ;

(b) whether those persons were granted any allowance by way of maintenance or compensation for financial loss suffered by them as a consequence of the deportation ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The honourable member is referred to Punjab Government Press communiqué dated the 15th July, 1935, a copy of which is laid on the table.

(b) These persons have been granted subsistence allowances with effect from the dates of their internment as follows :—

PRESS COMMUNIQUE.

A MUSLIM meeting was held yesterday at Lahore attended by about 12,000 persons at which plans were announced for carrying on agitation with regard to the demolition of the Shahidganj Mosque. Some of the speeches were very intemperate and contained deliberate repetition of false statements, which the speakers knew to be false, regarding the action of the Government. In consequence of this meeting and of the other activities of a group of persons, who are deliberately trying to create mischief, the Punjab Government has externed from Lahore and confined to certain places the following persons :—

- |                          |                            |
|--------------------------|----------------------------|
| (1) Maulana Zafar Ali.   | (3) M. Feroz-ud-Din Ahmad. |
| (2) Syed Muhammad Habib. | (4) Malik Lal Khan.        |

Pir Akbar Ali : I do not propose to put questions 4862 and 4863.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I was taken slightly by surprise by the honourable member's failing to put the question. But I would like to answer them, with your permission, and I will answer the two questions together.

SIKH JATHAS TO SHAHID GANJ.

*4862. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

(a) whether it is not a fact that the Sikh jathas to the tune of five thousand strong armed with swords were allowed to proceed to Shahid Ganj unchecked during the recent disturbance at Lahore ;

(b) whether Government considered the advisability of stopping the inrush of Sikh jathas into Shahid Ganj at the earliest opportunity, if not, why not ?

*4863. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether Government was in possession of any information about the likelihood of any dispute between Sikhs and Muslims about the Shahid Ganj affair before the inrush of Sikh jathas to Lahore ;
- (b) if so, (i) whether the Government took any steps to prevent the situation from becoming serious and (ii) the reasons for not preventing the Sikh jathas from coming to Lahore ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) The ingress of Sikhs into Lahore was a direct result of Muslim demonstrations outside the Shahid Ganj Gurdwara. There was no inrush of Sikh jathas as suggested by the honourable member ; but there was infiltration of Sikhs into Lahore by small groups and individuals. This started immediately after the 29th of June, when the first demonstration by Muslims took place. The number of outside Sikhs in Lahore gradually increased from about 50 on that date, to about 900 on the 4th of July, when, according to the estimates of the local officers, the maximum was reached. On the 9th of July, a rough census was taken of all Sikhs in gurdwaras in Lahore, and it was found to be 800, which, of course, included some local Sikhs. Up to the 4th of July, the number of outside Sikhs increased as Muslim demonstrations increased in size and violence. Government were kept informed of developments in connection with the affair, including the ingress of Sikhs into Lahore.

The honourable member will not expect me, in reply to a question, to give a complete statement of the action taken by the local authorities and Government in connection with the dispute. I may, however, say briefly that the action taken included the following :—

- (i) Police and military precautions against communal rioting.
- (ii) Efforts by the local officers and by Government to arrange a compromise between the Muslims and Sikhs.
- (iii) Preventive measures against disorderly demonstrations. For further information I would refer the honourable member to the various communiqués issued by Government.

As regards the ingress of Sikhs into Lahore, the local Sikh leaders were advised, both by the local officers and, later, by Government, to stop Sikhs coming in. The local Sikh leaders took some action accordingly ; but the position was made more difficult by continued Muslim demonstrations, and by exaggerated accounts of those demonstrations in the Muslim press. For instance, the Zamindar newspaper of the 7th July, published in large headlines that on the 5th of July, one lakh of Muslims had demonstrated outside the Shahid Ganj Gurdwara. As regards other methods, it is clear that it was not practicable to stop the gradual infiltration of Sikhs into Lahore by small groups and individuals, even had it been considered advisable to make the attempt. The attempt would have involved a ban on the entry of all Sikhs into gurdwaras in Lahore, and not merely the Shahid Ganj Gurdwara. Had it been made, the immediate results would have been, first, to precipitate an inrush of Sikhs into Lahore, such as the honourable member has in mind, and, second, to make impossible any compromise between the two communities. In this connection, I may remind the honourable member that, as soon as the legal position became known to Government, they took the view—which they have had no reason to change—that the only satisfactory solution of the matter was by an understanding between the two communities.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Was any disturbance or breach of the peace caused by any Sikh jatha ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I am aware of none, Sir.

FIRING AT SHAHID GANJ.

*4864. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) the number of persons arrested by the Punjab authorities at the time of the Ahrar agitation against the Kashmir State ;
- (b) the number of Muslims who assembled outside the Delhi, Akbari, and Yaki gates on the 20th July, 1935 ;
- (c) whether any of those mentioned in (b) were armed in any way ;
- (d) whether any attempt was made to arrest them ;
- (e) if so, whether anybody offered resistance ;
- (f) if not, why recourse was not had to arrest instead of shooting ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) During the four months from 1st October, 1931 to 1st February 1932, 7,105 persons were arrested.

(b) The Deputy Commissioner, Lahore, estimates that at the time it was declared to be an unlawful assembly, the crowd outside the Delhi Gate numbered about 5,000 and that by the time it was dispersed it numbered from eight to ten thousand. This does not include the large portion of the crowd which was inside the Delhi Gate.

(c) Yes. Some members of the crowd were armed with lathis. The crowd generally was violent.

(d) No.

(e) Does not arise.

(f) The law does not require that attempts should be made to arrest members of an unlawful assembly, before it is dispersed by force. The methods adopted in any particular case depend on circumstances. On the evening of the 19th of July, attempts were made to deal with an unlawful assembly at the Water Works by means of arrests. These proved ineffective and placed the police, for some hours, in a position of considerable danger. The crowd outside the Delhi Gate, on the morning of the 20th, was very violent, and it would have been physically impossible to carry out arrests without great danger to the police. Such attempts would have been ineffective in dispersing the crowd. Before the military authorities were asked to disperse the crowd, repeated attempts were made to disperse it by means of charges by foot and mounted police. Before the military authorities gave the order to fire, attempts were also made to disperse the crowd by cavalry. These attempts were met by violence from members of the crowd and proved unsuccessful; and, ultimately, the crowd had to be dispersed by resort to fire. The honourable member will, no doubt, agree that, in face of these conditions, any attempt to make arrests would have been completely ineffective.

[Hon. Mr. J. D. Boyd.]

BEATING OF BLUE SHIRTS BY AHRARS.

*4865. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether the article described as "pandemonium at Muslim meeting," published at page 8 of Civil and Military Gazette in its issue of Sunday, August 11th, has been brought to the notice of the Government;
- (b) if so, whether it is a fact that some of the Blue Shirts were beaten by the Ahrars in the meeting mentioned in the article referred to in (a);
- (c) if the answer to the above be in the affirmative, whether the police and magistrates present in the meeting took any steps to prevent the Ahrars from beating the Blue Shirts; if so, with what effect; if not, what was the object of the presence of the police and the magistrates in the meeting?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

PUBLICATION OF ARTICLES AGAINST AHRARS.

*4866. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether he is aware of a statement published in the Zamindar in its issue of the 15th August, 1935, purporting to have been signed by some Muslims of Jullundur protesting against the warning given by Mr. S. Partap, Deputy Commissioner, Lahore, to the Inqilab for writing against the Aharars; if the answer be in the affirmative, whether the action of the District Magistrate was taken with the approval of Government;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the District Magistrate of Lahore gave a similar warning to the Hindu Art Press, Lahore, against publishing anything against the Ahrars?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The statement referred to by the honourable member has been seen by Government. A warning was administered to the keeper of the Muslim Printing Press, Lahore and not to the Inqilab, by the District Magistrate of Lahore under the orders of Government for printing a poster containing matter which was likely to lead to a disturbance of the public tranquility.

(b) For similar reasons a warning was given to the keeper of the Hindu Art Press, Lahore.

*4867. Cancelled.

SIKH JATHAS TO SHAHID GANJ.

*4868. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on the occasion of the last Aharar Conference near Qadian in October, 1934, members of the Ahmadiyya community wanted to go to Qadian with a view to protect their sacred places at Qadian but were stopped by the Government from going to Qadian ;
- (b) if answer to (a) be in the affirmative why the Sikh jathas, who went to Lahore, before the demolition of the Shahid Ganj Mosque, with similar purpose were not stopped by the Government ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) It is a fact that on the 17th of October, 1934, the head of the Ahmadiyya community at Qadian was required by an order under section 3 of the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1932, to abstain from summoning any person or persons to Qadian on the occasion of the conference convened by the Shoba Tabligh of the Majlis-i-Ahrar-i-Islam.

(b) The two cases are not parallel, and the honourable member is referred to the answers given to his questions Nos. *4862<sup>1</sup> and *4863<sup>1</sup>.

SCARCITY OF DRINKING WATER AT SAKHI SARWAR.

*4869. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that there is a great scarcity of drinking water at Sakhi Sarwar in the district of Dera Ghazi Khan ;
- (b) whether he is aware that at one time a scheme was sanctioned by Government to improve the drinking water supply of this town, if so, why the scheme was abandoned ;
- (c) whether it is a fact—
  - (i) that the town of Sakhi Sarwar is inhabited by nearly 6,000 people ;
  - (ii) that it is a place of a great pilgrimage on account of its being the location of the tomb of the great saint Sakhi Sarwar ;
- (d) if so, what steps Government now proposes to take to improve the drinking water supply of Sakhi Sarwar ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) No scheme of water supply was ever sanctioned by Government, but a trial boring was done to determine if an adequate water supply could be made available at a reasonable cost. The result of the trial boring was encouraging.

(c) Yes.

(d) A scheme to improve the drinking water supply at Sakhi Sarwar is at present under the consideration of Government.

FOREST OFFICERS.

*4870. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) the number of forest officers who have put in more than 30 years' service but have not been retired ;
- (b) the number of forest officers considered as surplus for the immediate requirements of the Forest Department, who have consequently been sent to other departments ;
- (c) whether it is not intended to retire the forest officers having a service of 30 years or more, in order to reduce the surplusage of the forest officers ;
- (d) whether he is aware that in the United Provinces, plantations on several canals are being managed by the United Provinces Forest Department on behalf of the Canal Department ; if so, whether this procedure is intended to be adopted in the Punjab ;
- (e) whether the postings of surplus officers to other departments have been effected on the ground of exigencies of service or inefficiency ;
- (f) the number of the forest divisions being run by the I. F. S. and the P.F.S. officers, respectively ; the ratio fixed for the two services to hold charge of the divisions ; whether the ratio, if any, is being adhered to or not ; if not, the reasons for the same ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that some junior P. F. S. officers have been holding charge of divisions for the last several years, while the claims of their senior and efficient officers have been ignored ; if so, the reasons for this preferential treatment ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) One Indian Forest Service officer, and one Provincial Forest Service officer.

(b) Seven Indian Forest Service Officers and 3 Provincial Forest Service officers are surplus. Against these 7 officers have been sent out to other departments.

(c) No.

(d) Government has no information with regard to Canal plantation management in the United Provinces. The procedure described is not contemplated in the Punjab at present.

(e) Exigencies of service.

(f) Of 16 divisions in the Punjab and 3 in the North-West Frontier Province 9 are held by Indian Forest Service Officers, 1 by a Forest Engineer, and 9 by Provincial Forest Service Officers.

There is no fixed proportion of divisions to be held by either service.

(g) Two senior Provincial Service Officers have not been entrusted with the charge of divisions because they are not considered fit for such responsible charges, while the third one has not yet been tried owing to the exigencies of the service.

FISHERIES RESEARCH OFFICER.

*4871. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the post of the Fisheries Research Officer was sanctioned in 1920 in the grade of Rs. 200—10—400 to carry on research on the breeding of fish for the purpose of stocking rivers and streams ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the incumbent of this post was given a higher personal grade of Rs. 250—25—750 in the year 1929 ;
- (c) whether any results of practical value have been shown in fisheries research or any rivers have been stocked during the last 14 years ;
- (d) if the reply to (a) and (b) above be in the affirmative, and (c) in the negative, the action he proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : The honourable member is referred to the reply given to question No. *4681<sup>1</sup>.

SURVEYS AND PROJECTS.

*4872. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : With reference to the answer to my question No. *3637<sup>2</sup> giving a list of projects under various stages, will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (i) (a) whether Nos. 1 to 5 projects have been completed ;
- (b) the maximum load expected in each case before the projects were taken in hand ;
- (c) the maximum load which is now used by each project ;
- (ii) (a) whether projects Nos. 6, 7 and 8 have passed from design stage to "under construction" stage ;
- (b) if not, reasons for the delay ;
- (c) the maximum load that is expected in each project ;
- (iii) (a) whether the survey of project No. 9 has been completed ;
- (b) if not, which of the villages mentioned in the project have been surveyed and in which the survey is going on and which of the villages are yet to be surveyed ;
- (c) the maximum load that each village is expected to take ;
- (d) whether the Government has decided to complete the electrification of all these villages before taking up any other project from 10 to 15 ;
- (iv) (a) whether any of the projects from 10 to 15 has passed from preliminary investigation stage to survey stage ;
- (b) if so, which of them ;
- (c) if not, reasons for delay ;
- (d) the maximum load that each project is expected to take ;
- (v) the time Government thinks it will take to complete all these projects ?

ENERGY TAKEN BY THE JULLUNDUR ELECTRIC SUPPLY COMPANY FROM THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC SCHEME.

*4873. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Arising out of the answer to my question No. *3635<sup>1</sup> will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether the negotiations that were in progress with the Jullundur Electric Supply Company for taking electric supply from the Mandi Hydro-Electric Scheme have concluded ;
- (b) if so, when ;
- (c) if not, why not ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) The company has not yet decided to take supply from the Electricity Branch.

MOTOR CONVEYANCE FOR THE DAY SCHOLARS OF QUEEN MARY COL-LEGE, LAHORE.

*4874. Sardar Sahib Sardar Gurbachan Singh : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) the number of students studying in the Queen Mary College, Lahore ;
- (b) the number of day scholars in the College ;
- (c) the existing arrangements to fetch day scholars from their places of residence ;
- (d) whether he is aware that other sister institutions are maintaining motor buses or lorries for the conveyance of the day scholars ;
- (e) if the answer to (d) above be in the affirmative, what arrangements if any, for the conveyance of the day scholars of Queen Mary College are under the consideration of the Department : if none, why not ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 173.

(b) 98.

(c) Day scholars make their own arrangements.

(d) Some institutions are maintaining motor lorries.

(e) No proposal regarding the conveyance arrangements of day scholars of Queen Mary Collegé, Lahore, is under the consideration of the Department. This is a special institution and is intended for the children of well-to-do persons who are expected to make their own conveyance arrangements. If a sufficiently large number of parents apply for the provision of a motor lorry and express their willingness to pay the capital and running costs Government will gladly consider the case.

RETIREMENT OF DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE, AMBALA.

*4875. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Ambala, has exceeded the age of 55 years by several years, according to his entrance class examination certificate ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, why he has not been made to retire from the public service in time ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The officer's Entrance Examination certificate, of which a copy has been obtained from the Punjab University, does not show his age. (He passed the examination in March 1903). The date of his birth as given in his Character Roll is the 22nd December, 1884.

- (b) Does not arise.

*4876. Cancelled.

APPOINTMENT OF TEACHERS BY DISTRICT INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS, AMBALA.

*4877. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) how many untrained teachers the District Inspector of Schools, Ambala, under the sanction of the District Board, Ambala, has employed in the District Board Schools, Ambala, during the last three years, from 1st June, 1932 to 31st May, 1935, communitywise ;
- (b) how many applications for the posts in (a) were received communitywise ;
- (c) if the answer to (a) shows the number of Muslims to be very small, what are the reasons for it?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a)

(b) Applications of untrained teachers are not registered. These are kept in a file which is renewed every year.

- (c) Does not arise.

42AN.

*4878. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that inside the tahsil building of Jagadhri tahsil, there is a small mosque which has ever since the tahsil building was constructed been used for saying prayers ;
- (b) whether he is aware that Mr. Hira Lal Jain, a sub-judge at Jagadhri, whose court is outside the tahsil building, reported to his superior officers that the calling of Azan at 1-30 p. m. interferes with his work in the court ;

- (c) whether he is aware that the tahsildar of Jagadhri, in pursuance of the report has ordered the tahsil Muslim staff not to call the Azan;
- (d) under what rules or law the tahsildar has taken the action referred to in (c);
- (e) whether he is aware that the Azan is called just during the recess at 1-30, and lasts for about a minute and a half;
- (f) whether it is not a fact that the noise made by litigants of the civil court and the tahsil and the ringing of the bell of the treasury every hour has never been objected to;
- (g) whether it is not a fact that no other official of the civil court or tahsil has ever objected to the calling of Azan ever since the tahsil building was constructed;
- (h) whether he is aware that the Bar Association of Jagadhri, consisting of Hindus, passed a resolution recently condemning the general attitude of the sub-judge;
- (i) whether he is aware that recently a Hindu served the sub-judge with a notice to prosecute him for abusing him in the court and that the sub-judge apologised to him;
- (j) whether he is aware that the incidents mentioned in (c) and (h) above have agitated the Muslims;
- (k) what action the Government intends to take in the matter?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: The matter is under inquiry and the result will be communicated to the honourable member as soon as possible.

STATUTORY AGRICULTURISTS IN THE CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT.

*4879. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram: Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state communitywise the number of head clerks in the offices of Assistant Registrars, Co-operative Societies, the number of statutory agriculturists of each community among them and the proportion in which they are drawn from the various revenue divisions of the province?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh: A statement giving the required information is laid on the table—

BRIDGES ON THE WESTERN JUMNA CANAL.

*4881. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state after enquiry, if necessary—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Western Jumna Canal passes through the lands of Santri, Kehrubia, Zainpur and Chappa villages in the Karnal district ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the abadis of these villages are on the western side of the canal and the major portion of their agricultural lands is situated on the eastern side of the canal ;
- (c) whether it is a fact, that the bridges nearest to these villages are those at Nebari and Indri villages and that these bridges are at a distance of eight miles from each other and at least four miles from the villages mentioned in (a) ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that other bridges, such as those of Indri, Gorgarh, Kheri Man Singh, Rumba and Rujana are at a distance of about four miles from one another ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that in order to reach and return from the lands to the east of the canal the inhabitants of these villages have to cover a distance of at least eight miles, and in consequence of this, the lands to the east of the canal are not cultivated to the fullest advantage ;
- (f) if the answer to the above questions is in the affirmative, what the Government intend to do in the matter to provide the cultivators with facilities of rapid access to their lands ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) As regards the abadis the answer is in the affirmative but as regards the major portion of agricultural land it is in the negative.

(c) The nearest bridges are at Badarpur and Indri which are 8 miles apart.

(d) Yes.

(e) No. There are in addition 3 ferries provided at Santri, Zainpur and Chappa. The approaches to the ferries are being improved in order to enable bullock carts to get on and off the ferries as far as possible without unloading.

(f) Does not arise.

RURAL REPRESENTATION UNDER THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

*4882. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) the urban and rural population of each community in the province ;
- (b) the number of territorial seats including those for women allotted to each community in the newly reformed Council ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the special seats reserved for the University, Commerce and Industry and Indian Christians are essentially urban seats ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the special seats reserved for Labour will, in practice, also go to urban candidates ;
- (e) what is the average population per urban and rural seat among Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs, respectively (i) excluding and (ii) including the seats referred to in (c) and (d) ;
- (f) what is the average number of voters per urban and rural seat among Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs, respectively (i) excluding and (ii) including the seats referred to in (c) and (d) from among urban seats ;
- (g) what is the contribution made approximately to the provincial exchequer by the rural and urban populations, respectively ;
- (h) whether it is a fact that by far the largest contribution in manpower at the time of war is made by the rural population ;
- (i) if a larger portion of seats has been allotted to the urban population, particularly among Hindus, under the tentative proposals of the Government than is justified either on the basis of population, or voting strength, or contribution to the provincial exchequer or services to the State, what are the grounds for this invidious treatment ;
- (j) whether it is a fact that it is the opinion of the Southborough Committee that the seats allotted to rural areas in the Punjab should be increased ;

[R. B. Ch. Chhotu Ram.]

- (k) whether it is a fact that in pursuance of the recommendation of the Southborough Committee the Punjab Government proposed an addition of two seats to the rural share ;
- (l) whether it is a fact that as a result of the final recommendations made by the Government of India the position of the rural population actually worsened ;
- (m) if the answer to (l) is in the affirmative, what are the steps which the Government proposes to take in order to prevent the recurrence of the mistake made in 1919 ?

In addition, Europeans and Anglo-Indians have been given one seat each.

(c) They are special seats for which urban candidates may be successful, but it is not possible to say definitely.

(d) It is impossible to say.

(e) According to Punjab Government's proposals, which are provisional, the average per seat is as below—

|             |       | Urban.  | Rural.  |
|-------------|-------|---------|---------|
| (i) General | .. .. | 125,600 | 221,600 |
| Sikh        | .. .. | 89,000  | 99,500  |
| Muslim      | .. .. | 158,000 | 158,000 |

(ii) It is not possible to say in the absence of an indication as to the community to which the honourable member assigns each particular seat.

|                 |       | Urban. | Rural. |
|-----------------|-------|--------|--------|
| (f) (i) General | .. .. | 20,100 | 24,400 |
| Sikh            | .. .. | 13,600 | 15,700 |
| Muslim          | .. .. | 17,000 | 15,000 |

(ii) It is not possible to give an answer unless it is known to what community the honourable member assigns these seats.

(g) It is not possible to estimate even approximately the contribution made to the provincial exchequer by the rural and urban populations respectively.

(h) Yes.

(i) According to Government's proposals, the Muslim and the Sikh urban population get approximately the representation to which they are entitled on a population basis. The General urban population have been given eight seats, including a weightage of two seats, the chief reason being that they have seven seats in the present Legislative Council, and it was thought that they also might be given some share in the general increase of seats.

(j), (k) and (l) The Southborough Committee recommended that the urban population should be given weightage. The Joint Select Committee on the Government of India Bill disagreed with the Southborough Committee, and considered that the rural population should receive a larger share of representation. The original proposal of the Punjab Government was for 10 urban and 44 rural seats (i.e., the rural were to be 80.5 per cent. of the total number of seats). Later, in deference to an opinion expressed by the Joint Select Committee, the Punjab Government proposed that there should be 10 urban and 48 rural seats (thus making the rural 82.8 per cent. of the total). Numbers finally sanctioned after alteration by the Government of India were urban 13, and rural 51, thus making the rural 80 per cent. of the total. In this way the position of the rural population became 1.5 per cent. worse than what had been originally proposed by the Punjab Government.

(m) In the existing Punjab Legislative Council rural seats are 80 per cent. of the territorial seats. According to Government's present proposals for the new Punjab Legislative Assembly, the rural seats are 87.3 per cent. of the total number of territorial seats. Thus Government's proposals give the rural population more territorial representation than they have been receiving in the present Legislative Council.

STUDENTS IN THE GOVERNMENT METAL WORKS INSTITUTE, AMBALA CITY.

*4883. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of students in the Government Metal Works Institute, Ambala City ;
- (b) the total number of Muslim students in that institute ;
- (c) the total number of applications for admission to this institute in 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 ;
- (d) the total number of applications for admission to the institute made by Muslim candidates, in the years mentioned in (c) above ;
- (e) whether Government is aware that complaints have been made to the officers of the department, and have also appeared in the press about the paucity of Muslim teachers on the staff of the institute, about the ways and means that are adopted to exclude Muslim candidates from admission to the institute and about the mal-treatment and neglect to which the Muslim students of the institute are subjected by the staff ;
- (f) if the answer to (e) is in the affirmative, what steps the Government has taken or intends to take in the matter?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a), (b), (c) and (d) A statement is laid on the table.

(e) and (f) Certain complaints reached the Department of Industries. They contained vague general statements without any specific instances of mal-treatment or neglect, or of exclusion of eligible Muslim students from admission. Enquiries were, however, made which showed that the complaints were unfounded. There has not been a single instance of exclusion of a qualified Muslim student who applied for admission at the right time. Every effort is made to balance the staff of the Institute community-wise, but it is not possible in the case of a technical institution to appoint untrained or inexperienced teachers. In fact in a recent case a technical test was held in which a Hindu came out the first best and a Muslim the second best. The Director appointed the Muslim with a view to adjust communal proportions as far as possible. Government is unable to countenance the appointment or retention of an unqualified or incompetent teacher in any industrial institution.

[Hon. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang.]

COMMUTATION PRICES AND THE ASSESSMENT OF LAND REVENUE.

*4884. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- the price per maund of wheat, cotton, gur and toria on the 15th January and 15th June, respectively, at Lyallpur and Jaranwala in 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 ;
- the commutation prices of wheat, cotton, gur and toria adopted for the purpose of the assessment of land revenue in the settlement now under consideration ;
- the average yield per acre of wheat, cotton, gur and toria assumed for the purposes of calculating net assets ;
- the amount of land revenue collected actually in each tahsil of the Lyallpur district in 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, respectively ;
- the conventional land revenue realisable in each tahsil of the Lyallpur district under proposed settlement ;
- the amount of land revenue which would be realisable in each tahsil of the Lyallpur district on the basis of average yield adopted at the last settlement and calculated at one-fourth of the net assets which would accrue if the prices of the principal crops mentioned in (a) were to continue ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) to (e) Statements are laid on the table except as regards the answers to part (c) and (e) for stahsils Toba Tek Singh and Samundri, for which the Settlement Officer has till to publish the abstracts.

(f) The preparation of these statistics would require an amount of time and labour out of all proportion to the results obtainable, and I do not feel justified in calling for them under the circumstances.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

ZAILDARS IN THE JHELUM DISTRICT.

1245. Mian Nurullah : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether rules 2, 3, 4, 5, 7 and 12 under the Land Revenue Act stand cancelled by virtue of rule 30 (c) recently incorporated in respect of the appointment of zaildars in the Jhelum district or whether rule 30 (c) only affects the inams and not the zaildars ;
- (b) in case the ordinary rules governing the appointment of zaildar in the Jhelum district are not observed, the criteria by which the Collector will be guided in making such appointments or selections in future ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that under head ' Register B, Inams ' sub-rules 8 and 9 of rule 30 (c) it is given that these inams correspond to zaildari allowance and should be governed by the ordinary rules under the Land Revenue Act including (as they are graded) rules 12 and 13 ;
- (d) if so, what those ordinary rules are under the Land Revenue Act when rules 2, 3, 4, 5, 7 and 12 do not apply to all kinds of Jhelum inams (section 30 (c) (2)) ;
- (e) why Jhelum lambardars are scored out in spite of their loyal services when the selections for higher post of ilakadar and inamdars are made ;
- (f) the number of non-lambardar ilakadars in the Jhelum district ;
- (g) whether the rights of lambardars of the zails were not ignored by the promotion of non-lambardars when suitable lambardars were available ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) to (e) Land Revenue Rule No. 30-C is under revision. The attention of the honourable member is invited to notification No. 2691-R., dated the 10th October, 1935, published on pages 651-652 of part III of the Punjab Gazette, dated the 18th October, 1935, inviting suggestions and objections to the revised rule.

SANITARY CONDITION OF RAJGARH.

1246. Chaudhri Bansi Lal : Will the Honourable Member for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the residents of the new abadis near Rajgarh submitted petitions and memorials to Government and Municipal Committee of Lahore for the improvement of the sanitary condition of the area ;
- (b) whether Government or Municipal Committee has taken any action in that direction ;
- (c) if not, why not ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. The Municipal Committee has.

(c) Does not arise.

ASSESSMENT OF WATERCOURSES TO LAND REVENUE.

1247. Rai Sahib Lala Gopal Das : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

(a) whether he is aware that the Junior Secretary to the Financial Commissioners, Punjab, issued a circular letter No. 555-R. of 16th February 1935, to all Deputy Commissioners in the Punjab ordering lands under watercourses to be assessed to land revenue and water rate ;

(b) whether it is a fact that heretofore in Multan and several other districts lands under watercourses carrying water to various fields were entered as ghair numbar and as such were exempted from the assessment of land revenue and water rate ;

(c) if so, what has led the Government to take this step and whether Government proposes to reconsider this question ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Does not arise.

HAVELI IRRIGATION PROJECT.

1248. Rai Sahib Lala Gopal Das : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

(a) when the construction of Haveli Irrigation Project is likely to be taken in hand ;

(b) whether the proposed canal will be perennial or semi-perennial ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The Haveli Project prepared by the Punjab Government is shortly to be submitted to the Government of India with the object of obtaining sanction from the Secretary of State to the construction of the works involved.

(b) Of the channels forming parts of the scheme some are proposed for non-perennial and others for perennial irrigation.

ACREAGE RATE IN THE NILI BAR COLONY.

1249. Khan Bahadur Mian Ahmad Yar Khan Daulatana : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is the intention of the Government to reintroduce the acreage rate payment in the Nili Bar Colony from rabi harvest 1935 ;

(b) whether Government is aware that the prices of the agricultural produce have not improved since the postponement of the collection of the acreage rate in the Nili Bar ;

(c) whether the Government is also aware that the water supply of the Nili Bar Canals is still as bad as it was at the time when the collection of the acreage rate was postponed ;

(d) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, the reason for reintroducing the payment of the acreage rate ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes, but the number of half-yearly instalments has been increased from 8 to 14 and the amount of each instalment has been reduced from Re. 0-8-6 and Re. 0-3-6 to Re. 0-5-0 and Re. 0-2-0, respectively.

(b) No. There has been improvement in the prices of agricultural produce compared with those current in kharif 1930 when the recovery of acreage rate was suspended for the first time.

(c) No. The supply in the past years has been sufficient for the needs of irrigation.

(d) Does not arise ; but the reason for re-commencing the recovery of acreage rate is that Government are paying interest on the sum spent on the construction of culverts and water courses. The longer the recovery of acreage rate remains suspended the more will be the accumulation of interest, and eventually it may become necessary to recover the whole or a part of the interest from those for whose relief the recovery was suspended.

TANAZA SYSTEM OF KHARABA IN THE NILI BAR.

1250. Khan Bahadur Mian Ahmad Yar Khan Daulatana : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Government intends to introduce tanaza system of kharaba in the Nili Bar ;

(b) whether Government is aware that the condition of water supply in the Nili Bar is still uncertain ;

(c) the reasons, if any, for not introducing the kharaba system in the Nili Bar till the water supply is improved ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) At present some channels are under the ordinary or Tanaza kharaba Inspection System and others under the Special Kharaba System.

(b) Government is not aware that the conditions of water supply in the Nili Bar as a whole is still uncertain, on the contrary Government believes that the water supply is sufficient to do the irrigation proposed.

(c) The ordinary or special kharaba system is applied to each channel according to the conditions of water supply on that channel.

ESTABLISHMENTS OF PUBLIC WORKS BRANCH OF DISTRICT BOARDS.

1251. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to give a detailed statement as regards :—

(a) the working of the establishment of Public Works Branch of the district boards of Rohtak, Karnal, Hissar, Ambala, Gurgaon, Ferozepore, Jhelum, Multan, Mianwali and Rawalpindi ;

(b) the pay of district engineers and their grades, dates of their appointments and other allowances from the municipal committee, if there be any in the districts mentioned in (a) ;

[L. Jyoti Prasad.]

- (vii) home districts ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Owing to the vagueness of the terms in which this part is couched Government regret their inability to answer it.

(b) A statement containing the requisite information is laid on the table.

(c) The preparation of the answer to this part will involve an amount of time and labour out of all proportion to the value of the information. Government will, however, be glad to supply information regarding any particular individual in any particular district and the cost of any particular work.

NUMBER OF STUDENTS AND THE EXPENDITURE INCURRED ON EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS.

1254. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to give in the form of a statement the following for the years 1925 to 1935, in each of the districts of Hissar, Rohtak and Ambala :—

- the number of students community-wise in all the Government, municipal board, district board and aided schools ;
- the expenditure incurred on education by the various district boards, municipal boards and in Government and aided schools ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : I am doubtful if the value of the information will be commensurate with the labour involved in its collection and compilation.

If the honourable member will kindly indicate the object for which he wants this information I may be able to give him the necessary information without having to collect the information mentioned in his question.

NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Secretary : As a result of the election held on the 1st November, 1935, the following three members are declared to have been duly elected to serve on the North-Western Railway Advisory Committee :—

- Khan Bahadur Malik Muhammad Amin Khan, to represent agricultural interests ;
- Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh, to represent trade interests ;
- Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq, to represent industrial interests.

COURT OF THE INDIAN INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE, BANGALORE.

Secretary : As only one nomination (that of Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan) has been received for election to the membership of the Court of the Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan is declared to have been duly elected by the Punjab Legislative Council. (Cheers).

RESOLUTIONS.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MAGISTRATES FOR LOCAL BODIES.

Mr. President : The Council will now resume discussion on the resolution re. ban on honorary magistrates standing for election to local bodies.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain (North-East Towns, non-Muhammadan, Urban) (Urdu) : The other day I was submitting that the honorary magistrates should not be allowed to stand as candidates for membership of any district board, municipal committee or small town committee from any constituency within their magisterial jurisdiction for if once they are elected as members of any such body, they are likely to remain members of the same for the whole of their life. No one will dare to stand against them in election. Some of the honourable members may object that if an honorary magistrate is to be debarred from standing as a candidate for the membership of any such body how he can be allowed to stand as a candidate for membership of either the provincial legislature or the central legislature. What I want is simply this that they should not be allowed to seek election to a local body from a constituency which lies within their magisterial jurisdiction. In the case of this Council or the Legislative Assembly they have to get votes from bigger constituencies which spread over large areas which are not under their magisterial jurisdiction. But in the case of municipalities or district boards the constituencies are small and often they do not extend beyond the area under the magisterial jurisdiction of the honorary magistrates. I once again repeat that the fact that I have moved the present resolution must not be taken to mean that I am against honorary magistrates. I do not find fault with them. I am rather of the view that in India the system of appointing honorary magistrates should be extended further. I stressed this point in my current year's budget speech also. Extension of this system would save a lot of money to the Government. In my opinion magistrates who are appointed honorary discharge their duties very efficiently and they are also public-spirited men who would do better if they devote their whole time and energy to the municipal work. At present such people are over-worked. They have to discharge their magisterial duties, and in addition they have to do municipal and district board work. As they are over-worked they fail to discharge either duty efficiently; if such men are freed from their magisterial work they would devote all their time to the work of local bodies and this will increase efficiency in the work of the local bodies. I have moved this resolution in view of all these things which I have submitted. I hope the Government will see their way to accept it.

Mr. President : Resolution moved—

This Council recommends to the Government that the electoral rules of local bodies be so changed as to make the honorary magistrates ineligible to stand as a candidate for the membership of any municipal committee, district board, small town committee or the panchayat from any constituency within his magisterial jurisdiction.

Chaudhri Ram Sarup (North-West Rohtak, non-Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): The honourable lady member has moved this resolution without understanding that it would take away the little influence which the people have over the honorary magistrates and which they can use over the latter at the time of election. The magistrates have to be very polite to the people because under the present system they realise that they will have to depend upon them at the time of elections. At present the honorary magistrates are allowed to seek election to local bodies and as such many a stiff-necked person has to go about begging for votes. This makes them dependent for votes on the goodwill of the people and this constitutes a restraint on them in their magisterial capacity. If Government deprives them of the right of seeking election to various local bodies and instead nominates them to those bodies as suggested by the honourable lady member it would make them quite independent of the people. It will take away the little check which the people have over them at present. Under the present system which allows them to stand as a candidate they have to care for the people and also for the Government, but if they become independent of the people they will only care for the Government. At present we find that it is very difficult to interview the Honourable Finance Member or the Honourable Revenue Member, but it is very easy to interview any of the three Honourable Ministers. This facility regarding interview with the Honourable Ministers is due to the fact that they are the representatives of the people and have to seek elections before they are appointed Ministers. Their dependence on the people for becoming members makes them courteous and polite towards them and any member can go to them at any time he chooses. This is not the case with the Honourable Finance Member or the Revenue Member. They are directly appointed by the Governor and in no way do they depend upon the help of the people. So they can afford to keep aloof and deny any facility to anybody as regards interviews. The same is true in the case of honorary magistrates. The honorary magistrates have to get votes from the people for seats in the local bodies. This dependence upon the people makes them careful not to displease them.

Then, again, you allow the Ministers to become members of this House notwithstanding the fact that they have got so much patronage as regards the appointment to various services, but you object to honorary magistrates seeking election on the ground that they exert undue influence while fighting election campaigns. If the honourable lady member had consulted her husband who is a learned lawyer, he would not have advised her to move this resolution. But it appears she did not consult him about this resolution.

Mr. President : The honourable member should not be personal.

Chaudhri Ram Sarup With these words I strongly oppose the resolution under consideration and request the honourable mover to withdraw it.

Lala Bhagat Ram (Jullundur-cum-Ludhiana, non-Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I will not take much time of the House in placing my viewpoint before it. I will briefly invite the attention of my honourable friend to a simple fact that honorary magistrates are capable of doing a good deal of harm to those people who refuse to vote for them in the elections. At the same time they can also show undue favours to those who vote for them. When honorary magistrates go about canvassing there are very few people who have the courage to refuse to promise to vote for them. And if any dares to refuse, he is later on put to a great deal of trouble. They misuse their powers and influence against such people who oppose them. This means that under the present system honorary magistrates can unjustly favour or harm people. As such it is not only necessary that the magisterial powers should be taken away from them at a time when they are fighting an election themselves, but that these powers should also be taken away from them when elections are going on generally for, in the latter case they can exert their influence in favour of their friends. People are coerced to vote for honorary magistrates, and those who show inclination to vote against them are threatened. As such the principle underlying this resolution is a very sane one. As most of the members of this House are honorary magistrates it is very difficult to get this resolution passed. I would, therefore, request the honourable lady member to withdraw it. Otherwise I have full sympathy with it and I would say that it deserves to be passed by the House.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): As law and order is in my portfolio I think it is incumbent upon me to say a word or two upon this resolution. I was delighted to hear to-day that our elected lady member is not opposed to honorary magistrates in general and she reminded us that in her budget speech she had recommended their appointment in order to save the budget of the province. In Britain, as the House is aware, certainly in England, the greater part of the magisterial work is done by Justices of the Peace who correspond to honorary magistrates in this country; and the saving that they cause to the finances of England is a very large sum indeed. In this country the Government have followed the lead of England in appointing honorary magistrates for various reasons. In the first place, it gives great relief to stipendiary magistrates and saves the province the expense of appointing a very considerable number of stipendiary magistrates. In the second place, as all members are aware, honorary magistrates are used on occasions of processions, fairs and festivals in helping to maintain law and order and their services in this direction are simply incalculable. As members are aware, in some of the big cities processions are taken out, sometimes for several days running and the number of processions that are taken out during the year in any large city is very considerable indeed. If on every occasion stipendiary magistrates had to be in attendance, the consumption of thier time would be enormous and their ordinary magisterial work would suffer very seriously.

Honorary magistrates help very greatly in relieving them of this burden. Again, there may at any time in any corner of a town and possibly in rural areas also, be a serious riot and it is extremely convenient to have a magistrate, whether honorary or stipendiary, who is able to come and, if necessary, call upon the police to disperse the rioters and help them generally in the maintenance of law and order. We may also look at it from the other side, the side of the honorary magistrates. The system gives non-officials of standing a great opportunity for public service and it is good for all of us to have our time fairly fully occupied. It is particularly good for those who have more than the average share of the goods of this world and who have a considerable amount of leisure to fill in. If they do not have responsible work such as that of honorary magistrates to perform, then they are apt to run into idleness and instead of being leaders of the community they would become the butt of the community and would be a cause of deterioration instead of a cause of advancement. For all these reasons, I think there can be no doubt whatever that the system of appointing honorary magistrates is one to be maintained and as time goes on possibly to be extended. Taking the honorary magistrates as a whole, the Government owes them a very great debt of gratitude indeed and this debt is in a majority of cases only discharged by an occasional letter of thanks for the onerous duties which they perform. For this reason, as I have already said, it would be a retrograde step to go back upon the system which at present prevails of getting a considerable part of our magisterial work performed by non-officials. I have no doubt that the Council will agree to the acceptance of the principle and the next question is what should guide us in selecting non-officials for the discharge of these duties. Obviously you want a man of local influence first of all, whose word will carry some weight and we want a man of integrity and the fact that most of the honorary magistrates are possessed of more than the ordinary share of worldly wealth does help us to secure their integrity. You want a man with a high sense of duty and a man who is ready to devote a considerable portion of his leisure to the discharge of public obligations. These are the principles which are followed by Government in the selection of honorary magistrates and on the whole the appointments are made with great care. Here and there I have no doubt that mistakes are made as they happen in every human institution, but taking them all over, the honorary magistrates in the province are a fine body of men to whom we should be very grateful indeed for all they do. Now for the public work which is done by local bodies surely exactly the same qualities are required as are required for the discharge of honorary magisterial duties. Surely we want people of local influence and of integrity with a high sense of duty who are willing to devote a considerable portion of their leisure to public duties. They are exactly the same qualities and, therefore, anything which would exclude or tend to exclude honorary magistrates from public service on local bodies would, I think, be worthy of the condemnation of this House. It is for this reason that the Government benches must oppose the resolution. (Cheers).

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala Division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural): I rise to support the resolution moved by the honourable the lady member. The institution of honorary magistrates is an evil from which the country has suffered and those people who speak well of it are labouring under ignorance. These people are generally ill-educated, unacquainted with law and generally belonging to parties in the country. For these reasons such men should not stand up for election to local bodies. There is one point to which there cannot be any answer and I say this without fear of contradiction. If stipendiary magistrates cannot stand up for election, why should honorary magistrates stand up? Both of them do the same work ; they have the same dealings with the public. There is this difference that the honorary magistrate is a native of the place and belongs to one party or the other with inclination to injure or favour people. This has so happened in many cases. If a man has not given his vote for the honorary magistrate, he has suffered. He has opportunities for doing various kinds of harm. I know that in one or two cases when the man applied for a transfer of his case from the court of the honorary magistrate on the ground that he voted against the magistrate, the district magistrate said, ' This is a general practice; there are so many people voting for or against the magistrate and if on that ground cases are to be transferred, then all the cases on his file should be transferred.' In that way the man concerned suffers. How can we then justify the standing of these men for election for local bodies, while the stipendiary magistrates cannot ? If there is any difference it is in favour of the stipendiary magistrates because he being a man from another district cannot form parties in the places in which he is employed. But the honorary magistrate is born, brought up and has his being in the same place and so has parties of his own. I can say this that there is no honorary magistrate who has no party of his own. There are various circumstances in life. The nature of the business and the nature of his dealings with the persons in the locality and his association with them tend to make him form parties of his own in the ilaqa in which he serves. So he goes to election on the strength of his power as honorary magistrate. His power is freely used on many occasions and this is ill-used. I have heard it said by many that if that man does not vote for me, I will serve him right if I find an opportunity and this only frightens the elector. The Honourable Finance Member said some words in justification of the honorary magistrates. But all those arguments apply against them. He said that they are employed for controlling processions and for making arrangements in connection with fairs and melas. So I say that they use their influence on these occasions in favour of the parties to which they belong. If this argument is to have any force then the tahsildar should have no influence at all because the honorary magistrate from the nature of things possesses these things which these people do not possess in abundance. So, I think he would be better and more useful in controlling these processions if he were not in local bodies. I have got this experience that when an officer becomes a member of a local body he generally becomes unpopular with most people, at least with many people. I have seen a tahsildar who when he became a member or president of a municipality lost his influence. For there are several people who come with petitions for building houses and so on and if the tahsildar does not grant their requests then he becomes their enemy. This would not have arisen if he was not a member of the municipality. From the very nature of things I think these men should be debarred from election. Why should the honorary magistrate continue to dominate the public with his power by abusing it, why should he also return as member of local bodies ? I do not think it is a sound principle to allow these men to contest the elections. They have already enough work as honorary magistrates and I say that they often abuse their power. There are hundreds of examples which I can quote where these magistrates have abused their powers and yet they stand up again for local bodies. I know of a reader who was transferred from a certain honorary magistrate's court. He said, the magistrate possessed second class powers and the magistrate asked him to write a judgment sentencing a man to two years' imprisonment and Rs. 500 fine. The clerk told the magistrate that he had not got the power to pass such a judgment. The magistrate replied, "Never mind, you write what I say" and the clerk refused to do so and when the deputy commissioner came he complained that the man was not carrying out his order, so he must be transferred and of course he was transferred. There are hundreds of such examples which I can cite. If a man abuses his powers in that way, can he not be expected to abuse his powers in a local body also? Honourable members know that if anybody stands for election he leaves no stone unturned to get himself elected. You know what trouble or botheration it gives for the man who wants to get elected. He will not fail to use his power from whatever source it might have come. He uses everything in his power. He spends his money. He flatters people; he entreats them. And do you think he will spare his powers as honorary magistrate from being used for his election? It will not be possible for any human being to use that sort of control over himself as not to use his powers towards gaining his object. If they stand for election it is an honour to them and on no other thing they set more value than on this in the world. Whether that election is or is not of any use to him, yet he sets a high value on it and he does not spare anything for gaining his object. The very desire of coming with flying colours in the presence of his companions, the desire of keeping self-respect, all these things combined make him use all endeavours, all efforts, and all influence and all his money and everything else that he possesses in the world. It is a matter of common knowledge that when elections come, if everything else fails, then people send their female relations to their relatives' houses and they start hunger strike. When these extreme practices are observed during elections, do you think that an honorary magistrate will spare his powers? All people know that he possesses these powers and all people know that they might suffer from these powers. How, then, can you say that this is an innocent thing? The Honourable Finance Member said that the efficiency of these honorary magistrates will be affected. I dare say that if you deprive him of many other things also, people will still hanker after the honorary magistracy. Such is the love of power. People will accept this office with the same enthusiasm and eagerness with which they hanker after it now. You, therefore, need not fear that honorary magistrates will not be forthcoming. They will still come in equally large numbers. But, even the stipendiary magistrates have already been deprived of the right to take part in elections; on the same principle these honorary magistrates should also be deprived of this right. You make no distinction between a stipendiary and non-stipendiary or honorary magistrate in the matter of other powers, why should there be this difference, why should you deprive one of this right and not the other?

3 P. M.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : The honourable member is repeating himself.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : No. With these words I support the resolution and commend it to the acceptance of the honourable members of the House who know the honorary magistrates.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq (Hoshiarpur-cum-Ludhiana, Muhammadan, Rural): I am very sorry that the Honourable Finance Member has taken into his head to oppose this resolution. We are on the eve of a new constitution and we must think twice before opposing such a resolution. Some years back, when the Government required such people and such institutions, at that time it was possible for a Government member to oppose that resolution, but when you are handing over the Government to the elected element of this country, why do you oppose this resolution? Tell me this, whether you require constitutional Government or not. If you like constitutional Government you cannot support such institutions as are not elected ones. You must therefore say whether Government likes these honorary magistrates or not. If Government wants that these institutions should flourish which are called the elected institutions, then we must do away with the institution of honorary magistrates and must do away with their standing for the elections. The very fact that this honourable house is swarmed with honorary magistrates is a big proof of the fact that honorary magistrates have got some influence in the elections. All those honourable members who are not honorary magistrates can tell you the fact that these honorary magistrates do use such influence which they ought not to do at the time of elections. Moreover, to-day we people who oppose the Government are tired of these institutions and I am sure Government who are now supporting these institutions will really come to grief if they allow these honorary magistrates to continue to take part in elections. Any clever man will handle the situation in the country in such a way that every honorary magistrate will be under his thumb and if a man opposes such a person these honorary magistrates will vehemently oppose that man. I, therefore, do not think that the Government which is handing over the country to an elected element should support this institution. I think it is for the British Government now to do away with this institution and if they cannot do away with this institution at least they should debar them from standing for elections. I think that every section of this House will support the resolution that is put forward by the honourable the lady member. If we have to carry on the Government efficiently we ought not to have such institutions as honorary magistrates. With these words I support the resolution.

Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra (Non-official, Nominated), (Urdu): I have carefully thought over the resolution moved by the honourable lady member and also heard with rapt attention all the speeches which have been made in its support. I had no intention to oppose the resolution moved by the Shrimati ji but as I feel that her resolution is against the interests of the local bodies I think it is my duty to oppose it. She says that the Government should debar honorary magistrates from seeking election to the local bodies. But the question is, are the honorary magistrates inefficient to serve in the local bodies; do their interests clash with the interests of the local bodies or is their presence in the local bodies inimical to the best interests of these bodies? If the answer to all the three parts of this question be in the affirmative, we should certainly lend our support to this resolution. The honourable mover herself has given the answer to this question, which is in the negative. She has proposed that the honorary magistrates may be nominated to the local bodies, or that they may be allowed to seek election in the constituencies other than those where they have magisterial powers. Now, if the honorary magistrates can prove to be useful members when nominated by the Government they can certainly be useful in the capacity of elected members also. When it is clear that their presence in the local bodies will not be detrimental to the interests of those bodies why should the Government debar them from seeking election to these bodies? I believe that while bringing forward a resolution concerning local bodies we should be guided by only one principle and that is this: is our proposal going to benefit the local bodies or not? If we are honestly of the opinion that the proposal contained in the resolution, if carried into practice, will benefit the local bodies, we should certainly lend our support to the resolution, otherwise not. We should not bother about any other consideration. If the honourable lady member thinks that the presence of the honorary magistrates in the local bodies as elected members from a constituency other than that where they have jurisdiction, will not be detrimental to the local bodies, will she please let us know for what fault of theirs, is she bent upon preventing them from seeking election from their own constituencies? Does she think it a crime that they give their time for public service without taking any remuneration for it? According to Shrimati ji their great fault is this that they are influential. Does she want to urge that influential people should be ousted from the local bodies and the riff-raff should be taken instead? If to be influential is such a great sin, why do you allow influential vakils, big sahu-kars and learned medical practitioners of great repute to seek election? And then why should you allow big zamindars to seek election because they also wield very great influence among the people. After all what undue influence do the honorary magistrates use in order to get into the local bodies?

Lala Bhagat Ram : Nothing short of a danda.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : To what class of honorary magistrates does the honourable member belong?

Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra : The honourable member from Ambala has said that people are afraid of the honorary magistrates and therefore they cannot be induced to vote against them. But the question of fear does not arise. The honourable member should know that elections are held by ballot and you can not tell who has voted for you and who has not. Then he said that once the honorary magistrates are returned from a constituency they continue as members as if it is their heritage. But this only proves that the people have confidence in them and return them over and over again. The fact ought to have gone in their favour rather than against them if the honourable member had considered this point with an unbiassed mind.

The suggestion of the honourable lady member that the honorary magistrates should either be nominated by the Government or should be made to seek election from distant constituencies is not practicable. The percentage of nominated members in the local bodies as fixed is so small that the honorary magistrates cannot be accommodated. If Shrimati ji is asked to seek election from Dera Ghazi Khan when her home district is Ambala she will know what difficulties she has to experience. And if elected, which fact alone would be nothing short of a miracle, she will not be able to perform her duties efficiently on account of her utter ignorance of the local conditions of the district of her adoption.

My honourable friend from Ambala has complained that at least one of his arguments has not been met by those who have opposed this resolution, and that is this: if stipendiary magistrates are not allowed to seek election to the local bodies why are the honorary magistrates so allowed? (Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan: I never said, stipendiary magistrates). What class of magistrates did the honourable member mean? I know of two categories of magistrates only, stipendiary and honorary. If the honourable member is aware of a third category of magistrates, he will kindly let me know now or after the Council time. (An honourable member: There is a third category of magistrates, that is, dismissed magistrates). (Laughter). I will tell him why it is not possible to allow stipendiary magistrates to seek election. They have sold all their time to the Government. They have no time to spare for additional public service. On the other hand honorary magistrates are in a position to spare their leisure hours for additional public service. Then nobody can tell when a stipendiary magistrate is to be transferred. If to-day he is posted at Multan, to-morrow, he finds himself despatched to Rohtak and day after to Sialkot. Therefore it will not be in the interests of the local bodies if stipendiary magistrates are allowed to seek election and if they are allowed, local bodies will have to undergo the ordeal of by-elections several times within a year. Moreover, if a stipendiary magistrate member of a local body is transferred people will begin to attribute motives to the Finance Member and motions to censure Government on that issue will be tabled in the provincial legislature. I hope the honourable member will have seen why the stipendiary magistrate is kept out of the elections by the Government. Then some people will object to the undue official influence encouraged by the Government in the local bodies if stipendiary magistrates are allowed to seek elections. Perhaps honourable members have not paid due attention to these things before.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain: Everything has been duly considered.

Lala Bhagat Ram: The Government has been very considerate indeed.

Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra: Then a criticism has been levelled against the honorary magistrates that they are party men. Perhaps honourable members ignore this fact that as magistrates they have to remain above all party prejudices. If a magistrate is known to be a party man he cannot remain a magistrate. I think, I have made it abundantly clear that the resolution moved by Shrimati Lekhwati Jain will be inimical to the interests of the local bodies if it is brought into effect. This will deprive the local bodies of the services of good, intelligent, honest and experienced public servants. It is on this ground, that I oppose this resolution and I would request this House to do likewise when it is put to the vote.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang (Minister for Local Self-Government) (Urdu): I do not propose to make a very lengthy speech on the subject under discussion. The honourable mover of the resolution in commending her resolution to the House has not said a word against the honorary magistrates. She has rather paid them compliments by admitting that these gentlemen are intelligent and influential people and have rendered very useful service to the local bodies. What appears to be her intention is simply that she does not want these honorary magistrates to undergo the trouble and inconvenience and to incur the expenses that a candidate for election to these local bodies has generally to undergo and to incur. That is all what the honourable mover has said if I have understood her rightly. But the honourable member from Hoshiarpur (Chaudhri Afzal Haq) who followed her and who apparently stood up to support the honourable mover, struck quite a different note. He began by saying that the institution of honorary magistrates was against all principles of democracy and that he would very much like to see this institution come to an end immediately. He described these magistrates as illiterate and unlettered persons and said that they were there to do nothing but injustice. He also said that they misused their position and their influence. He was followed by the honourable member from Ambala (Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan) who described these magistrates as a despicable class of persons and wanted us to believe that their presence in the local bodies was dangerous to the country and the people. I am at a loss to understand whether these two gentlemen were supporting the honourable mover or opposing her. One would think that they were opposing her because what they said was quite different from what the honourable mover had said. I am inclined to think that they were not themselves sure of what they were saying at that time. Anyway I shall leave this at that and say that most of the arguments advanced by the honourable mover in support of her resolution have been fully answered by the honourable member from Amritsar (Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra) and I need not cover the same ground over again. But there is one thing which I must say and to which no one has alluded so far. We know that the honorary magistrates are men of high position and social status as has been explained just now by the Honourable the Finance Member. But let us admit for a moment and for the sake of argument that these gentlemen do misuse their influence for purposes of election to the local bodies and that this evil, which the honourable mover wants to be eradicated, is there. But neither the honourable lady member nor Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan has adduced any facts or figures in support of their contention. Now, there are 36 elected members of the Lahore Municipal Committee. I would like to know how many of them are honorary magistrates? (An honourable member : Perhaps only one.) Again, how many of the elected members of the Amritsar Municipal Committee are honorary magistrates? (An honourable member : None.) When there are no such members of local bodies I wonder why so much is being said against the honorary magistrates. There are 106 municipal committees in the province and if you can prove that out of the total number of members of these bodies say five, four or even two hundred members are honorary magistrates, you may with some show of reason ask the Government to take action on the lines suggested in the resolution. But as matters stand the resolution appears to be absolutely uncalled for. The Honourable Chaudhri Sahib on the opposite side and perhaps Dr. Muhammad Alam gave notice of a similar resolution some years ago.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : The Honourable Minister then voted in favour of that resolution probably.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : It was ballotted, but the House could not get time to discuss it. The Government was, however, afforded an opportunity to consider this matter. Consequently on the 9th December, 1927, a letter was issued by Government to all commissioners inquiring whether in elections—

- (i) honorary magistrates have shown any undesirable activity as would prejudice their position as magistrates, and, if so,
- (ii) what would in their opinion be the most suitable method of meeting the case.

After having received replies from the commissioners the Government issued the following directions on 23rd June, 1928 :—

The Governor in Council has now had an opportunity of considering the replies received from all commissioners to my demi-official No. 32351-Judl., dated the 9th December, 1927. It has been decided that 3 months before an election is to be held, enquiry should be made from each honorary magistrate by deputy commissioners demi-officially whether it is his intention to stand as a candidate in the election. If so, no cases should be sent to such magistrate till the election is over and pending cases should also be withdrawn.

- (2) I am to add that if an honorary magistrate is found to be using his influence prominently on behalf of a candidate for election and to an extent that it is likely to create an impression, or to involve charges, that his complete impartiality in his judicial work is being affected thereby, then it is discretionary with the district magistrate to have cases withdrawn from his court until the election is over.

Now, it would be clear that in the presence of these directions no further action is necessary. But one should not conclude from it that the Government had no confidence in their honorary magistrates. In fact these directions were issued simply to remove misunderstandings about the position of the honorary magistrates. I would like to read another relevant passage from the said letter—

I am to request that you will acquaint the District Magistrates with these orders and ask them to inform honorary magistrates in their districts by a demi-official letter of the nature of the orders. It should be explained that the object is not to deter honorary magistrates from standing for elections or canvassing if they so desire, but simply to remove any grounds for misunderstanding or malicious charges regarding the use of their powers.

Thus it is made clear that the object was not to debar the honorary magistrates from standing as members of local bodies but to remove misunderstandings about the use of their powers. The Government had otherwise full confidence in their integrity and character. Later on, the District Magistrate, Lyallpur, referred this matter again to the local Government in order to remove his doubts as to whether these directions applied only in case of Council elections. The following reply was sent to him—

Please refer to your demi-official letter No. 5, dated the 3rd of January, 1928, regarding honorary magistrates.

The directions contained in Home Secretary's demi-official letter No. 1611- S. H., dated the 23rd of June, 1928, apply also to district boards, municipal committees and other local bodies.

It was thus made clear that these directions would also apply to local bodies. I, therefore, submit that in the presence of these directions no other action is needed. The honorary magistrates are after all human beings as good or bad as we are. They are not gods. If they are debarred from seeking election to local bodies you can further suggest that their sons should not be allowed to seek election as well because a father is likely to exercise his influence in favour of his son.

Even if we admit for the sake of argument that honorary magistrates can misuse their influence at the time of elections then the possibilities of the misuse of power and influence on the part of other people are so vast that you can neither imagine their extent nor check them. You can very well also demand that big land-holders should not be allowed to seek election to any local body because they exercise great influence in the locality in which they reside and can use that influence to the detriment of their opponents. A tenant dare not vote openly against his landlord. The possibilities of the misuse of power and influence are so great that it is very difficult to check them and hence we cannot help putting up with the evil, if any, to some extent.

Pir Akbar Ali : The influence exercised by an honorary magistrate stands no comparison with that exercised by a rasagir.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Pir Sahib is right in saying that a rasagir has got more influence than an honorary magistrate. Perhaps in the part of the province represented by the honourable lady member there are no rasagirs and she does not know who they are. (Kanwar Manraj Singh : There are rasagirs there also.) (Some other honourable members : There may be some here also.) (Laughter). Similarly a zaildar has a great deal of influence in his ilaga and you will say that he too should be made ineligible to stand as a candidate for the membership of any local body. A zaildar's authority extends over a very large area and he can put his opponents to a good deal of trouble. (An honourable member : What powers does a zaildar possess?) A zaildar has authority in the area included in his zail and he can, if dishonest, misuse that authority. Moreover, he has got the tahsildar at his back. In short, the evil which the honourable lady member intends to check by this resolution may be so extensive in its range that it is impossible to control it. A majority of people have one sort of influence or another in particular spheres and they can use it in the way they like.

I very much appreciate one remark of Chaudhri Ram Sarup. He said that honorary magistrates are often very proud and stiff-necked persons, but when they stand as candidates for membership of local bodies they become very humble and go about begging for votes with such expressions on their lips as "Maharaj, Maharaj" or "Remember so and so". This dependence upon people for votes makes honorary magistrates behave properly. But, if instead of allowing them to stand and contest seats of various local bodies you start the practice of nominating them to those bodies, you will deprive the people of the influence they exercise at present over them. This will make them independent of the people and able to treat them as they like.

Then, again, votes are not cast openly and as such no honorary magistrate is in a position to know who has voted for him or against him. Under the ballot system the votes are recorded secretly and the people have full freedom in their choice of candidates. I need not dwell on this point at length for my honourable friend Lala Labh Chand has amply made it clear and has also answered some other points mentioned by the honourable lady member in her speech. I can make bold to say that the principle underlying this resolution is not a sound one and I request the honourable lady member to withdraw it.

(At this stage Mr. President left the chair and it was occupied by the Deputy President).

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit (Hoshiarpur, non-Muhammdan, Rural) : The resolution moved by the honourable lady member, I submit, is of great vital and democratic importance and I, therefore, with your permission wish to examine the various arguments advanced by the Honourable Minister in opposition to this resolution. As a matter of fact, if we correctly understand the speech of the Honourable Minister and the attitude of the Government, they have practically accepted the principle which underlies the resolution under discussion. For example, the Honourable Minister said that the Government in 1927 made certain enquiries from their own officials, from the Commissioners and others in regard to a matter of a similar nature. The Government was of the opinion that the cases from the file of the honorary magistrate should be withdrawn if he intended to stand for election. That was one safe course adopted by the Government in order to keep the purity of elections intact. Then we were told that though this was the attitude of Government, the Government made it clear that honorary magistrates were not debarred from standing for election ; nor should these remarks of the Government be taken to mean that they are in any way hostile to these people standing and getting themselves elected to the various local bodies and to the Legislative Council. Neither, I submit, does the resolution of the honourable lady member debar these honorary magistrates from standing for election. All that is sought by the resolution is that an honorary magistrate shall not stand from that ward which is within his jurisdiction and this principle has been accepted by the Government when the Government has sent directions to their district officers asking them to let the honorary magistrates know that in case they seek elections cases are to be withdrawn from their file for three months before elections and then they are permitted to stand for election. In other words, the Government recognise that there is a good deal of truth in the statement that these honorary magistrates exercise undue influence and, therefore, people who have got their cases pending in these magistrates' courts should not have them tried by them and their cases should be sent somewhere else. I submit, therefore, that the principle underlying the resolution which is moved has been accepted to a great extent by the Government and all that is now sought for is that this principle should be extended a little further. It does not mean anything beyond this. Having once accepted the principle that the the honorary magistrates are likely to unduly influence the voters, the principle may be so extended as to debar them from standing for election from the constituency which is within their jurisdiction. The Government having as a matter of fact accepted this principle, the Honourable Minister and his supporters have really gone astray when they tried to confuse the issue. The issue was quite clear though the resolution has been supported from different points of view. Some honourable members think that the institution of honorary magistrates is not a good one ; others think that there may be some limit placed on their right of standing as candidates for the local bodies. But it is nobody's case—at least it is not mine—that all honorary magistrates are dishonest or are corrupt. I do not say that at all. Honorary magistrates like others are human beings; some are good, some bad. Some serve the Government honestly; others serve in order to fill their pockets by various means. It is widely known that many honorary magistrates make a lot of money by the exercise of their magisterial powers. Nobody can deny that. But as a matter of fact the Honourable Minister admitted practically that there are corrupt people amongst the policemen and the zaildars—

[Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit.]

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I did not make any such statement. I said, if they are dishonest they can do.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : You said definitely that there are many zaildars who are utilised by the tahsildars and the magistrates for satisfying their greed.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Can be utilised.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : There is a possibility: let us have that.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Yes.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : And you know that that possibility is a certainty.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : That is a different matter.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : But everybody knows that these things happen. High officials have made enquiries into these things and they find some guilty of corrupt and dishonest practices.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : So have been stipendiary magistrates.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : Yes. Quite so. But stipendiary magistrates are debarred from standing for election and I am coming to that point. The underlying principle is this. In the election rules there is a certain provision which provides that elections should be free from undue influence. That is a very healthy rule. Taking the argument which the Honourable Minister applied to zaildars and others, there is a great danger that there would be a great temptation on the part of honorary magistrates to use their power in such a manner as to unduly influence the voter. That is the principle underlying this resolution. Why has the Government prohibited the stipendiary magistrates from seeking election? The basis of it is that a stipendiary magistrate should not be permitted to use undue influence for getting a vote and so on. That is one of the reasons why Government servants are prohibited even from canvassing, leave aside the question of standing as candidates. So the danger is there. All Government servants are not corrupt. But the danger is there that Government servants may unduly influence the voters. Those people who have conducted their own elections or conducted election petitions know that these influences are at work. Ignorant and illiterate voters are unduly influenced. The Honourable Minister said, "there is no disease; why come forward with a resolution when you have not been able to point out the dark spot in all these elections? Look at the municipalities, look at the district boards, you have not been able to point out that there was any kohram." He used this word. I ask him, if there has been no kohram then why did Government issue these instructions?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : To allay your fears.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : You are advancing an argument which really supports the resolution put forward by the honourable mover and I ask the Honourable Minister if he can shut his eyes to existing facts. In district boards are not there honorary magistrates being returned from time to time and is it not difficult to dislodge them? The Honourable Minister should be aware of this fact that once a seat goes to an honorary magistrate it is difficult to dislodge him from his seat. Threats are used at elections.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Have you any such cases?

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : Hundreds of cases.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Have you reported?

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : To whom should I report when there are persons who always shield such offenders. Council is the proper place to ventilate these things. Then there is the law of defamation and sometimes it is difficult to prove these things. The man may be harrassed for bringing certain charges of this kind. So the Council House is the proper place for ventilating public grievances and we give expression to these fears which agitate the public mind. Therefore I submit that the Honourable Minister was not quite right in not accepting the very modest resolution of the honourable mover. All that the resolution seeks is this, that these people are not to be debarred from standing; but if they want to enter the local bodies, they should come from certain constituencies which are not within their jurisdiction. That is all.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Should we first exile them?

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : Government cannot bring forward this argument when they frame constituencies with regard to Legislative Council on a similar principle. Hoshiarpur is tagged on to Simla and a candidate living in Ambala has to go to Hoshiarpur for canvassing votes.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Not for small town committee or panchayat elections.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : The principle has been accepted by the Government and if the Government is fond of a particular honorary magistrate, he can always be nominated. The power of nomination with regard to district boards and municipalities is with the Government. They can always be nominated. Why then should the Government shirk its responsibility and not extend the principle to district boards and municipalities. That is all. It is a mere question of extension of that principle which the Government has already accepted. It is sheer zid on the part of Government not to accept the resolution. Then the Honourable Minister brought forward certain arguments when he was criticising the speeches of Chaudhri

[Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit.]

Allah Dad Khan and certain other honourable member. We are not out to support certain speeches or arguments, the question is a plain and simple one, whether the Government is prepared, in view of its own past experience on which it has based its own directions contained in the letters issued in the year 1927, to extend the principle a little further than that and I submit that in the interests of democratic government and purity of elections, it is essential that this moderate resolution of the honourable member should be accepted (hear hear).

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): In connection with this resolution it has been urged by several members that the honorary magistrates get votes by reason of their influence and authority. This argument is perfectly right and we need not go far to prove it. You know, Sir, and all the members know, that when the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government sat on these benches, he was a different man altogether. But now that he is occupying a responsible position and is sitting on government benches, his attitude is entirely different.

There are some honorary magistrates in this House also. One honourable member belongs to Amritsar, one belongs to Phillaur, and one belongs to Alawalpur. In the first place, they are honorary magistrates, and secondly they are nominated members. These honourable members are entirely at the mercy of the government. They cannot express their opinions independently. If to-morrow the Government brings forward a resolution that all the wells of the Punjab should be poisoned to kill the inhabitants of the province, these gentlemen will meekly vote for the government. They cannot express any view or opinion independently. They are just like the camel and the bear. There is a string in their muzzle, which is tightly held by their masters. They make them dance to their will. Honorary magistracy and titles are the banes of our country. They have completely ruined our mother land. These things are great impediments to our liberty. They kill our conscience and do not allow us to think and act independently. If this curse were to disappear from here, we should lead a very comfortable and happy life. It is really a great pity that for their personal aggrandisement these people sacrifice the best interests of their country.

The Doctor Sahib was pleased to remark that in a certain case he issued a circular for investigation. But how can an official make an impartial inquiry. Those who do not work in accordance with the desire and policy of the government are not kept long as honorary magistrates. Those who act according to its wishes are not reported against by the officers appointed for investigation. If you really want to make an inquiry, you should entrust this work to an independent man like myself. I will tell you how an inquiry is held and I will give the lie to the official inquiry. If my report is wrong, I may be hanged. Government only gets reports from its own men. In this case the Honourable Minister has even read out a circular to the House to show that the government is doing everything that is necessary. I know that letters are issued and everything is written and entered in papers. But our regret is that little is done practically. If that were so, the public would have no grievance at all.

Furthermore, some of our countrymen are pining for titles and honours. They want to set fire to their country and watch the spectacle in a state of jubilation and joy. If the Doctor Sahib would have a talk with me in private, I would tell him what irregularities are being committed by the officers of the government. In criminal cases honorary magistrates do not allow the witnesses to get their travelling expenses, etc. They want to show a saving to the government and win its favour. Thus they think that they are helping the government. At the time of election if a person does not give his vote to the honorary magistrates, the latter becomes his bitter enemy. The magistrate begins to despise even the friends and relations of that man. He keeps them in mind, and whenever there is a chance he mercilessly takes his revenge. It was pointed out by the Honourable Minister that even rich men and zaildars exercise their influence like the honorary magistrates. The zaildars cannot harm anybody directly. They can ask only the tahsildar or the sub-inspector of police to harm somebody, but the honorary magistrates have their own sting. They can harm everybody independently. The speech of the Honourable Dr. Sahib has convinced me of the fact that he has brought his influence to bear upon the appointment of several gentlemen as sub-registrars and several others he has helped to become honorary magistrates. He has done all this to secure an easy election next year because if those people whom he has helped prove true to their salt, they in their turn will exercise their official influence in his favour.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : This is very mean. The honourable member should be asked to withdraw those words.

Mr. Deputy President : The honourable member will please withdraw those words.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Very well, I withdraw my words. I wanted only to emphasise that the officials do use their influence if they so desire.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : You will probably know after one year that you made totally wrong and false allegations.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Personally I would rather see the end of the very institution of honorary magistrates, because it is a curse to the country and its civilization. Honorary magistrates should under no circumstances be allowed to contest seats in the local bodies because these people know no clean fight, but are always anxious to use their undue influence. With these words, I lend my whole-hearted support to the resolution which is now before the House.

Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali (Gujranwala, Muhammadan, Rural) : I am sorry to oppose the resolution tabled by the honourable lady member. But unfortunately it has always fallen to my lot to oppose the resolutions tabled by her, though I have the greatest regard for her talents, for her intelligence and for her ideas. But opinions are bound to differ and I am not an exception.

After what the Honourable Minister has said I do not think there is any need to debate this matter at any length. But there remains one aspect of the question, which has not been touched so far. Of course, it is on the lines already chalked out by the Honourable Minister, still there is a difference. There has been one mistake on the part of the honourable mover of the resolution in regard to the scope of her motion. Had she included the words 'legislative council' also, I am sure she would have got the greater support than now. But she only disqualifies the honorary magistrates from municipal committees, district boards, small town committees, and the notified areas and not from membership of the Punjab Legislative Council.

There has been some sort of misunderstanding in the mind of my honourable friend, Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit and the other supporters of this resolution. It seems that they are afraid of the very expression "honorary magistrate." They do not know in practice to what extent the honorary magistrates have power over the people and to what extent they can wield those powers. I would like to prove to the House that the honorary magistrates as such do not so much influence the people as honourable members think they do. There are honorary magistrates of two kinds as everyone here knows, the honorary magistrates on the benches and a few honorary magistrates who hold their court independently, as individuals. So far as the class of people who are magistrates on the benches is concerned, everybody here knows that they are merely ornamental and do no real sort of work. They are given very little work and it has always been the policy of the Government so far as I have ascertained from the answers to questions put by me on the floor of this House to give them a seat rather than a case. Those magistrates who are separate have thanas in which they exercise their jurisdiction always different from the place of their residence or from the place which is near about their residence. They, therefore, stand in different constituencies from those in which they have magisterial powers in these elections to district boards and local bodies. Special care is taken that they are not made ilaqa magistrates of the place where they own landed property or the place where they have their residential quarters. For example, in the whole of Lahore division, there is only one magistrate who has powers in his own ilaqa—in the Amritsar district. In more than ninety per cent. of cases so far as these elections are concerned people stand only for those places where they reside or where they own landed property. So a great deal of the argument vanishes that these people influence the votes by virtue of their magisterial power. As the lawyer members here may know, none of these magistrates practically are given the powers of receiving complaints direct. Complaints are always given to stipendiary magistrates or the district magistrates, who take special care that complaints relating to the place of residence of an honorary magistrate or place where he owns landed property do not go to that honorary magistrate, but to another. Even if some cases do go, the powers wielded by the district magistrate under section 528 of the Criminal Procedure Code are very frequently used and cases are transferred without the least hesitation from the files of honorary magistrates when there are some real and genuine grounds for the transfer. Taking all these things I would like to submit that this is clear that the honorary magistrates do not exercise any influence, due or undue, over the people for the purpose of election. In fact they have very little scope for that in the light of the remarks which I have made on the floor of the House.

Again, we should not think, for a moment, that these magistrates, who after all are very respectable people, will be so mean and will stoop to such things to gain their personal ends. There are other forces which can be more detrimental to the interests of the public at elections and to which the Honourable Minister has already referred. I would not go into details, but there are other influences which have greater power over the people than the influence of an honorary magistrate working in an ilaqa. I would refer to cases in which even in the elections to this Chamber there have been allegations of threats of cattle-lifting, rasagiri and other undue influence and illegal practices. If we cannot discourage the acceptance of illegal gratification, of undue influence and of a hundred malpractices in connection with the elections to this House, it will not do if we simply eradicate the evil as we call it of the power and influence of an honorary magistrate. I would again point out to the honourable mover of the resolution that this is treating the disease at the wrong end, if such a phrase might be used. I have been saying on the floor of the House many a time and I have been pressing upon my colleagues that no amount of legislation will be able to check the prevailing malpractices even to a slight extent unless you educate public opinion, unless you improve the social and moral condition of the society. So it is absolutely useless to achieve this end by legislation. We should train the electorate to be of such an independent character that they should evade or condemn all sorts of influence sought to be exercised on them. Unless we do that there is no use one way or the other in passing resolutions or rejecting them. Any amount of laws will not be a check on the mentality of the public to the extent as the inner power of improvement secured by the amelioration of the social and moral condition of the people. That has been admitted on all hands and I quoted the other day the Honourable Justice Agha Haidar, who, when speaking in the Islamia College Hall said, that six or seven hundred murders were being committed each year in spite of the fact that there was capital punishment provided for that offence and he said that the only remedy was that public opinion should be educated in such a way that all should consider the act as a great sin. Unless we reach that pitch nothing can be done by legislation or in any other way. I may in the same strain tell the honourable mover: You had better educate the electorate not to be influenced by anybody, not to be subject to threats, not to resort to any illegal practices.

There is another thing. An honorary magistrate is disqualified even to go to the panchayat. It is ridiculous that a man who is fit to exercise magisterial powers first or second class should be absolutely disqualified from becoming a member even of a panchayat which hears cases involving the theft of two or three shalgam or a handful of green wheat.

Again, the honourable mover was pleased to say that just as Government officials were required under the rules not to tamper with elections or to stand for an election, the honorary magistrate, on the same analogy, should be asked not to stand for election. She forgets that honorary magistrates are non-officials to all intents and purposes and are not paid servants of Government. And, therefore, in this respect they stand on an absolutely different footing from the magistrates who are in the pay of Government or who are Government officials.

The honourable mover also said that the magistrates have no time and that election campaigns seriously interfere with their work. Suffice it to say, as I have already said, the magistrates are more as ornaments and far from doing a lot of work they get very little work and elections do not in any way interfere with the due performance of their duty. Taking the fourteen magistrates on a bench at a place like Gujranwala, Jhelum or any other district town, they have a term of two months in one year for their work and no one can say that this gives them any chance of unduly wielding their influence. The fact of their being honorary magistrates does not count unless there are very many cases and unless people are obliged to go to them in one connection or another. The magistrates are inactive for ten months and they are active like a volcano occasionally say only for two months in the year. This short time surely does not stand in the way of the performance of their duty.

Another point to note is that their powers are renewed after a specific term of years. All these things are borne in mind by the district magistrates and higher officials when there is a recommendation for a renewal of the term of office. It is open to anybody to bring complaints and surely a district magistrate who sees so many complaints of an election offence against a particular honorary magistrate, will not recommend that man for another term.

It was also said that unfortunately everything here was being given the colour of firka prasti. I do not want to translate the word as communal tension because that term is more dangerous. But I would only say that there is no firka prasti here for there are people from all classes in the ranks of honorary magistrates—Hindus, Muhammadans, Sikhs, Indian Christians, zamindars, non-zamindars, sahu-kars, borrowers, creditors and everybody.

The honourable member, Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan, observed that these persons made a dishonest record and that they also do not give diet money to people coming before them. But I as a lawyer know of no such thing. That they do not give diet money to witnesses to save the Government is wrong. So far as my experience as a lawyer goes, I have not had any complaint against any of these people at least in this respect, and they never prepare and nobody in these days of enlightenment can afford to prepare a dishonest record.

I think I have spoken sufficiently on the resolution and I would, though very reluctantly, oppose it.

Mr. E. Mayadas (Non-official, nominated) (Urdu) : It is with feelings of great regret that I have listened to the speeches made on the resolution under consideration. The honorary magistrates have been painted by some of the honourable members in very black colours. After all these gentlemen come from respectable sections of the people and it does not behove us particularly at this juncture, when we are proclaiming to the world that we are quite fit to run the administration efficiently, to paint in black colours sometimes this class of servants and at other times another class of servants. What is the use, I ask, of saying that the patwaris as a class are bad and the police constables are corrupt. It does not bring us any credit and as I have said it is not opportune to say all these things at this moment.

In considering the question now before the House, we should also take into account the fact that the honorary magistrates are serving the public without any remuneration and if we begin to denounce them as we are doing, and get rid of them then we shall have to employ so many magistrates and we shall have to pay them all. In that case the Government will have to incur a very heavy expenditure which we can ill-afford to bear. Therefore, under the circumstances it is very ill advised to bring forward such proposals and paint the honorary magistrates in such exaggerated black colours. With these words I oppose the resolution under consideration.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain (Urdu): I am sure I shall not take much of the time of the Council in replying to the debate. I shall content myself with meeting some of the objections that have been raised against this very simple resolution. I think I need not take notice of what the honourable member Chaudhri Ram Sarup has said in opposing my resolution because it appears to me that whatever he has said, he has said without knowing or understanding what he was saying. Otherwise what was the fun in saying that if my resolution is carried, I or some other member may be inclined to ask the Government to make it essential for the ministers not to stand as candidates for election to the future Punjab Assembly from anywhere in the Punjab, but either from Bengal or from the United Provinces? He ought to have known that at the time these elections take place Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang and I and in fact any other member of the Council will be on equal footing. These ministers will not be ministers then. Therefore the honourable member need have no fears on that score.

Then the honourable member from Amritsar, Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra stood up to oppose my resolution and he said that if I had no objection to these honorary magistrates entering the local bodies by nomination, where was the fun in disallowing them to come to these bodies by election, this argument was also advanced by the honourable member who preceded him. It appears that both of them have misunderstood me. I am prepared to repeat it once again that I have certainly no objection to these honorary magistrates being nominated for these local bodies. But what I want is that they should not be allowed to compete with other candidates who have no influence to counteract the influence attaching to the position of these magistrates. These magistrates as I have said, can come in as the representatives of the Government, but they must not be allowed to use or rather misuse their influence against the candidates of the public. The public should be allowed to exercise their votes freely and without fear of these magistrates.

I really fail to understand what objection there can be to the acceptance of the proposal that I have made in this resolution. These honorary magistrates are in a way Government servants. It is quite a different matter that they receive no remuneration and that they work honorarily. But this cannot be denied that they are working under the Government and if other Government servants, stipendiary magistrates, other executive officers and even ministerial officers, are prohibited from seeking elections to these local bodies why on earth should you allow these honorary magistrates, to stand as candidates for election against popular candidates? I understand that a Government servant is debarred even from canvassing for votes for other candidates and if he does, he does against Government Servants' Conduct

[Sh. Lekhwati Jain.]

Rules. But in the case of honorary magistrates, who are no less Government servants working no doubt without pay, an exception has been made and I am sure without any obvious reasons. It is apparently an invidious distinction and I am sure no sane man will tolerate it. The same honourable member was further pleased to say that if my resolution was carried the public would stand to lose as it would be nigh impossible to fill the vacancies vacated by the honorary magistrates in the municipal committees and the district boards with men of equal intelligence and equal experience. I ask the honourable member whether he really believes that the honorary magistrates are a superior type of humanity; whether he really believes that excepting these honorary magistrates there are no persons in the public to be found who can come up to the same standard as has been reached by these magistrates. I do not think it is his belief and if that is his belief, the less I say about that belief the better.

Another argument that was advanced by the same honourable member was that it would be very hard for the honorary magistrates, who have sold their time to the Government for nothing and without any remuneration, if they were now disallowed to seek elections to the local bodies. But the honourable member should know that it is an argument which supports my contention. If the honorary magistrates have sold their time to the Government and if they are bound by their honour to utilise that time in a particular service, they have no right to spend any portion of that time for any other work. Their honour demands that they should concentrate all their attention and all their time to the service which they have taken upon themselves, no matter honorarily. If as honorary magistrates, they are elected to any municipality or to a district board, it means that they devote some of the time dedicated for magisterial duties, to the work they must do as members of the local body concerned and if they do not do any work as members, it is no use for them to come to such local bodies. If I as a member of this Council do not come prepared with what I have to say on the questions that are to be considered by the Council, I had better not come at all. The membership of a local body and in fact all bodies is not an easy job if, of course, one means to be honest. The work connected with membership requires at least some devotion and if the honorary magistrates are honest as they should be and if they really mean business, they should themselves declare that they do not want to insist on having this right of standing as candidates for election to the local bodies. They should say, like honest men, that in future they will devote their time wholly and solely to the magisterial work that has been entrusted to them so that no party or parties to the cases coming up before them for decision may suffer in any way.

I am very sorry to see that the Honourable Minister has made so much capital of the omission as he calls it, on my part of not supplying the names and the number of honorary magistrates who are members of local bodies and who have misused their position and influence for purposes of election. I could give such names and the number also, but I have not done so merely out of courtesy.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The honourable member could have given the names of the towns in which these magistrates have acted in a manner prejudicial to their position.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : If I had given the names of the towns, it would have been very easy to find out the names not intended to be disclosed. I therefore thought that I had better keep quiet so far as these names were concerned. There was yet another reason why I did not consider it necessary to collect these facts and figures. I knew and I was sure, as I am sure even now, that all these facts and figures must be in the possession of the Government and it would be useless attempt on my part to find out these figures. And I may also frankly admit that it never occurred to me that the Honourable Minister will care to take his stand on this very flimsy argument to oppose this very simple proposition. I do not know what purpose these facts and figures would have served and how the high and low percentage of the honorary magistrates in the local bodies would have helped the Honourable Minister. I have already made it abundantly clear that I am fighting on a question of principle. The question is not as to how many honorary magistrates there are in the local bodies and how many of them will succeed in future elections. I shall not be satisfied even if I am given this assurance that in future very few of them will compete for election. It is immaterial from my point of view whether they render good services to the local bodies or not. I take my stand on a question of principle and that is there is no earthly reason for allowing these magistrates to stand as candidates for election to these local bodies when other magistrates, stipendiary or otherwise, are not given this right. I want that these honorary magistrates who are in the same boat with other Government servants, should in no case be allowed to compete with the representatives of the public who fight the elections on their own merit and who have no influences like that of these magistrates. The fight at elections between the honorary magistrates and the other candidates is not at all a fair fight and fairness demands that these magistrates should keep aloof from election campaigns.

I have been asked not to press this resolution on another ground also and that is, that the question of influence is one which it is not very easy to solve. It has been said that this influence is used by every one, by the sahu-kars and by the zamindars and by all. How then will it be possible to disallow all such persons and classes of persons from seeking election to the local bodies if we are to fear this bugbear of influence at every step? I do not claim to purge the society of all evil by this resolution. But I wish, and wish sincerely, that whatever little can be achieved should be achieved. We should not hesitate to do even a little good simply because it is not in our power to make so many other reforms which ought to be made.

There are so many other flimsy objections that have been raised against this resolution and I need not take much of the time of the House in replying to those objections. It has been said that if the honorary magistrates were disallowed from seeking election to local bodies, where is the guarantee that they would not use their influence in canvassing for votes for their brothers or for their sons and other relations? This objection is very easy to answer. If the honorary magistrates are disallowed from seeking election to local bodies just as other Government servants are disallowed, they can as well be asked not to use their influence in favour of any of their relations. We know that the Government servants cannot use their influence in favour of any of their relations and if they do so they are guilty of an offence. Similarly it can be made an offence in the case of honorary magistrates if they are found using their influence in favour of any one. One honourable member was pleased to say that it was not possible to know whether a voter had cast his vote in the ballot box in favour of this candidate or that, and it is, therefore, not possible to judge the genuineness of the complaint made by me in this resolution. I for one do not cherish such a low opinion about the voters who, according to the honourable member say one thing and do another. I am sure that majority of the voters have nothing to fear from any candidate and they exercise their votes independently. I may also say that there is yet another thing in this connection that the honourable member has lost sight of and that is that in municipal elections and in elections to other local bodies the number of voters is very small, it is not very difficult to find out for every ward as to who has voted for the one and who has voted for the other.

I think I have sufficiently answered all the objections raised against the proposal contained in my resolution and I hope that all members will unite to support it and see that it is carried.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang (Urdu): I think it would have been better if the discussion on the resolution had ended before the honourable member from Hoshiarpur spoke, for his speech has weakened the position of the honourable mover still further. If a layman like the honourable member opposite or the honourable mover fails to comprehend the real significance of a legal point, it does not matter, but it is a pity that a lawyer of the standing of Pandit Nanak Chand should not realise the legal implications of the resolution now before the House. The remarks made by Pandit Sahib show that he has not even read the resolution.

5 P. M.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Surely he has read it.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : If he has read it then evidently he has not analysed it, for he has remarked in his speech that he does not want the honorary magistrates to be debarred from coming into the local bodies but he simply wants that they should not come from constituencies within their magisterial jurisdiction. You say that they should not stand as candidates for membership of district boards, municipal committees, small town committees and panchayats from constituencies within their jurisdiction, which means that you are closing all doors upon them. Take the case of panchayats. They are established in rural areas. There may be one panchayat in a village or in two small villages together but an honorary magistrate is not appointed for each village or for each mohallah in a town. No honorary magistrate has ever been appointed for Wachhowali, Mohallah Sathan or for Kalal Majari. As a matter of fact, the honorary magistrate is sometimes appointed to exercise his power within the limits of a tahsil, sometimes entrusted with the work of a few thanas only. Let us say an honorary magistrate is appointed for Ambala tahsil and the city of Ambala is situate within his jurisdiction. According to the resolution he cannot seek election to local bodies from Ambala tahsil where his friends and relations reside.

Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : If he is so anxious to become a member of local bodies he should leave the idea of being appointed as honorary magistrate.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : Now you have understood the unsoundness of your resolution. You really want that no honorary magistrate should ever become a member of any local body. Your resolution and your speech contradict each other. You want to close all doors upon honorary magistrates. I hope the honourable mover has now realised the impracticability of her resolution and as such she would be well advised to withdraw it.

I turn now to the speech of Pandit Nanak Chand again. It seems the honourable member has failed to realise the legal implications of the resolution. He has attached undue importance to it. He says that honorary magistrate should not stand for election to local bodies from constituencies within their magisterial jurisdiction. But the question is, wherefrom should they come in? The speech of the honourable member was absolutely meaningless. The honourable member was pleased further to say that the Government have accepted the principle by asking the district magistrates to withdraw the pending cases from the honorary magistrates at the time of elections until they are over. But that as I have submitted in my previous speech was done with a view to remove the apprehensions of the public which they might have with regard to the use of powers by honorary magistrates. If a person has got a muffler at his house it does not mean that the person is always suffering from bad cold or if there is a water-spout at one's house it does not mean that it is raining throughout the twenty four hours. The district magistrates have been given discretion to withdraw cases from the honorary magistrates if they think that their powers would prejudice their position as magistrates at the time of elections. It is clear that Government have not accepted any principle in this matter but have advised certain action to be taken in case some honorary magistrates are interested in elections and may be likely to abuse their power. As I have already said I do not hold any brief on behalf of the honorary magistrates. They are as good or bad as stipendiary magistrates. The honourable Pandit Sahib has said one thing more that is when the stipendiary magistrates have been debarred from seeking elections to local bodies why should the honorary magistrates be allowed to stand as candidates for the membership of local bodies? Perhaps the honourable member has not listened to the argument advanced by Rai Sahib Lala Labh Chand Mehra. There are practical difficulties in the way of stipendiary magistrates in seeking elections to local bodies on account of their frequent transfers from one place to another. The same cannot be said of nominations. Nominations can be easily made. I do not want to repeat what I have already said. The resolution in its present form is altogether impracticable. I shall read it out to Pandit Ji.

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit : I have already read it.

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The honourable member has then failed to realise its implications. Anyhow the resolution as it stands is as unreasonable as impracticable.

Mr. Deputy President : The question is—

This Council recommends to the Government that the electoral rules of local bodies be so changed as to make the honorary magistrates ineligible to stand as a candidate for the membership of any municipal committee, district board, small town committee or the panchayat from any constituency within his magisterial jurisdiction.

ASSESSMENT OF LAND REVENUE ON PRINCIPLES OF INCOME-TAX.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu) : I beg to move—

This Council recommends to the Government to assess land revenue in accordance with the principles on which income-tax is assessed.

My purpose in bringing forward this resolution is to get some concessions for the zamindars so far as land revenue is concerned by drawing the attention of the House to their sad plight. By the fall in the prices the zamindars have been hit hard and it has become well nigh impossible for them to make both the ends meet. The income from land has become so little that the zamindars cannot pay land revenue according to the rates prevalent at present. After paying the Government dues very little is left with them for their own subsistence. It is a general impression that the zamindar only pays the land revenue but if you would view the matter sympathetically you will find that all the other taxes in addition to land revenue are also paid by the zamindars. All industries and professions depend upon agriculture and those who follow them realising that they will have to pay taxes pay the price of the commodities they purchase from the zamindars less the amount of tax likely to be levied. This means that the whole burden of taxation falls on the zamindar. He is unable to bear all this heavy burden and his condition demands that some better treatment should be offered to him. It is with the intention of helping him that I have moved this resolution and I hope that the Government will very kindly accept it to encourage the zamindar who is the backbone of the country and by whom all classes of people benefit. The zamindar supplies all kinds of necessities of life. He grows the crops and feeds the rest of the population of the country but no one cares for him. I hope the Government will take interest in his well-being by accepting this resolution. In other countries of the world every thing likely to help the zamindars is done but here in India very little is done to help them. According to the principles of income-tax no person whose income is less than one thousand rupees is charged income-tax. Previously incomes below Rs. 2,000 were not taxed. But on account of the present economic depression this minimum has been further reduced to Rs. 1,000 annual income. Incomes which are above the minimum of Rs. 1,000 a year are taxed according to graded rates of income-tax. But the land revenue is nearly  $\frac{1}{4}$ th of the income from land. No concession is shown to small land-holders whose income from land is in majority of cases only a nominal sum. But I do not mean that in order to give concession to the zamindars burden of taxation may be increased on the tax payers. I only mean that the zamindars should be given concession so far as land revenue is concerned. (The Honourable Revenue Member : You want that on the one hand the burden of taxation should be reduced on the tax payers and on the other, concessions in land revenue should also be given to the zamindars.)

I only want that reasonable concessions should be given to the zamindars because they are hit hard by the present fall in prices. A business man or a sahuکار can deceive the Income-Tax Department by making wrong entries in his account books but a zamindar cannot do any such thing. The land possessed by him is entered in the Government records and revenue staff knows what he has sown and what income he is likely to derive from it. He cannot hide the true figures of his income from the eyes of the revenue officers. Sahuکارs try to pay the Government as little income-tax as they can but in the case of the zamindars this is not possible. They cannot do any such thing. Rather it is the Government who try to squeeze out as much as they can from the zamindars. Moreover the rates of revenue are assessed at the time of settlement according to the rates of prices prevalent then. Sometimes it so happen that the prices go up but rates of land revenue remain as they are and in this way the Government suffers a good deal of loss. Again it so happens that the prices fall and the rates of land revenue remain stationary, and the zamindars have to pay to the Government exorbitantly. As such it is very necessary that the land revenue should be assessed according to the principles on which income-tax is assessed. In this way neither the Government will suffer nor the zamindars. In other countries everything is done to make the zamindars prosperous. For example in England, nearly 2 crores of pounds sterling are annually granted to help the agriculturists. In other countries also the agriculturists are helped. Nearly 88 per cent. of the income from agriculture is spent by those countries on the agriculturists. But in India not even one per cent. of the income from agriculture is spent on the zamindars. The little that is claimed to be done is only on paper and not in practice. In the zamindara conference held at Lyallpur my resolution was lent a whole hearted support and it was accepted by the conference and was sent to the Government to draw their attention to the necessity of charging land revenue in accordance with the principles on which income-tax is assessed. In addition at various times other meetings of zamindars have also drawn the attention of the Government to this necessity.

Then comes the case of riverain areas. These areas suffer heavily by floods. Often the crops are flooded and the zamindars do not get even a pice from them. The Government's practice with regard to realisation of land revenue from such zamindars is that it is charged for the time being but is remitted at the time when dhalbachh is given in Rabi. This system works hardship upon those zamindars. They have to borrow money to pay the Government dues for they do not get any income from the sauni crops for these crops are sown at the time of floods and often they are swept away by the river water.

Mr. President : The honourable member is irrelevant.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : I am trying to explain how the present system of assessment of land revenue is defective, and why it should be replaced by the method according to which income-tax is assessed. A zamindar who has to pay land revenue for a crop which has not grown is put to a great deal of trouble, inasmuch as he has to manage somehow to get money to pay the Government dues. (Interruption). No doubt the income of Government will become less but it will at the same time help the zamindars. The Government can make up their loss by reducing the salaries of their employees. At present the Government gives Rs. 5,000 to each of their ministers. Their salaries can be reduced. (Interruption) The average income of an Indian is not more than 6 pice a day and to run their business such highly paid servants should not be kept. The Government expenses are too much as compared with the average income of Indians. These expenses should be reduced. Half of the present salaries given to the Honourable Ministers and other highly paid officers should be reduced.

The Secretary of State for India gets Rs. 32,000 a month. The viceroy and other officials in India also get very fat salaries. The British regard India as a golden sparrow, a sparrow which lays the golden eggs. In England people live very luxuriously and happily. But the inhabitants of this country which is considered the golden sparrow are indigent and wretched. They cannot even keep off starvation, and they have no cloth to cover their bodies. We are apparently hale and hearty. If we had any sense of shame, we should have died long ago. Our bondage and servitude has completely impaired our sensitiveness and sensibility. Although my honourable friend opposite thinks that I am well off, yet my property has been attached twice or thrice.

I would request that the officers should go to the villages and hold a darbar there. They should invite the villagers and have a personal talk with them. Thus they will be able to realize the actual condition of the zamindars. The toadies and sycophants will never tell the government the real condition of the people. The zamindars have no food and no home. If effective steps are not taken, the condition of the zamindars will not improve.

At the time of the last settlement the rates of grain were very high. But now there has been a drastic reduction in the rates. The land revenue charged is the same. The zamindars are unable to pay their land revenue at the proper time. Rich men in the cities keep four or five servants and yet lead very comfortable lives, but the zamindar finds it hard to keep even his body and soul together, although he works with his own hands. If the government will not pay sufficient sympathetic attention to this resolution, his condition will continue to remain the same. The zamindar pays every kind of tax; offers youngmen for the army; gives ghce, grain, chaff, fodder, bribes, and begar to government officials. He offers pilau and fowls to the thanedars. He has to pay so much. The result of so much burden on him is that he is reduced to a state of beggary. I do not want that the honourable members should simply vote for this resolution. Even if we pass the resolution, the governor may veto it. Therefore, it would be far better to do something solid to help the zamindars. I therefore request that a committee of a few capable members be formed, which should go into this question. The Honourable Revenue Member, and the Honourable Finance Member may be the members of that committee. They should discuss the question threadbare, and devise some scheme which may be helpful both to the zamindars and the government. In America and England the labourers get one pound per diem, but in India he gets 6 pice a day. Here one man earns and he has to support 15 men. The best thing for the government to do is to settle the question of hunger and starvation. When people feel extremely disgusted with themselves, they start some agitation or movement. All agitations are due to starvation. The great sage Hazrat Shaikh- Sa'di says that when a cat becomes helpless, it plucks out the eyes of its enemy. Similarly when the zamindar will get tired he will start some agitation to kill himself or to kill somebody. In this way both the government and the zamindar will suffer, but if a scheme is devised both of them will be in peace and lead a peaceful life.

The zamindars are very fond of the government, and they like it much. Now they are criticising its policy. All this criticism may be very unpleasant but this alone will help the government. Unfortunately, the government only sides with time-servers and sychophants, but it does not take notice of the zamindars and does not value their friendship. If tomorrow this government is replaced by another government and there is chaos in the country, these very zamindars will give shelter to Europeans and their women. But at that time these people will betray the government and ask the officers of the new government to shoot us, because we have given shelter to Europeans. Thus we shall suffer in either case.

It is, therefore, the duty of the government to study for itself the actual condition of the zamindars by visiting the villages. In the days of flood they should go in aeroplanes to see the condition of the zamindars, as they go to see their enemies who are hidden in the hills. Their flour is bad; their grain is spoiled. The honourable members know nothing about these things. They come to Lahore to pass a few days comfortably: they go to the cinemas; they enjoy music through the gramophones, and enjoy soda water drinks. They make ducks and drakes of their money. I appeal to them that they should study the condition of the zamindars. If they do not deserve, they may not be given anything. If you are anxious to do something for them, you should form a committee. The officers should go to villages. They should not get information from such zamindars as bring rich ears of corn from the neighbouring villages to show that the wheat is very good. They deceive the officers, because they want zaildary. They should go from place to place and study things for themselves. In ilaqabate an epidemic spread among the cattle, and nearly 60,000 died of the disease. How can these people pay the land revenue? The floods have ruined the crops. These members should be honest and fair with the zamindars. They will be accountable to God one day for their deeds. They should not try to do anything for the sake of getting votes but should honestly and sincerely try to help the zamindars who are the backbone of the country. The condition of the zamindars is so bad that a zamindar came to me and requested me to give him 10 maunds of seed and promised that he would pay me in return fifty maunds. I do not want to say anything more on this point. I would only request that a committee be formed to consider this question thoroughly and devise a scheme which may be helpful both to the zamindar and the government. If these poor zamindars are happy, they will pray for the long life and prosperity of the British rule in India. If the government wants to remain in this country for a long time, it should be very sympathetic to the zamindars and should adopt measures which should make it popular in this country. On the contrary, oppression and tyranny will not help the British to stay in this country for a long time.

With these words, I commend my resolution to the attention of the honourable members of this House.

Mr. President: Resolution moved—

This Council recommends to the Government to assess land revenue in accordance with the principles on which income-tax is assessed.

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh (Sikh Urban): It seem to me that the object of the resolution is to draw attention to the pitiable condition of zamindars, and to the necessity of reducing the burden of land revenue, on account of the drastic fall in prices. Besides, the honourable mover has the objective of bringing relief to petty zamindars who certainly require this relief very badly in these days. In respect to these objects I am in full sympathy with the honourable mover (hear, hear). When we come to discuss the real meaning of the resolution, we have to be a little cautious from the zamindar's point of view. The suggestion of assessing land revenue on the basis of income tax has been made very often from various platforms and by very responsible zamindars. I therefore like to discuss this question threadbare in order to see whether it is to the lasting benefit of the zamindars at all. There are three principles governing the Income Tax Act. The first is the exemption of income tax up to a certain amount from the income tax assessment. Now, if we apply that principle to the case of land, the first result would be immediate and heavy fall in the revenue of the provincial Government. We cannot exempt income in the case of land, we will have to exempt a certain minimum area. For instance, if we were to exempt 8 or 10 acres,—an area which will be hardly sufficient for the subsistence of a cultivator and the income from which will not come anywhere near one thousand rupees a year, we will be taking away practically half of the land revenue of the province. We know in fact that the average holding in this province is near about 8 or 10 acres. Another result would be the fragmentation of holding which is a very serious menace to this province. In fact the problem of consolidation of holdings is already taking up a good deal of time of the Co-operative Department. Our holdings have already become uneconomic and we have been trying to devise means to consolidate these small holdings. If we were to adopt this measure of exempting from the charge of land revenue, a certain area, the immediate result would be that holdings would be sub-divided in order to secure the benefit of exemption from the land revenue. This would, as I have already said, be disastrous to the province. Another result which will follow from the adoption of income tax principle would be that the burden of land revenue will be shifted on to the bigger zamindars.

[S. S. Sardar Ujjal Singh.]

Sayad Mubarak Ali Shah : How ?

Sardar Sahib Sardar Ujjal Singh : Because the principles of income tax assessments are that a man with certain minimum income is exempted and the person above that pays a certain rate and one having still higher income pays a higher rate. The rate of income tax varies from 6 pies to 4 annas and in some cases to 8 annas when a man is charged super-tax. The result would be that the burden of land revenue will be shifted from the smaller zamindars to the bigger zamindars. A big zamindar, even an average zamindar has to keep some agency to manage his land. We know generally that the income of the average zamindar who has got to employ some agency for the management of land does not come to the same amount as that of the zamindar who cultivates the land himself. So, the burden would be double on the big zamindars. He will have to pay higher land revenue and his income, as we know already, is comparatively small from his land than the income of a small zamindar who cultivates it himself.

The other principle of income-tax is that of progression. As I have said in the Income-Tax Act the rate varies from six pies to four annas and sometimes eight annas. And if progression is also applied in the case of land revenue, the bigger zamindars will have to pay much more than they are paying at present. There is another idea of progression which should be borne in mind. The income-tax rate varies with the ability of the person who has to pay the tax. A man with a higher income is assessed a higher rate of income-tax because he has greater ability to pay than the man with a smaller income. But the principle of land revenue is different. It is not levied on the person. Land revenue is levied on the land. In that connection I would like to quote from the Report of the Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee who discuss this question in detail. In their Report the Committee state that the "Committee desire to emphasise the statement of Dr. Gregory that land revenue is essentially a tax on things and not on persons and as such it is not a tax to which the doctrine of progression can be applied."

Another principle of income-tax is that the assessable income is determined every year and the assessee has got to show his account books and his accounts at every assessment. He has got to submit to all the trouble and inconvenience of presenting his accounts to the income-tax officer and if accounts are not presented the assessee is liable to pay income-tax to any amount the income-tax officer might be pleased to assess. If the assessee does not submit a return and if he does not show his accounts, he is given no right of appeal against the assessment order. Another thing is that if the income-tax which is assessed by the income-tax officer in his arbitrary capacity is not paid within one month the amount can be doubled and the income-tax officer can order the assessee to pay double the amount within the next two months. This is a very serious trouble and any one who has any knowledge or experience of assessment of income-tax will be able to explain fully how the assessee is troubled and put to inconvenience. Nobody, I believe, wishes that the zamindars should be put to that discomfort and inconvenience. In fact there are very few zamindars even among the educated zamindars who keep any accounts of their income. And you can well imagine the trouble and the expense and the suffering to which all those zamindars will be put to for not having produced their account books or showing their accounts to the land revenue officers for purposes of land revenue assessment. As a matter of fact, till a few years back the cry has always been to fix the tenure of settlement to as long a period as possible. The zamindars would certainly prefer a permanent settlement, and if not permanent they would have the period increased from thirty to forty or fifty years. But if you follow the principle of income-tax you do away with all that and you will have a settlement every year. It seems to me that the real thing to secure is the lowering of the burden of land revenue on account of the fall in prices. If net assets at the time of settlement are determined in a fair manner, I do not think the zamindars will have any grievance. The chief grievance of the zamindars to my mind in these days is that the commutation prices are fixed at a very much higher rate than the prevailing prices. I know one settlement in Montgomery and I have heard of the settlement in Lyallpur. The prices fixed by the settlement officers are never likely to be reached within many years unless there is a war and the prices soar high. The result is that the net assets are assessed very high and the net assets are the basis on which land revenue is determined. Certainly it is a matter for some satisfaction that the Government realising the precipitous and drastic fall in prices has decided to give remissions in proportion to the difference in prevailing prices from the commutation prices. But that does not solve the real problem. That does not give the zamindar the same benefit that he will be entitled to or he would have got if the commutation prices were not fixed so high. If the commutation prices are fixed on the prevailing prices, then the net assets are very much reduced, but if the commutation prices are fixed very high you have to reduce or give remission of land revenue in proportion to the fall in prices. You do not take into consideration the cost of production which is the real crux of the problem. The cost of production remains almost stationary.

At the time of assessment if commutation prices are fixed, according to the prices prevailing at the time of settlement or within the last five years, the net assets are very much reduced. This is the real grievance of the zamindars and if the Government were to redress this, I am sure the cry about the application of the income tax principle will not be raised. I quite realise that the petty zamindar in these days requires great relief. But I think the Government can give the petty zamindar greater relief in the shape of providing greater facilities for education, for medical relief, and for communications, by which he might be able to cart his produce to the market at a much cheaper rate than he is doing at present. If the Government were to take these questions into serious consideration, I am confident that the cry of the principle of income-tax will not be raised because there are difficulties which the zamindars at present do not realise. Because they have not been assessed to income-tax they are not used to the methods of the income-tax officers, they are not used to the inconvenience and difficulties to which the assessee of income-tax are put. I have submitted these observations not in any spirit of opposition to the resolution but with a view to giving the right advice on such an important matter to the brother zamindars. (Cheers).

Professor W. Roberts (Non-official, nominated) : I wish to oppose this resolution not because I disagree with the political or moral grounds for it but because I think it is economically unsound. Those of us who are connected with agriculture know that there is an optimum area for a plough or a pair of bullocks, and there is an optimum area also which will allow a farmer to invest in improved implements. In irrigated tracts this area for a pair of bullocks varies between ten and twelve and a half acres. The average holding in the province is a figure a good deal less than my honourable friend Sardar Ujjal Singh mentioned just now. It is a very small figure, a figure which will probably surprise many honourable members of the House. If, therefore, you introduce a system of taxation which tends to make, say a square of land, or 25 acres, to be divided into five portions of five acres, you are compelling or tending to compel the people who have that land to keep a pair of bullocks, to purchase suitable implements for an area which is not sufficient for the purpose. Therefore, the produce of your agriculture will go down. The tendency therefore of this step will be, not to make infinitely small holdings, but to reduce the productivity of the land, and therefore to destroy the source of taxation. By this measure you contemplate something which will kill the goose which lays the golden egg. I suggest that you should devise some method which would tend to increase the productivity of the province. Surely we can devise plenty of methods of getting the money from the people later if we want it for general improvement and so on. (Cheers).

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Monday, 11th November, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber at 2 P. M. of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

EXECUTION OF DECREES.

*4887. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether his attention has been invited to a recent judgment of the High Court, reported at pages 629-30 of 37 Punjab Law Report 1935, in which it has been held that the entire holding of a judgment-debtor is liable to be given in mustajiri in satisfaction of a decree ;
- (b) whether in view of the fact that after the long vacation decree-holders are bound to apply for a farm of the entire holdings of judgment-debtors, the Government is prepared to suspend, until the Punjab Debtors' Protection Bill is passed and enforced, the execution of decrees in this manner ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) The Government are unaware of any provision of law which empowers them to act as suggested.

CONFESSION OF SHER ALI AGAINST MUGHLA IN THE MURDER CASE OF SUB-INSPECTOR MUNSHI ABDULLAH KHAN.

*4888. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that one Sher Ali made a long confessional statement in the murder case against the notorious Mughla of Rohtak district in respect of the murder of sub-inspector Munshi Abdullah Khan and the statement was duly recorded by a magistrate of the first class before the case was placed in a court of law ;
- (b) if the answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether this statement was kept by the recording magistrate himself, or was sent to the magistrate who was to commence commitment proceedings or was handed over to the police ;
- (c) if the statement was handed over to the police, whether it is still in the custody of the police or was placed on the judicial record at any time, and if it has not been placed on the judicial record, whether Government is prepared to direct it to be placed on the judicial record of the case now ; if not, why not ;
- (d) whether the confessional statement referred to in (a) has ever come to the notice of the District Magistrate or the Government ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No confessional statement was made by Sher Ali before a magistrate.

(b), (c) and (d) Do not arise.

RAINFALL IN ROHTAK DISTRICT.

*4889. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state the average rainfall during the last five years of the various reporting stations in the Rohtak district between the 1st June and the 15th September and the actual rainfall during the same period this year?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : A statement containing the required information is laid on the table.

REPRESENTATION IN THE ROLLS OF ZILLADAR CANDIDATES.

*4890. Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly lay on the table of the House all the instructions issued during the last four years by the Local Government or the Chief Engineers on the subject of communal and class proportions to be maintained by Superintending Engineers in submitting the rolls of zilladar candidates ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The attention of the honourable member is invited to the replies already given to his questions—

No. 1079<sup>1</sup> of 1932.

No. *3274<sup>2</sup> of 1934.

No. *3275<sup>2</sup> of 1934.

No. 1176<sup>3</sup> of 1935.

No. 1177<sup>3</sup> of 1935.

No. *4611<sup>4</sup> of 1935.

OFFICE OF THE DIVISIONAL INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS, AMBALA.

*4891. Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) what circumstances led the Government to transfer the office of the Divisional Inspector of Schools from Ambala city to Ambala cantonment ;
- (b) what amount the Government has to pay for—
  - (i) the rent of the present building used as Inspector's office at cantonment ;
  - (ii) the contingent charges for receiving salaries of the office establishment from the Ambala city treasury ;
  - (iii) other cantonment charges ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The building at Ambala city used by the Inspector of Schools, Ambala division, as his office, was inadequate to provide accommodation for both the office and the Inspector's residence and, moreover, it was required for use as the office of the Inspectress of Schools, Eastern Circle, Ambala, and for the hostel and teachers' quarters of the Government High School for Girls, Ambala.

- (b) (i) Rs. 70-1-0 per mensem.
  - (ii) Rs. 88-12-0
  - (iii) Rs. 75-12-0
- } for 1934-35.

METAL WORKS INSTITUTE AT AMBALA.

*4892. Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) what circumstances and considerations led the Government to open the Metal Works Institute at Ambala city instead of at Jagadhri ;
- (b) whether the Government ever considered the town of Jagadhri for the location of the institute ;
- (c) if not, whether Government is now prepared to do so ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) and (b) It was originally intended to open a Metal Works Institute at Jagadhri; but a committee of experts appointed to examine the question came to the conclusion that Jagadhri was not a suitable place for the establishment of such an Institute. The experts gave it as their opinion that the introduction of a highly developed mechanised industry on the lines of spinning, dye stamping or kindred operations, if introduced in a town of the size of Jagadhri, where the utensil making industry is chiefly in the hands of artisans, would result in debasing and eclipsing the existing thriving industry and finally in throwing out of employment the large number of people who are now employed in the industry. These considerations led Government to abandon Jagadhri as the station for the establishment of the Metal Works Institute and to open the same at Ambala.

(c) Does not arise.

BOARDING HOUSE OF GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, AMBALA.

*4893. Kanwar Mamraj Singh Chohan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the boarding house of Government High School for Girls at Ambala city is located in a Government building that was originally meant for the office of the Divisional Inspector of Schools, Ambala;
- (b) whether he is aware that the said building is in a very close proximity of the Khalsa High School Boarding House;
- (c) whether he is aware that the girls living in the abovementioned hostel have to pass a railway level crossing gate when going to and coming from their school and in so doing they not only run the risk of being run over by railway trains but have also very often to keep standing for considerable time at the railway crossing gate;
- (d) whether he is aware that the girls living in the aforesaid hostel have, while going to and coming from their school, to pass by the road that leads from the city to the district courts and that particularly in winter season when the times for opening and closing the girls' school and the courts almost coincide, the young girls and mistresses have to encounter on the road a large crowd of people coming to or going from the offices and courts;
- (e) whether it is a fact that in both summer and winter the timings for the opening and the closing of the girls' and boys' schools being almost coincident the young girls and teachers living in the said hostel have to walk along the same road for more than a quarter mile side by side with the grown up boarders of the Khalsa Boys' High School, while going to or coming from their schools;
- (f) whether it is proposed to remove the girls' school hostel to some more suitable site?

The Honourable Malik Sir Fircz Khan Noon: The honourable member is referred to my answer to question No. *4590.<sup>1</sup>

RETRENCHMENT OF CHAUKIDARS (BARKANDAZ) ON THE WESTERN JUMNA CANAL.

*4894. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that as many as 29 chaukidars (known as barkandaz) were retrenched in the Rohtak division of the Western Jamna canal during this year;
- (b) how many years' service each of the men had (i) in the Military Department, (ii) in the Canal Department, to his credit;
- (c) whether any compensation was paid to any of the men when they were retrenched?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No. The number of barkandazes served with notice in the Rohtak division was 5 only.

(b) The information desired is as follows:—

- (1) 8 and 11 years respectively.
- (2) 6 and 9 years.
- (3) Nil and 8 years.
- (4) 5 and 1 year.
- (5) 2½ and 2½ years.

(c) No. The men being temporary were not entitled to any compensation but they have all been offered re-employment in the work-charged establishment.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : In answer to part (a) the Honourable Member says "no." What does he mean by "no." Does he mean that these chaukidars were not dismissed?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : That their number was not 29.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : What was it then?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I have read out the answer.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Why could the number not be stated?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : My reply gives details of the whole question.

DEPUTY SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE, AMBALA.

*4895. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) whether he is aware that the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Ambala, went on ten days' leave on the 18th August, 1935, and returned to duty on the 29th August, 1935 at 3 p.m. thus oversteaying his leave;
- (b) whether he is aware that the overstay caused a lot of inconvenience to a number of persons who had cases with him and who had come from villages to see him?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The Deputy Superintendent proceeded on casual leave on the afternoon of the 18th August and returned at 2 P. M. on the 29th August. His return from leave was a few hours late.

(b) No inconvenience was caused to any member of the public as no persons had been summoned to see him in connection with any case.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Is it not a rule that if a public servant is absent after 12 noon for a few hours he is considered to be absent for the whole day ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I believe the answer is correct.

SMALL TOWN COMMITTEE, TOHANA.

*4896. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) when the Tohana Notified Area in the Hissar district was declared a Small Town Committee ;

(b) the annual income of the Small Town Committee since its inception ;

(c) the amount spent yearly by the committee on education and the manner in which it was so spent ?

SMALL TOWN COMMITTEE, TOHANA.

*4898. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Hindus of Tohana in the Hissar district ever since 1927 have been submitting representations for so constituting the wards, as to secure the return of Hindus in the Small Town Committee in proportion to their population, their voting strength and the taxes paid by them;
- (b) what steps, if any, Government proposes to take to ensure adequate representation of Hindus?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) and (b) Representations of the nature mentioned by the honourable member were made by certain Hindus in 1927 and 1929 and were inquired into. It was, however, found that the Hindus who are entitled to 3 seats have a majority of voters in 3 wards and hence there was no necessity for the reconstitution of the wards.

PROMOTION OF KANUNGOS TO NAIB-TAHSILDARSHIP.

*4899. Khan Sahib Chaudhri Riasat Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) the number of kanungos who have been promoted to naib-tahsildarship or higher offices during the years 1895 to 1915, according to the provisions of paragraph 300 of the Land Administration Manual;
- (b) the number of such kanungos out of these who originally started work as patwaris;
- (c) the number of kanungos promoted from 1919 to 1935;
- (d) whether the number of persons promoted in the period mentioned in (c) has decreased than the number mentioned in (a) above;
- (e) the number of sadr kanungos promoted to tahsildarship between the years (i) 1915 to 1925, and (ii) 1926 to 1935;
- (f) whether there is a decrease in the number mentioned in the latter period;
- (g) if so, the reasons for such decrease;
- (h) what the Government intends to do in the matter to redress the grievance of the sadr kanungos mentioned in (e) (ii)?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) 103.

(b) 84.

(c) 99.

(d) Yes.

(e) (i) 11.

(ii) 5.

(f) Yes.

(g) A sufficient number of experienced and efficient district kanungos was not forthcoming.

(h) In view of the orders already issued in paragraph 2 of Standing Order No. 12 no action is called for.

ADMISSION OF DEPRESSED CLASS STUDENTS TO THE CENTRAL TRAINING COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4900. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) how many students belonging to the depressed classes have been admitted to the B. T. and S. A.-V. classes of the Central Training College, Lahore, during each of the last ten years ;
- (b) what special facilities are granted to the students belonging to the depressed classes who desire admission to the Central Training College ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the depressed class students are charged tuition fees at half rates and whether the Government is in possession of information and facts to realize that even this is a heavy burden for this extremely poor class to bear ;
- (d) what Government intends to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a)—

|                       |    |    |    |       |
|-----------------------|----|----|----|-------|
| 1926-27 to 1929-30 .. | .. | .. | .. | None. |

| 1935-36 ..            | .. | .. | .. | Two.  |

(b) From 1934-35 two students are granted a stipend of Rs. 20 each per mensem. The non-stipendiary students get half fee concessions in tuition fee.

(c) Yes, but it is not true that in all cases the depressed class boys cannot bear even the half fee. There are plenty of other people who are as poor as the depressed classes and not within the pale of depressed classes.

(d) Does not arise in view of (b) above.

PRESIDENTS OF MUNICIPAL COMMITTEES.

*4901. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state which of the municipal committees in the province have a Muslim, Hindu or Sikh majority of members and which of them have a Muslim, Hindu, Sikh or official president ?

ASSESSMENT OF PROFESSIONAL TAX BY THE DISTRICT BOARD, FEROZEPORE.

*4906. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that there is a municipal committee in Zira, district Ferozepore ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the professional tax assessed by the district board authorities of the Ferozepore district is being charged from a considerable number of non-agriculturists residing within the Zira municipal limits and doing money-lending business there ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the assessees filed objections against such assessments to the authorities, who rejected the petitions arbitrarily without summoning the petitioners ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that this practice of assessment has continued for the last three or four years ;
- (e) if so, what action the Government proposes to take in this connection ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : The answer to the question is not yet ready.

RECRUITMENT OF POLICE CONSTABLES.

*4907. Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of police constables in the Punjab Police, including those employed on railway duty ;
- (b) the number of police constables belonging to each community, namely, Muhammadans, Hindus and Sikhs ;
- (c) what steps the Government proposes to take to make up the deficiency of the Hindus in the constabulary of the province ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) and (b) These figures will be found in the consolidated statement showing the proportionate representation of the various communities serving in the several departments of the Punjab Government.

(c) Reference is invited to the reply given to another recent question No. *4662.<sup>1</sup>

RECRUITMENT OF DEPRESSED CLASSES TO THE POLICE FORCE.

*4908. Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) the number of persons belonging to scheduled (depressed) classes in the police department ;
- (b) the reasons for not recruiting members of depressed classes to the police force inspite of the provisions of section 96 of the Government of India Act, 1919 ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Five.

(b) Does not arise.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND REMISSION OF FEES TO STUDENTS OF DEPRESSED CLASSES.

*4909. Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) what special concessions, if any, in the award of scholarships or remission of fees are given to the students of the scheduled (depressed) castes ;
- (b) in view of the backwardness of these classes in education and the desirability of spreading of education amongst them, what steps, if any, the Government proposes to increase these facilities ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the proceedings of the Punjab Government (Ministry of Education) in the Education Department No. 20181-G., dated the 19th November, 1929, with which stipends and fee concessions were sanctioned for the children of the depressed classes for the education in schools and colleges. Besides this two stipends of Rs. 20 per mensem each, tenable at the Central Training College, Lahore, were sanctioned in 1934-35.

(b) Does not arise.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO STUDENTS OF DEPRESSED CLASSES IN CENTRAL TRAINING COLLEGE.

*4910. Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that no student of the depressed classes has been given a scholarship in the Central Training College ;
- (b) whether he proposes to award special scholarships to depressed class students who may occasionally gain admission into the Central Training College, in view of the urgent necessity of providing teachers from these classes ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) No. Two stipends for the members of the depressed classes are available at the Central Training College each year though only one was claimed and awarded in 1934-35.

(b) Does not arise.

*4911. Cancelled.

RETRENCHMENT OF HINDUS IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, PANIPAT.

*4912. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on the 24th January, 1935, certain senior Hindu employees of the Panipat Municipal Committee were retrenched; if so, how many, and their names, with reasons for their being retrenched;
- (b) how many officers junior to those retrenched are still in the service of the committee?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Three Hindu employees, not being in inferior service, were retrenched. Their names are Shiv Lal, Hukam Chand and Data Ram. Shiv Lal has, however, since been reinstated. These reductions are reported to have been made for reasons of economy.

(b) No man, junior to Data Ram, has been retained in service. There are three men, junior to Hukam Chand, who are still in the service of the committee. It is reported that the post of assistant accountant, held by Hukam Chand, was abolished and that instructions have been issued to re-employ him when the next vacancy occurs.

APPOINTMENT OF HEADMASTER IN MUNICIPAL BOARD SCHOOL, PANIPAT.

*4913. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

- (a) who was second master in the Municipal Board High School Panipat, when the previous headmaster Mr. Zafar Ali retired;
- (b) who was appointed as headmaster in the place of the retiring headmaster mentioned in (a) and what was his position in the school at the time of his appointment;
- (c) the academic and educational qualifications of the aforesaid second master and the gentleman appointed as headmaster and the length of service in the school of both of them;
- (d) if the second master was superior and senior to the gentleman appointed as headmaster, why he has thus been superseded by a junior;
- (e) the number of Hindu and Muhammadan teachers in the Municipal Board High School, Panipat?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) The school maintained by the Municipal Committee of Panipat is not a high school, but a middle school. Pandit Vishweshwar Sharma was the second master in this school when M. Zafar Ali retired from the post of headmaster.

(b) M. Nazir Hussain, third master of the school, was appointed as headmaster, when M. Zafar Ali retired.

(c) M. Nazir Hussain is a B.A., B.T., and has 20 years of service with the municipality, while Pandit Vishweshwar Sharma is M.A., S.A.-V., L.T., and has put in only 8 years' service with the municipality.

(d) The second master was no doubt in a senior post, but his work had been reported to be unsatisfactory for two successive years. He was, therefore, not appointed as headmaster.

(e) 3 Hindus and 9 Muhammadans.

MAL-ADMINISTRATION IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, PANIPAT.

*4914. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government please state—

(a) whether it is a fact that more than 2,000 Hindus of Panipat submitted a memorial to the Deputy Commissioner, Karnal, and the Government making various allegations against the mal-administration of the Municipal Committee, Panipat ;

(b) if so, what these allegations are and whether the Government is prepared to enquire into their veracity ;

(c) if so, when, if not, why not ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes. The original petition which was addressed to Deputy Commissioner is said to have been signed by about a thousand Hindus.

(b) and (c) A statement showing the allegations is laid on the table. An enquiry was started in February last and is still going on.

Statement showing the allegations of the Hindus of Panipat and the report of the local officers thereon.

| 1.                | Hindus are being eliminated from the municipal services for the last 10 years.  |
| 2.                | Hindus appear to complain that they are not adequately represented on the committee.  |
| 3.                | Hindus contribute 4/5ths of the committee's revenues but 9/10ths is spent on Muslims.   |
| 4.                | Terminal tax schedule has been prepared in such a way that the burden of tax falls upon the Hindus.   |
| 5.                | Encroachments on the municipal property by the Muslims are being overlooked.  |
| 6.                | A Muslim teacher (3rd master) was promoted to headmastership on supersession to a Hindu second master.  |
| 7.                | Roads are in a deplorable condition. Provision is made in the budget but they are not repaired.   |
| 8.                | Building regulations are not observed.  |
| 9.                | The municipal administration is top heavy (60 per cent. of the income is spent on salaries) and muharrirs are corrupt.                   |
| 10.               | Kh. Amir Ahmad, the Secretary, was first dismissed for misconduct and again re-employed. He got more pay than that sanctioned by the committee. |
| 11.               | Two serious cases of embezzlement of terminal tax were ignored because Muslims were involved.   |
| 12.               | The committee is reluctant to levy house tax because Muslims will have to pay larger tax than the Hindus.                                       |

BRIDGE OVER RAILWAY PREMISES, SIALKOT.

*4915. Maulvi Mazhar Ali Azhar : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the North-Western Railway authorities have constructed a wall about 9 feet high along the Sialkot station, extending over a distance of about one mile ;

[M. Mazhar Ali Azhar.]

- (b) whether it is a fact that there exists an old road near the railway station premises which has been blocked by the railway and no level crossing or bridge is constructed to allow people to cross the railway line ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that people on both sides of the railway line have to travel long distances before they can reach their destinations on the other side ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that on the northern side of the railway line population is rapidly extending and the Sialkot Municipality has recently approved of a town-planning scheme in which three roads have been planned ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that both the Municipality and the District authorities are agreed on the necessity of the construction of the over-bridge ;
- (f) whether any representations have been received by the Government for the construction of the bridge ;
- (g) whether any action has been taken by the Government, if so, what ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) The honourable member's attention is invited to the answer given to Mr. Muhammad Din Malak in reply to his question No. *4824<sup>1</sup>.

(b) No road has been blocked by the North-Western Railway. Trespass on the railway land has of course been prevented. Level crossings exist on either end of the railway yard.

(c) The detour is about half a mile.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) Yes, only from the Anjuman-i-Kashthkaran, and from the inhabitants of the villages in the suburb of Sialkot City.

(g) Government has taken no action in the matter as the subject is yet under correspondence between the Municipal Committee, Sialkot, and the railway authorities.

POSSESSION OF KIRPANS.

*4916. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Sikhs held a largely attended dewan at Amritsar for the expression of their resentment against the order of the Punjab Government to arrest Sikhs who were in possession of more than one kirpan ; if so, the date of the dewan in question ;
- (b) whether Government was informed that at the time of the above-mentioned dewan a large crowd of Sikhs armed with kirpans paraded the bazars, brandishing their kirpans, manifesting open, provocative, and challenging defiance against Government rules regarding possession of kirpan ;

(c) if so, whether—

- (i) these persons were declared as members of an unlawful assembly ;
  - (ii) against this attitude of the Sikhs, Government received any resenting representation from the Muslims ;
  - (iii) the Government took any steps to arrest the persons guilty of this illegal conduct ; if not, why not ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that unarmed jathas of five or more Muslims trying to proceed to Shahid Ganj mosque were prevented from doing so, even at the point of bayonet during the Shahid Ganj disturbances ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes, on the 23rd of August.

(b) Government received information of a procession of Sikhs, many of them carrying more than one kirpan, having taken place in Amritsar on the 25th of August.

(c) (i), (ii) and (iii) No.

The findings of the courts on the question, whether the carrying of more than one kispan by a Sikh was an offence against the Indian Arms Act, were conflicting.

(d) It is presumed that the honourable member refers to the attempts which were made on the 22nd July and subsequent days by groups of Muslims to enter the Landa Bazar in defiance of an order under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, passed by the District Magistrate, Lahore. These attempts were prevented by the use of the minimum amount of force judged to be necessary. It was not found necessary to use bayonets as suggested by the honourable member.

POSSESSION OF KIRPANS.

*4917. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Punjab Government on receipt of a representation made to it by the Sikhs allowed them the free possession of kirpans ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that a number of lives of non-Sikhs were lost for having no means of security against attacks by kirpans ;
- (c) whether the Muslims made any representation on religious grounds for restoration to them of the Shahid Ganj mosque and that in case it was not possible to do so at least for its retention as such ;
- (d) if so, whether it was not represented to the Government that the retention of a mosque as a mosque was regarded by Muslim as sacred as the possession of a kirpan by the Sikhs ;
- (e) whether the Government consulted any religious head of any Muslim sect in the matter of Shahid Ganj mosque ; if so, whom ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) The rule relating to the possession and carriage of kirpans by Sikhs is contained at item (cc) of entry 3 of the second schedule to the Indian Arms Rules, 1924. This entry was first introduced into the rules in 1914. A copy of a press communiqué issued by the Punjab Government at the time is laid on the table.

(b) It is a fact that since 1914 numerous murders have been committed in which the weapon used was a kirpan.

(c), (d) and (e) As civil suits for the restoration of the Shahid Ganj mosque are at present subjudice in the courts, I consider that it would not be in the public interest to answer these questions.

Press Communiqué.

Some time ago it was brought to the notice of the Punjab Government that the wearing of the kirpan, or dagger worn as a religious emblem by the Sikhs, is technically an offence under the Indian Arms Act. In response to representations on the subject the Government of India were addressed and asked to sanction an exemption in favour of kirpans, possessed or carried by Sikhs. The proposal of the Punjab Government has been accepted and under notification No. 950, dated the 25th June, 1914, in the Home Department, kirpans possessed or carried by Sikhs are exempted from the operation of the provisions of the Act.

W. BURR-BRYAN,

Registrar, Punjab Civil Secretariat.

PRESERVATION OF SHAHID GANJ MOSQUE UNDER THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS PRESERVATION ACT.

*4918. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state if to avoid the situation assuming the dimensions it did, the question of preserving the Shahid Ganj mosque under the provisions of the Ancient Monuments Preservation Act was taken into consideration?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Yes. This expedient was considered and rejected as impracticable in the circumstances.

POLICE GUARD FOR MUHAMMAD HANIF.

*4919. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a police constable always remains with Muhammad Hanif, the accused in the case Crown versus Muhammad Hanif, pending in the court of the Additional District Magistrate, Gurdaspur ;

(b) if the answer to above be in the affirmative, whether there is any precedent of such actions having been taken in the case of any other accused ;

(c) if not, the reasons for this exceptional treatment in the case mentioned in (a) above ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Does not arise.

MISAPPROPRIATION IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, BHIWANI.

*4920. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : (a) Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to place on the Council table the last audit note on the administration of the Bhiwani Municipal Committee, and state whether the attention of Government has been drawn to it ;

(b) if so, what action Government proposes to take on the cases of misappropriations referred to therein ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes, but it is not in the public interest to lay the note on the table.

(b) Action on such notes is taken by the committees concerned under the supervision of local officers and is reported to Government in due course.

EXECUTIVE OFFICER, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, BHIWANI.

*4921. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government, be pleased to state—

(a) whether any complaints from the public and reports from the controlling authorities regarding the incompetency of the present Executive Officer, Bhiwani, have been received by the Government ;

(b) if so, how they were disposed of ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the present Executive Officer was posted on probation for one year ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes.

(b) Inquiry was made but as the allegations against the Executive Officer were not substantiated the matter was dropped.

(c) Yes.

MAL-ADMINISTRATION IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, BHIWANI.

*4922. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to place on the table a statement showing the following details regarding complaints received against the administration of the Municipal Committee, Bhiwani, by the Deputy Commissioner—

(a) the number of cases regarding such complaints handed over by the Deputy Commissioner to subordinate officers for enquiry and report during 1935 and 1934 ;

(b) the dates of each case handed over for enquiry to such officers ;

(c) the date on which the said officers submitted their final report ;

(d) the total number of complaints still pending for enquiry ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Two in 1934 and three in 1935.

(b) and (c) A statement giving the required information is laid on the table.

(d) None is pending for enquiry. Four are pending with the Deputy Commissioner for orders.

[Hon. Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang.]

Statement.

| Year.        | No. | Date on which the complaint was handed over to the subordinate officer for enquiry and report. | Date on which the report was received. |
|--------------|-----|--|--|
| 1934 .. .. . | 1   | 15-9-34  | 6-10-34                                |

|              | 3   | 13-7-35  | 21-7-35                                |

OCTROI DUTY IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, BHIWANI.

*4923. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- whether it is a fact that the Bhiwani Municipal Committee has increased the octroi duty on commodities by 50 per cent. all round ;
- if so, whether the raising of the octroi duty has resulted in the decline in trade ;
- what Government propose to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) No. In the case of some commodities only octroi has been increased by 50 per cent., but even in their case the revised rates are not in excess of the rates prevailing in the neighbouring municipalities.

(b) The revised rates of octroi came into force from the 15th January, 1935, and hence it is yet too early to determine their effect on trade.

(c) Nothing for the present.

*4924. Cancelled.

STUDENTS OF DEPRESSED CLASSES IN THE CENTRAL TRAINING COLLEGE, LAHORE.

*4925. Lala Nihal Chand Aggarwal : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- the number of students belonging to the depressed classes who have joined the Central Training College, Lahore, in the B.T. and S.A.-V. classes this year and whether any scholarships have been given to them ;
- whether it is a fact that whenever such students have joined the Training College they have been charged Rs. 10 per mensem in the B.T. class and Rs. 7-8-0 in S. A.-V. class as tuition fee ;
- in view of the fact that these extremely poor students are unable to bear this heavy burden and also of the fact that the students of other communities have for many years in the past in the same college been enjoying the privilege of getting scholarships and free education, whether the Government propose to award them special scholarships and concessions in case there are any of such students in the Central Training College, Lahore ;

- (d) what Government proposes to do with regard to the future entrants to the Central Training College, Lahore, from among the depressed classes ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a)

|          |    |    |    |    |    |   |
|----------|----|----|----|----|----|---|
| B. T.    | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 |
| S. A. V. | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1 |

A stipend of Rs. 20 per mensem has been granted to each of these students.

- (b) Yes. It is, however, added for the honourable member's information that these are the half rates of tuition fee levied in B. T. and S. A. V. classes.

(c) Government have provided two scholarships of Rs. 20 per mensem and granted half fee concession to all depressed class students excluding the scholarship holders.

(d) Government is already doing all that is possible in the matter of admission of the depressed classes to training institutions but it is not possible to foresee future circumstances.

POSSESSION OF KIRPANS.

*4926. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- if it is a fact that the Sikhs have been allowed free possession of kirpans merely as a religious symbol and not to use it as a weapon of offence ;
- if answer to (a) be in the affirmative, whether the Government has provided any punishment in case it is used for any other than the abovementioned religious purpose ; if not, why not ; if so, the rules providing such punishment ;
- if the answer to (a) be in the negative or in any way qualified, whether it is not a fact that there is a general grievance that the Government has allowed one section of its subjects to be armed with kirpan or sword while the other sections of its subjects are not so armed ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) and (b) The orders on the subject are contained at entry 3 (vi) in Schedule II of the Indian Arms Rules, 1924, and must speak for themselves. The use of the kirpan for the commission of an offence would of course be a punishable act.

(c) The honourable member will doubtless have seen the communiqués lately issued by the Punjab Government to the press on this subject. All classes and communities in the Punjab are now permitted to possess and carry swords without licence.

POLICE GUARD FOR MAULANA ZAFAR ALI.

*4927. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that some time ago a letter was published in the Zamindar, dated 30th November, 1934, and 8th December, 1934, alleged to have been written by some Ahmadia threatening to murder Maulana Zafar Ali;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the Government on being informed of this letter appointed a police guard in front of the Maulana's house to guard him against any attack on him;
- (c) whether the Government tried to find out the person alleged to be the writer of the said letter; if so, with what result;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the Government was informed in July last that the Ahrars were bent upon committing some mischief by attacking the members of the family of the founder of the Ahmadia community; if so, whether the Government took any action to prevent such attacks being made?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) In consequence of the threatened attack on Maulana Zafar Ali Khan at a specified time and date and at the specific request of his son two police constables were detailed to watch the visit of suspicious persons to him. These constables were withdrawn from this duty immediately the stated time had passed without any happening.

(c) Enquiries made into the matter failed to elucidate the identity of the sender of the threatening letters in question.

(d) Towards the end of June, the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Qadian, was informed by Khan Sahib Farzand Ali that an intention to attack the Head of the Ahmadia Community and his brother was suspected. The Deputy Superintendent of Police discussed the matter with Khan Sahib Farzand Ali and asked, what, if any, special police protection he could suggest. The reply was that no special protection was required. The Deputy Superintendent of Police, however, warned the local police to be vigilant.

EXEMPTION OF SWORD FROM THE OPERATION OF THE INDIAN ARMS ACT.

*4928. Shaikh Abdul Ghani : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Government have recently exempted swords from the operation of the Indian Arms Act in the Punjab;
- (b) whether it was done to place all communities on the same level so far as the use of kirpans and swords was concerned;
- (c) whether the Government is aware that there is no restriction on the sale or manufacture of kirpans in the province;
- (d) whether the Government proposes to so amend section (5) of the Act as to exempt swords from its operation and place swords and kirpans in the same category;
- (e) if not, the reasons for creating this anomalous position?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) The effect is that all classes and communities in the Punjab are now permitted to possess and carry swords without licence.

(c) No. This is not correct.

(d) and (e) Do not arise.

YEAR OF BIRTH OF BHAI DALIP SINGH, EXTRA ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURE (FRUITS).

*4929. Shaikh Abdul Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

(a) whether Government is aware that Bhai Dalip Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture (Fruits) is the younger brother of Bhai Harnam Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Jullundur ;

(b) whether it is a fact that Bhai Dalip Singh's year of birth is 1884, while that of his elder brother Bhai Harnam Singh's is 1886 (see History of Gazetted Officers) ;

(c) if the reply to the above is in the affirmative, what action Government proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Government has no information.

(b) According to the History of Services of Gazetted Officers the dates of birth of these two officers are 1884 and 1886, respectively.

(c) Does not arise.

APPOINTMENTS IN THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

*4930. Shaikh Abdul Ghani : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the following new appointments have recently been made in the Agricultural Department :—

1. Khan Sahib Agha Yusuf Ali, Deputy Director of Agriculture, Montgomery ;
2. Sardar Charan Singh, Deputy Director of Agriculture, Multan ;
3. Malak Amanat Khan, Professor of Agriculture ;
4. Bhai Chanda Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Lyallpur ;
5. Bhai Gurdial Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Multan ;
6. Bhai Harnam Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Jullundur ;
7. Bhai Gaginder Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Ferozepore ;
8. Bhai Dalip Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Fruits, Lyallpur ;
9. Bhai Jalmeja Singh, Extra Assistant Director of Agriculture, Fruits, Lyallpur ;

[Sh. Abdul Ghani.]

10. Sardar Kartar Singh, Senior Marketing Officer ;
11. Bhai Pritam Singh, Assistant Marketing Officer ;
12. Lala Harjas Rai, Assistant Marketing Officer ;
13. Mr. Zafar Alam, Assistant Marketing Officer ;

(b) if so, whether the right communal proportion was kept in view in making these new appointments in the Agricultural Department ;

(c) whether all these appointments were made (i) on the recommendation of the Director of Agriculture, Punjab, and (ii) with the approval of the Public Service Commission or with that of His Excellency the Governor in Council ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) Yes.

(b) The appointments 1 to 7 were merely promotions within the service and no question of communal proportion could arise.

Appointments 8 and 9 were made by transfer from the Forest Department. The Agricultural Department were not responsible for the selection of these two officials. The official selected for the post of Senior Marketing Officer was considered to be the most suitable that could be found. The three Assistant Marketing Officers were selected one from each community.

(c) The appointments in all cases except 8 and 9 were made on the recommendation of the Director of Agriculture. The approval of the Public Service Commission was only required in the case of appointment No. 1, and it was obtained. The other appointments were all temporary or officiating. His Excellency the Governor was consulted regarding appointments 1, 2, 8, 9 and 10 and he approved of them.

ELECTRIC SUPPLY TO JHANG-MAGHIANA.

*4931. Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that several companies applied for licence to electrify Jhang-cum-Maghiana over a year ago ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the grant of the licence is being anxiously awaited by residents of Jhang-Maghiana ;
- (c) if answers to (a) and (b) above be in the affirmative, the reasons for the delay ;
- (d) by what date the licence is expected to be granted ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Probably.

(c) Difficulties connected with the setting up of aerial lines over taria processional routes.

(d) There is no obstacle beyond that indicated under (c). No date can be stated at present.

ELECTRIC SUPPLY INDUSTRY IN THE PUNJAB.

*4932. Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that one particular community has already monopolised the electric supply industry of the province ;
- (b) if so, whether the Government propose to see that in granting licences in future one particular community is not allowed to monopolise the industry ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Is there any Muslim in the Electric supply industry of the province ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : None as far as I am aware of.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : May I know the reason for the same ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Because no applications were so far received. We have now received some applications which will be considered.

ELECTRIC SUPPLY TO KHANEWAL.

*4933. Mr. Muhammad Din Malak : Will the Honourable Revenue Member please state—

- (a) the names of companies which have applied for licence to electrify Khanewal ;
- (b) whether the Multan Electric Supply Company, Limited, has also applied for licence to electrify Khanewal ;
- (c) whether the Multan Electric Supply Company, Limited, has been in trouble with the consumers in Multan ; if so, on what account ;
- (d) whether the officers and directors of the Multan Electric Supply Company, Limited, belong to only one particular community ;
- (e) whether the local prospective consumers of Khanewal have any share in the capital or the management of the Multan Electric Supply Company, Limited ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The Multan Electric Supply Company, Limited, Messrs. P. Ahuja and Company, Lahore, and The Northern India Electric Supply Company, Limited, Lahore.

(b) Yes.

(c) It is understood that certain consumers in the Cantonment area had their premises disconnected as a protest against the rates charged by the Company which were alleged to be high. It has recently been reported by the Company that these consumers have had their premises reconnected.

(d) Yes.

(e) Certain persons from Khanewal have bought some shares of the Multan Electric Supply Company, Limited. Government has no information to what place or places the officers employed in the management of the Company belong.

QUARREL BETWEEN SIKHS AND MUSLIMS ON THE QUESTION OF AZAN.

*4934. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state whether the Government has received a report that on the 17th September, 1935, at Manzakaler in the Amritsar district there was a quarrel between Sikhs and Muslims on the question of Azan (call to prayer) being said in the mosque and that four Muslims were killed and six wounded?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Government have received a report of an affray between Sikhs and Muslims on the 17th of September at village Kaler Bala Pain in Amritsar district, which is presumably the incident to which the honourable member refers. A party of about 20 Jat Sikhs attacked a small group of Muslims. Seven Muslims received injuries. There were no deaths, and it appears that the affray arose from a case of cattle trespass and had nothing to do with the question of Azan.

CLASHES OVER Azan.

*4935. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) how many incidents of clashes between Muslims and Sikhs over the question of calling Azan in a mosque have happened every year during the last 15 years, stating the names of the villages, the number of the killed and the wounded of Muslims and Sikhs separately in each case, in the districts of Lahore, Amritsar, Ferozepore, Ludhiana, Sheikhpura;
- (b) whether any measures have been adopted by the Government to prevent such incidents as are referred to in part (a) above; if so, when they were adopted, their nature and the result of their adoption?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

GURDWARA ELECTIONS.

*4936. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state the amount spent on Gurdwara elections since 1926-27, stating the cost at each election?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The expenditure incurred on Gurdwara elections since 1926-27 is as follows:—

| Year.                                  | Expenditure.Rs. |
|--|---------------------|
| 1st November, 1925—31st March, 1927 .. | .. 1,88,593         |
| 1929—1930 .. .. .                      | .. 1,34,586         |
| 1932—1933 .. .. .                      | .. 43,824           |

TERRORIST MOVEMENT IN THE PUNJAB.

*4937. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state to what extent the terrorist movement which started in the first decade of this century was indigenous in the Punjab and will Government be pleased to give the names of the terrorists belonging to the Punjab who were tried and convicted of terrorist offences including conspiracy in promoting terrorist offences since 1910?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The answer to this question would involve writing a history of the terrorist movement for the last 25 years and Government regrets that it is not prepared to undertake this work. The honourable member will find much information which will be relevant to his question in the Administration Reports and the Police Reports published since 1910.

SIKH REPRESENTATION IN SERVICES.

*4938. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the representation of the Sikh community in the Provincial Forest Service, the Indian Civil Service, the Public Works Department, and the Agriculture Service on 1st January, 1935, has been much more than it was on 1st January, 1910 and is much more than that of the Muslim community on population basis;
- (b) if so, what steps the Government have so far taken for making up the deficiency of Muslims in these departments?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Presumably the honourable member is referring only to gazetted officers. In the four services which he mentions in his question—Indian Civil Service, Public Works Department, the Agricultural Service and the Provincial Forest Service—the proportion of Muslims to Sikhs on—

|   |    |    |    |              |
|---|----|----|----|--------------|
| 1st January 1910 was  | .. | .. | .. | 1 : 1 and on |
| 1st January 1935 it was   | .. | .. | .. | 1½ : 1       |
| The proportion of Muslims to Sikhs in the population of the province is roughly | .. | .. | .. | 4½ : 1       |

(b) In these four services there were on 1st January, 1910, 20 Sikh officers and 19 Muslim. On 1st January 1935 there were 60 Sikh officers and 106 Muslim. The honourable member will, therefore, see that Muslims have appreciably improved their position. Under the instructions which govern recruitment to services the Muslim community may be expected to continue to make up the lost ground.

CONSTRUCTION OF A MOSQUE AT QADIAN BY AHRARS.

*4939. Pir Akbar Ali : With reference to his answer to my question No. *4243,<sup>1</sup> will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) the names of the parties mentioned in line 3 of clause (c);
- (b) whether the Town Committee did anything illegal or against rules in view of which the two officers mentioned in the said clause (c) had to take action by advising the Town Committee to proceed according to law;

<sup>1</sup> Volume XXVI, pages 463-64.

[Pir Akbar Ali.]

- (c) the action of the Town Committee which made it necessary for the magistrate to ask the Town Committee to convene a special meeting of the committee;
- (d) whether he is aware of any such procedure as is mentioned in part (c) having been taken by any magistrate or Superintendent of Police in any other local body in the province;
- (e) whether he will lay on the table a copy of the letters by which any instruction, advice or request as mentioned in the answer to question No. 4243 was conveyed to the Town Committee?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) The names are not available but the parties were certain Ahrars who had begun digging the foundations of the mosque, and their supporters on the one side, and the Ahmadi party, some of whom had come to the spot armed with lathis, on the other.

(b) It was not the Town Committee but the Ahmadis and Ahrar party who were asked to proceed according to law.

(c) To avoid a serious clash between the Ahmadis and Ahrar party it was necessary that the Town Committee should decide the building application of Umar Din as soon as possible.

(d) Government have no information on the point, nor are they aware that exactly similar circumstances have ever arisen elsewhere.

(e) There is no record in the Deputy Commissioner's office to show that the Town Committee was asked in writing to convene a special meeting for considering the building application.

ACTION TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT ON RESOLUTION OF THE ANJUMAN-I-ISLAMIA, PUNJAB.

*4940. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether he has received a copy of the resolutions passed by the executive committee of the Anjuman-i-Islamia, Punjab, Lahore, at its meeting held on the 29th August, 1935;
- (b) if so, what action, if any, has been taken with regard to the resolutions contained in the said copy?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) The contents of the resolutions have been noted.

---

SUB-ASSISTANT SURGEON, CIVIL HOSPITAL, MUKTSAR.

*4941. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that for the last 27 years the post of Sub-Assistant Surgeon, in charge of the Civil Hospital, at Muktsar, has always, except for a few months only, been occupied by non-Muslim incumbents;
- (b) if so, the reasons for not appointing a Muslim Sub-Assistant Surgeon at Muktsar throughout this long period?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) The representation of Muslims in the Sub-Assistant Surgeons' service being low they cannot possibly be posted to all the dispensaries in rotation. Endeavours are, however, made to post members of various communities to dispensaries in rotation with due regard to the exigencies of the service and efficiency and attainments of individuals.

SPEECH BY M. IHSAN AHMAD, AN AHRAR, IN CHAUK AKBAR SHAH, FEROSHPORE.

*4942. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state after making an enquiry :—

- (a) whether it is a fact that on 21st September at about 9 P.M. a meeting was held by the Ahrars in Chauk Akbar Shah, Ferozepore City ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that an Ahrar Maulvi named Ihsan Ahmad therein delivered a lecture ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that during the course of his speech he said :—
" Sikhon ne masjid girai nahin, girwa di gai hai ".
" Gar-ehi tir az kaman hami guzrad Az kamandar binad ahle-khirad."
" Sikh to apne raj men bhi masjid na gira sake, jise pahre aur sanginon ke saya men giraya gaya."
- (d) if the reply is in the affirmative, what action Government has taken in public interests ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

IDENTIFICATION OF PERSONS RESPONSIBLE FOR PAYMENT OF ABIANA.

*4943. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in the khatoni prepared by the canal patwaris showing the amount of abiana recoverable from a person, the parentage, caste, etc., of the occupier of the land responsible for payment of abiana is not given ;
- (b) if so, whether it is proposed to introduce these entries for facilitating identification ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) On canals where both the land-revenue and water-rates are assessed by the Irrigation Branch the answer is in the affirmative. But in the case of canals where the water-rate only is assessed by the Irrigation Branch the caste is not mentioned.

(b) Yes. It is proposed to bring the forms into line with one another by including the caste in both.

WATER RATES, OWNER'S RATES AND LAND REVENUE.

*4944. Pir Akbar Ali: Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in such areas of Ferozepore, Muktsar and Fazilka tahsils of the Ferozepore district as are irrigated by the Eastern Canals a rate called "owner's rate" or "khush hasiati" is imposed on the land-owners, in addition to occupier's rate and land revenue;

(b) if so, whether he will lay on the table a statement on the following lines re Ferozepore, Muktsar and Fazilka tahsils of Ferozepore district :—

| Name of Canal.   | Water rates per acre. | Owner's rates per acre. | Land revenue per acre. |
|------------------|-----------------------|-------------------------|------------------------|
| Eastern Canal .. |                       |                         |                        |
| Sirhind Canal .. |                       |                         |                        |
| Difference ..    |                       |                         |                        |

(c) whether it is a fact that income from lands irrigated by the Eastern Canals in the above tahsils has fallen as compared with the income derived from them at the time of the Grey Canals;

(d) the approximate date of the year when water begins to flow in the Eastern Canal, with the approximate date when it closes;

(e) whether it is a fact that the present rates of abiana on the Eastern Canal are much higher than those which used to be at the time of Grey Canals?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

ABIANA ON GOWARA.

*4945. Pir Akbar Ali: Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

(a) whether he is aware that in the ilaqas where cotton is grown, the gowara crop is cultivated primarily to improve the land for sowing cotton and not merely for fodder;

(b) if so, whether he now proposes to lower the abiana on the gowara crop to the level where it used to be before the recent increase due to its being treated as a fodder crop?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan: (a) No. Gowara itself is a kharij crop but a field containing this crop is not assessed to water rates if it is ploughed in before 15th September for purposes of green manuring.

(b) Does not arise.

DAMAGE OF Gowara, MAIZE AND Chari CROPS BY Chitri AND RED-WORM.

*4946. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state whether it is a fact that the gowara, maize and chari crops have been greatly damaged this year in Ferozepore district, the former, viz., gowara by a disease called chitri and the latter (maize and chari) by another disease called red-worm ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Some damage to gowara has been done by tela in the district and to chari by red-worm in Fazilka and Muktsar tahsils. No damage is reported to the maize crop.

COURT DRESS OF SUB-COURT INSPECTORS AND COURT INSPECTORS.

*4947. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the sub-court inspectors and court inspectors appear in courts in uniform ;
- (b) if the answer to above be in the affirmative, whether he is aware that their appearing in the uniform has the effect of influencing witnesses to the prejudice of the accused ;
- (c) whether he proposes to consider the advisability of their appearing in the dresses worn by the advocates and pleaders, i.e., simple clothes with black coats ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) No. Uniform is the correct dress for police officers.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

GRANTS-IN-AID TO ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

1255. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that in the Punjab Educational Code of the latest edition of 1934 according to articles 86 to 95 grants to elementary schools are permissible ;
- (b) whether a letter No. 4491-A., dated the 28th February, 1935, from the Director of Public Instruction was issued which directs that in future all elementary schools be treated as primary schools for purposes of grant-in-aid ;
- (c) if so, whether he will lay a copy of it on the table ;
- (d) the reasons for not giving grants-in-aid to elementary schools in future ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) and (d) Do not arise.

INSTITUTION OF SUITS IN THE SMALL TOWN COMMITTEE, TOHANA.

1256. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self Government be pleased to give in the form of a statement—

- (a) the number of cases instituted by or against the Small Town Committee, Tohana, in the Hissar district, yearly from 1927 to 1934 ;
- (b) the names of plaintiff or plaintiffs in each case ;
- (c) the final results in each case ;
- (d) the expenses incurred by the committee in each case ;
- (e) who is responsible for compelling the public to this litigation ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Three cases were instituted in 1927 and one in 1934 but none in the other years.

(b) to (d) A statement is laid on the table.

(e) The suits arose from the Committee's attempt to remove encroachments on public streets.

(b)—

1. Samman Lal.
2. Mohan Lal Belmukand and Punna Lal.
3. Roshan, Nathu, Farid, Jiwan, Ghulam Jilani., Imam Ali, Jani, Bagar and Tetu.
4. Mangat Ram.

EXECUTION OF DECREES UNDER THE RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT.

1257. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) the amount of realisation made through courts in execution of decrees during the first three months, after the coming into force of the Relief of Indebtedness Act, 1935, in each of the districts of Hissar, Rohtak, Gurgaon and Karnal ;
- (b) the realisation during the corresponding months of the last year and the year before, in each of the districts mentioned above ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : A statement is appended.

Statement.

| No. | Name of district. | Amount realised in execution of decrees during the first three months (May to July) after the coming into force of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act, 1935. | Realisations during the corresponding months of 1934. | Realisations during the corresponding months of 1933. |
|-----|-------------------|---|---|---|
|     |                   | Ra.   | Ra.   | Ra.   |
| 1   | Hissar ..         | 95,934  | 106,413   | 107,214   |

RELIEF OF INDEBTEDNESS ACT AND THE WARRANTS OF ARREST OF JUDGMENT DEBTORS.

1258. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- the number of warrants of arrest of judgment debtors issued by courts in each of the districts of Hissar, Rohtak, Gurgaon and Karnal but withheld owing to the coming into force of the Relief of Indebtedness Act, 1935 ;
- whether it is a fact that the number of institution of money suits has fallen in these districts since the coming into force of this Act ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) & (b) A statement is laid on the table. All the courts in these districts except two report a fall in the number of money suits instituted.

| Serial No. | District.  | The number of warrants of arrest issued against civil judgment debtors by courts in the districts of Hissar, Rohtak, Gurgaon and Karnal, but withheld owing to the coming into force of the Punjab Relief of Indebtedness Act, 1935. | Whether it is fact that the number of institution of money suits has fallen in these districts since the coming into force of this Act ? |
|------------|------------|--|--|
| 1          | Hissar ..  | Nil.   | Yes.   |
| 2          | Gurgaon .. | 179  | Yes.   |
| 3          | Karnal ..  | 10   | Yes, except in the court of the Subordinate Judge, Panipat.  |

SUITS UNDER THE REGULATION OF ACCOUNTS ACT.

1259. Lala Jyoti Prasad : Will the Honourable Finance Member please—

- (a) state whether it is a fact that creditors do not generally keep registers provided by the Regulation of Accounts Act, these being too difficult for them to use correctly ;
- (b) state the number of suits which have been instituted on the basis of registers in accordance with the Regulation of Accounts Act, 1934, in each of the districts of Hissar, Rohtak, Karnal and Gurgaon, from the time of coming into force of the above Act till now ;
- (c) state the total number of ordinary money suits instituted in each of the districts of Gurgaon, Hissar, Rohtak and Karnal during the period mentioned in (b) above ;
- (d) lay on the table a comparative statement of the income on account of court fee sale re money suits after the introduction of the Regulation of Accounts Act and the Relief of Indebtedness Act and in the corresponding period of the preceding year ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Government have no information to this effect.

(b) and (d) It is assumed that the honourable member's reference is to the Punjab Regulation of Accounts Act, 1930. There is no Act of this name in the statute book for 1934. It would not be possible to obtain the information asked for without an examination of the records of all the civil suits instituted since the Act came into force. To make such an examination would entail an expenditure of time and money out of proportion to the results to be attained.

|     |         |    |    |    | Rs.    |

THEFT IN DEMONTMORENCY COLLEGE, SHAHPUR.

1260. Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether he is aware of the facts regarding the theft case of the deMontmorency College, Shahpur ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that a departmental enquiry committee was appointed to go into the matter, if so, what was the report of the committee ;
- (c) whether any clerk of the college was suspected of having a hand in the theft ;
- (d) if the reply to (c) be in the affirmative, what action was taken against him ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes. The report of the committee is under consideration of the Government. It is, however, not in the public interest to disclose the findings of the committee.

(e) and (d) Government has not yet arrived at any decision in regard to the findings of the committee.

METALLED ROADS.

1261. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture please state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that there is a considerable motor and other traffic on the Public Works Department road (between Kharian and Dinga) passing through village Dhooria in the Gujrat district ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the road is in a very neglected condition and is even dangerous to be used during the rains ;
- (c) whether this road is on the list of the roads to be metalled under the road development scheme ; if so, when it is likely to be taken up, if not, why not ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) There is not much motor or any other vehicular traffic on the road ;

(b) The road is kacha and maintained by the District Board which is doing its best to keep it in good condition. In the rains naturally a kacha road is not fit for motor traffic.

(c) The whole question of road development in the Punjab is being examined and it is impossible to say at this stage whether this road will be metalled or not.

WANT OF 1ST CLASS MAGISTRATE AT MUKTSAR.

1262. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the tahsildar and the naib-tahsildar at Muktsar are not allowed to entertain new complaints direct since September, 1931 ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that for want of a 1st Class Magistrate at Muktsar tahsil headquarters, the litigant public have to undergo a great trouble in going to the far off district headquarters, in order to attend the court of the ilaqa magistrate there, for the purpose of launching new complaints and attending in cases pending in his court ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that each of the Moga and Fazilka tahsils in the Ferozepore district has two 1st class magistrates posted at its headquarters while even the small town of Gidderbaha in the Muktsar tahsil has one such magistrate ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that a 1st class magistrate was posted at Muktsar tahsil headquarters prior to 1927 ;
- (e) if the answers to (a) to (d) be in the affirmative what Government proposes to do in the matter in order to redress the grievance of the people of the Muktsar tahsil ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary): (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes, but as a temporary measure only.

(e) The criminal work in the Muktsar tahsil is reported to be insufficient to justify the permanent posting of a 1st Class Magistrate there, but the matter is receiving the consideration of Government.

ANGLO-VERNACULAR GIRLS' MIDDLE SCHOOL FOR MUKTSAR.

1263. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain: Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Government is considering the desirability of opening an anglo-vernacular girls' middle school at every tahsil headquarters in the Punjab in the near future or to provincialize such schools where they already exist;

(b) whether it is a fact that no high school for girls or even an anglo-vernacular girls' middle school exists at present throughout the whole of the Muktsar tahsil;

(c) if the answer to (a) and (b) be in the affirmative, whether Government intends to provincialize the existing Municipal Board Girls' Vernacular Middle School, Muktsar?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon: (a) No, the question of opening of a Government vernacular middle school in each tahsil is under consideration.

(b) Yes.

(c) The claims of Muktsar for the opening of a Government vernacular middle school along with those of other tahsils will be duly considered.

THUMB-IMPRESSION CASES.

1264. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain: Will the Honourable Finance Member please state the total number of thumb-impression cases dealt with by the Thumb Impression Bureau, Phillaur, during each of the last ten years?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: The honourable member will find the information in the Provincial Reports on Police Administration for the years in question.

1265—1268. Cancelled.

MULTAN FOREST DIVISION.

1269. Chaudhri Afzal Haq: Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state in respect of the Multan district in the Multan Forest division—

(a) the percentage of posts which Muslims are entitled to in the recruitment of—

(i) Forest guards;

(ii) other incumbents of temporary posts in the Forest Department;

- (b) the community-wise distribution of the above mentioned posts ;
 (c) the community-wise distribution of new posts in the above mentioned cadres during each of the last three years, specifying for each community the number of those who were retired or discharged soldiers ;
 (d) the community-wise number of those for each of the last three years who either left their posts or retired or were discharged or dismissed ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) (i) 75 per cent. according to departmental practice in the case of forest guards. There is no fixed proportion for other incumbents of temporary posts.

(ii) Not fixed.

(b) The distribution in the Multan Forest Division on 1st October, 1935, was :—

|                 |    |    |    | Muslims. | Sikhs. | Hindus. |

NOTE.—The unit of divisional control being the Forest division, information has been supplied for the Multan Forest division and not for the Multan district as figures for the district are not readily ascertainable.

MULTAN FOREST DEPARTMENT.

1270. Chaudhri Afzal Haq : Will the Honourable Revenue Member be pleased to state in respect of the Multan district—

- (a) the number of contracts of the Forest Department as distributed per community during each of the last three years ;
- (b) the figure for each community of contracts of the Forest Department given during each of the last three years ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The following statement shows the number of contracts in force in Multan Forest division between the Forest department and contractors belonging to the Muslim, Sikh and Hindu communities during the three years 1932-33 to 1934-35 :—

|         | Year. |    |    | Muslims. | Sikhs. | Hindus. |

- |              |  |              |
|--------------|--|--------------|
| (i) Muslims, |  | (iii) Sikhs, |
| (ii) Hindus, |  | (iv) others, | who have been Divisional Forest officers in Multan district during the last twenty years ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) 80.25 per cent. ;

(b) Three Hindus and one Muslim held charge of the division permanently during the last 20 years.

Two Hindus, one Sikh, one Muslim and one European were placed in charge of the division for short periods of 2 to 6 months in leave or other arrangements.

ECONOMIC BOYCOTT OF HINDUS.

1272. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) in which cities, towns or villages in the province, the Muslims have resorted to the economic boycott of Hindus during the last few months ;

- (b) in how many places Muslim volunteers actually picketted the Hindu shops ;
- (c) whether the authorities took any action against such volunteers ;
- (d) if not, the reasons for this inaction or acquiescence on the part of the authorities ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

LUNATICS IN MENTAL HOSPITAL, LAHORE.

1273. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) the total number of lunatics (male and female separately) in the Punjab according to the last census ;
- (b) the number of lunatics (male and female separately) as shown on 31st March, 1935, in the Government Mental Hospital ;
- (c) the number of lunatics whose relatives contribute duly for their lodging and treatment ;
- (d) the percentage of lunatics who are treated free at the expense of the Government or are maintained at the expense of their respective local bodies ;
- (e) the number of lunatics sent to the Government Mental Hospital by the police and other official and non-official agencies respectively at their own initiative during the last financial year ;
- (f) whether it is the duty of doctors in charge of civil dispensaries to see that lunatics neglected by their relatives are duly sent up by them to the Mental Hospital at their own initiative in the interest of humanity ;
- (g) if not, whether the Government proposes to have the above included in the list of their duties ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) 5,619 males and 2,720 females.

(b) 881 males and 230 females.

(c) 95.

(d) 96.85 per cent.

(e) 381—details of which are—

(f) No.

(g) In view of the satisfactory provision made in sub-section (2) of section 13 of the Indian Lunacy Act, 1912, Government do not propose to take any action in the matter.

LIQUOR SHOPS.

1274. Shrimati Lekhwati Jain : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the liquor shops in the province remain open on such festival days as the Holi, Diwali, Moharram, Shab-i-Barat, Guru Nanak's Birthday and Guru Gobind Singh's Birthday ;
- (b) if so, whether the attention of the Government has been invited to the extreme undesirability of allowing these shops to remain open on such sacred days ;
- (c) whether the Government has ever received any representation from any of the communities in the Punjab as to the prohibition of liquor sale on these festival days ;
- (d) if so, what Government intends to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : (a) No ; not in all districts of the province.

(b) and (c) Yes.

(d) Instructions have already been issued to the Collectors,—vide section 9·15 of the Punjab Excise Manual, Volume III.

PAPERS LAID ON THE TABLE.

STATEMENT SHOWING ADDITIONS AND REDUCTIONS SANCTIONED BY THE FINANCE DEPARTMENT IN THE NON-VOTED GRANTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST MARCH, 1935.

Secretary : Statement showing additions and reductions sanctioned by the Finance Department in the non-voted grants for the year ended 31st March, 1935, is laid on the table.<sup>1</sup>

DEMANDS FOR SUPPLEMENTARY, ADDITIONAL AND TOKEN GRANTS, 1935-36.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I have to announce that the demands printed on the order paper are presented on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor.

LAND REVENUE.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan (Revenue Member) : I beg to move—

That a supplementary sum not exceeding Rs. 44,890 be granted to the Governor in Council to defray the charges that will come in course of payment for the year ending the 31st of March, 1936, in respect of land revenue.

Mr. President : Motion moved—

That a supplementary sum not exceeding Rs. 44,890 be granted to the Governor in Council to defray the charges that will come in course of payment for the year ending the 31st of March, 1936, in respect of land revenue.

<sup>1</sup>Kept in the Library.

Mian Nurullah (Lyallpur, Muhammadan, Rural) : I beg to move—

That the total grant be reduced by Rs. 100.<sup>1</sup>

Under the new sliding scale system that is being put in operation in different districts of the Punjab we have had the settlement of the Montgomery district, the settlement of Lyallpur is now on and recently the settlement has started in the Lahore district. Many of my friends at Lahore have asked me to give them the benefit of our experience at Lyallpur; and I am taking this opportunity to criticise some of the methods adopted in the settlement operations.

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : I rise to a point of order. Is it open to the honourable member to discuss the question of policy on a supplementary demand?

Mr. President : I have more than once ruled from this chair that the policy underlying a particular supplementary demand can be discussed; but that the policy underlying the original annual demand cannot be discussed when a supplementary demand is under discussion.

Mian Nurullah : The most important thing in the settlements after the introduction of the new system of assessment is the question of yields of various crops. I will try to be very brief, because when the Lyallpur settlement is going to be announced we are going to make a detailed study and start a thorough discussion over it; but for the present I will stick myself to what is going to happen to Lahore and express my views with reference to what happened at Lyallpur.

I might refer to the rule under which yields are fixed. It is rule No. 5 of Land Revenue Assessment Rules, 1929. In this connection I would like to draw the attention of the House to a recent Abstract Assessment Report of the Lyallpur tahsil published under rule 19 by the settlement officer. There he mentions that the question of yields has received the attention that its importance deserved. He says, "My enquiry regarding the yields covers the following sources", and it is these sources that I am going to discuss here this afternoon. The first, or (a) as he calls it, is the quinquennial averages supplied by the Director of Land Records. I do not know—I have not made a thorough study of the subject yet—from what sources these records are prepared. But from the yields as announced in the Abstract Assessment Report of the Lyallpur tahsil I can say that they are too high as compared to what I feel these records must be showing. They are not at all in consonance with the records I have got and which I know of so far. The yield of cotton, American and desi, are given on page 2 of the same Abstract and they are fixed at 6½ maunds per acre for both. I have had an opportunity of putting in my criticism and objections and I am sure the Honourable Revenue Member, the Financial Commissioners and His Excellency the Governor will give their full attention and favourable consideration to the objections put in by me as also the objections put in by other zamindars. In this connection I have to mention that my opinion about Lyallpur is this. I speak subject to correction. My facts might be wrong and I do want that these facts should be verified and corrected. I should like to know where I am wrong, for, in the light of that information I shall be able to make proper criticism when the time comes. Remissions have been given to cotton due to its failure practically every year during the last few years. I am further told that the averages as reported by the local officers in the district for the purpose of those special remissions were in the case of desi cotton, 2 maunds. These averages are for the years 1928-29 to 1932-33. In the first year the average was reported to be 2 maunds, in the second year, 3 maunds, 3rd year  $4\frac{1}{2}$  maunds, 4th year 2 maunds and 5th year 3 maunds. If these figures are correct the average comes to about  $3\frac{1}{2}$  maunds whereas the average they have adopted is  $6\frac{1}{2}$  maunds. This is exactly double. I wonder how this has been calculated and fixed. The same thing applies to American cotton. The yields reported, if I am correct, are respectively, 3, 5,  $4\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  and 5 maunds, the average coming to under  $4\frac{1}{2}$  maunds. In the face of this again the yield of  $6\frac{1}{2}$  maunds fixed in the Assessment Report is very high and I do not know on what facts and figures this was fixed. That is in brief the case for the first principle, the quinquennial averages. The results arrived at do not at all tally with what I expect from these records.

The second principle (b) mentioned is the average calculated from the results of experiments conducted by the Agricultural Department. Some zamindars think that that department is a boon and others think that it is doing harm because it is only meant to give certain results for settlement purposes and to fix more revenue. I do not express any opinion. But I do want to say that the averages as calculated by them in their farms are certainly too high. They should not be compared with the averages that the zamindars actually get in their ordinary fields with their ordinary capacity of work with practically no labour and with limited supply of water and many other difficulties. So this again as a principle is very defective. The yield of sugarcane in the Lyallpur tahsil has been taken to be 30 maunds. It is really very high as compared with 18 maunds taken by Mr. Dobson who is present here, when he assessed the Rakh Branch. The average, if anything, should have gone down now, because of more land coming under the same water supply and many other difficulties. After the War, I think it was in 1922 when Mr. Penny assessed the other portions of the Lyallpur district, the Rakh Branch standard was adopted although he estimated that the average yield would be 25 maunds and this, when zamindars had a lot of money to spend, when we could buy manure and do agriculture in a better way and engage labour because we had enough to live upon. But now we cannot make the two ends meet and, therefore, it is difficult to put a penny for agricultural improvement. We can just live and have nothing to spare. Under these conditions I think the yields must have gone down and it is unfair to assume 30 maunds as against 25 estimated by Mr. Penny and 18 maunds taken by Mr. Dobson. It is said that when the zamindars go out they take some of their kamad and utilise it in many ways but in the experimental farms in the College and Government farms, nobody is allowed to touch the cane and nobody is allowed to take the gur away. This is all in addition to the labour spent, so much of supervision and so much of care taken to get the last chhatak out of the sugarcane area. Therefore this again is a defective method and is not fair. I am sure the Lyallpur zamindars are crying and they have asked me many times that they are prepared not to touch their sugarcane crop this season. They are prepared to offer all their kamad to the Government and they are prepared to put it into the hands of the settlement officer so that he can go there and get experiments done before them and before himself and they are prepared to allow 500 or even 1,000 acres for this purpose and are not prepared to take a bit out of that unless the officer is satisfied. I am sure if an experiment is made on these lands the settlement officer will find that he is wrong by at least 60 per cent. if not more in the estimate of his yields.

I next proceed to the third principle (c)—experiments conducted by the district staff and I combine the other section, experiments conducted by the settlement staff. Here again it is very defective. No non-official, no zamindar is properly taken into confidence. When the officers go they select any acre they like. They consider this an average acre while in reality it is not so. What should be done is that an average of good, bad and indifferent area must be taken and experiments conducted on a large scale. What is done is, the officer goes and takes 2 kanals of wheat, 2 marlas of sugarcane and gets results out of that. He finds that so much is the yield out of that little area and then by rule of three he calculates that the yield of the whole field is so much. That brings in a lot of error. Even if there is an error of 1 in 20 it means an error of 100 in the total. This is erroneous and defective and requires a lot of improvement.

I come to the next item; the yields adopted by recent settlements of the adjoining districts. I do not see why we should go to the adjoining districts. But if we do, Montgomery is on one side and Jhang is on the other, their yields are certainly much lower than those adopted. Instead of going to adjoining districts, I think the recent settlements in Lyallpur district itself should be taken into consideration and as I have said before, and Mr. Dobson knows it too well, if a certain average was fixed in the Rakh Branch during the last settlement there is no justification for an increase now.

I now come to the settlement officer's own observations. I am sure the settlement officer has taken a lot of pains and we can rely much upon what he has seen himself and what he has done himself, because he is responsible for the whole show and he must have gone to the last detail in his calculation. He must have taken pains to reach exact calculations.

Next principle followed in (h) is the opinions gathered from trustworthy persons and accounts maintained by prominent zamindars. The trustworthy persons, I am sure, are generally lambardars and zaildars who are always ji-hazurs. It might be that the settlement officer instead of suggesting 80 maunds might have said 40 maunds and they would agree to it and he might have laughed at it. Some of the so-called trustworthy persons are now being got rid off, as is clear from the recent elections in Lyallpur. I suggest that the proper person to be selected should be a pucca zamindar. A thet zamindar be selected for this purpose who would say straight in the face of the settlement officer, whatever the true facts are and is not a ji-hazur.

Now, as regards accounts maintained by prominent zamindars, here again I might briefly mention one instance in Lyallpur. We have got a prominent zamindar in Colonel Bruce who has sufficient experience of agriculture and who is running his farm in the best and most efficient and well managed way. I happened to see some of his records and data. From the accounts maintained by him in respect of sugarcane I find the average he got for the last few years is 20·7 maunds per acre. But the Assessment Report estimates it at 30 maunds. Is that in consonance with the facts and figures supplied by the prominent zamindars ? I am sure the Financial Commissioner is in a position to enquire where Colonel Bruce got his figures from. If his figures are true I do not know how the assessment officer put it at 30 maunds, when 20·7 maunds is the average in a well managed farm of over 80 squares. I have gone through these in a brief way and I do want to emphasise that the yields given in the Assessment Report Abstract are certainly very high as compared with the last settlement. I would like my Lahore friends to take note of this and take a lesson and be careful and try to approach the settlement officer in the right way and put him on the right track, so that they are not harmed. The yields as compared with the last settlement are like this :

Sugarcane.—It is estimated to be 30 maunds now. In the Rakh area it was then estimated at 18 maunds and in the Jhang branch in 1922 when prices were high it was 25 maunds.

Cotton, American and Desi.—The average as per the Abstract is 6½ maunds. In the Rakh branch it was 4 maunds in the last settlement and in the Jhang branch 5 maunds.

The increase is recorded in the case of sugarcane in rakh Branch at 66·6 per cent. and in Jhang branch at 20 per cent., in cotton 62·5 per cent. and 37·5 per cent., maize 14 maunds is taken now, while in the previous settlements it was 13 in Rakh branch and 13 in Jhang branch. This is also an increase. Toria is taken at 8 maunds while formerly it was 7½ maunds at each of the two branches. Wheat was 14 and 13 maunds. The averages recorded are a great increase although it is quite unfair to record it. The three most important factors that govern the settlement are the percentages of cropping, prices and yields. The percentage of cropping do not vary very much. The question of prices has been hit at in the right way and I am sure that the Government and the people both will be satisfied. It is due to this that we are having these settlements otherwise they would have been postponed. The third is the question of yields and that is the most important question. As I once said before, when you go through Sir James Douie's Manual, you will find that there is never a question of any decrease in any paragraph, while here is always a mention of the increase of revenue. Now, the other two questions being practically settled, the whole difference is being made in this, the question of yields which is the most important one. During all these settlements under the new system, one has to be very careful and I request my Lahore friends to be very careful. We will fight our case when the time comes, and I trust the officer in charge will look into it favourably. With these words I move my cut.

Mr. President : Demand under consideration, motion moved—

That the total grant be reduced by Rs. 100.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan (Ambala Division, North-East, Muhammadan, Rural): I support the amendment moved by my honourable friend from Lyallpur. How unjust it is to base a settlement on facts which are obtained in this artificial manner! The best yield of these fields should not be taken but only the average yield should be taken, as the standard of produce raised by a zamindar. It is absolutely unreal and it does not refer to the actual yield of the zamindar if you take the best field and reckon the prices on its yield. My honourable friend made it clear that these officers check a small area—and the best field is chosen for the purpose—and then no effort is spared in guarding it and taking its produce. Do you think that an ordinary zamindar can devote so much care and labour and expense to bring the land to that level of yield? He cannot possibly do so and if he were to spend so much care and expense, then there would be nothing left for him to meet the charges. This ought to be an estimate on the average yield. There is no other way in which a greater exploitation of the zamindar can be done. Look at the actual results, they will show that this is absolutely erroneous. I shall give you the figures of Ambala. In the Ambala district when the British made the first regular settlement, in the year 1867 or thereabout, the land revenue was fixed at 2 annas and a few pies per bigha and now it is 8 annas and then it increased from one settlement to another on account of the erroneous estimates which are based on calculations for land revenue of various districts. When that is the question, the Government must face the facts and if they go on exploiting the zamindar in this way, there will be nothing left for the zamindars. He finds it difficult to make both ends meet. He is starving and he has no clothes and no good bullocks and he cannot educate his sons on account of this heavy and exorbitant demand of the Government which is made heavier and heavier at every settlement. My honourable friend made it quite clear that there is never any question of decrease in any of the settlements so far undertaken in the Punjab. Do you think that the capacity of the land has increased or the rates for commodities have so much increased as to justify such an exorbitant rate of land revenue which is demanded from the zamindar? Not at all. If one looks at the figures that have increased from settlement to settlement, one is thunderstruck and wonders how the zamindar lives in the face of this demand from year to year. Therefore the Government must now cry halt to the method of exploiting the zamindar to the fullest possible extent. This land revenue is the worst curse of the zamindar and it is unjust to take so much from him.

Mr. President: The honourable member is not speaking to the motion.

Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan: I have been talking of the method of fixing the yield in various settlements and my assertion is that I am correct in stating what I have stated and I give examples that rates in each settlement have been increased on account of the erroneous method. I submit that fundamentally a wrong principle has been adopted in calculating the yields on which settlement is based. One honourable member may say that this is not excessive. I gave examples to show that the capacity of land has not increased and the yield has not increased but the land revenue has been increasing. This shows that there is something fundamentally wrong in this principle of assessment and that is the way in which I reconcile my arguments to the actual motion before the House. I say that as this premier town of the province is under settlement, the Government must have this principle adopted which is more just and must levy rates of land revenue which are in consonance with the actual conditions of the land and with the actual conditions of the produce of the land. For these reasons it is very necessary that the motion should be supported in order that the Government may take into account the various factors which my honourable friend has put before the House. I need not go into them, because he has very thoroughly dealt with these methods and I can simply make this appeal to the Government that the zamindar has reached the last stage of starvation up to which he can go and beyond this there would be nothing but breaking him. For this reason it is necessary that the settlement demand should be based on proper figures.

Khan Bahadur Mian Abdul Aziz (Financial Commissioner): I have very few remarks to make, on the subject that has been dealt with by the honourable member who has moved this motion. The first is that the method as actually in force is the result of a notification by the Government as approved by this House. There is nothing wrong in the method. As the honourable members know, that notification appeared in December, 1929, and it was previously discussed. All the various matters that a settlement officer has to consider are set down and we can not escape them. What the honourable member is displeased about is the actual result. Without entering into the matter in a controversial spirit, the actual result depends on many things, for instance, the same land in the hands of an ordinary cultivator, if it yields a maund of sugarcane, will yield much more in the hands of an arain. The settlement officer's duty is to arrive at an average which will correspond with the actual average in any area, and which is likely to prevail in the assessment circle for the length of the whole period of settlement. Therefore in particular areas a yield which the honourable member may consider as good enough may not be such as could possibly be taken as a representative yield. He objected to the quinquennial average. My information is, and the House will be interested to know, that these quinquennial averages started in 1897. We have been at it for nearly 40 years. The results of experiments from all over the province for each particular district are reported to the Director of Land Records as the experiments take place in each district. The results of experiments conducted by the Agricultural Department are reported to the Director of Agriculture each year. These two officers sit down together and they collaborate and reach conclusions and reject all experiments which from their point of view give either too high or too low a yield and this procedure is very rigidly followed every year. At least this is my information. I can say from my own personal knowledge that district officers who conduct such experiments never send up those experiments in which the yield appears to be excessive. A large number of them are kept back and even out of these the Director of Land Records and the Director of Agriculture after examination reject experiments where yield is too low or too high. But the trouble once again about these yields is that the average is low enough. Dealing with this question of yield, the settlement officer has to determine according instructions the yield for each particular class of land that is to say well-irrigated, canal-irrigated, sailab, chahi and this is the yield which is used in the report that deals with the assessing of a tract. Most people suffer from a confusion of ideas when dealing with the subject of yields. The settlement officer does not use in his report the yield which appears in the Season and Crops Report returns or in the various forecasts, he uses the yields for each class of land and he applies them to the matured acreage. The House will be interested to know that a settlement officer thought that the matured area was given too high and he promptly reduced this whole nahri matured area by 5 per cent. and said that enough kharaba was not given. For the barani area he reduced by eleven per cent. and it is to those reduced areas that he applied the yield which for each class of land irrigated, barani, sailab and nehri, he considered to be the suitable yield. There is no reason whatsoever to assume that a settlement officer would go out of his way to assume a yield which was excessively high. As a matter of fact, there is no reason to assume that he does not do the very best that he can by consulting responsible zamindars,—I will just give the reason why he is bound to do it. There is no reason to assume that he does not accept the best advice that is available to him apart from experiments. With regard to experiments alone there are huge instructions. In fact the Government appears to be absolutely fanatically particular with regard to instructions on this question of yield. We have been at it for over forty years. There is the Financial Commissioner's Standing Order No. 9-A ; there is Appendix No. 10 to the Settlement Manual which tell the settlement officer that he must, unlike the ordinary district experiments, select not two kanals of land but fields of nearly an acre. It is little known to other people that there are other instructions from the Government of India contained in a small pamphlet containing about four pages of instructions about the method of estimating outturn. Even before these instructions were in use, that Guru of settlement officers, Mr. Wilson, was following a method which has been practically copied in the Settlement Manual. Great care is taken but still the subject of outturns is difficult and I must say that very few people realize that that is applied to the matured acreage in a circle. The necessary deductions are made and if the yield were too low the result which I have hinted at before would follow and that is this. I had better read a line from the Land Administration Manual so that honourable members may understand what I am hinting at. This House is the representative of zamindars and honourable members will appreciate it. The sentence reads—

“Rent cases are for the most part heard by tahsildars and naib-tahsildars. They are often by no means simple in their nature. More than one half of the total litigation in revenue courts in the Punjab fall under this head.”

and the head is “Suits for arrears of rent.” When owners of land go and claim rent which is to be paid to them by the tenant, the rate adopted is the settlement rate. If by any chance the settlement officer were to adopt yields which are not justified by his experiments, by his enquiries, it would be such a terrible fine on the land-owner because settlement yields are also adopted for assessing the rents payable to him. This House should therefore think ten times before criticising the results which are based on forty years' experience. I can find thousands and thousands of tenants who, if the yield of cotton were to be placed as low as the honourable member has suggested, would never pay rent and say : " Very well, recover it," because it would pay them in the case of batai rents not to pay in kind but pay according to the settlement yields if those yields were low. I do not think that this is a matter which could be lightly considered in view of the sentence which I have just now read that half the litigation in revenue courts is about arrears of rent. I can tell the House without any fear of bias in favour of the tenants or of the owner that I have known cases where we have appointed referees under the Tenancy Act—if honourable members want their names I can give them—for appraising crops, and in each particular case, I can assure the House from my own experience, that the naib-tahsildars and tahsildars when dealing with this class of cases find that the referee's finding as to the actual yield always is very much more than what the settlement officer's average yield is. It is not, therefore, a subject to be lightly dealt with. The settlement officer does his duty under very difficult circumstances. Correct information is not available ; the time for conducting experiments which are after all carried out by naib-tahsildars and responsible zamindars is very limited, and the settlement officer does try his best to select average fields for an average village in each circle to cover all classes of lands. And even if his own experiments are not conclusive there is a whole chain of experiments existing in the district and in the neighbouring districts of over thirty or forty years and the experiments of the Agricultural Department. Therefore even though there may be a complaint, perhaps a well-justified complaint in a particular case there is no reason to assume that anywhere the yield assumed at a settlement or the method of arriving at these yields is at all defective. And I once again very respectfully tell the House, particularly the zamindar members, not to fall into the clutches of their newly found friends who are learned only in statistics and who tell them : " You are suffering this, you are suffering that " and allow the thin end of the wedge to set the tenants against the proprietors. With these remarks I oppose the motion. (Cheers).

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan (Sialkot, Muhammadan, Rural), (Urdu) : I am very much surprised to hear the speech of the Financial Commissioner defending the method of fixing yields. He was pleased to remark that the settlement officer goes to the villages in person to prepare the estimates of yields for settlement operations. It appears to me that the Financial Commissioner has never been to a village, and has spent all his life in the cities. Had he gone to a village and seen these things for himself, he would never have made such an observation.

In every village there is a patwari, who is entrusted with the work of preparing estimates of yields. The patwari offers his report to the kanungo ; the kanungo forwards it to the naib-tahsildar ; the naib-tahsildar passes it on to the tahsildar ; and the tahsildar submits it to the settlement officer. None of these officers stirs from his seat to go to the village to find out the quality of the crop or the condition of the soil. They remain at home and receive the report from the patwari, who in reality does the whole work. When the report comes to the settlement officer, he regards it as perfectly correct and accurate, and affixes his signature to it in approval. The poor zamindar is not at all consulted or taken into confidence.

Apparently, the whole system seems to be highly elaborate. But, unfortunately, the statement of the subordinate staff is taken for gospel truth, and the superior officers never bother themselves to make any inquiries in that connection. If the patwari happens to be on bad terms with any zamindar, the poor fellow is doomed. The patwari is the monarch of all he surveys. He can show barren land as rich and fertile; and fertile land as fallow and barren. Nobody questions his statements and reports. In the Narowal tahsil an area is well cultivated and contains very rich crops. The zamindars somehow please the patwari, who in his report showed that the condition of the crops in that area was very poor with the result that the payment of land revenue was postponed. But the case of Pسرur is quite the reverse. A hill torrent used to pass through that place but it has since changed its course; and the soil has been rendered unfit for cultivation. The whole area is famine stricken; and the condition of that place is reminiscent of the days of Joseph, when there was an appalling scarcity of food. For the last twelve years there has been no rain in that area. The inhabitants of that place are unable to keep even body and soul together. Their cattle are starving. They have sent their children to their relatives because they themselves are unable to give them food. But the gracious settlement officer has been pleased to remark that the crops of that place are exceedingly good and that land revenue must be realized from the inhabitants. In that case the subordinates have submitted a particular report, and the settlement officer has quietly accepted it. He knows next to nothing about the actual state of affairs obtaining in that area. It is really a pity that a responsible officer of Government says that this method of arriving at yields is not defective. A casual observation can give the lie to this assertion.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Might I ask if the honourable member saw the settlement of his own district, the Sialkot district? Did he watch it?

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : I have given only an illustration, and the Honourable Finance Member should not feel offended. I know truth is always bitter, but I can not help speaking the truth. We are the representatives of the people, and it is our bounden duty to represent them truly.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : But have you seen anything with your own eyes?

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : Yes, I am telling you what I have seen with my own eyes. I am not like you who see nothing for yourself and yet make statements on the floor of this House in such a way as if you have seen things with your own eyes. I most earnestly submit that this method of arriving at yields is not only defective but is also unfair and inequitable. The settlement officer never cares to inquire into the work of his subordinates and he invariably depends on the figures supplied by the patwaris. If he would deign to go to the villages personally, the plight of the zamindars would not be so wretched and pitiable. I strongly urge that he should not count merely on the report that is supplied to him by the patwaris. With these words, Sir, I lend my whole-hearted support to the cut motion moved by my honourable friend Mian Nurullah.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I think I am bound to say that I saw the Financial Commissioner's work for four-and-a-half years throughout the settlement of the last speaker's own district. I am practically certain that there was not a village in that whole district, in those days there were 2,500 of them, but I do not think there was a single village in the whole of that district that was not visited and many of them were visited several times either by me or by the assistant settlement officer or extra assistant settlement officer. I personally visited, I remember, 2,000 of them. Of course, a few of them are bechara, but every single one in the whole lot of them was I believe visited by the Financial Commissioner who has recently spoken. (Interruption.) That is untrue. If the honourable member's (Chaudhri Asadullah Khan) own brother were here at the present moment I am perfectly certain that he would not contradict me because he saw what we were doing. Several times he came to see me and talked about various things connected with the settlement. One of the things that a settlement officer has to do is inspection of villages. That compels him to go into every single village because he writes a note about the soil, about the mortgages, about the whole condition of the village. My own plan was this. I rode to a village, the people were warned beforehand of my coming and the direction from which I was coming. People met me on the border and I asked about the conditions in the various parts of the village. After that I trotted or cantered over the village lands to see what the soil was like and whether the villagers who met me were true in their statements. After riding over the village I sat down and wrote my note on the spot about the whole condition of the village. The villagers were allowed to tell me what they liked to say and this was my part of the duty at the settlement of Sialkot district. The present Financial Commissioner's part was to examine measurements and assessment notes and to attend to the land records, to help me with the preparation of the assessment statement and so on. For four-and-a-half years the Financial Commissioner did that and I am practically certain that he saw every one of these 2,500 villages and that what has been said by the last speaker was little better than a libel. (Cheers.)

Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan (Sheikhpura, Muhammadan, Rural): As it is a question of life and death for the zamindars, I think I should also give a little of my own experience as regards the yields of the crops in the Punjab. I think there has been a little misunderstanding on the part of the Financial Commissioner when he says that every field is inspected by the settlement officer before that field is selected for the crop experiments. He never does it. There is no doubt that the settlement officer when he has to write inspection notes has to go to each and every village. But that is not for the purpose of selecting fields for crop experiments, but to find out the general condition of a village as a whole.

That is absolutely necessary because at the time of announcing assessment, he has authority or discretion to go above or below the rates which have been sanctioned by the Government or the Financial Commissioners. If the quality of land of a village is very good then he can go up to 5 or 10 per cent. over those rates. I am not sure whether it is 5 or 10 per cent., because I am speaking from memory. However, I think I am correct in saying that there is a certain percentage on this point. If the soil of the village is very poor he can go below those rates. That is the reason why he has to go to the villages where he notes down the general condition when he trots, canters or gallops over the whole areas of the villages and not for the purpose of selecting fields for crop experiments. I hope that this House will agree with me that when a settlement officer trots, canters or gallops over the area of a village he can obtain a bird's eye view of a village, and cannot be in a position to estimate the yield of a particular field. The fact is that a settlement officer never takes the trouble of selecting fields for crop experiments himself. The fields are selected in this way. First of all the patwari makes a report about the fields of wheat, gram or other crops and then he makes a report to the kanungo, who in his turn submits his report to his superior officers, i.e., tahsildar or naib-tahsildar and then they themselves go to the spot and select the field. They also find out whether the field is of average quality or of below or above average quality. When the time comes for finding out the actual yield there is no doubt that the kanungos or the patwaris are told by the revenue officer to be on the look out so that the zamindars may not steal or make away with a portion of the crop, but they find it very difficult to do that because it lies on the threshing floor for a long time. If they find that the yield is either much more or much less than the average yield, then some mental manipulation comes to their rescue.

Then there is another matter which they have to bear in mind, that is, that they always keep in view the yields of the last settlement. If they find that the actual yield of a field has been much less than the average they report the fact, and it is invariably rejected, though that may be the actual yield. If the actual yield of a field is less than the yield adopted at the time of the last settlement it is rejected. The chief guide for the revenue officers is generally the yield adopted at the last settlement.

Then it has been stated by Khan Bahadur Mian Abdul Aziz, the Financial Commissioner, that only those yields are adopted which are likely to accrue from a field. This is a hypothetical question. A settlement officer does not deal with hypothetical questions, but has to assess the land revenue upon the actual yields which the zamindars of a particular locality can obtain from their land. It is not a new thing and all the zamindars know now how assessment is worked out. They know it very well how assessment is arrived at. The settlement officers have not to deal with hypothetical questions, but they have to deal with the actual state of affairs in the villages and also in a circle or tahsil or in a district as a whole. The settlement officer has not sufficient time to devote to matters of detail. He has after all to rely upon the reports of his subordinates and these subordinates generally try to please him. I do not cast any reflection upon the officer, but any one who is acquainted with the machinery of Government is well aware that every superior officer has to depend upon the reports of the subordinates and those subordinates generally try to please their superiors. They have to prepare figures which may bring out assessment a little more than the expired one. You must have seen that in the districts where there has been no increase or where there cannot be any increase in assessment, generally the settlement of those districts is postponed. I do not want to mention any particular tract or tahsil or district but I know that some of them where on account of deficient matured area or on account of low prices owing to economic depression, the Government could not get sufficient increase in the assessment, the assessment of those districts was postponed.

I have made these few remarks on the basis of the speeches which I have heard and in my opinion sufficient care is not devoted to the finding out of yields at the time of settlement or during the currency of a settlement. There is great room for improvement. I therefore support the amendment of the honourable member from Lyallpur.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram (South-East Rohtak, non-Muhammadan, Rural): The motion relates to a discussion of the actual method or methods adopted by the settlement officers in order to estimate the average yield per acre. Perhaps the actual results may not be directly relevant but if those results differ very materially from other results which are trustworthy the latter can certainly be pressed into service to show that the method actually adopted must have been wrong. Therefore, I wish to make use of the argument which was put forward by one of the previous speakers based on actual yields which have now been adopted and which are in excess of the yields which were adopted on previous occasions. In one case I find that the difference is as much as 12 maunds per acre. Mr. Dobson adopted 18 maunds per acre as the average yield but the yield adopted by the settlement officer in the present settlement operations is as high as 30 maunds. Therefore, I am entitled to argue that this substantial difference indicates that the method adopted is defective. In the same way I find that in another part of the Lyallpur district the yield adopted by Mr. Penny was 25 maunds. The yield adopted now is 30 maunds. (An honourable member: On what crop?) I am speaking of sugarcane. This shows that instead of applying the ordinary law of diminishing returns the settlement officer has been applying the law of increasing returns. This clearly shows that the method adopted is defective in a very substantial degree. Instead of making an allowance for progressively smaller returns the settlement officer has adopted progressively increasing returns which I consider to be fundamentally wrong.

Khan Bahadur Mian Abdul Aziz: Is not the honourable member aware that better sugarcane the Coimbatore variety has been introduced and is yielding better results?

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram: I am not quite sure that the varieties of improved sugarcane alleged to have been introduced in the Lyallpur district have really affected the district as a whole. It may be that they have been adopted by only a very small proportion of the zamindar population. We are not here dealing with large farms which are managed by Government under the direct supervision of its officers, but we have to deal with the petty peasant or even an average zamindar who owns 5 acres, or 10 or 15 or 20 acres. I do not think that this type of the zamindar has been able to adopt improved varieties of sugarcane imported from Madras.

Again, a reference was made that the yields put forward by the subordinate officers of the Revenue Department are checked by the Director of Land Records and the Director of Agriculture together, and if these two officers find that the yields actually adopted are either too high or too low they are rejected. I do not understand upon what basis these two officers proceed. Do they proceed upon a priori grounds and say that this particular yield is too high or that particular yield is too low? After all they must have some definite data on which to proceed. As a matter of fact if I understand rightly then probably what Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan has suggested seems to be true, that is, if these officers find that the actual yields which have been suggested for adoption are lower than the yields adopted in a previous settlement they would reject them.

Khan Bahadur Mian Abdul Aziz : Each experiment depends on the number of waterings and the soil and if the governing factors are different then the examining officers come to different conclusions. (An honourable member : The Honourable Member is making another speech).

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : There was absolutely no reference made either to the number of waterings given to a particular field or anything else in the speech made by the Honourable Financial Commissioner when he was on his legs to oppose the motion of my friend. It is an after-thought, and my friend Khan Bahadur Malik Zaman Mehdi Khan who has an expert knowledge of the department may reasonably claim to be given another opportunity of meeting that argument.

A reference was also made to the effect that responsible zamindars are consulted as to average yields. If by responsible zamindars is meant lambardars and zaildars, we can very well understand what their opinion will be. They are always out to please revenue officers because these officers can make or mar their careers as lambardars and zaildars. If by responsible zamindars is also meant men with education, men with independence of character, I from my limited experience can venture to say that they are very seldom consulted by the revenue officers. I will quote an instance of one very responsible zamindar whose name has been mentioned by the mover of this motion—Colonel Bruce. I have had occasion to see his accounts. He keeps very complete and regular accounts extending over a large number of years in respect of every crop and in respect of every field. We had an occasion to see those accounts while he was working as a member of the Water Rates Inquiry Committee. If he cannot be accepted as a responsible zamindar I fail to understand who else can be. In the case of sugarcane his average yield per acre has been 20·7 maunds.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : What about wheat?

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : No mention has been made about wheat by anybody, so I am not in a position to say what his average yield of wheat is. But in respect of sugarcane obviously there is a difference of very nearly 10 maunds per acre. Again, the selection of fields does not seem to be in sufficiently responsible hands. The actual selection is made by the patwari who sends the report to the girdawar kanungo who in his turn sends it to the tahsildar or the naib-tahsildar. Here again the expert knowledge of Khan Bahadur Zaman Mehdi Khan has come to our help. He says that the actual field which is selected for purposes of finding out average yields is not of the average quality. It is always somewhat above the average in the quality of its land. In matters of settlement operations even a slight difference to the disadvantage of the land owner, will make a very large difference in its effect, particularly when we are dealing with peasant proprietors. Perhaps in the case of very large landholders it may not matter so much, but in the case of people who have a limited margin of saving even in prosperous years it becomes a matter of life and death even if a slightly higher rate is assumed for the yield than is actually justified by results. So, I beg to submit that the motion tabled by the member representing Lyallpur is a very reasonable one, and if Government feels that there is some force in the criticism which has been made by non-official members of this House it should have no hesitation in appointing a small committee consisting of experts and also non-officials to go into the question. Just now, the ordinary average zamindar is in a very sad plight. He finds it very difficult to make the two ends meet. Therefore, a mistake made at the present time is likely to affect him very badly indeed.

I will also draw the attention of the House to one more fact. Four or five years ago an amendment was made in the Land Revenue Act to the effect that the Government cannot claim more than 25 per cent. of the net assets. I fear that the present higher yields are an indication of an attempt to circumvent that amendment. As the Government is not now in a position to claim more than 25 per cent. of the net assets, its officers are inclined to adopt higher average yields than are actually justified by a fair test. Under the circumstances I lend my whole-hearted support to the motion of my friend from Lyallpur.

Rai Bahadur Lala Sewak Ram (Multan division, non-Muhammadan, Rural) : The demand before the House is for a grant for settlement operations in Lahore. If the people of Lahore are to be treated after the settlement is over in the same way as the people of Lyallpur are being treated at present, then I am sure the House will not vote for this demand and will not approve of settlement operations being taken up for Lahore. We have just got in our hand a document showing the details as to how the yields of outturn have been made up. This document itself is very complicated and one cannot understand it easily. I think it can be understood only by such economists as Mr. Manohar Lal and by the experts of Government. I doubt whether even the Honourable Revenue Member can understand it. It is not a very simple document which anybody can understand. Anyhow, so far as I am able to understand it, I think that the yields have been so worked out that there may be no diminution to the revenue of the Government. The yields worked out in the Lyallpur district, instead of bringing down the revenue as was expected by the people of that district had actually increased the revenue. The first settlement of Lyallpur was done by Mr. Dobson and the second by Mr. Penny. The prices prevailing at present are the same as those that prevailed in the time of Dobson's settlement. So, it was believed that the revenue would be brought down to the level which was recommended by Mr. Dobson and accepted by Government. The present revenue has been fixed not even at Rs. 6 per acre which was fixed by Mr. Penny in his subsequent settlement, but has been raised to Rs. 6-10-0. It was after a number of resolutions passed and a number of cuts made in the budget during the past 8 or 10 years that we got a new settlement made for the Lyallpur district before its due time and we thought that considering that the yields had gone down so much we would get the benefit of it in the settlement.

Instead of that the Government have taken up higher yield figures and consequently raised the revenue rates. I fear that probably the same will be the fate of the Lahore people.

Another point that I wish to refer to is the fact that His Excellency the Governor gave us an encouragement that by this sliding scale we would be making a saving. But from the figures worked out by the settlement officer we find that there is no saving at all in the land revenue. If this is to be the case in Lahore also, if the yields are going to be worked in such a way that the sliding scale is not going to bring about any saving in our land revenue, then, I do not see any good of having this settlement. I do not wish to take up any more time of the Council. I would only request the House to pass this cut motion if not for anything else, at least to tell the Government that they have done no good at all in the new settlement in the Lyallpur district and that if the settlement in Lahore is to be carried on on the same lines, on the same basis and on the same method of sliding scale as in Lyallpur, there is no use of going on with these settlements; the less money spent on these settlement operations, the better. (Hear, hear).

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan (Jullundur, Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): I rise to support the motion now before the House. It is undoubtedly true that the way in which the average produce of lands is estimated is certainly very defective, and consequently very harmful so far as the interests of the zamindars are concerned. What is generally done in making such estimates is that the best field in the area to be assessed is selected and the produce from that field is taken as the basis for finding out the average produce of lands in that area. I am sure that the honourable members are aware that trouble is not taken by the settlement officers and their staff to inspect every field in order to find out the average produce. I shall be excused if I say that the mentality of these officers is always very curious. They do not at all care if the zamindars stand to lose by their method of calculations. Of late these officers have become very ease-loving. Some years ago when motor cars had not come to be used by the settlement officers and when they used to go to inspect the area under settlement on horse back, they used to take at least some interest in this work. But since these motor cars have come to be used, they have ceased to take even that little interest in this work which they used to take before. What now generally is done is that only such fields are inspected by these officers which lie on the main road and which can be reached without the least possible trouble to them. And to be true even such fields are not inspected by these officers themselves. Usually their munshis go ahead of them and they inspect these fields for their officers and the officers on their turn jot down the report on what they are told by their munshis. There is yet another reason why the interests of the zamindars are so ruthlessly sacrificed. I really wonder why these settlement officers act in this manner, but there is no doubt about it that at every step in these settlements the interest of the Government is kept in view. In everything that is done it is done with one idea and with that idea alone, that is to get as much as possible for the Government. That is and that has been always the guiding principle of these officers and even of their staff in these settlements and it is one of the main reasons why the zamindars are never satisfied with the results arrived at by the Government after every settlement. So far as the petty officials and the patwaris are concerned, their mentality is well-known. They do not care a bit for the zamindars and their interests. It has become a proverb that meaning thereby that the patwari has every power to do anything that he likes. These patwaris do not care to give even kharaba to the zamindars and that for more than one reason. In the first place they, like their superior officers, do so to please the Government and its officers. They know or at least they have come to form this impression that if they help the zamindars and in so doing they show any decrease in the revenue, the officers of the Government will come down upon them and that they will incur their displeasure. The other reason why they act in this manner is that they know that if they give kharaba, they will have to go to the tahsil headquarters to compile the records where they will have to spend so much from their own pockets owing to their allowance and pay being very small. For these and other reasons the zamindars are made to suffer. Every officer from the lowest to the highest tries to guard the interest of the Government even though in doing so he may have to sacrifice the interests of the zamindars. It is quite true that because of this mentality of the officers the interests of the zamindars are generally sacrificed.

[Ch. Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan.]

There is one other serious complaint that I must make in this connection. The Government and its higher officers have learnt to act on the reports submitted to them by their subordinates. They do not care to take the trouble of knowing things for themselves even if it be necessary to have first hand information in certain matters. Even the members of the Council are not believed in what they say or may say against such reports. A crop in a certain field may have been spoiled and may have altogether failed, but if the report of the patwari says that the crop has not failed, the usual rates will be charged even though the higher authorities have by some chance come to know that the report in fact is not true. I have been told that in a case in which a woman was involved and in which that woman had married another man, her first husband, who had appeared on the scene after a long time and who had claimed back his wife, was declared to have died simply because the files said so although he was present in the court and before the judge declaring him to be dead. This is how things are done by our officers. I and in fact every one of us in the chamber and even outside it have no complaints about the existing rules and regulations by which the administration is alleged to be carried on. But we have certainly a grievance against the way in which the officers of the Government enforce these rules and in which they act on behalf of the Government. Sometimes these officers are empowered to buy land for the construction of railways or for some other purposes. They have to fix the price of land. In fixing the price they sacrifice the interest of zamindars to get titles or jagirs. In such a way these officers become habituated to these things. We have so much to say against these settlement officers. I remember Sardar Hotu Singh, Settlement Officer, in the settlement of the Jullundur district, sacrificed the interests of the zamindars.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : The honourable member is referring to one of the best officers who is no more to defend himself. I would request him not to refer to him.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : I do not know how many squares of land he was granted by the Government as a reward for sacrificing the interests of the zamindars for the sake of the Government and how many of his sons and other relations were able to get Government employment for his services during the course of that settlement.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : This is too much to say about that officer who had such a brilliant record of service. The honourable member has made the position worse.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : It is a fact that after every settlement the rates of land revenue are enhanced although it is also a fact that the productive power of the lands has deteriorated. At the time of settlement the revenue is fixed according to the price level that is prevalent at the time. If prices are high at one time and thereafter they become low the zamindar has to lose very much due to the fall of the prices. Time was when only 2 annas per kanal were charged, but now these rates have gone up to 8 annas per kanal in spite of the fact that these lands do not yield as much as they used to yield before. There are many other things which are lost sight of in estimating the income from these lands. I have, therefore, no other alternative but to oppose the grant and to support the cut motion now before the House.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan (Revenue Member) : In the first instance I protest most strongly against the attack on absent officers and particularly on an officer who is dead and whom I knew personally. He was one of the finest officers of our provincial service with a brilliant record (Hear, hear). It is a pity that the officers who are not here to defend themselves should be attacked in this manner.

Mr. President : The honourable member has withdrawn the remarks.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : No, Sir. He has not withdrawn those remarks so far.

Mr. President : I would ask the honourable member to withdraw them if he has not already done so.

Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : I withdraw.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I must admit that the estimating of the average yield of each crop on the different classes of land is certainly a difficult task, particularly when the tract extends over a large area. But a glance at the Abstract of the Assessment Report will show you that every care is taken and that the estimating has been strictly in accordance with the rules. My honourable friend objected to the rules. The rules, as has already been pointed out by the Financial Commissioner for Revenue, were framed by Government and approved by this House. If there is any defect in them, I think the proper course for my honourable friend is to suggest amendments to these rules and Government would be prepared to consider them. He has not told us as to what new method he would like us to adopt. It is not any single factor but various factors are taken into account before the settlement officer arrives at his conclusion. Exception has been taken only to one or two methods by the honourable member. For instance, Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram has said that the fields are generally selected by the patwaris. I was surprised to hear that from an honourable member of his experience. In my own experience—I have seen two settlements as a zamindar of the district—these rules were observed very strictly. Selection is always approved by the tahsildar. It is laid down in the Rules that the settlement officer or the extra assistant settlement officer should himself see and approve as many of the fields as possible. It is not always the best soil he selects. Again it is always the tahsildar and sometimes with the permission of the settlement officer, the naib-tahsildar that is put in charge of it. Every care is taken. Of course this certainly gives a little higher average as compared with the yield of the zamindar's lands. Because no wastage is allowed. I admit that. Similarly as was pointed out by my honourable friend the experiments conducted by the Agricultural Department are also done very carefully and there is very little wastage in their case also. But if Chaudhri Sahib would just see the Settlement Manual he will find that always an allowance is made for these things. For instance on page 163 of the Manual he will find that in arriving at these results all these factors are taken into account in fixing the average yield. The words of the Manual are "In using the results of crop experiments some allowance may be made for the fact that in fields selected for experiments less wastage is allowed to occur than in ordinary fields." Some of the friends opposite seem to be under the impression that both the settlement officer and the Government are out to do the zamindar down. This was really surprising. Government has every sympathy with the zamindars. The House knows that the Government has only recently taken a very bold and most generous step in introducing the sliding scale system of assessment. The land revenue in future will be guided by the prices current in the previous year. That alone should have shown the House what great sympathy Government has for the zamindars at large.

It is surprising that the mover of this motion has mentioned only those crops where the average yield was higher as compared with previous settlement but has overlooked other crops where there has been no or little increase. I admit that in the case of sugarcane, cotton and wheat there has been a small increase. In the case of cotton there has been an increase of 20 seers per acre only. The settlement officer has given very good reasons for these increases. As a zamindar I have not much experience of sugarcane and cannot say with certainty about this crop, but as regards other crops, I can honestly say that the averages are not excessive.

4 P.M.
In the case of sugarcane the reason that the settlement officer gives is this that many Coimbatore varieties have been introduced and these are very heavy yielders. The honourable member has made no mention of crops like toria, and gram in which the rates are same as on the last settlement. These are the principal and important crops.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : They ought to have gone down.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Again another honourable member was pleased to remark that Government gives squares or titles in order that these people should raise no objection to high assessments or yields. Why should the Government take all this trouble only in order to unnecessarily raise the assessment? I think my honourable friend Khan Bahadur Zaman Mehdi Khan who has been a settlement officer will bear me out that this is not a fact. The various instructions that have been issued from time to time both by Government and by Financial Commissioners to the settlement officers have been that they should not assess high. This has been the corner stone of the policy of the British Government so far back as 1846 and I think it still holds good.

Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram : Not after 1929.

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : Perhaps the House would be interested to know that Sir John Lawrence when Commissioner, Jullundur, gave the following instructions to the settlement officers and I challenge the honourable friend from Rohtak (Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Chhotu Ram) to contradict me. Sir John Lawrence was ever for low assessment. Writing to George Christian when entering on settlement work he said "Mind you, assess low, if you do not, I shall be your enemy for life and indeed what is worse, you will be your own. Let nothing tempt you to assess high." These were the instructions which were issued in 1846. Is there any reason why as a Revenue Member and as a zamindar I should allow any such thing or encourage a settlement officer to assess high? I know, as I told you that the task of estimating the average yield is a difficult task and I do not claim perfection for it. There may be mistakes here and there, but it is for you to show and it is for us to listen. The abstract was issued in September and I hope the objections have been lodged. If so, they will receive very careful consideration of officers concerned. With these words I oppose the motion to reduce the grant.

Mian Nurullah : I do not want to take much time of the House in replying to this debate, but one thing I do want to clear up. The greatest point made by Government was that in spite of these rules and in spite of the officers following these rules, it is impossible to get an average which is above the maximum of any particular item in the whole lot. That is an arithmetical problem which the honourable members of this House should know. There are four or five methods by which average is taken. What I have said is that the average which is actually going to affect us and is going to form the basis of assessment is the average mentioned in a communiqué issued in Lyallpur and that average seems to be more than all the averages. If you have two methods and one gives you 40 maunds and the other 20 then the average is going to be 30 but not lower and that is the greatest point on which there is some misunderstanding and I do hope that the House will realize that. Secondly, the Leader of my party has suggested that a committee should be appointed in which officials should sit and this question may be pondered over and decided by them and if necessary new rules may be adopted and he has suggested that unless this is done, this motion should be pressed.

Mr. President : Question is—

That the total grant be reduced by Rs. 100.

The Council divided : Ayes 35, Noes 29.

Mr. President : Question is—

That a supplementary sum not exceeding Rs. 44,790 be granted to the Governor in Council to defray the charges that will come in course of payment for the year ending the 31st of March, 1936, in respect of Land Revenue.

The motion was carried.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION (RESERVED).

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan (Revenue Member): I move—

That a supplementary sum not exceeding Rs. 58,560 be granted to the Governor in Council to defray the charges that will come in course of payment for the year ending the 31st of March, 1936, in respect of General Administration (Reserved).

The motion was carried.

POLICE.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member): I move—

That a supplementary sum not exceeding Rs. 72,670 be granted to the Governor in Council to defray the charges that will come in course of payment for the year ending the 31st of March, 1936, in respect of Police.

Mr. President: Motion moved—

That a supplementary sum not exceeding Rs. 72,670 be granted to the Governor in Council to defray the charges that will come in course of payment for the year ending the 31st of March, 1936, in respect of Police.

Shahidganj disturbances.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq (Hoshiarpur-cum-Ludhiana Muhammadan, Rural) (Urdu): The attention of the Government has been drawn many a time before and I have made it amply clear to them that the expenditure on the Police Department is excessive and that it ought to be reduced. It is most unfortunate that the Government themselves create a difficult situation with the result that they have to increase the strength of the police to handle it. The Government by their awkward handling of a situation make matters worse and in the end find that it has become an issue of far greater importance than they could ever imagine with unrest and consequent increased expenditure on police following in its wake. If Government were to proceed wisely and handle matters with tact I am sure the necessity for increasing the strength of police will gradually disappear and the expenses in this connection will also decrease. But Government always turn a deaf ear to what we say. I may mention here, that on a previous occasion the Honourable Finance Member in the course of a debate made an uncalled for remark to the effect that "some members make allegations against the Government." Although it had no reference to any particular member yet it shows the spirit in which our remarks are taken by Government. If you were to take the case of Shahidganj you will find that what is wanted is not an increase in the police force but on the contrary it is the policy of the Government that requires revision. The first thing that I want to submit in this connection is that in the beginning when the trouble in connection with the Shahidganj first cropped up the Government proceeded with it very wisely. They proclaimed that there were no apprehensions of the mosque being demolished and that they would not allow any action to be taken with regard to it until and unless the Sikh and Muslim communities arrived at some settlement acceptable to both of them. This undertaking was not only given verbally but also in writing. After that Government invited deputations from both the communities. The deputation which was sent by the Sikh community stated that they were not in a position to say whether the mosque would be demolished or not and that they were not in a position to give a definite promise to that effect but that they were not inclined to demolish it. The actual words used were

[Ch. Afzal Haq.]

"we do not mean to demolish it." After this stage if the Government had continued to proceed wisely as they did in the beginning, there would have been no occasion to spend so much money as they have already done in connection with the Shahidganj affair. If Government had continued to proceed tactfully after they had given the above mentioned assurance there would have been no need for more police and more expenses. Another astounding fact worth mentioning is that although the previous evening the Sikh deputation had made the statement referred to above yet on the night of the 7th July the demolition of the mosque had commenced. The mosque was demolished before any authorised committee of the Sikhs had decided the question whether the mosque should or should not be demolished. About 8 in the morning a representative body of Sikhs which was entitled to arrive at a decision regarding the demolition or otherwise of the mosque came to know that during the preceding night the mosque had actually been demolished and as such the matter had been taken out of their hands.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Might I ask the honourable member to repeat that statement? To begin with, might I have the promise which he says that Government have made? I find it terribly difficult to follow him. The debate is likely to be a very important one and I am sorry to say that I cannot hear what the honourable member says. If you would allow it I should like to have an English translation of it.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : I shall, with your permission, Sir, proceed with my speech in English.

The Sikh members of the deputation who waited upon His Excellency the Governor said in so many words that they had not given any promise but that they said clearly that they did not mean to demolish the mosque. (Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Quite right). Yes. With this hopeful promise from the representatives of the great community it was the duty of Government to see that, unless and until the Sikh deputationists themselves had sat and declared that that mosque would be demolished, that mosque was not pulled down. At eight o'clock in the morning, when that meeting was going on, one of their informers came hurriedly and said : "What are you doing? The mosque has already been demolished." Imagine the hopeless condition of the people. Even those who are legally empowered to say yes or no to a certain fact are not aware of it. That meeting of the Sikhs was held near Shahi mosque and one of them rushed to the scene where the Shahidganj mosque had been. What happened to him? He was informed by the officers—he went to see whether the news was true or not—responsible officers on the spot that no one could be allowed to go in. To the Government, Muhammadans and Sikhs are to be treated alike and I do not think the Government was justified in restricting that person. The Government was in possession of the fact that responsible Sikh leaders were not in favour of demolishing it and it was the duty of the Government to know who demolished it. After a few days Government made a statement to the public that the mosque was demolished because one of the Sikh leaders in the midnight declared before Guru Granth Sahib that if the mosque will not be demolished by the other party, he would demolish it himself. Who was that Sikh leader? There was no Sikh leader and the statement was contradicted by the Shiromani Gurdwara Prabandhak Committee. The statement of Government that a Sikh leader declared before Guru Granth Sahib that the mosque must be demolished was absolutely false. It is a false story. The question was asked who that leader was and Government had no answer to that. I will say, even if the biggest leader, whoever he may be, declares before Guru Granth Sahib in the way he is alleged to have done, in the face of the assurance given by the Sikh deputationists to His Excellency the Governor, was it not the duty of the Government to ask the deputationists : "What is being done here ? You said that the Sikhs do not mean to demolish the mosque, and in spite of it, the mosque is demolished ? Tell us whether you decided to demolish the mosque or not." In the absence of any such assurance it was the duty of the Government to take precaution that the mosque was not demolished. You may not believe me but on the night between the 7th and 8th July our office was informed that the mosque was going to be demolished. I was not here at the time but the Ahrar office was informed that the mosque was going to be demolished that night. One of the Ahrar workers gave the information to the leaders of the Shahidganj agitation. No one believed it because the attitude of the Sikh leaders and the assurance of Government was quite to the contrary. This was at 8 or 9 P.M. How could the mosque be demolished by an ordinary man ? Government had to admit that a crane was used for the purpose.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Crane, I do not think, is the right word. It was a winch outside the gurdwara which was used for demolition, not a crane.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : Whatever it was, how was it taken there ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Ask the Sikhs.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : I ask the Government.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Then the Government do not know.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : If they do not know, have they made an enquiry as to how the important part of the building was demolished in a night ? If the Government now make an enquiry as to with what instrument the building was demolished and how the instrument came there they will come to know many things.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Do you know where it came from ? Because we will be very glad if you tell us.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : My information is that the instrument had been brought by the railway people.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : On what understanding ?

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : I do not know what the understanding was, but whatever it was, have you got any record of the fact that such and such instrument had been handed over to such and such a person ? Would Government be prepared to hand over that instrument to anybody and everybody for use anywhere ? I have more harrowing details to tell of the whole affair. I cannot bring proof of that but my informer gives me this information that at 10 o'clock our military officers were in the know of it that the mosque was going to be demolished and that they were to help in the demolition.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That is an absolute lie. I think it is a shame that any member of this Council should repeat a lie of this kind without verifying the facts.

An Honourable Member : Sir, the word "lie" is unparliamentary.

Mr. President : The word "lie" is unparliamentary. The honourable member might have used the word "untrue," or "incorrect."

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : As the word "lie" is unparliamentary, I gladly withdraw it. I wish to say that the statement is totally untrue.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : I do not mean to rely on those statements.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Why repeat them? Have the fairness to verify them first.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : I have been a member of this House for a very long time. Even the Honourable Finance Member cannot say that I speak without feeling my responsibility, but I do say that my informer was a very honourable man. I do not say that every word I say is the gospel truth, but it is for Government to inquire into the facts as to whether they are true or not, but sitting on the opposite bench you can say anything and everything. You are the Finance Member and I cannot—

Mr. President : Will the honourable member please address the chair?

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : The correspondent of the Civil and Military Gazette asked one single question to the Government, that is when Government had given an assurance to the public that the mosque would not be demolished—

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : When was that assurance given?

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : On the 3rd or 4th by the Deputy Commissioner. Can Government deny that? If Government cannot deny it, what is the use of asking question? I have been advised to bring all these facts to the notice of this honourable House. I tried to do it on a previous occasion, but I was bitterly attacked by the Honourable Finance Member. I asked that time should be given to us to discuss the matter fully. To-day though I was busy abroad I came here in order to say that all these facts are borne out by documentary evidence with one exception, that exception being that the army officers knew that the building was going to be demolished. Otherwise whatever I have stated is based on the Government records. (An honourable member : What was the exception?) The exception being the instrument and the fact that the military officers were there before the demolition of the place.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I do not deny that there was a winch there. We learnt that the winch was there after the demolition started and not before. We had not the slightest information before hand that it was there.

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : It does not affect my case. Then I ask, how was that instrument removed and where was it removed to, and whether any officer had been reprimanded ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Reprimanded for what ?

Chaudhri Afzal Haq : Did any officer hand over the instrument to the Sikhs ? Again, it was declared by Government that a Sikh leader on the night of the 7th July had vowed before Guru Granth Sahib that if another party would not demolish the building he would demolish it. That statement was contradicted on oath, not by an ordinary man but by the President of the Gurdwara Committee.

I do not ask whether the responsibility for the demolition lies with the Sikhs or with the Muslims or with the Government. It is for the House to decide or to come to any conclusion it likes. What I say is that the Government has bungled the whole situation and after bungling the situation it has come to the House with a demand for one lakh of rupees. I can say that during fifteen years of my public life Government has never bungled so hopelessly as it has done in this case. And then Government comes to us with a demand for additional police. If Government had been clever enough, if it had been sympathetic enough, it could do everything even without police constables. I appeal to the House that Government should come forward and prove that what I have said is wrong ; otherwise what is the use of putting this demand before the honourable House ? Every member of the House realises that this is not an ordinary matter. This is a question of principle. Government does what it likes and it creates situations through its foolishness. After a month or so it comes to us for a demand of one lakh. I think that every member of this House will resent that policy.

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary) : I am at a slight disadvantage in answering some of the points raised by the honourable member, because with the best will it is not possible on these benches to hear precisely what he says. There are one or two allegations that he has made which require to be dealt with before this debate proceeds any further. The first allegation, as I understand it, is that some Government department—I could not hear whether these benches are accused of having connived with them or not—some Government department provided those who wished to demolish the mosque (interruption) or rather the building called the mosque—with the winch. Now some days after the demolition—I forgot how many days after—we heard that a winch was there. Where it was obtained from, I do not know. That Government had any information before demolition that there was a winch there is entirely untrue, absolutely untrue. We heard that there was a winch being used for the purpose of demolition after the demolition had started, may be two or three days later. Where that winch came from I do not know. If any honourable member will put a specific question whether the Government or any of its departments supplied the winch that was used to pull down this building, then an answer will be given.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Have you enquired ?

Mr. F. H. Puckle : No. There are plenty of winches in Lahore belonging to private people. A number of decent building firms in Lahore have some arrangements for pulling down buildings.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Perhaps the police or the military authorities may know.

Mr. F. H. Puckle : This is the first time that the Government have been accused of having connived at the demolition of the building by supplying the necessary implements. It has never been made before even in the vernacular Press. It is only on the floor of this House that this accusation is made. If any honourable member wants to have definite information he can ask a question and I undertake to give a reply. (Hear, hear.)

The next point is the undertaking which the Deputy Commissioner is said to have given. I presume the honourable member is referring to the undertaking which appeared in the columns of the Civil and Military Gazette dated the 3rd July. After a certain amount of preamble the undertaking was given apparently in this form :—

“ Both the mosque and the gurdwara are safe and the authorities have taken all possible measures to protect them pending a settlement of the dispute.”

That appeared on the 3rd July. Now I may take the House back a few days earlier. About the 29th June when the rumour first started about in Lahore that the mosque was to be demolished the Deputy Commissioner moved in the matter. He obtained from the local Gurdwara Committee an undertaking that they would not proceed further with the demolition until Government had had time to examine the whole case. Up to the 2nd July next, a date I am going to refer to, the local Gurdwara Committee abided by this undertaking. On the afternoon of the 2nd July the Deputy Commissioner saw a deputation of prominent Lahore Muslims. It consisted of Ghulam Mustafa Khan Naib, Dr. Shujaa-ud-Din, Maulvi Akhtar Ali Khan, Sayad Mohsin Shah, Professor Farrukh Hussain and Mian Feroze-ud-Din Ahmad. A certain number of these gentlemen who had spoken at a meeting held either the night before or on the night previous to that at which the question of Shahidganj was agitated, and some of them also later on the 6th July, were members of a deputation which waited on His Excellency the Governor and members of his Council. This was a representative Muslim deputation which knew quite well what they were talking about. Now contemporary documents, that is to say, the reports of the Deputy Commissioner written within 24 hours of the reception of this deputation, show that what he told them was that the local Gurdwara Committee had given him a solemn undertaking not to demolish the mosque until the Punjab Government had had time to come to a considered opinion on the rights of the question. That was the undertaking that was given and that was what those gentlemen understood the undertaking to be. I do not care what appeared in the Press. On the 6th—I am speaking now as an eye-witness—on the 6th when the deputation waited on His Excellency they were asked, “What guarantees have you been given?” They replied that they were told that the Deputy Commissioner would prevent the demolition of the mosque until the Punjab Government had examined the case. That was the only undertaking which was ever given and it was observed. It rested, as the House will understand, not on any power either legal or extraordinary which the Deputy Commissioner proposed to exert, but on an undertaking given to him by certain gentlemen who presumably were in a position to give it. That is all I wish to say about that undertaking.

I will now come to another rather less important point. The Government are accused—I am not quite certain on what grounds the Government are accused—of having said that the immediate cause of the demolition of the mosque was a statement by a certain Sikh leader that if the party in power in the local Gurdwara Committee did not demolish the mosque he would do it himself. Government did hear of that. The name of the gentleman was given as Kharak Singh, but who actually made that statement we do not know any more than my honourable friend does. We were only informed that that statement had been made. The statement was afterwards denied, I think, by Master Tara Singh. Thus on the one hand we had this information and on the other there is the denial of Master Tara Singh. However, that is immaterial. Government is not, in any case, responsible for the statements of Sikh leaders to whatever party they might belong.

Another accusation levelled against Government was that all the time the Government was cognisant of what was going on and that the officers, though they did not actually demolish the building, instigated the Sikhs to do so. That is an accusation which I can only describe as one of a succession of untruths that have been bandied about in the province. They were first made at a meeting on the 14th July outside the Mochi Gate and since then have been brought up time and time again. It is said that the troops, the police, all the forces of Government were in a position to guard the place before the demolition began. That is not, I say again, true. Even if it were true would it be a crime, would it be a great fault to have had our police there to prevent what we knew must be a bloody clash? But the facts are otherwise. The honourable member who has just spoken knows as well as I do that from the evening of the 5th July there was a company of British infantry at the gurdwara. That was all the military force there was in the city until about 5 A.M. on the 8th July, that is to say about four or five hours after the demolition of the mosque had begun. The House may be interested to know that at 11 o'clock on the night of the 7th July I was going to bed and before I went to bed I thought it better to ring up the Deputy Commissioner and find out that all was well. I rang him up and was told that there had been an excited Sikh meeting at the Shahidganj Gurdwara where much was talked about the alleged murder of a Sikh by a Muhammadan and that the Deputy Commissioner believed that the meeting had since dispersed and that there was no danger to the mosque that night. I went to bed immediately. At about 12 or 1 o'clock I was called on the telephone. I then heard from the Deputy Commissioner that he had received reliable information that the work of demolition had actually begun. I telephoned thereafter to the Brigade Commander and asked him to send troops. They arrived at about 5 A.M. or whenever dawn was. This is the correct version of the various allegations which the honourable member has made against the Government. (Cheers).

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq (Amritsar city, Muhammadan, Urban) : One does not want to throw oil on burning fire, but there are certain things which one must say on the floor of the House because this important question was not discussed at all during the present session. Now after the firing of the mob during the Shahidganj days in which about 20 or 25 or even 15 men were killed, no impartial enquiry was held by the Government. Now much of the complaint of the Government that lies or untruths were bandied about in the Punjab is due to the fault of the Government itself. The Government represents a constitution in which this House has no authority over them, practically no authority at all to control the destinies of this province. But what about the position of the elected representatives of this House who are responsible to their constituencies and to this province? Are they to allow the Government to do everything as it liked and then allow the matter to be forgotten or should they want that some enquiry should be made to find out how far the responsibility lay with the Government and how far untruths were bandied about in the province against Government? It was the duty of the Government in every civilised country or even in any colony, which is a Crown colony, where the responsibility lies on the

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

5 P.M.

Government to come forward before the world and tell them, here is the truth and here are the lies, and to separate them. The honourable the Chief Secretary—I know he is a perfect gentleman, he will never tell a lie, a deliberate lie or even a casual untruth—has told us the words which he received from the Deputy Commissioner, the words received from the military officers and the words received from the so-called leaders. We want to know really the truth about them. What did they do? If 15 people were killed in England, what would have happened? There would at once have been coroners' courts sitting where evidence would have been procured and a verdict given whether the fault lay on the mob or on the troops or on the police or on the Government. But what happened here? Nothing, no inquiry whatsoever. If ever anybody opened his lips he was interred, he was sent to some place, say Montgomery, or taken to Sialkot and all the newspapers for full three weeks were under the strictest censorship. The censorship was more severe than it was even in the days of the War. I had the honour to send a telegram on behalf of the Muslims, on behalf of the members of the Legislative Council and on behalf of municipal commissioners and other important persons to His Excellency the Governor and the Viceroy, requesting them to hold an enquiry and even such a telegram was suppressed by the Government and not published in the papers. Where was the mischief in this telegram? Even this telegram was censored by the Government and was not allowed to go into the papers. Then whom are they to thank, if allegations are made in the papers and rumours are current? Why did they not appoint an enquiry committee? I do not want one word of lie to be said against Government. At the same time I do not want one word of truth to be suppressed. What are we to say to the people? Are we to tell them to believe the words of the officers of Government without the papers being laid before us? After all Government consists of human beings; it is like a business concern, never giving out its secrets. No Government will admit even if they be wrong that they had blundered; so unless evidence both oral and documentary is placed before some authority to see whether it was right or wrong one cannot accept mere verbal assurances and I will be the first man to believe if an impartial committee of enquiry says that the Government's case was right. But simply to say it was right and people were wrong, this is truth and that is untruth, and these are the words uttered by some irresponsible persons, cannot be accepted. Government must distinguish between an act of bad management and an act of good management. Bad management is to allow so-called lies to be bandied about without being examined and contradicted by some authority. I have never heard so far and I hope the Honourable Mr. Boyd, who is, as a rule, not a very excitable person, will not get excited to-day.

Mr. President : The honourable member will please be impersonal.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : There is nothing personal. I am going to say that Government took no trouble to lay the case before the public. The Zamindar wrote something. It was suppressed. It was asked to deposit a security of Rs. 5,000 or Rs. 6,000. Similarly with Siyasat and Ihsan. It may be that Government in this way thought they would stop the trouble by suppressing the newspapers. Was it fair? If in England the Daily Mail sometimes called the Daily Liar, was to be suppressed by the Government—when it attacked Mr. Baldwin's Government in past days—or the Daily Express was to be stopped because it attacked Mr. Asquith or Mr. Lloyd George or some other papers were to be suppressed because they were not pleasing to the Government, we know what huge agitation there would have been. I know that these things never occur in regard to an English paper and an English paper will never be stopped because it attacks the Government. If the Government is attacked it is for the Government to answer the charges against them. Let them contradict the newspapers. They have never done it. But they have simply used this weapon of suppressing newspapers. What has happened? No sooner were the newspapers suppressed the word of mouth went on. You can stop a paper but how can you stop the word of mouth. The alternative was to have the cases tried against those newspapers. There were many rumours. One rumour was that two cranes were brought, one from the Civil Department and the other from the Railway Department. I was not there. I have never seen them. But if this was untrue or a lie, there was time for the Government to contradict it. The Chief Secretary said, if a question is put it will be answered in due time. Is this answer not an attempt to evade the question? (An honourable member : Winch). The word used was crane. Whatever it is, was any crane brought or not? Was it lent by a Government Department or not? When such lies were current, it was the duty of the Chief Secretary to come forward and say "I have enquired into the matter, no Government Department lent its crane. No Railway Department lent its crane and we are not responsible for these cranes." There the matter would have ended. They should have contradicted two months back. I read only yesterday about the Crusades. What did the whole Europe do? They went through oceans and travelled thousands of miles on land dying in the way, of hunger and thirst to reach that piece of land, called Holy Land in order to take possession of a Church. It is nothing new. Your own nation has been doing it, then why blame us? You may say that we are backward. You may also say that Crusades took place 500 years back. Yes according to your ideas we may be backward in this. But people do value what they consider sacred objects. It may be that they are sometimes mistaken. But to say simply that for the sake of a mosque, Mussalmans should not be excited, is not proper. Demolishing of a sacred building has always been resented and will always be resented. Aurangzeb is alleged to have demolished some temples. Though Muslims deny it, yet my Hindu friends have not forgotten it. The same about the Jazia—a small tax on Hindus for military and sanitary purposes—they never forget it. History says that whenever a temple was demolished, or a mosque or a church was demolished, people got excited. I have no complaint to make against my Sikh friends except this that they did not act in a friendly way. But this is a principle of paramount importance, that as soon as shooting takes place, there should be an impartial enquiry. If the Government stands before the public and convinces them that it has done all that human beings could do, I for one, will forgive it because I know that the carrying on of Government is not easy. I know there are some difficulties. Men are liable to make mistakes. But there is difference between a genuine mistake and a negligent and culpable mistake, and it is the duty of Government to prove beyond any doubt that it was justified in its action. I have not heard anything in this House which suggests that Government has done anything deliberately, but I am not in the counsels of Government, and so cannot admit that their action in shooting was justifiable. Even Government Benches stand condemned out of their own mouth. They say that the Deputy Commissioner told them that the mosque would not be demolished. But on the 7th July they started demolishing it. I ask, has the Government examined it? (The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: Yes.) In that case what was the result of your examination? Is it that the Sikhs had a right to demolish it? If that is the result, then the Government must come forward and say, "We examined the case and found that the Sikhs had a right to demolish it." If you had taken up this stand, then everything was finished and then Sikhs would alone have been responsible. Then we would have known on which person to lay the responsibility. Why should we fight with the Sikhs, why should we fight with the Hindus, when we know that Government deliberately allowed the Sikhs to demolish it, because they thought that they had a right.

[Sh. Muhammad Sadiq.]

Mr. Nanak Chand Pandit: Why should we fight at all?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq: I do not want to be diverted, but time will come when Mr. Pandit will get his answer and the result. Time will come when Raja Sahib will get his proper answer. (An honourable member: Is it a threat?) No, no. An examination will show what part these gentlemen took in the trouble. I am beyond that stage when people threaten. I do not believe in threats. It will show what part these gentlemen took in these affairs. Now if the Government had simply told us, "We examined the case and we found that the case of the Sikhs was good and they had a right to demolish it," it would have been good. We do not want these side-issues that the Deputy Commissioner never promised the Sikhs and so on. Tell the public fairly and squarely, and then we can know whether it is the fault of the Government or the Sikhs or the Muslims. But this is the first time that I have heard from the lips of the Government that they had examined it. Yet what do they find? They have not yet said that. What do you find, I ask? Do you find that our case was good? In that case Government becomes responsible for the demolition of the mosque—rightly or wrongly I do not say.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: I protest. They have found that one party has a legal right. How is Government responsible?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Responsible to this extent that you say that you do not know anything. I have never said that you encouraged demolition. Please understand it once for all. You become responsible for what followed afterwards—to this extent that you have not told us up to this time that you examined the case and found that the Sikhs were right.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I think the honourable member is mistaken.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : What mistake.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I will explain it later.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : If the Government had said even to-day that they found that the Sikhs had a perfect right to demolish it, it would have been all right. Why did they not say so? Up to this time people have been thinking that the Sikhs had demolished it despite Governments' persuasion, but it is said to-day that Government had examined it and found—after that it will be explained later by the Honourable Mr. Boyd—he has not yet told us. When they had examined it was it, not the duty of the Government to tell the Muslim deputation, to whom my honourable friend the Chief Secretary referred, "We have examined it and found that the Sikhs had a perfect right to demolish it?" Why did they not say so to the deputation?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd (Finance Member) : They did. That is exactly what the deputation was told on the morning of the 6th July that Government had examined the legal position and found that the Sikhs were legally in possession of the mosque and that Government had no legal power to prevent them from doing whatever they liked. That position was explained to the deputation on the morning of the 6th July. It is in the communiqué and the honourable member forgets.

Mr. F. H. Puckle : You were given a copy of this communiqué in this very House on the 14th of July.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I am very sorry if that communiqué has escaped my notice. If this was the position they should have taken precautions to stop the ingress of Sikhs in the mosque. They should have known that the trouble would start any moment.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : We did.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : But there is a communiqué of the Government that it is all the fault of the Sikhs and that there is no fault of the Mussalmans.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I beg your permission to answer that question. Government said that it regarded the Sikhs legally entitled to do whatever they liked, but that they condemned their action from the moral point of view. That is the position of the Government even to-day.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Then the position comes to this. The Government thinks that the Sikhs have a right to demolish the mosque and the Mussalmans have the right to condemn it. That is a funny position. Many a time where the property has vested in one person and another person is aggrieved by his possession of the property the Government has taken possession of the property to avoid trouble. But why could not the Government do the same thing here? Government did not think of these things while passing the Gurdwara Act when hundreds of Gurdwaras and property were handed over to the Gurdwara Committee without an inquiry as to whom the Gurdwaras and property belonged to, but the Government is to-day talking of legal rights of property in this province. I am sorry to hear that. They without examining the cases put gurdwaras in schedule A without considering whether the property belonged to A, B or C.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That was a private legislation.

Mr. President : The honourable member is irrelevant.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : I am sorry. After the first shooting had taken place naturally the crowds were excited. The Government very wisely, and I congratulate them on their commonsense and wisdom, put barricades. The object of these was to keep the people away. But all at once we found that these barricades were lifted and people dispersed. All the time the people were under the impression that so far as they were away from the barricades, they would not be fired upon, but the barricades were lifted and the people were shot at. My friends will say that I am making wrong allegations, but there are so many versions flying about that one is bound to ask that the case may be fully examined. One version is that people were shot while they were fleeing away in the garden. I am telling what the rumours are and I am not taking any responsibility for these statements. The people were shot after the roads had been cleared. A woman was cooking her food and the police struck her on her head. There is evidence to this effect. There is evidence that people were shot while they were running in the city. They were running away and were chased and shot at and if these things are true, it becomes the great responsibility of Government to have their position cleared. There is reliable evidence available which shows that these allegations are true. After all it is the duty of every Government to have such an enquiry and clear its position. In every European country it is the duty of the Government at once to make such an enquiry. My honourable friend may remember the case of the siege of Sydney Street in which there were anarchists who barricaded themselves in their houses and Mr. Churchill went there with machine guns and shot at them. There was at once a government enquiry because Government found that they would not stay in office even for two hours if they did not conduct an enquiry into the affair. By ordering an enquiry on Shahid-ganj firing the Government would dispel all the rumours which are current. Do you not know that Muslim India has shaken on account of this firing? We are not agitators, we honestly feel that we want to stop this agitation, but we know that the heart of the Mussalmans is bleeding, not on account of the enmity with the Sikhs, but on account of the severity of the Government action. So, it is in the interests of Government that they should come forward and say that these things are totally untrue and these are the real facts, that they are going to appoint a committee, as was done after the Martial Law days. And you remember that enquiry brought forward lots of things which were believed to be lies before the Committee of Enquiry was appointed. First take the question of firing. Very few governments in the civilized world indulge in it. There are tear gases, there are stinking gases and bombs and there are water-spouts and a lot of modern inventions to disperse the mobs. Why was resort not had to them for dispersing the mobs? Some of my friends may say that only a few Mussalmans were killed, so it does not matter, but a day may come when others may be similarly killed.

Rai Bahadur Mr. Mukand Lal Puri : Nobody said anything of that sort.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : It is only a question of principle. It is the right of the subject to be protected from illegal action of Government, be it a zamindar Government or a European Government or be it a Russian Government or Siamese Government. You must inquire whether the fire was unnecessary or too long. These questions Muslim India wants very much to be answered by Government, by means of an enquiry committee. What the Government says is that we have given you a dose of bullets, and we now want 300 constables to treat you similarly when the necessity arises. If the public want to do a thing and they are determined, they do that even if you resort to shooting. All that happens is this. You shoot the people for ten days or for 15 days, but you cannot stop them from their purpose unless you meet their reasonable demands. What can one assistant superintendent of police do? The Government is sitting absolutely blind and deaf to the requests of the people of this province. We have requested that those people who have been interned should be released or should be tried. What is the answer? The Government say that if the public behaves, they will let them off. That might more suitably come from the old Russian premier and it might have come more suitably from the lips of Mussolini or from the lips of Hitler, but I am sorry to hear it from the lips of the Finance Member belonging to a constitutional country like England.

Mr. President : What did he say?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : He says that unless the people behave, he cannot release the persons who have been interned in prisons. Are they hostages? If an enemy of Zafar Ali Khan wants to keep him in jail for the rest of his life all he has to do is to go on making noise and this will keep him in jail. Has the Government come forward with a charge against Zafar Ali Khan that this is his seditious speech and he should be prosecuted for it. If Zafar Ali Khan had said something very bad, he should be tried. Try him in jail where public cannot go, if this is what you are afraid of. Let these people get a fair chance. You cannot keep them indefinitely in prison. Have you been able to stop other Muslims coming into Lahore, and can you stop the Frontier Mail, the Calcutta Mail and can you stop people from the whole of India from coming into Lahore? Even in Congress days Government could not stop people from going to several places. It is only when the root cause is taken away that people behave normally. You promised to give reforms to the country and it weakened the case for the congress agitation. Similarly if you come forward with the acceptance of our demand this agitation will cease. No Mussalman in this House wants this agitation provided the demands of the Mussalmans are honourably met with.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : May I know what they are?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Surely the Government is not so ignorant.

Mr. President : The honourable member may answer the question straight away ?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Do they sincerely want to know what our demands are ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I honestly want to know the demands in order to give a reply to them.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Then I request my honourable friend to read the resolutions passed during the last two months in the Badshahi mosque and other places.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I do not feel quite sure whether Mr. Sadiq agrees with this resolution. I want to know what he regards as reasonable demands.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : Then read the resolution passed only yesterday. Either the Criminal Investigation Department is lacking in its duty, or the honourable member is pretending ignorance. These demands are—(Urdu).

- (1) Enquiry into the firing, its necessity and its results and compensation to the survivors of the people killed.
- (2) Release or trial of persons interned.
- (3) Return of securities forfeited of papers.
- (4) Restoration of the rights of Mussalmans over the mosque.

(Some honourable members : There was no demand for compensation.)

That was a demand made by me and it was passed in the Badshahi mosque and I cannot deny it. I cannot start telling lies and speaking untruths simply to please others. That was a demand which was carried at the meeting at Badshahi mosque. It might have been given up later on.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : What is the haq, Sir, may I know ?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : When I begin to deal with that aspect, surely, Sir, you will call me to order as that would be dealing with a matter sub judice.

Mr. President : Certainly.

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : When the Honourable Member knows that I cannot refer to that aspect of the matter at length, he interrogates me. I have great respect, as a lawyer for the courts of justice, and the Honourable Finance Member, if he would compel me to answer his question, would oblige me to cast off that respect. I am tongue-tied in the matter and he knows it as well as I do. These are the Muslim demands, and I ask, are they not fair? Did not the Government release thousands of Akalis, did they not similarly let off thousands of Congressmen? We ask for a similar treatment in the case of these persons. When people who have made sacrifice for a cause are interned in other places, when the community feels that they are not given adequate allowances for the support of their families, when their papers are suppressed, when the whole community feels that the affair for which so many Muslims have shed their blood is still unsettled, is it not right that these demands should receive their due consideration? I do not want to say one word which would excite public feeling or condemn the Government unless there is ample justification. I only say that these rumours should be stopped and that can be done only if the Government come forward, and institute an enquiry by a committee, to satisfy everyone, not only the Muslims but the Sikhs and the Hindus that what was done by the Government was above board, what the Government have done was absolutely necessary, that only minimum force was used, that what the Government bluebooks show as having been done by Government was done honestly. If that is done, I will be the first person to contradict the false rumours against the action that Government has taken in the matter. Unless the Government comes forward to establish and prove their case, how can we go to the public and tell them that the rumours are baseless? How can we refute the rumours if the Government dare not come forward into the open by instituting an enquiry into the affair? Till then it is wrong to think that the public mind will be at ease, that the public will believe in whatever the Government say unless it is proved in an impartial enquiry that the action taken was just and fair. What took place between the deputy commissioner, the deputation and the Governor should be made clear to the mind of the public. It should not be open to the deputationists to say that such and such a thing did not happen at the meeting. Are we to go to each member of the deputation to ask what really did happen. It may be that the Chief Secretary's version is wholly true but the question is that unless it comes on oath that it did happen the public at large cannot have confidence in the account given. I say it is in the interests of Government, in the interests of the internal peace of the province, that an enquiry should be made. The time has come for instituting it and it would save this waste of money on having three hundred constables who will have nothing else to do except removing flies off them and taking the dust of Lahore streets in their lungs. By keeping the police at public places you only attract the attention of the public, you have made people think that there is something abnormal. It is said that when people go to England, they find the country peaceful and calm and they say that England is very well governed. If people on the other hand go to Russia and find spies following them, the military running after them, they say that there is something wrong about the country. Why do people say, peaceful England? Why not, peaceful Russia? The difference is that in England there is no extra police and the policeman goes about in an inconspicuous way like a ship travelling on the wide expanse of the waters. In Russia on the other hand spies make frequent enquiries and give all sorts of trouble to the visitor. It is so with the Nazi Germany, so with Italy. If you want to tell the people that this country is peaceful and if you want to keep the country at peace remove this extra police. The force is doing no good. They can at best stop rioting at one place but people run to another place and repeat the mischief. It does not benefit the country to keep this extra force. I do not say that police is unnecessary. Police is necessary, it is a necessary—I do not say, evil, but—establishment for it is this very police which is going to be the servants of the future democratic government of this country. I am not going to use one word against the police and call it a necessary evil or some such word. No, the police is necessary as bread and butter for human beings. It is a necessary force, it must be employed if necessary. But unnecessary display of police force or military force leads you nowhere. I do not therefore want this extra police force, because I feel that by taking conciliatory measures you can remove the necessity of this extra force. I want peace and prosperity in the province. I want to live at peace with my Sikh friends and Hindu friends. In six months, within one year, all of us are going to forget these sores and I say that the Muhammadan community will rise to the occasion. We have learnt from the lessons of Egypt how one community can give liberal concessions to another. The copts who were the enemies of the Arabs are now thick friends of theirs for where they wanted one minister, the Arab leader gave them two. Similarly if the Hindus want two ministers, we shall give them three, if the Sikhs want one, we shall give them two. So far as the sister communities here are concerned the Muslims are determined to live at peace with them, to give them no cause for irritation. I only want the Government to help us. I will never say that the Government have done anything deliberately because it is not in my mind. But I am a strong critic of the Government for the action they took after the affair. Men make mistakes, there can be wrong judgment. It is just possible that Government might have thought that by helping the Muslims they might start trouble with the Sikhs. I realise that their choice was between the devil and the deep sea. We can make mistakes. But what was the conduct of the Government after that? They ask us to keep mum and they refuse us the right to have their action examined. Why then should Government say this is untrue and that is untrue. All the newspapers which could contradict mis-statements going about are gagged, all the leaders are in the lock-up. Probably the Government thought they would stop the movement. But what is the result? Eighty thousand Muslims walking about. (The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang: They were out to remove the irritation?) An ex-Congress leader speaking in this way! Did he not join the processions in 1919? Of course it was before he was appointed Minister. (The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang: No, I did not join). Yes, the Honourable Member did and rode a high horse in those days.

I therefore most respectfully, most strongly urge upon the Government that the time has come to make an impartial enquiry. Enquire into the causes and the whole course of the affair. Appoint a High Court Judge with some non-official members to go through the whole question and clear the name of Government. We do not want it, it gives us no pleasure to see the Government's name besmirched. We should like the Government to be exonerated if they had acted rightly as they say. On the other hand, if it turns out that the Government has bungled—I would simply ask this House to give a chance to the public to show that they were right—if that is established and if somebody has bungled, my friend, Mr. Ghani suggests, that they must be punished, and I agree I am in touch with the people of the province, that people are of the strong opinion that Government should have made an enquiry whether that shooting was necessary, whether people have been rightly interned, whether Government have not stopped the newspapers without justification by asking such high security that those papers and presses could not afford. These measures will not bring peace unless Government by an impartial enquiry tell the people that the public opinion was wrong. I would therefore urge that the Government should not delay in instituting this enquiry.

Mr. President : How often is the honourable member going to repeat the same argument ?

Shaikh Muhammad Sadiq : If it has appealed to you, Sir, I am sure that it has appealed to the Government also, and I will not repeat it. I request the Government to clear up the whole position and give us an assurance in the matter so that if we feel that the Government have done their best in the matter and that in future they would take the public and this House into their confidence, certainly our attitude would be different towards them. But till that is done we would only say that this grant is unnecessary. (Cheers).

Mr. E. Mayadas (Non-official, nominated) : I would invite the attention of the House to these words in the Explanatory Memorandum attached to the Supplementary Estimates :—

In view of the urgent necessity of relieving the police summoned from other districts and provinces as soon as possible and to provide an adequate centralized reserve to deal with possible contingencies it was essential to raise the strength of the Provincial Additional Police.

The question is whether an emergency has arisen and if it has arisen, whether additional police is needed. Everybody admits that in normal times we require some police, but when there are abnormal times then every reasonable person will admit that the strength of the police should be increased. Who is to judge the strength of the additional police required ? Government is the only authority that can judge that strength, because it is responsible for the maintenance of peace and order. That the emergency did arise very suddenly is proved by the fact that Government was unprepared and they had to send for military and for police from other provinces. In the past also there have been similar disturbances and I ask, where do we stand to-day ? I say that we stand under the shadow of what looks like a coming event. There is a proverb : "Coming events cast their shadows before." In the past we have passed through such shadows and we also know that such events have been followed by shedding of blood, looting and arson. There have been occasions about which we can say that, Government at the time did not take sufficient precautions. The strength of the police at that time was insufficient and that is how it was that those disturbances grew into big affairs. For instance, the disturbances that took place at Rawalpindi. What happened there ? After the trouble was over there arose the question of compensation and restoration of property. Certain persons were fined and money was to be recovered from them and other people were to be compensated and property was to be restored, but later on what happened ? In this very Council Chamber all that fine which ran into lakhs of rupees, was remitted by the vote of this Council. Who then had to pay for the compensation and for the restoration of property ? Was it not that the entire province had to bear the burden ? At the present time Government has asked for about Rs. 73,000. I ask, is it better to spend Rs. 73,000 now or to run the risk of paying several lakhs of rupees later on ? In fact one would be inclined to say the police should have been recruited much earlier so that even the small trouble that has arisen may not have arisen.

[Mr. E. Mayadas.]

We find that the proposal is to recruit 300 police constables for a period of six months, and, I would here respectfully request the Government if they have no objection and if suitable Indian Christian constables can be found, to fill up some of the posts by the Indian Christians.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan (Sialkot, Muhammadan, Rural): Enough has, I think, been said about the Shahidganj affair, but I think that certain facts have not been brought out. I would just give a passing reference to those facts. One is that the officers in charge of the situation when this occurrence took place were the City Magistrate and the Deputy Commissioner. Both of these officers were Sikhs. Lest it should be taken that I am casting any reflection on these officers as officers, I would at the outset say that I have nothing to say against these two officers because of their being Sikhs. My point is that the situation being a Sikh-Muslim affair, it would have been very good policy on the part of the Government to hand over the charge of this situation, at any rate, to some official though not a Muslim yet who could be considered impartial. Mr. Askwith was called in, but he was given over charge of the cases and other court work of the Deputy Commissioner. The Government blundered in not giving him charge of the situation and Mr. Partap, the Deputy Commissioner, the charge of the work given to Mr. Askwith.

I said that I would not say anything against these officers and I do not propose to do so, but even if these officers were honest and I do not say that they were not, but just because they were Sikhs it would naturally give cause of mistrust to the Muslims and they would not proceed to see whether or not these officers were doing their duty properly and any steps taken by these officers would be resented by the Muslims because they belonged to a community with which the Muslims were at variance. Therefore I say it would have been very good policy on the part of Government to hand over charge of this situation to Mr. Askwith who did not belong to either community and therefore would have had a better hold of the situation than Mr. Partap.

There is another fact which I want to bring out and that is this. The Sikh jathas were allowed to come in but the Muslims who wanted to go towards the Shahidganj mosque or the gurdwara (whatever it was), were stopped. I say that the Muslims had as much right to approach that place as the Sikhs, and if the Sikhs could not be stopped, the Muslims could not be stopped either.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd: I must correct the honourable member. Nobody was allowed to go in or out of the Shahidganj gurdwara after troubles began, neither Muslims nor Sikhs.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan: For one full night the Sikhs jathas were allowed to go in. I do not blame the Sikhs. Everyone has a right to go to his place of worship. The Sikhs thought that it was a gurdwara and that they had every right to go to that place being a gurdwara. The Muslims thought that it was a mosque and therefore they had as much right as the Sikhs to go to that mosque. This differential treatment meted out to the two communities is bad management on the part of Government. I am not blaming either community. My Sikh friends need not take offence at this, but I certainly do say that it was bad policy on the part of Government to hand over charge to officers belonging to a community which was involved in this affair, thereby giving cause to Muslims to think in the way they did. The Muslims thought that because the City Magistrate was a Sikh, therefore the Sikhs were allowed to come into Lahore, whereas the Muslims were not allowed.

The Chief Secretary referred (or perhaps the Finance Member did) to the legal right and moral responsibility. There are other situations as well where legal right and moral responsibility may be at variance with each other, but in those situations has the Government ever done what it did here—to say to the person who is exercising a legal right: “You have the legal right, go ahead.” The Government told one community: “The moral responsibility is yours, therefore we will see to it that that moral responsibility is considered by you. That situation would be exactly the same as any incident arising out of cow slaughter.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : Quite wrong. There is a law against cow slaughter.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : The legal right for anybody to slaughter a cow would not be denied.

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I do deny it, Sir. Under the Punjab Laws Act, there are rules prohibiting cow slaughter except under definite conditions.

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : On the I'd day for instance. But even if that is not correct, there would be a situation where the moral responsibility lies on the community which exercises its legal rights. Would the Government in each one of those cases be prepared to take action as it did in this matter? I think not. Why then did they do it here?

There are other points against the police outside the Shahidganj affair, and I would now go into them. The police of other countries—those of us who have had experience of police in other countries would be at one with me—take themselves to be true public servants and they show themselves as such and also as the friends of the public. Take, for instance, the British police. You go to a police constable and ask him the whereabouts of a certain place or a street and he will give you the necessary particulars, he will give you directions, he will tell you to take the second turning to the right or the third to the left, and he will guide you to the place. But what about the police constable here? Ask him any particular place you want to go to and the only answer he will give—

Mr. President : The honourable member is irrelevant. -

Chaudhri Asadullah Khan : I would submit that because the motion for the discussion of the Shahidganj affair was not moved, therefore I think—subject to correction of course and I bow to any ruling given by you, Sir,—that the whole of this demand by Government is being opposed. The demand being for the police I would submit that I have a right to bring out the other facts against the police as well besides the Shahidganj affair.

PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

5TH SESSION OF THE 4TH PUNJAB LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Thursday, 14th November, 1935.

The Council met at the Council Chamber, at 2 P. . of the clock. Mr. President in the chair.

STARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SHAHID GANJ AGITATION.

*4948. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member please state—

- (a) how many persons have been externed in connection with the Shahid Ganj mosque trouble;
- (b) what briefly were the charges against each of them and who brought those charges;
- (c) what provision for the maintenance and housing of them has been made by the Government, and what allowances, if any, have been given to their dependents?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Eighteen.

(b) The Punjab Government were satisfied that these persons had acted and were about to act in a manner prejudicial to the public safety or peace.

(c) The internees have been granted subsistence allowances as shown in column 4 of the statement annexed hereto.

Statement showing the amount of allowances sanctioned for internees in the Shahidganj agitation.

ASSISTANT DISTRICT INSPECTORS FOR PHYSICAL TRAINING.

*4949. Chaudhri Allah Dad Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that physical training men attached to districts are designated assistant district inspectors for physical training ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that certain persons holding merely senior vernacular certificates are also working as permanent assistant district inspectors ;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the starting grade of an assistant district inspector is Rs. 80—4—100 ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that the grade of assistant district inspectors mentioned in (b) above is Rs. 80—4—100 ;
- (e) whether it is a fact that there are several assistant district inspectors for physical training who have been given the starting grade of Rs. 55—3—70 ;
- (f) whether it is a fact that the assistant district inspectors mentioned in (e) above are Muslims and not one is a Hindu or Sikh in the grade of Rs. 55—3—70 ;
- (g) whether it is a fact that the Muslim assistant district inspectors for physical training getting Rs. 55—3—70 have exactly the same qualifications as several non-Muslims getting the grade of Rs. 80—4—100 ;
- (h) whether there are any reasons why this discrimination has been made in the case of Muslims ;
- (i) what Government proposes to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) There are four assistant district inspectors for physical training in Rs. 55—3—70 grade.

(f) Yes.

(g) and (h) There is only one non-Muslim with similar qualifications in Rs. 80—4—100 grade, but he was appointed direct in this grade on account of his good work while under training. It may further be added for the honourable member's information that ordinarily trained graduates with special qualifications for physical training are appointed as assistant district inspectors for physical training and that a few Matriculate Junior Anglo-Vernaculars were appointed only because the Department fell short of the requisite number of fully qualified assistant district inspectors for physical training.

(i) They will be considered for promotion in due course.

RESTORATION OF CUT IN THE COMMISSION OF SUB-REGISTRARS.

*4950. Pir Akbar Ali : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the cut in the pay of the Government servants has been restored;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the cut of 20 per cent. in the commission of sub-registrars, Punjab, has not yet been restored; if so, when it is proposed to restore it as a whole or a portion thereof?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) Yes.

(b) The reply to the first part is in the affirmative while to the latter part it is not proposed to restore the cut which was adopted as a retrenchment measure in order to give effect to the recommendations of the 1931 Punjab Retrenchment Committee.

PAUCITY OF MUSLIM OFFICERS IN GURDASPUR DISTRICT.

*4951. Khan Bahadur Mian Ahmad Yar Khan Daulatana : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Government is aware that the Muslims of Gurdaspur have represented their grievances to the Government in connection with the paucity of Muslim officers in that district;
- (b) if so, what action has been taken on the representation of the Muslims of Gurdaspur?

Mr. F. H. Puckle (Chief Secretary): (a) and (b) Government have received several posters stated to have been published by the Muslims of Gurdaspur. Some of these state that Muslims are dissatisfied with the district staff and others that they are satisfied. In the circumstances Government have taken no action.

MOLESTATION OF SCHOOL BOYS BY RUFFIANS.

*4952. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state—

- (a) whether his attention has been drawn to the resolution passed on 3rd July, 1935, at a special meeting of the Headmasters' Association, Lahore, regarding the ever-growing activity of the gundas against school boys;
- (b) if so, what action has been taken in the matter?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter was referred to the Deputy Inspector-General of Police who has taken suitable action.

MOLESTATION OF SCHOOL BOYS BY RUFFIANS.

*4953. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state what further action has been taken in view of his reply to question No. *8471, part (d),<sup>1</sup> dated 21st February, 1935, that he will see that the law on the subject is obeyed?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The police authorities deputed a constable in plain clothes to watch the gundas and I understand that the molestation has ceased.

MOLESTATION OF SCHOOL BOYS BY RUFFIANS.

*4954. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Minister for Education please state what law or laws he had in view at the time of answering part (d) of question No. *8471 ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : The police authorities deputed a constable in plain clothes to watch the gundas and I understand that the molestation has ceased.

MOLESTATION OF SCHOOL BOYS BY RUFFIANS.

*4955. Sardar Jawahar Singh Dhillon : Will the Honourable Finance Member be pleased to state what action he proposes to take in view of the defective provision of the existing law according to which molestation of boys by ruffians is not a cognisable offence ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : In cases of the kind which the honourable member appears to have in mind it is nearly always possible to apply one section or another of the existing law. No practical difficulties have been experienced by the police in dealing with this type of hooliganism.

SHAHIDGANJ.

*4956. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly lay on the table a brief résumé of the conversation which took place between His Excellency the Governor and the first Muslim deputation led by Maulana Zafar Ali Khan in connection with the protection of the Shahid Ganj mosque, if the Honourable Finance Member was personally present at the time or in case a record of the conversations was kept ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The honourable member is referred to Punjab Government Press Communique No. 1879, dated the 10th July, 1935, which contains a brief account of the discussions and a copy of which is laid on the table.

COMMUNIQUE.

In order to remove any misunderstandings that may exist, the Punjab Government consider it desirable to give a brief account of the discussions that took place between them and Muslim and Sikh deputations on the 6th and 7th of July, and the efforts that were made to bring about a peaceful solution in the Shahidganj gurdawara dispute. While these discussions were taking place, it was obviously necessary in the interest of a settlement to regard them as confidential, but this necessity no longer exists, and the Punjab Government believe that inaccurate accounts are already current. It must be understood that the following account is necessarily a summary only of discussions which lasted for some hours, but it is an accurate description of the main facts.

[Hon. Mr. D. J. Boyd.]

The Punjab Government was represented by His Excellency the Governor and the Honourable Member for Finance. There were also present the Chief Secretary, Commissioner, Lahore division, Inspector-General of Police, Deputy Commissioner, Lahore and the Legal Remembrancer to Government, Punjab.

(2) The Punjab Government first met a deputation of Muslim gentlemen on Saturday, the 6th of July, at 11 A.M. The discussions lasted for about 2½ hours. These gentlemen expressed fully and strongly the views of their community both from the legal and general standpoints. They referred to the history of the mosque, and laid particular stress on Muslim law of wagf. While they agreed that this was not part of the civil law of the country, they represented that it was in relation to the doctrine of wagf that the Muslims regarded the matter, and that the principle which especially affected their views was that a building which had once been made wagf remained wagf for ever. They said that Muslim lawyers were exploring among themselves whether any further legal remedy in regard to the mosque existed under the ordinary civil law. They explained the strong feeling that existed about this question in their community, and the strong wish held by them that the building should be returned to the Muslims. They said that if this was not possible, the least that would satisfy them was that it should be left as it was and that it should not be used for purposes which would offend the feelings of Muslims. They asked that Government should do all that was possible to secure a solution that would satisfy their community.

His Excellency explained to them that the Punjab Government had carefully examined the legal aspect of the case and were bound by the decisions of the civil courts. These had been consistently in favour of the Sikhs and in particular the Gurdawara Tribunal had rejected the claim made by the Anjuman-i-Islamia in connection with the mosque. It was clearly not possible for Executive Government to go behind those decisions. They had also considered action under the criminal law, but had reached the conclusion that this also was not possible. This being so, the only means of solution appeared to be an agreement between the parties, honourable to both. He assured the deputation that Government would do their utmost to bring the Sikhs to a reasonable frame of mind, and with this object in view proposed to explore with the Muslims all possible solutions, it being recognised of course that the solution must be acceptable to both parties. Various suggestions were then made and discussed, some being dismissed as unacceptable to Muslims, some being regarded as definitely acceptable, and as regards others acceptability or otherwise depended on general Muslim opinion which had not been ascertained. After discussion of all suggestions put forward, the view of the Muslims remained the same, viz., that the least which would satisfy their community was that the mosque should be left as it was and not used for any purpose which would offend Muslim feelings. The Muslims were assured that all possible solutions would be fully explored with the Sikhs, that in particular it would be impressed upon them with the greatest emphasis that, whatever their civil rights might be, their moral responsibility was extremely great, and that no effort would be spared to persuade them to take a reasonable view of the matter and to defect them from a course which must have grave consequences. His Excellency explained that the reports he had received showed that feeling was very strong also on the other side, and that he thought that one of the greatest difficulties in the way of a solution by consent was the feeling on both sides. He asked the deputation to do everything possible to improve the atmosphere. They readily agreed to do this and promised their hearty co-operation.

(3) The Punjab Government met a deputation of Sikh gentlemen the same afternoon at 2-30 P.M., and the discussion lasted for nearly three hours. They said that there could be no talk of any compromise or settlement so long as Muslim agitation continued. They explained at length the history of the building and the legal position. They said that the decisions had been consistently in favour of the Sikhs, who now had the right to do what they liked with the building. It was represented that for various reasons it was bound up with the history of the Sikhs and had a special place in their religion. The Sikhs were fully determined that the mosque should not go back to the Muslims. They held that so long as the building was in existence, Muslim agitation would be continued. They said that if any concession was made on this occasion, pressure would be brought to bear upon them to give further concessions, and the case of other buildings might be raised. This was a position they could not contemplate. It was pointed out to them that Government recognized the force of the decisions of the civil courts, and realized that they were not prepared to give up their rights which those decisions had given them, but the question was now one of demolition. The building had been in their possession for 170 years and their rights had not been affected by its existence. Demolition would in the present state of feeling give great offence to another community, would produce a grave situation in Lahore itself, would probably have reactions in the province generally, would embitter relations between the communities and have effects which it would be difficult to remove. They would accept a very grave responsibility if they did something which might easily plunge the province into disorder. They should remember that they would find it difficult to satisfy public opinion as regards their action. It was surely possible to find a solution which would in no way prejudice their civil rights and yet be acceptable to the other side. The matter was one of the utmost gravity and they should do nothing which would put them in the wrong. Every effort was made to persuade them not to take precipitate action. Various suggestions were put forward with a view to finding a solution, but they were not accepted. The farthest the Sikhs would go was to say that there was no intention to demolish at present, and there was a suggestion that, if agitation by Muslims ceased, their attitude might change. It might then be possible for them, while making it perfectly clear that they retained the right to do what they liked with the building, to let it be known to the Muslims that the latter could rely on their good sense. They made it clear, however, that they would give no assurance at present to this effect and that if any statement was published that an assurance of this kind had been given, they would deny it.

Attempts were made to get at least an understanding that demolition would not be carried out until after an agreed period, so that there might be time to explore all possibilities. They said that they could not give even an assurance of this kind, but they gave Government to understand that a final decision for or against demolition would not be reached until a meeting of the Shiromani Gurdawara Parbandhak Committee which was to be held in Lahore on the 8th of July. Government asked the deputation to arrange that if there was likely to be a decision by the Shiromani Gurdawara Parbandhak Committee in favour of demolition, they should meet the Punjab Government so that all possibilities of a settlement be once more thoroughly explored. The Sikhs were unable to give a definite assurance on this point but the suggestion was not rejected.

Finally, the necessity was impressed upon the Sikhs of their doing all that was possible to keep the atmosphere calm in Lahore by stopping bands of Sikhs coming there and by sending away some who had already arrived. His Excellency told the deputation that the Muslims had been asked to work towards the same end and had promised co-operation.

(4) The Punjab Government again saw the Muslim deputation at 12 noon on the 7th of July. The attitude of Sikhs was fully explained to the deputation, and it was made clear that it did not hold out much hope of a settlement. The reports of a meeting held by the Sikhs the previous night also showed that Sikh feeling was running very high. At the same time hope should not be abandoned, and the Punjab Government would continue their efforts. All possible solutions were again discussed, much the same ground being covered as on the previous occasion. It was again pointed out that the one chance of a settlement was to get a calm atmosphere in Lahore. There had been no demonstrations by Muslims the previous day, nor were there any on the 7th. In this connection Government acknowledge the successful efforts made by the Muslim leaders. It was explained to the Muslims that Government had been given to understand by the Sikh deputation that no final decision one way or the other would be reached until a meeting of the Shiromani Gurdawara Parbandhak Committee had been held in Lahore on the 8th, and that Government were endeavouring to secure that, before a final decision was reached, there should be further discussions with the Sikh leaders.

(5) In connection with the discussions with the Muslims, the Punjab Government have seen a report that the deputation put forward proposals that the mosque be demolished but that the Muslims should be allowed to remove the material for the purpose of building a mosque elsewhere. It is only fair to the members of the deputation to let it be known that this suggestion was not put forward by them. It was mentioned as a possibility to be explored in the last resort if no other solution could be reached, and the Punjab Government said that in that case they would be prepared to give Government land for the purpose. It was perfectly clear, however, that such a solution would be possible only if it were acceptable to the Muslim community generally. The deputation made it clear that there could be no question of its acceptance if the Muslims were not allowed themselves to do the demolition, and even in that case the solution did not appear to be one likely to commend itself to the Muslims generally. It was recognised at the most as a solution which it might be worth while to explore.

Subsequent to the meeting with the Muslims on the 7th, the Punjab Government, through the Deputy Commissioner, tried to secure that before a final decision was reached by the Shiromani Gurdawara Parbandhak Committee on the 8th, there should be further discussions between them and the Punjab Government. As explained in previous communiqués, the Sikhs did not wait for this meeting of the Shiromani Gurdawara Parbandhak Committee but commenced demolition.

(6) The Punjab Government have seen it stated that they gave an assurance to the Muslim deputation that the mosque would not be demolished. It is clear that in the circumstances of the case they were not in a position to give any assurance of this kind, and no such assurance was in fact given. They did assure the deputation that, so long as a way to a solution lay open, they would make every possible effort to reach one. This assurance was carried out. The way was closed by the Sikhs who preferred to take irretrievable action rather than carry on discussion for an honourable settlement.

PROVINCIAL AGRICULTURAL SERVICE.

*4957. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly lay on the table a statement showing :—

- (i) the names ;
- (ii) educational qualifications ;
- (iii) monthly salaries ; and
- (iv) periods of service ;

of such of the officers of the provincial services under the control of Honourable Minister for Agriculture, as have been appointed during the last nine years ?

The Honourable Sardar Sir Jogendra Singh : The honourable member is referred to the Civil lists and History of gazetted officers for the years 1926 to 1935.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE PUNJAB.

*4958. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the number of unemployed (both educated and uneducated) is increasing by leaps and bounds in the province ;
- (b) whether the Government is prepared to take steps for compiling statistics of the unemployed from year to year ; if so, when ; if not, why not ;
- (c) whether the Government proposes to take any steps for reducing the number of unemployed in the province ; if so, when ; if not, why not ;
- (d) whether Government has devised ways and means for reducing unemployment in the province, if so, what ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) Government have no definite information.

(b) No. To compile such statistics would in practice involve taking a yearly census of the population and Government do not consider that the result likely to be attained by the collection of such statistics would be worth the cost and labour involved.

(c) and (d) Government are doing what lies in their power to stimulate agriculture, industry and trade in the province and thereby reduce the number of unemployed.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it not a fact that the Punjab Government appointed a committee of enquiry with regard to unemployment in the province ? If so, what action was taken on the report of that Committee by the Government ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : The Punjab Government did appoint such a committee and I think a communiqué or a notification was issued at the time showing the action taken by Government on its report. If the honourable member will give me notice I will get him the required information.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it a fact that the Government appointed the committee only as regards unemployment among the educated classes and not as regards unemployment among the uneducated classes ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : I think that is correct.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Does the Government propose to institute an enquiry into the unemployment among the uneducated classes ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : I have not considered the question.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is the Government prepared to consider the question now ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : It may.

PUNJAB CRIMINAL LAW (AMENDMENT) ACT AND CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE.

*4959. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Finance Member kindly state—

- (a) the names of various associations banned by the Government under the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1932 ;
- (b) whether the said associations have or have not since undertaken to desist from civil disobedience ?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : (a) No associations have been banned under the Punjab Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1932, but the associations given below were declared unlawful under Section 16 of the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1908, as amended by the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, XXIII of 1932 :—

(b) These associations were not declared unlawful by reason of their connection with the civil disobedience movement.

Mr. M. A. Ghani : Is it not a fact that some of the associations were engaged in purely trade union movement?

The Honourable Mr. D. J. Boyd : That is not a fact.

ASSESSMENT OF CROPS.

*4960. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) whether the report compiled by the Department of Revenue or that compiled by the Department of Agriculture is considered authentic for assessing the condition of crops and average produce of the soil ;
- (b) whether it is a fact that the averages of produce compiled by the Department of Agriculture are usually higher than the actual averages ;
- (c) whether the Government propose to disregard this report while assessing average produce of the zamindars ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) The attention of the honourable member is invited to rule 5 of the Land Revenue Assessment Rules, 1929, and paragraphs 323—328 of the Settlement Manual. This is one of many tests prescribed.

(b) and (c) No.

VERNACULAR FINAL EXAMINATION RESULTS OF PRIVATE GIRL STUDENTS.

*4961. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the results of private girl students appearing for the Vernacular Final Examination are announced nearly a month later than those of other girl students ; if so, why ;
- (b) whether the Government propose to do away with this practice ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) No. The results of the private and other girl students for the Middle Standard Examination for Indian girls (which is evidently meant by the honourable member) are announced at one and the same time and those that call at the office are apprised of the necessary information. It, however, takes about a fortnight or so to communicate it by post to private candidates individually.

(b) It is not feasible to alter the existing practice.

MUSLIM MEMBERS OF MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, LYALLPUR.

*4962. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that the Muslim members of the Lyallpur Municipal Committee left it under protest ; if so, the reasons why they did so ;

- (b) whether it is a fact that for the last two years there has been not a single elected Muslim member on the committee;
- (c) if the answer to (b) be in the affirmative, what steps Government have taken to redress the grievances of the Muslim members in question?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a) The Muslims did not contest the elections as their request for the introduction of communal electorates in the municipality was not acceded to by Government. The appointed members resigned, probably for the same reason.

(b) Yes.

(c) Government does not admit that the Muslims have any genuine grievance. The question of Muslim representation is, however, being considered by local officers.

RABI CROPS.

*4963. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Agriculture kindly lay on the table—

- (a) the report in respect of the last rabi crop made by the officers of the Agricultural Department specially appointed for this purpose in tahsil Nawanshahr (Jullundur district) and tahsil Garhshankar (Hoshiarpur district);
- (b) the report in respect of the last rabi crops as entered in the "Lal Kitab" of the Revenue Department of tahsil Nawanshahr (Jullundur district) and tahsil Garhshankar (Hoshiarpur district);
- (c) whether these reports confirm the following—
  - (i) that the area under cultivation was less as compared with the preceding year;
  - (ii) that the yield of the wheat crop was very poor on account of storms, and the grain collected was very thin;
- (d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, what steps the Government have taken to help the zamindars of the area in question; if not, why not?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : I regret that the answer to this question is not yet ready.

GRIEVANCES OF ZAMINDARS ON NAUKHAR BRANCH OF UPPER CHENAB CANAL.

*4964. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

- (a) how much land on the Naukhar Branch of the Upper Chenab Canal has been under cultivation for the last three years, and how much land is under cultivation this year;
- (b) the reasons of decrease in the cultivated area;
- (c) whether it is a fact that the rice crop in the areas mentioned in (a) has been also affected;

[Ch. Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan.]

(d) whether the zamindars of the area made representation to the Chief Engineer and the Government against the construction of the outlets near the surface of the canal, which caused great loss and trouble to the zamindars ;

(e) what measures the Government has adopted for redressing the grievances of the zamindars concerned ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a)—

PROVISIONAL LIST OF VOTERS FOR THE PUNJAB ASSEMBLY.

*4965. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Member for Revenue kindly state—

(a) whether it is a fact that during the preparation of the provisional list of voters for the Punjab Assembly, complaints were made to the Government against the carelessness of clerks who were engaged in this work ;

(b) what steps the Government has taken in this connection ;

(c) whether it is a fact that a number of British subjects who are temporarily residing in some States have not been entered in the list of voters, although they are entitled to it ;

(d) if the answer to (c) be in the affirmative, what action the Government propose to take in this matter ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) Yes.

(b) Several cases were investigated and circular letters were issued enjoining care.

- (c) Government is not aware of any such omission.
 (d) None. The public will have the usual opportunity for lodging claims and objections according to the rules.

MUSLIM REPRESENTATION IN MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, PHILLAUR.

*4966. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government kindly state—

- (a) the number of members, communitywise of the Phillaur municipality, for the last six years ;
 (b) the number of elected Muslim and non-Muslim members in the new committee ;
 (c) whether the majority of the Muslim population urged that a Muslim be nominated as a member of the committee ;
 (d) whether the nominated member was a Muslim ;
 (e) if not, why not ?

The Honourable Dr. Sir Gokul Chand Narang : (a)—

| Year. |    |    |    | Hindus. | Muslims. |
|-------|----|----|----|---------|----------|
| 1929  | .. | .. | .. | 4       | 4        |
| 1932  | .. | .. | .. | 4       | 4        |

(b) Muslims 3, non-Muslims 4.

(c) No.

(d) No.

(e) The Commissioner, Jullundur division, considered that the Hindu gentleman who was nominated was the person best qualified for the position.

REDUCTION ON LAND REVENUE ON KHARIF.

*4967. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Revenue Member kindly state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that this year the khariif crop was sown twice or thrice in tahsil Garhshankar (Hoshiarpur district) as it was destroyed by toka ;
 (b) whether it is a fact that very little khariif crop is expected in ilaqa thana Bala-jaur, tahsil Garhshankar ;
 (c) if the answers to (a) and (b) be in the affirmative, whether the Government propose to help the zamindars of the ilaqa by making sufficient reduction in the land revenue on khariif ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Nawab Muzaffar Khan : (a) No. Only maize crop was sown twice in some villages of the Rakkar and Kandi circles.

(b) No. In the Bet and Sirwal circles the khariif crop was good, while in the Kandi and Rakkar circles it was about average.

(c) Does not arise.

STUDENTS RECEIVING UNIVERSITY, SECONDARY AND INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

*4968. Chaudhri Muhammad Abdul Rahman Khan : Will the Honourable Minister for Education kindly give details with regard to the following for the last five years—

- (a) the number of students receiving University education, secondary education and industrial education, respectively, in the province ;
- (b) what steps the Government have taken to make the industrial education popular in the province ?

The Honourable Malik Sir Firoz Khan Noon : (a) and (b) Statements I and II giving the required information are laid on the table.

STATEMENT I.

Statement showing numbers of students in the schools of the Industries Department.

| Year ending.        | Number of students. | REMARKS.  |
|---------------------|---------------------|---|
| Boys.               |                     |   |
| 31st March, 1931 .. | 5,927               | ..  |
| 31st March, 1932 .. | 4,146               | The decrease was due to the abolition of primary departments from all industrial and technical schools with effect from 1st October, 1931. As the primary classes imparted general education only, they were considered unnecessary in industrial schools.  |
| 31st March, 1933 .. | 3,793               | The decrease was due to the following reasons :—(a) Closure of the following classes as a measure of economy necessitated by the financial stringency of the times with effect from May, 1932 :—Coppersmithy at Amritsar, Ferozepore and Rohtak ;Trunkmaking and Weaving at Sialkot ;Carpentry at Rewari ;Smithy at Panipat ;Lacquer Turning at Kasur ; andMiddle Department at Metal Works Institute, Ambala City. |
